THE CONFEDERATE FLAG.

General Cabell Tells How the Stars and Bars were Designed.

General W. L. Cabell, of Dallas, Texas, commander of the trans-Mississippi Department of the United Confederate Veterans, wrote recently the following history of the Confederate flag:

"When the Confederate army, commanded by General Beauregard, and the Federal army confronted each other at Manassas it was seen that the Confederate flag and the Stars and Stripes looked at a distance so much alike that it was hard to distinguish one from another. General Beauregard, after the battle of July 18 at Blackburn Ford, ordered that a small red badge should be worn on the left shoulder of our troops, and, as I was Chief Quartermaster, ordered me to purchase a large quantity of red flannel and to distribute it to each regiment.

"During the battle of Bull Run it was plain to be seen that a large number of Federal soldiers wore a similar red badge. General Johnston and General Beauregard met at Fairfax Courthouse in the latter part of August or early September and determined to have a battle flag for every regiment or detached command.

"General Johnston's flag was in the shape of an elipse—red flag with blue St. Andrew's cross and stars on the cross (white) to represent the different southern states. (No white border of any kind was attached to the cross.) General Beauregard's was a rectangle, red, with St. Andrew's cross and white stars, similar to General Johnston's.

"After we had discussed fully the two styles, taking into consideration the cost of material and the care of making the same, it was decided a eliptical flag would be harder to make; that it would take more cloth and it could not be seen so plainly at a distance; that the rectangular flag, drawn by and suggested by General Beauregard, should be adopted, General Johnson yielded at once.

"No one else was present but we three. No one knew about this flag but we three until an order was issued adopting the Beauregard flag, as it was called and directing me as Chief Quartermaster to have the flag made as soon as it could be done. I immediately issued an address to the good ladies of the south to give me their red and blue silk dresses, and to send them to Captain Colin McRae Selph, Quartermaster at Richmond, Va.—Captain Selph is now living in New Orleans—where he was assisted by two elegant young ladies, the Misses Carey, from Baltimore, and Mrs. Henningsen, of Savannah, and Mrs. Hopkins, of Alabama.

"The Misses Carey made battle flags for General Beauregard and General Van Dorn, and, I think, for General J. E. Johnston. They made General Beauregard's out of their own silk dresses. This flag is now in Memorial Hall, New Orleans, with a statement of that fact from General Beauregard. General Van Dorn's flag was made of heavier material, but very pretty.

"The statement going around that this flag was first designed by Federal prisoners is false.

"General Beauregard's battle flag is in Memorial Hall, at New Orleans. The Washington Artillery battle flag can be seen at the Washington Artillery Hall."—Baltimore Sun.

SUNFLOWER PHILOSOPHY.

People have so many ways of being mean.

There is a terrible time wasted in arguing.

How the women hate a man who is the father of 10 or 11 children!

The under dog doesn't care much for sympathy; he wants assistance.

The best man ever says of the umpire is that "he tried to be fair."

Free Remedy For Weak Bowels

"There are two forms of bodily cleanliness, the external and the internal. The one is for your pride in yourself; the other for your life and health. Both are important, but of vastly more importance in the long run is the internal cleanliness.

This is one point that all should watch about their body—the cleanliness of the bowels. Keep them clean and free from obstructions. To do this you must have one or two movements of the bowels each twenty-four hours. If your system does not do this naturally, in the process of eating and drinking, then you must obtain aid of some kind. After finding out that cathartics, salts and such things relieve you for a day, but bind you up worse than ever the next day, then try a simpler and more natural remedy like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

For the skeptical the best way to begin is to send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell for a free sample bottle. Use it as directed and if it convinces you that a brief continuance of its use will relieve you permanently—that it will train the stomach and bowel muscles to again work naturally at certain hours—then buy it of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as so many others are doing. They began with a sample bottle, then bought a fifty cent bottle, and now, fully convinced of its merits, they buy the one dollar family size. All the members of the family can use it down to the very youngest.

A brief use of this grand laxative tonic will cure constipation in its worst form, indigestion, liver trouble, sick headache, sour stomach and such ailments and keep you in continuous good health at a very small cost. Such is the experience of many families like that of Mrs. Oscar Pleener, Unionville, Ind., J. P. Daniel, Saron, Tex., and hundreds of others that could be named.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.600 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

FRENCH MARRIAGE LAWS.

New Fewer Red Tape Restrictions and as a Result More Weddings.

Every one who writes on France shows deep concern at the falling birth rate and at the fact that the population is actually decreasing. In twenty-five years, we are told, Germany will have double the population of France, and in fifty years the nation will have disappeared—unless in the meantime it is gobbled up by the powerful and rapidly increasing neighbor. France grows richer every year since there is less and less to divide (while Germany must grow relatively poorer, as natural expansion is blocked by her geographical boundaries and Europe's firm adherence to the balance of power.

Above all things, this people is logical. Having become aware of the danger, it has set to work to find the cause. One of these causes is the complexity of marriage in France, writes the Paris correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette. Persons are deterred from entering wedlock, especially persons of the poorer sort, because of its difficulty. Until a year ago the law demanded a formidable array of papers before the young man and woman could be joined together in matrimony. The consent of the parents had to be obtained in writing; there were birth certificates and certificates of residence, and in the case of the man evidence that he had completed his military service.

If the parents were dead the affair was even more complicated. Papers had to prove their death and the death of the grandparents. The total documents required were nineteen. In country parishes such documents are fairly easy to procure, as the French peasantry has a way of remaining rooted to the soil from generation to generation, but in the towns it is much more difficult.

Papers had to be sent for from distant parts; there was delay and there was expense. In the case of foreigners there was the added formality of translation, sometimes representing an expenditure of a hundred or more francs. This was a grave impediment in the way of very poor persons, an almost impossible obstacle. Some mayors of communes recognized how impossible it was to comply with all the requirements of the law and connived at irregular attestations.

Moved by this state of things, by the impediment that the law offered to marriage, Abbe Lemire, one of the few priest deputies in the chamber and a man of admirable enthusiasms brought in a bill a year ago to simplify the formalities. After the age of 30 the consent of the parents is no longer required. This seems a very meagre concession to the modern spirit, but it has already worked marvels. The marriage rate is on the upturn, to the tune of 8,000 more marriages in the latter part of 1907, the law being passed in June. The good abbe attempted a still larger reform, but was not successful.

He wished, in imitation of the reform in Belgium, to place marriage within the limits of the common law—that is to say, to enable the person who had attained his majority to contract it without the intervention of his parents. This, however, was too daring a proposition for the chamber, and it stayed short at modifying the formalities for all marriages and absolving the fiances from their parents' consent after the age of 30.

The upward movement in marriage is to be directly traceable to the new legislation, as Dr. Jacques Bertillon, the municipal statistician, points out; it is proved by the immediate advance in the figures after it was promulgated.

Dr. Bertillon pleads for the Belgian method on the ground that it encourages early marriages, reduces the number of illegitimates and aids in the natality returns. Here is an instance, despite the old Latin tag to the contrary, that morals are really affected by laws. As a consequence of the concession here noted, the marriages for 1907 are more numerous than since the two years following the war (a case of retarded marriages), which have hitherto constituted the record, and more numerous proportionate to the population than in 1813, when the young men rushed to matrimony to escape conscription. The marriage figures for the second half of 1907 stand at 160,680.

Every one discovers some day that when he asks for simple justice he is asking too much.

Incidentally, there are a number of voices that could be revised downward to advantage.

The Ohio medical society has decided to expel members who charge less than full fees for their services. Even for operations they must not give cut rates.

Hundr d of Tecumseh Citizens Can Tell You All About It

Home endorsement, the public expression of Tecumseh people should be evidence beyond dispute for every Tecumseh reader. Surely the exp rience of friends and neighbors, cheerfully given by them, will carry more weight than the utterances of strangers residing in faraway places. Read the following:

William C. Withere'l, W. Pottawatamie street, Tecumseh, Mich., says: "My experience has convinced me that Doan's Kidney Pills are a reliable kidney remedy. I publicly recommended them some years ago and I hold as high an opinion of them as ever. Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me of backache and other symptoms of kidney trouble and I have had no return attacks. I know of several other persons who have taken this remedy with the best of results."

SOLDIERS ARE FOR BURROWS

Veterans To Support of Their Comrade.

HE HAS A WAR RECORD

Senior Senator Fought Through the War of the Rebellion at the Head of His Own Company—Saved Gen. Shakespeare in Face of Fierce Fire.

Grand Rapids—If you want to know just how much Senator J. C. Burrows is loved by the old soldiers of the country and state, go out to the Soldiers' Home here and talk with some of the veterans who are spending their last days at the beautiful retreat on the banks of the Grand river at North park.

With tears in their eyes, old, bowed men will tell you that their only hope is that they will be spared until next fall that they may cast a vote in the primary for the re-election of Senator Burrows.

There are two reasons for this. The first is the fact that Senator Burrows is a comrade. He fought through the war at the head of his own company and won commendaion for distinguised bravery. The other is the grand work he has done in congress as a member of both the house and senate, in pushing legislation in behalf of the old soldier.

Six Burrows brothers served through the War of the Rebellion. Besides Senator Burrows, but one survives, Jerome B. Burrows, a lawyer and jurist of northern Ohio. He is now mayor of Painesville. Senator J. C. Burrows was a school teacher when the call to arms came. He had previously attracted attention by his oratory in the Lincoln campaign.

In 1862 he personally raised a company in Kalamazoo county. This company became a part of the Seventeenth Michigan infantry, the famous "Stonewall regiment" which carried the flag of Michigan into the most desperate conflicts of the war and covered itself with glory. The regiment first went into action at the battle of South Mountain, Maryland, in September of 1862, and half of Capt. Burrows' company were either killed or wounded.

One of the personal exploits of Capt. Burrows occurred at the battle of Jackson, Miss. General William Shakespeare was badly wounded and left on the field. Capt. Burrows went back alone in the face of a bitter fire and carried the wounded commander off the field.

In congress he has always been to the front in furthering legislation in behalf of the soldier. He has also given his personal attention to thousands of pension claims and aided soldiers and their widows in Michigan to secure their just dues.

STATE POLITICAL GOSSIP.

Senator Burrows in all of his speeches has declared that he still stands steadfastly by the doctrine of protection and he says that if he had it all to do over again he would not change a vote.

Detroit will be the hotbed of politics during the last week of the primary campaign, as Chase S. Osborn, Lieut. Gov. Kelley and Senator Burrows will all be there whiding to their appeal to the voters of the state.

Wherever Senator Burrows has appeared on the stump he has made hosts of friends. His speeches have been manly in the extreme, and he has stood squarely by his record, and that of the Republican party, instead of making explanation or attacking the party which has always stood by him.

There are now three candidates in the race for lieutenant governor, J. Q. Ross of Muskegon, attorney Nelson C. Rice of St. Joseph, a member of the lower house of the legislature, and Senator Dickman of Charlotte. All three are putting up an active campaign for the nomination.

There has been a decided change in sentiment in many localities which were classed as anti-Burrows territory several months ago. Wherever the senator has appeared in the campaign he has strengthened his position and has set at rest the stories industriously circulated that he was in failing health and unable to properly conduct the duties of his office.

Don't Forget This.

From Senator Burrows' speech to workingmen in Detroit:

"I want to say to you men now that, so long as I remain a member of the congress of the United States, I will never cast a vote for any measure which will in any way cripple an American industry or throw American workingmen out of employment."—Petoskey Record.

Managing the Weather.

It may safely be said that control of the weather by sorcerers was altogether disbelieved in by very few persons in the sixteenth century. But if the belief was held more strongly along one coast line than another it was around the Baltic rather than elsewhere. As late as 1670 a traveler tells us how, being becalmed off Finland, the captain sent ashore to buy a wind from a wizard. The fee was 10 kroner (say 36 shillings) and a pound of tobacco. The wizard tied a woolen rag with three knots in it to the mast. Untying the first knot produces just the wind they want, southwest. That slackening, untying knot No. 2 revives it for a time, but knot No. 3 brings up a fearful northeaster, which nearly sinks them. "Qui nescit orare, discat navigare," was a much quoted phrase. True enough, of one traveler, it would appear, seeing he is reported to have prayed during a storm: "O Lord, I am no common beggar. I do not trouble thee every day, for I never prayed to thee before, and if it please thee to deliver me this once I will never pray to thee again as long as I live!"—Atlantic Monthly.

CLEANINGS AND GOSSIP

An Ohio man wants a divorce because his wife went away on a visit and left him to do the cooking for 30 hired men.

A professor in California says that certain sounds express color. What color do the letters I. O. U. express?

A movement has been started to raise a fund to send college students abroad during the summer vacations.

A Philadelphia policeman tried to get gay with a goat the other day and the goat chased him up a tree and kept him there until its owner came along and took it home.

A number of people in Boston are trying to form a poet's club and say that the initiation fee is only $10. Who ever heard of a real poet who had a bowing acquaintance with a $10 bill?

Sir Thomas Lipton owns some land at East Barnet, which is free from taxation, but in return for this concession he has to be ready at all times to furnish targets to burn heretics with.

There is a salt marsh in southern Tunis called the Shott Jerion, which is the terror of the Arabs, as many caravans have been lost in it, in some places the silence is said to be 1,000 feet deep.

Blind Men in Business.

A business corporation has been successfully established in Vienna by men who are totally blind. The company manufactures brushes and baskets, and all its employes are blind. In the eight months of its existence it has filled orders aggregating 23,000 kronen, making a fair profit, and has enough orders on hand to justify the enlargement of its workshops. Sixteen of the employes are skilled workmen, and the company wishes it known that their wares are sold on their "actual merit," that they are put upon the market "in fair competition with the product of other concerns," and that the blind people want "business not charity."

The little trouble in the world that is not due to love seems to be due to friendship.

Women are not having a real good time unless three or four of them are talking at once.

Our idea of a fair, just woman is one who invites "his" kin as often as she invites hers.

The women always say that if there had to be mothers there wouldn't be so many children.

The owner of a little automobile always doubts that a big automobile is worth the money it costs.

The women call a man fickle because he does not have the same opinions at 40 as he had at 25.

Young girls believe that if a bride finds things do not suit her she should make a blue ad. being happy.

Most people are forgetful. Most people think children used to be more obedient than they are today.

A man often says: "I will do better tomorrow." But when tomorrow comes he does just about the same.

"All I want," says a voice not far away from every hand that is grasping at the pie, "is what is Right."

We can't help admiring a man who admits it when he makes a fool of himself. And he [illegible] like those persons who are [illegible] right.

INSURGENTS WIN A GREAT VICTORY

Sweep the Field in the California Primaries.

NAME JOHNSON FOR GOVERNOR

John D. Works Triumphs in the Race for Nomination for Senator to Succeed Flint—The Democratic Primaries.

San Francisco, Aug. 18.—That California is insurgent in its Republican politics was proved beyond a doubt when Hiram Johnson, leading exponent of anti-administration doctrines, swept the field in the direct primaries, winning his party's nomination for governor by a plurality that borders on 50,000.

Johnson also carried with him to victory two insurgent congressmen—William Kent, formerly of Chicago, in the Second district, and W. D. Stephens in the Seventh.

For United States senator to succeed Frank P. Flint an advisory vote was recorded and John D. Works, running with the same backing as that accorded to Johnson, triumphed.

Other state offices will also be filled by men of insurgent tendencies if completed counts follow the lines of the the first returns.

In the Republican fight over the governorship, round which the whole contest centered, Johnson had an easy victory, his closest rival being Charles F. Curry, running on the strength of his own political machine. Alden Anderson, regular Republican, was hopelessly beaten, not carrying a county.

The Democrats entered the primaries with perfect harmony as to their nominees, and Theodore Bell will be the opponent of Johnson in the election for governor. Only one blat of discord marred the Democratic slate, E. P. Troy and Walter McArthur striving for the nomination in the Fourth congressional district. McArthur won the race and will oppose Julius Kahn in the election for congress.

One of the huorous incidents of the campaign is the defeat of Grove L. Johnson for the legislature. He is the father of Hiram, nominee for governor, and for twenty years has been on the pay roll of the Southern Pacific railroad. He is an able lawyer and has been one of the leading figures in the state legislature for years. He denounces his son's politics, and it would probably hvae afforded him keen satisfaction to kill his son from his place in the legislature, but the insurgent wave buried the old man beyond recall. Hiram Johnson is sure of election next November.

The Landscape Near Jerusalem.

The country about Jerusalem is essentially a pale country. Indeed, I often thought it looked stricken, as if its pallor had come upon it abruptly, had been sent to it as a visitation. I was not sorry that I saw it first under grayness and swept by winds. The grayness, the winds, seemed to me to emphasize its truth, to drive home its reality. And there was something noble in its candor. Even nature can take on an aspect of trickiness at times, or at least a certain coquetry, a daintiness not wholly free from suggestions of artificiality. The landscape in the midst of which Jerusalem lies is dreary, is sad; in stormy weather is almost forbidding. Yet it has a bare frankness that renders it dignified, a large simplicity that is very striking. The frame is sober, the picture within it is amazing, and neither, once seen, can ever be forgotten.—Robert Hichens in Century.

What Happened to Bill.

Mrs. Dixon was putting Frank, aged six, and Willie, aged four, to sleep with a bedtime story when she was suddenly compelled to answer the doorbell. Hastening away with the intention of immediately returning, Mrs. Dixon was detained by a caller. The boys grew restless. Finally, running to the top of the stairs, where he knew his mother could get a perfect view of him, Frank used nearly all his small stock of diplomacy in trying to attract his mother's attention without disturbing the visitor. After several futile attempts at gesticulations he called out in a loud whisper perfectly audible to both ladies below, "Mamma, you'd better come up," then in a most awe inspiring tone adding, "'cause Bill's nose is comin' unwiped!" — Youth's Companion.

Tibetan Penal Code.

The Tibetan penal code is curious. Murder is punished with a fine varying according to the importance of the slain, theft by a fine of seven to one hundred times the value of the article stolen. Here, again, the fine depends on the social importance of the person from whom the theft has been committed. The barberer of a thief is looked upon as a worse criminal than the thief himself. Ordeals by fire and by boiling water are still used as proofs of innocence or guilt, exactly as was the custom in Europe in the middle ages. And if the lamas never inflict death they are adepts at torture.

Taken Literally.

"Go to the ant, thou sluggard," quoted the gent.

"'Tain't no use, mister," answered the weary one. "Me aunt's just as tight fisted as me uncle and me other relatives."—Exchange.

The Boy Told Him.

Father (after a long search)—Well, here it is. I wonder why one always finds a thing in the last place one hunts for it? Bright Boy—I s'pose it's cause after people find it they leave off looking.

The Man and the Parrot.

Exasperated Purchaser—Didn't you guarantee that this parrot would repeat every word he heard?

Bird Dealer—Certainly I did.

"But he doesn't repeat a single word."

"He repeats every word he hears, but he never hears any. He is as deaf as a post."

NEGRO BUSINESS LEAGUE MEETING

Booker T. Washington is Made Permanent Chairman.

MANY DELEGATES ARE PRESENT

Organization is Composed of Representative and Successful Negro Business Men—Roosevelt to Make an Address.

New York, Aug. 18.—Booker T. Washington was not only the permanent chairman of the Eleventh Annual session of the National Negro Business league which assembled in the Palm Garden here for a three days' convention, but he was declared to be the real head and sponsor of the movement which the league represents, the movement upward of the negro race in the United. Delegates are in attendance from all over the South and from as far away as California.

Col. Roosevelt is to address the league on Friday, and he is sure of a bouncing welcome, but the announcement that he is coming received only polite applause compared with the rounding outbursts of it when greeted Mr. Washington. Mr. Washington declares that this organization brings together the largest number of successful and representative negroes of any organization in America.

"They are men who are actually doing things and succeeding in their communities," Mr. Washington said, and they told about what they were doing and will continue to tell more about it today and Friday. They tell the story of their success, as Mr. Washington put it to inspire others.

T. J. Jackson, of Anniston, Ala., sailed into his speech in a fashion that delighted all. His talk was about dry goods and notions, and he told how he had made his business a success. Mr. Jackson went on to tell of benefits through experience. He spoke of the difficulty of getting negro labor to catch up with some of the white methods in business and told of a clerk whom he had been charged to see and hear send away a woman customer who had asked for rolled oats. The clerk had told her they didn't keep 'em, so the proprietor went to that clerk and instructed him that the next time the lady came in he was not to say they did not keep anything she asked for, but if necessary, that they were temporarily out of it, would have it in soon, and meanwhile had steamed oats, or pressed oats, or smothered edible exactly as useful; at all events to sell her something.

"The next time she came in," said he, "she wanted tissue paper, and the clerk went up to her, and said—the boss being out: 'Well, Missus, we're all out of tissue paper just now, but the boss says that I'm to tell you something and we'll have the tissue paper in soon. But we've a fine line of sand paper here that I'd like to show you.'"

It remained for Walter Bell of Anacostia, N. C., to warm up the audience several degrees above normal, though his subject was plain, "Poultry raising." "I'm in a business which appeals to most colored people," said Mr. Bell, and you couldn't have got the audience away from him after after that sentence short of a fire alarm or a melon party. They laughed as only good natured negroes know how to laugh, and it was with difficulty that he showed them that his sentence wasn't finished by adding, "who love chicken. I'm in the chicken business and my wife and I got to the point where we eat nothing but chickens."

Mr. Bell told how he used to walk to Washington with his chickens and eggs in a basket. He said he now had fourteen wagons carrying his chickens and eggs and squabs to the Washington market, where he sold 1,200 pairs of squab a week, while he had 6,000 pigeons in his home coter.

Happiness in Sleep.

"I saw once how like sleep was to life in the deep waters. A man who to my waking eyes looked cold and starved and ragged sat upon one of the benches on the embankment. He was sleeping, and I knew from his face that then at least he did not count himself miserable. But presently a policeman came and shook the sleeper into waking life. Then all the violence of the world seemed to be let loose upon this wreck of a man. He shook and blinked his eyes and breathed with heavy spasms. It was just as when a fish is caught out of the depth of the sea and suddenly cast into a basket. I have seen mackerel shake and gasp like this poor man suddenly caught up out of the native depths of sleep. Or if you think that a fish thus dying is only an amusing and not a painful sight then think of what it might be if some giant of fable could catch us up out of our native air into the space between the stars. Would we not willingly sink back again into the depth of air? So it is when the loud world lets us glide down into sleep.—London Outlook.

His Name in the Directory.

"One funny thing I have learned about human nature," said the drug store cashier, "is the habit many people have of marking their own names in the city directory. They do that because the directory is the only place where their names ever got into print, and it has such a fascination for them that they can't resist calling attention to it. A funny old man who likes to talk tells me that he has made special trips to different parts of the city just to mark his name in the directories of the neighborhood. He puts a little cross in red ink before it. I asked him what good it did. He said none possibly, although he is a teacher of languages and may get a few calls on account of that queer advertisement. But his is an exceptional case. Not many persons spend time and money hunting city directories, but every time they happen to see a new one they can't help looking up their names and putting some kind of a mark around them."—New York Sun.

MAYOR DAHLMAN.

PRIMARY RETURNS FAVORS DAHLMAN

Gov. Shallenberger Refuses to Admit His Defeat Yet.

RETURNS COMING IN SLOWLY

Hitchcock Defeats Metcalfe, Editor of Bryan's Commoner By Approximately Three to One—Other Candidates Selected.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 18.—While returns on the state primary held Tuesday are still exceedingly meagre, it is practically certain that C. H. Aldrich has defeated A. R. Cady for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, while Senator E. J. Burkett wins the senatorial nomination over C. O. Whedon by a vote of nearly 2 to 1. G. M. Hitchcock defeats R. L. Metcalfe, editor of Byran's Commoner, by approximately three to one for the Democratic senatorial nomination. Gov. Shallengerber has so far declined to admit his defeat for renomination by the Democrats, but the returns from outside the cities of Lincoln and Omaha, carried by Dahlman by about 5,500, show consistent gains for Dahlman. One curious feature of the primaries results is that Dahlman carried Lincoln by 400 votes notwithstanding one of the planks of his platform is the removal of the state capitol from Lincoln to a more centrally located city.

In the first congressional district Wm. Hayward, secretary of the national campaign committee won, and will be pitted against Congressman McQuire at the election. A. L. Sutton, insurgent Republican won in the Second district, but the returns do not definitely indicate his Democratic opponent. In the Third district former congressman Boyd, insurgent, defeats L. G. Bryan, standpatter. Congressman Latta, Democrat had no opposition for renomination. Chas. H. Sloan, anti-Cannon Republican, was nominated in the Fourth without opposition. His Democratic opponent will likely be Judge B. F. Good. In the Fifth Congressman Geo. W. Norris was unopposed for renomination. The Democratic nominee is former congressman Roderick Sutherland. In the Sixth Congressman Moses H. Kinkaid defeated Frank D. Beeman insurgent, while Judge J. S. Dean leads for the Democratic nomination. Chas. O. Wheton defeated insurgent candidate for United States senator, gave out a statement in which he said among other things:

"There is on foot in this state a progressive movement which will ultimately succeed. The Republicans of Nebraska are as progressive as are those in Kansas, Iowa and Wisconsin when they get into action. The leaven on this progressive Republican movement which had its start in the Central West will yet leaven the whole lump."

BABY IS DROWNED IN JAR

Infant Just Learning to Walk Meets Peculiar Death.

Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 18.—The 14-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Orth Martin, living in the country four four miles northwest of here, was found drowned in a jar containing four inches of water.

The boy was just learning to walk and had gone out of the house alone, leaving his mother in the kitchen. She missed him some time later and went in search of him. Under a pump near the house was an eight-gallon jar, used to catch drip, and over the top of this she saw the child's feet hanging.

HORSETHIEF KILLED IN FIGHT

Hot Springs, Ark., Aug. 18.—In a desperate street battle between two alleged horse thieves and several sheriff's officers here, George Chitwood, one of the thieves, was killed by a deputy sheriff and Sheriff Jade Hoops was probably fatally wounded.

The "Bull."

The origin of the word "bull" as the definition of a confused utterance is doubtful. Some philologists say it comes from the French boule—"fraud"—and others that it is derived from the Icelandic bull—"nonsense." Many definitions have been attempted, but the best probably is that of Sydney Smith. Writing of the difference between wit and "bulls," he says: "Wit discovers real relations that are apparent; 'bulls' admit apparent relations that are not real. The stronger the apparent connection and the more complete the real disconnection of the ideas the greater the surprise and the better the 'bull.'"

LIGHTNING FIRES HOME

Bolt Stuns Family in Bed While House Is Burning.

Traverse City, Mich., Aug. 18.—Dazed and stunned by a lightning bolt, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Davis, with their 2-year-old baby beside them, lay in their bed while their house burned until even their bed-room was flaming. Davis recovered first, seized his wife and child and rushed through the smoke and fire out into the storm.

The Davis family lives on a farm three miles northeast of Buckley in Grand Traverse county. During an electrical storm the house was struck, the force of the bolt being so great that the three were stunned. They must have been unconscious for some time for when Mr. Davis recovered the fire had spread through the entire house and they were unable to save any possessions whatever, not even their clothing. They were cared for by neighbors and suffered no ill effects. Had their coma continued for but a few minutes longer, however, they would have been cremated, the roof falling in just after they got out.

YANKEE YACHTMEN WIN RACE

All U. S. Yachts Cross Finish Line Ahead of Spanish Contenders.

Marblehead, Mass., Aug. 18.—The first race in the Spanish-American Sonder class series resulted in a victory for the American yachtmen. The six boats sailed over a triangular course of two miles to a leg twice around and first over the line was the Harpoon owned and sailed by Chas. F. Adams, Jr., but she was disqualified and first place given to the Beaver, owned and sailed by C. H. W. Foster.

Guy Lowell brought the Cima over the line two seconds later, thus sending all the American boats across ahead of their Spanish rivals.

HARRISON K'ONON PRESIDENT

Southern Railway Official Named to Take Ira G. Rawn's Place.

New York, Aug. 18.—Ira G. Rawn's name has been officially forgotten in railroad circles by the election of his successor as president of the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville railroad, known as the Monon route. Fairfax Harrison, vice president of the Southern railway, was elected president at a meeting of the directors of the Monon system.

Mr. Harrison is a son of Burton Harrison and a brother of Francis B. Harrison, the congressman.

WINS FIGHT WITH LIVE WIRE

Lineman Kicks Ladder From Under Him and Falls.

Columbus, Ind., Aug. 18.—Joe Noe, a lineman employed by the Central Indiana Lighting company, while standing on a high ladder making some repairs, took hold of a trolley wire carrying 600 volts of electricity with both hands.

He was unable to let loose of the wire. He kicked the ladder from under him and the weight of his body pulled his hands free. He fell to the street little the worse for his experience, except that his hands were burned and he was bruised by the fall.

DRINKS GASOLINE FOR CIDER

Farmer Becomes Unconscious and Is Believed to Be Dying.

Princeton, Ind., Aug. 18.—Harry Milburn, 45 years old, a farmer living near Mt. Carmel, Ill., is dying from the effects of drinking gasoline.

He picked up a jug of what he thought was cider and swallowed a big swig of the contents before noticing it was gasoline. He soon became unconscious, and there is little hope of recovery held out.

SHERMAN VISITS PRESIDENT TAFT

CANNON IS TO BE REPRIMANDED

Vice-President Will Act As Chairman of New York State Convention—Does Not Expect Any Trouble to Occur to the Meeting.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 18.—President Taft and Vice President Sherman talked over the defeat which the New York Republican committee administered to Col. Roosevelt when it chose Sherman temporary chairman of the state convention in preference to the colonel. He is going to take the chairmanship and will not withdraw in favor of the colonel, he said, and he doesn't expect a fight in the convention.

The president and Mr. Sherman talked about the general political situation as well as the New York matter. Nick Longworth and Secretary Norton were present and Rrepresentative Anthony of Kansas and Morehead of North Carolina dropped in.

Some of the lines for the fight which Republican leaders know the party faces this fall were laid at this conference. Among other things it was decided that Uncle Joe Cannon is to be reprimanded for the statement he made recently. While it was not said bluntly, it is understood that Mr. Sherman acquiesced in the decision to censure Uncle Joe. The politicians here who have been swinging over to the belief that the attempt at reorganization of the party would fall flat, and that Uncle Joe was not to be harmed, were disconcerted by this announcement. A statement from some one close to the president is said to be in course of preparation.

President Taft was asked to prepare a letter for the use of the Republican Congressional committee, and he has consented. Mr. Sherman left him a mass of data and it was said the letter should be forthcoming in a few days. It will be sent to Representative McKinley of Illinois, chairman of the committee. In it the president will give his reasons for retaining the Republican party in power.

There was talk about the spellbinders who are swinging around the country to convince the voters. Mr. Sherman is to be one, and Mr. Longworth, Senator Lodge of Massachusetts and probably Representative McKinley of California who was defeated in the California primaries may all be called upon. Mr. Sherman will go out into Illinois shortly to do the bidding for the committee. He did not know whether or not he would speak in Speaker Cannon's district.

Mr. Sherman took luncheon with Senator Norton and talked over with him the proposed reorganization scheme of Senator Crane and other leaders. While he evaded direct questions about that subject it is said that to some extent he was not opposed to it. Mr. Sherman left Beverly for Utica.

POUND AND HALF BABY BORN

Child of Farmer Near Du Quoin, Ill., Has Head the Size of Hen's Egg.

Du Quoin, Ill., Aug. 18.—A baby girl, weighing one and a half pounds and less than twelve inches in length, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wallace, who live on a farm east of here.

The infant is so tiny a match will hide one of her fingers, while her head is about the size of a hen's egg. The doctors say she will live.

HUBERT LATHAM.

FLIGHT OVER CHANNEL

Feat Is Accomplished by a Spanish Aviator.

Attempts to Fly from Paris to London but Descends Near Deal After Crossing the Water.

Deal, England, Aug. 18.—John Moisant, the young Spanish aviator, who started to fly from Paris to London, crossed the channel.

He passed Walmer castle near here and continued as if on his way to London, but after going some distance he turned and descended here.

Moisant carried his mechanician with him in the flight.

The monoplane in which Moisant made his wonderful flight was designed and built entirely by himself and resembles the outline of a bird more than any other machine yet discovered to be practical.

Mr. Moisant attended the aviation meet at Rheims last season and at once became an enthusiast. He engaged his own workmen and workshop in Paris and the machine that made the successful flight is the result.

Hubert Latham, who started from Paris to race Moisant to London, had a series of unfortunate accidents, culminating at Amiens in the total wrecking of his machine as he was preparing to resume his flight. Latham escaped injury.

Le Blanc Wins $20,000 Prize.

Paris, Aug. 18.—M. Le Blanc, the aviator, arrived at Issy, in the suburbs of Paris and is the winner of the cross-country flight for $20,000 which started Aug. 7.

BEAR DITCHES AN AUTO

Carried Along on the Hood Until It Falls Under the Wheels, Overturning the Car.

Bangor, Me., Aug. 18.—Colliding with a large black bear in the highway in the Town of LaGrange, a motor car in which were Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Hopkins and John P. Fassett, all of New York, and Miss Marion Gordon of Philadelphia, was ditched by the roadside.

The car was running at high speed when the bear rose up on its haunches directly in the middle of the road. There was not room to pass and the car struck the surprised animal squarely, carrying it along growling on the hood of the car until a bad place in the road bounced it off. In falling the bear went under the wheels and the car was ditched.

As soon as the party discovered that the bear was as frightened as they were and was making tracks for the woods they righted the car and proceeded to this city on their way to New York.

Nobody seems to want it, but let it be sold by all means, for it cannot be made worse by further experiments, while there is a possibility that some new manager who is a real railroad man, may get charge and convert it into a paying property.—Adrian Times.

It is reported that the Chinese have taken to American sewing machines and ice cream freezers like ducks to water. But operators of sewing machines over there appear to be in no danger of the coming millionaires. They are paid $5 a month and have to work nine hours a day.

The duke of Atholl holds part of his vast Scottish estates on the condition that he present a white rose to his sovereign at any time there is a royal visit at Blair Athell. Once Queen Victoria, in her youth, went to the castle, and the duke had a bad time getting his rose, as they were out of season, and there were none in the conservatories.

In one of the big jewelry stores in Maiden lane there is a man who rents desk room and makes a business of winding clocks for wealthy New York families. He has wound the clock in one house in upper Fifth avenue for 15 years, and now, though the family is abroad, he goes regularly every eight days and keeps the timepieces going.

The Keun Chi-Chu (the war department) has sent in a memorial to the throne that orders may be given to the officils and individuals of the whole empire to adopt the dresses of foreign style by wearing short jackets. A private imperial rescript has been issued to the board of ceremonies in the same day instructing them to deliberate upon this question and memorialize to this effect.

The new asistant bishop of Salford, and titular bishop of Sevastopol, John Vaughan, comes of a family which has the distinction of having given seven sons to the church. Six of the new bishop's brothers, including the late Cardinal Vaughan, have distinguished themselves in various ecclesiastical offices in the Catholic church, not the least famous being Father Bernard, the well-known Jesuit.

Amsterdam now boast of automatic doctors. The mchine represents a man and in the region of each organ is a slot designated to receive a 15 centime piece—3 cents. The patient suffering, say, from heart trouble or liver complaint, goes to the machine and drops his coin into the slot connected with the organ in trouble, and without delay, a prescription is shot out bearing the address of an apothecary, whither he takes the card and receives his medicine.

The Paris street with the longest name is La Rue des Pretres-Saint-Germain-l'Auxerrois. In Brussels is La Rue de la Montagne-Aux-Herbes-Potageres. The Belgian metropolis has a suburb bearing the name Ongeschuperdezilvefcokkernoljestriaett. Holland eclipses these with Alblasserdammertandarenopsteckersvergaderinlokaal which signifies "the meeting room of the street lamp lighters of Alblasserdamm."

Willing to Pay.

The Right Rev. Bishop of Delaware tells the following story:

"A young man came to me one day and said: 'Bishop I want you to marry me on next Wednesday.'

"'All right, young man; I'll marry you,' I assured him.

"'Well, I want the bell to ring,' he continued.

"'Very well, you can have the bell rung.'

"'Well, I want the organ to play.'

"'All right, you can have the organ played.'

"'And I want everythng else that anybody ever had at a church wedding.'

"'Certainly; you shall have it.'

"'Well, the night came, the bell rang, the organ played, the church was crowded, and everything went off as the young man wanted it. When the ceremony was over the young couple waited, instead of leaving the chancel. So I held out my hand shook hands with the bride, and then held out my hand to the bridgroom. He had his hand deep in his trousers pocket, and as I stood with my hand out he said, somewhat impatiently and in a tone that could be heard all over the church:

"'Now, don't be in such an all-fired hurry, bishop! I'm getting the money out just as fast as I can.'"

"And everybody giggled."

AMUSEMENTS

A Discouraged Playright.

That no manager is able to predict the success or failure of a play, is clearly shown by the fact that the author of "The Girl from Home," which comes to the Bradley Opera House Wednesday, August 24, tried for over two years to interest some manager who would produce it. Not one would consider it, one prominent producer even going so far as to predict that it would be a dire failure.

Discouraged and worn out, the author determined to produce it himself. Arrangements were made for its "try-out" by a stock company at the Peoples Theatre in Chicago for one week.

It proved such an instantaneous success, that it became necessary to extend the engagement two weeks longer in order to accomodate the crowds, who flocked to see it.

In the meantime some of the managers who had refused the play, suddenly awoke to the fact that another "find" had slipped through their fingers. This remarkable play will be presented by a special cast of players headed by Miss Mary Carew. See Ad. for prices, etc.

Three Drains Sold.

During the past week three drains in different parts of the county have been sold by the county commissioner. On last Tuesday the extension of the Schroederbook drain was taken care of. This drain, which is an open one, commences at the Ridge road, section 32, in the township of Macon. It extends through the land of Richard Cadmus and J. F. Barlow, in a northwesterly direction in section 32, thence north in section 29 over the property of J. D. Cadmus, Chas. Bird and J. D. Martin; over C. S. Foote, G. W. Scarlett, Richard Clarkson estate, and Fred Ieland in section 20; over land of Sam Anderson, Otto Bach and Chas. Burleson in section 17, terminating at the southeast corner of the northwest quarter of section 17. The total length of the drain is 1,236.28 rods of which 40 rods were let to G. H. Disher for $58; to Fred Scramann 80 rods for $152; to J. F. Barlow 24 rods for $48; to J. D. Cadmus 136 rods for $322; to Chas. Bird 41 rods for $220; to C. Hale 160 rods for $318, to Samuel Gibson 276.28 rods for $558.58; to Wm. McCarbery 184.6 rods for $495.45; to C. S. Foote 55.40 rods for $208.55; to G. W. Scarlett 40 rods $200 to Cyrus Underwood 40 rods for $200; to Chas. Hinds 40 rods for $80, and to Otto Bach 120 rods for $278.

Thursday the Debar drain was sold and Friday the Sutton tile outlet drain was sold.

After a heavy meal take a couple of Doan's Regulets and give your stomach, liver and bowels the help that they need. Regulets bring easy regular passages of the bowels. Sold by all druggists.

BROOKLYN TABERNACLE BIBLE STUDIES

THE GREATEST—THE SERVANT.

Matthew 20:17-34.—August 21.

"The Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister and to give his life a ransom for many."

AMBITION moves the world—selfish ambition. A certain kind of ambition—to please God and to have his rewards, is encouraged by the exceeding great and precious promises of God's Word. Think of the promise held out to the consecrated, self-sacrificing followers of Jesus—that, if faithful unto death, they shall receive the "crown of life," immortality, and attain a place with their Master in his Throne—as participants in the glories and honors of his Kingdom! There is no earthly appeal to ambition so strong as this, which comes from the Creator to such as have the hearing ear of faith. Nevertheless, the ambitions awakened by these promises, we are warned, might become our snares. The very condition upon which we may attain the Kingdom is our faithful endurance of shame, contempt, misunderstanding, and our demonstration to the last of humility and absolute loyalty to God and full resignation to his providences. Whoever would reign with Messiah in his coming Kingdom, for which we pray, "Thy Kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as in heaven," must humble himself under the mighty hand of God that he may be exalted in due time.—1 Peter 5:6.

The prospect of the Kingdom was bright before the minds of the apostles, even when Jesus was foretelling his ignominious sufferings and death; so that two of his beloved followers, James and John, through their mother, importuned a promise that they should sit, the one on the right hand and the other on the left hand of the Great King when his Kingdom should be established.

This request drew from the Great Teacher the suggestion that his loving and ambitious disciples had, perhaps, not fully counted the cost of such exaltation. He inquired if they were willing to drink of his cup of ignominy and reproach and if they were willing to be baptized with his baptism, into his death—the sacrifice of all earthly interests. They had counted the cost, and promptly responded as to their willingness. They had learned well the lessons of the Great Teacher. He assured them that with this willingness of mind the privilege would be theirs of sharing his ignominy and his death and of sitting with him on his Throne. But as respects the chief positions, they were not at his disposal. At the conclusion of the testings of his people, those positions of highest honor in the Kingdom next to himself will be given according to the just standards which the Father has prepared and established. How we can rejoice with those apostles in the fullness of their consecration and in the assurances of the Master! And we also should strive by faithfulness to attain a place with the Master in his Throne, as members of his Body, the Church.

The ambition of James and John was shown in their desire for places of special nearness to the Lord. Jesus did not reprove them specifically, but indirectly. When the other ten heard how these two had sought to bespeak the chief places of honor they were indignant. The Master took advantage of the incident to show how different is God's judgment from that of men. With men the aggressive and powerful hold the lordship and dominion over others, but in the Divine arrangement the order is reversed. God will honor most and put in the highest positions, the humble, the submissive, the meek. On this incident the Lord based a general instruction to his followers on the necessity for humility. We are to take the Divine standpoint and honor most in the Church those who most serve the Church, and not those who demand service and honors and seek self-exaltation. Our Lord pointed to his own course as an illustration: they acknowledged him as their Master and yet no one served them so much as did he. Indeed, he came into the world not to be served, but to serve others, even to the extent of laying down his life as the ransom price for the many, for the world, to be applied for their release from sin and death condemnation in God's due time—during the Messianic Kingdom.

Journeying on the Master had an opportunity of exemplifying his position as a servant. Two blind men, learning that he was passing, exercised such faith that they hailed him as the Messiah, the Son of David, entreating Mercy, Help, Relief. Instead of passing them by, saying, You are only blind beggars, anyway, the Master stopped and called them to him and, in response to their request, touched their eyes, and immediately they received sight. Other Scriptures indicate that the Great Teacher's miracles were not performed without cost to himself. "Virtue (vitality) went out of him and healed them all." (Luke 6:19.)

He who was rich, for our sakes became poor, humbling himself to serve the humblest and poorest unfortunates! Here we have an illustration of the spirit of meekness, the spirit of service, which must characterize the hearts, and, to some degree, control the lives of all true followers, disciples, of the Great Teacher. If it is not in our power to open the eyes of the physically blind, it is in our power to help many to a clearer insight into the things of God which the natural eye hath not seen, nor ear heard—the things which God hath in reservation for them that love him and that, loving him, follow in the footsteps of Jesus.—(1 Cor. 2:9). Let us, then, seek the true Christian disposition; but let us specially seek to know and to do the will of our Father in heaven.

SCOTTISH BAND ONE OF FREE ATTRACTIONS

Celebrated Canadian Organization to Be Heard During State Fair.

It was in 1903 that the 91st Scotch Highlanders band began its active concert work, and, starting in with the first season, this organization has traveled thousands of miles each year, pleasing vast throngs wherever they have appeared and winning for themselves a warm spot in the hearts of the music-loving public.

It was because of the excellent reputation of this Canadian organization and because of the policy adopted this year that the management of the Michigan State Fair, which is to be held in Detroit, Sept. 19-24th, secured the famous Scottish band. Good band music is a very vital feature of any big fair, and the Highlanders by their work at other big exhibitions demonstrated that they are a drawing card and a popular addition to any amusement enterprise.

The personnel of the band is of the highest, each member of the organization being a skilled musician. Not only must recruits pass a rigid examination as to his skill, but he must be of good appearance and unquestioned personal habits. The uniform worn by the Highlanders in all their public engagements is picturesque in the extreme and one of the finest combinations of Scottish colors obtainable. The tartans worn are patterned after the renowned Argyle and Sutherland clan and, everywhere the band appears they win unstinted praise on their appearance, aside from their entertainment.

Fifteen hundred standard compositions by well known composers comprise the library of the band, and new features are being added continually. H. S. Stares, the bandmaster, is a musician of acknowledged ability and by his magnetism, leadership and judgment in selecting his programs has been personally responsible for a large measure of the band's success.

Two daily concerts will be given by the band during the fair, and in addition to the band numbers, there will be soprano solos by Miss Gertrude Stares, a well-known Canadian singer, who has appeared with the band for several seasons. Gordon Fleet, a youngster who dances Highland flings, sailors' hornpipes and other picturesque dances, also contributes largely to the success of the band's entertainment.

Currency in China.

Writing from the interior of China, a traveler says: "Currency is primitive to a degree. Lump silver only is used and copper 'cash.' Coined money is not current. Even in Honan city, which is distant only two days by rail from Pekin, lump silver, the same cumbrous currency that has been used for centuries, is still employed. It is cut into small pieces by hammer and chisel. Every town and village has its own weights and scales, and there is no pretense at uniformity."

System Required.

Clerk—May I have a day's leave tomorrow, sir? It is my mother-in-law's funeral. Employer—My dear Huber, this mustn't occur again. Last week your wife died, and now your mother-in-law's going to be buried. You must arrange things better in your family and see that they happen in the holidays.—Lustige Blatter.

STATE FAIR MIDWAY WILL BE BEST EVER

All Kinds of Entertainment Will Be Found in the Tented Shows.

In preparing the Midway attractions this year the state fair managemen has made it a point to select only the best shows—shows with good reputations and those affording the most entertainment. No fake shows or anything questionable will be permitted on the grounds this year.

A Midway without a wild west show would not be complete, so after looking over the offerings of the entire amusement world, California Frank's Wild West show was engaged. California Frank, for years a frontiersman and showman, has gathered around him in his years of travel a corps of wild west performers which have "made good" in every large city in the country. Cowboys, cowgirls, rope throwers, bronco busters, Princess Wenona, the champion woman rifle shot of the world today; Mlle. Sommerville and her dancing horse Columbus and many other novelties go to make this show thoroughly entertaining and in a class by itself so far as wild west entertainment goes.

Two peculiar human beings, Little Count Teddy, the smallest little man now before the public, and Baby Jim, a youth who weighs well over 600 pounds, will also contribute to the merriment of the Midway. Mazeppa, the educated horse, will again be on the Midway this year. Mazeppa plays a little drama, taking the parts of the actors and putting on a bedroom scene which is very realistic and lifelike.

Other Midway features which indicate the kind of entertainment which is being looked forward to by fair visitors include an Oriental show, John's glassblowers, to be seen only in Toronto and Michigan this summer; an ostrich farm, Barney Oldfield's 200-horsepower Benz car, many freaks and oddities calculated to instruct and amuse and many free outdoor acts. Captain Louis Sorcho, the deep sea diver, presents his famous show in which the operations of these strange men of the deep sea are set forth; there will be diving girls, the strange ballyhoo men will lend their strange cries and antics, and the Midway this year, more than ever before, will hold a strong interest for every type of fair visitor.

Special rates will be in effect on all the railroads leading to Detroit, extra preparations have been made to care for extraordinarily large crowds and everything possible seems to be favorable to the biggest and most successful fair ever held in the state of Michigan.

Tennyson Disturbed.

This story is told in Robert H. Sherard's book "My Friends the French":

"A granddaughter of Wordsworth, being full of admiration for the young poet who was to succeed her grandfather in laureate honors, was once taken to see Mr. Tennyson by Mrs. Taylor, the wife of another poet of some distinction. Tennyson received them very badly, showing great irritation at being disturbed, and when Mrs. Taylor rallied him on his manner he said: 'Madam, I am a poor man, and as I can't afford to buy the Times I hire it from the stationer's. He charges me a penny for it, which entitles me to keep it for an hour. Why will people always select just that hour to come and call upon me?' After which he flung out of the room, leaving Mrs. Tennyson to apologize for his brusquerie."

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Clarissa Stewart was born in Great Bend, Jefferson County N. Y. July 12, 1823. She was married when about twenty-five years of age to Mr. Abner Stewart of the same place who preceeded her in death twelve years. She was the last of thirteen children and had made her home for the past two years with her brothers daughters the Misses McNell of Tecumseh Mich. It was at their home she died Aug. 13, 1910, being 87 years of age.

Last December she suffered an apoplectic stroke which left her blind and unable to leave her bed. All these seven months of suffering she has had the best and most loving care one could hope to have. One week before she died she suffered a paralytic stroke which caused her death.

At the age of twenty-three she united with the Baptist church of Great Bend, N. Y. and was a faithful member true to her church and her God to the last. She was a woman of more than average intellegence and somewhat of a philosopher, always interested in the historical and political news of her country.

Those who knew her well have many nice as well as humorous sayings of hers to cherish in their memory.

She chose for the text of her funeral sermon the sixth, seventh, and eighth verses of II Timothy, Fourth Chapter: I have finished my course I have kept the faith.

MICHIGAN NEWS

Lansing, Mich., August 11.—The state tax commission has increased in assessed valuation many cities throughout the state. Not all of this increase was brought about by reviews but investigations were made in many cities by the commission and assessing officers were ordered to make raises. In some places, however, reviews were held.

As a result of the work of the commission during the last few months an increase of close to $75,000,000 has been made in the state and an increase of over $50,000,000 has been brought about in cities of over 10,000 population.

Some of the cities either ordered to be raised or reviews held in them, with the approximate amounts they are to be raised, are as follows: Detroit $20,000,000; Flint $6,000,000; Traverse City $3,000,000; Lansing $1,200,000; Port Huron, $100,000; Bay City, $400,000; Battle Creek, $500,000; Ironwood, $500,000; Jackson, $4000,000; Kalamazoo, $1000,000; e Manistee, $27 000; Adrian, $300,000; Marquette, $500,000; Muskegon, $900,000; Pontiac, $2,500,000.

Two cities secured a decrease, Alpena, $150,000 and Ishpeming, $200,000.

Under the terms of the automobile law the price of licenses from August 1 to the end of the year are reduced from $3 to $1.50. About 16,000 licenses were issued at the former figure and it is claimed many machines are still lacking the license tag.

As a result of the work of the dairy and food department in looking after the manufacture of ice cream, the standard is much better and the people of the state are eating purer ice cream than ever before. Tests show that with but very few exceptions the law is being complied with.

CATARRH CAN QUICKLY BE CURED

A bottle of Hyomei, a hard rubber pocket inhaler that will last a life time and simple instructions for curing catarrh make a Hyomei outfit.

Into the inhaler you pour a few drops of magical Hyomei (pronounce it High-o-me).

This is obsorbed by the antiseptic gauze within and now you are ready to breath it over the germ infested membrane where it will speedily begin its work of killing catarrh germs. Hyomei is made of Austrian eucalyptol combined with other antiseytics and is very pleasant to breathe.

It is guaranteed to cure catarrh, bronchitis, sore throat, croup, coughs and colds or money back. It cleans out a stuffed up head in a few minutes.

Sold by druggists everywhere and by C. A. Wright & Son, Tecumseh. Complete outfit $1.00. And remember that extra bottles if afterwards needed cost only 50 cents. Breathe it that's all.

To break up a cold in head or chest in a few minutes pour a teaspoonful of Hyomei into a bowl of boiling water, cover head and bowl with towel and breathe the vapor.

Spirit of Young America.

A teacher in a Philadelphia public school narrated the following account of how an aspiring young Italian citizen was beginning to show the effects of an American environment. The story, which was told at a teachers' association meeting, runs something like this:

Tony had been away from school about a week, and when he showed up one morning the teacher asked him where he had been.

"I ran away," said Tony.

"Ran away! What did you do that for?" asked the teacher.

"My father was going to lick me, so I thought I'd run away," was the reply.

The teacher by further questioning brought out the fact that Tony for some trifling derelection had been threatened with a beating and had stayed away from home the best part of a week.

"But your father has the right to whip you," said the teacher.

"Yes, he may," added Tony, "but I was born in this country, and I don't want no foreigners to lick me."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Costa Rican Volcanoes.

Costa Rica has been subject to earthquakes for many years. Part of the republic is exceedingly mountainous, and in this part of the country there are more than a score of volcanoes, some of them dead, but a few that break out periodically. There are three or four that have been active for more than a century. Some of these are near San Jose, the capital. Costa Ricans have always believed that earthquakes, which the country has experienced ever since it was first settled by Spanish adventurers, were caused by the volcanoes. There is good ground for this belief, because it has been noticed that earthquakes of more or less intensity followed the activity of these volcanoes. If the volcanic eruptions were violent the earthquakes were correspondingly severe.—Washington Post.

Free Remedy For Weak Bowels

There are two forms of bodily cleanliness, the external and the internal. The one is for your pride in yourself; the other for your life and health. Both are important, but of vastly more importance in the long run is the internal cleanliness.

This is one point that all should watch about their body—the cleanliness of the bowels. Keep them clean and free from obstructions. To do this you must have one or two movements of the bowels each twenty-four hours. If your system does not do this naturally, in the process of eating and drinking, then you must obtain aid of some kind. After finding out that cathartics, salts and such things relieve you for a day, but bind you up worse than ever the next day, then try a simpler and more natural remedy like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

For the skeptical the best way to begin is to send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell for a free sample bottle. Use it as directed and if it convinces you that a brief continuance of its use will relieve you permanently—that it will train the stomach and bowel muscles to again work naturally at certain hours—then buy it of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as so many others are doing. They began with a sample bottle, then bought a fifty cent bottle, and now, fully convinced of its merits, they buy the one dollar family size. All the members of the family can use it down to the very youngest.

A brief use of this grand laxative tonic will cure constipation in its worst form, indigestion, liver trouble, sick headache, sour stomach and such ailments and keep you in continuous good health at a very small cost. Such is the experience of many families like that of Mrs. Oscar Pleener, Unionville, Ind., J. F. Daniel, Saron, Tex., and hundreds of others that could be named.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

Gleaned From the State Press

Some men are old at 35. Senator Burrows is a young man at 70. It is how a man lives, not how long, that makes the difference.—Kalamazoo Telegraph.

During all his long public career Senator Burrows never has been known as a player to the grandstand. When it comes to delivering the goods, however, he has always been on the spot.—Alma Journal.

That Burrows has served the people of Michigan long and well and has won an enviable position in the nation's great legislative body, is one of the strongest arguments that can be used in favor of his re-election.—Norway Current.

Michigan has many and important interests to be safeguarded. It has mines and forests connected by rail and water; agriculture, labor and mercantile interests. The veteran statesman can serve these interests more efficiently and effectively than any new man can hope to do. Then why make any change? Why not retain the faithful and capable servant, and let the young men who aspire to his seat wait?—Escanaba Journal.

Senator Burrows, it is said, is an old man. He wasn't an old man in '62 when he went to the front with the Seventeenth Michigan infantry. With him in the senate the old soldiers will have a friend, a friend who knows what the war was, what those who served in the army endured, how they feel and what they deserve. Will the interests of the old soldiers be best served by one of their own number or by one whose knowledge of the war is confined to what can be read in the books?—St. Johns Republican.

Senator Burrows' announcement of his candidacy for another term is what his friends expected—a manly and frank statement. There is no sidestepping; no playing to the galleries, but pure Republican principles are in evidence in every line. Senator Burrows' attitude is one of straight Republicanism—something needed in these days of new political cults—and he places himself squarely on a platform that every Republican can and should support with enthusiasm.—Tuscola County Courier, Caro, Mich.

Mr. Burrows' unimpeachable Republicanism is largely responsible for his high standing in the senate today. He has stood by his party pledges as announced in its platforms, and always worked for their fulfilment. Had his conscience and judgment not agreed with the policies outlined by the national and state conventions, he is a man of principle enough to have retired rather than have accepted the nomination and election and then turned upon the party that seated him just for the sake of making himself popular with the masses. Michigan is a Republican state, and that party will name the United States senator to be elected this fall. With the possibility of Democratic gains in both houses, it would be foolhardy for the Republicans to elect a man about whom there is the slightest doubt.—Sault Ste. Marie Times.

It has well been said that one of the discouraging features of American public life is the fleeting character of the reputation it makes and the feeble impression which even its larger achievements leave on the popular attention and interest. The fact that young men who were not born when Senator Burrows began his public career have now and then exposed themselves to ridicule by demanding to know what he has done to merit the respect, confidence and support of Michigan electors, makes it appropriate to speak at some length of his record. To the older men of the party—the wheel horses in years past—it is not at all necessary to recount the history, it is so well known. Young men are apt to forget, and especially when their enthusiasm is aroused by the statement there is a younger man in the field. Young men then can find much to interest them in the honorable career of Senator Burrows—Gratiot County Journal, Ithaca.

The Peanut.

The common peanut, beloved of the small boy, grows in a way that is distinctly original. The little plant sends up its shoots, with the fruit on the end of a somewhat stiff stalk, and then before it ripens the stem bends over and carefully pushes the fruit underground. As pigs are said to be especially fond of these, it has been suggested that the plant does this to hide its nuts from the porker's too inquisitive investigations.

How one man fooled his wife

She had been using her "favorite" baking powder. Wouldn't think of trying anything else, because "mother always used it," or some similar excuse. Hubby said she was prejudiced. He figured if Calumet, the new baking powder, selling at a moderate price, could be so successful, there must be some good in it. So he took a hand, and bought a can of Calumet, emptied the can containing her "favorite" baking powder and filled it with Calumet.

That evening, unsuspecting the trick, Wifey prepared and served some of her famous biscuits—piping hot, temptingly browned and puffed up to airy lightness, they were even more delicious than usual. Hubby, after considerable difficulty, succeeded in convincing her that the basis of the improvement was Calumet Baking Powder. And so an everlasting friend for Calumet was made.

This truthful little incident simply proves that the housewife is oftimes prejudiced against all baking powders except the one she has been using for years. She imagines that no other kind can possibly be as good. This is a mistaken impression. A trial of Calumet will prove that it is purer, more reliable; it has a greater leavening power than any other baking powder made. And it is moderate in price.

WOMAN BEAR HUNTER.

Good Shot Brought Down Bruin and Saved Her Favorite Dog.

Mrs. Addie Walker, a prepossessing little woman of Rifle, not only killed a large bear this week with a bullet from a weapon in her own hands, but she risked her life in an attempt to prevent the bear from killing one of her favorite bear dogs.

The battle between bruin and the plucky Mrs. Walker occurred on Mann Creek, near Rifle, and in the section where Col. Roosevelt hunted bear and mountain lion four years ago. Fred Tolland the guide had shown Mrs. Walker where bear might be found and had loaned the Tolland and League bear dogs to her for the purpose of cornering the animal. She did get the big brute in a corner and thought she had ended his troubles as well as those of the dogs when she sent a bullet into his body at the point of the shoulder.

Instead of calming the animal, as she thought it would, it enraged him and a two hour chase behind the dogs and the bear through the down timber and jungles found the bear in the center of the creek where the water is probably two or three feet deep at this season of the year.

The dogs apparently reasoned that he would be easily subdued in the water for they plunged headlong in after him. The bear lost no time in grappling the first one which by the way happened to be the favorite of the huntress. He grabbed the canine in his huge arms hugged him with the affection peculiar to the type of bruin, and then began to show additional affection by whipping the stream with him in about the same manner the successful fisherman would whip a stream for trout.

This not only angered the dog, but it was more than Mrs. Walker could endure. She could not shoot because the bear was so active in his operations that it was difficult to determine in the confusion which was the bear and which was the dog.

She hesitated only a moment and then leaned over the cliff, which is about fifteen feet above the underbrush at the bank of the creek. Alighting squarely on her feet she plunged into the edge of the water and in doing so her display of courage evidently attracted the attention of the bear for he discontinued operations with the dog reared up to a height gun to show the same signs of affection of six feet above the water and bellion he had when the dog intruded the stream.

This gave Mrs. Walker an excellent opportunity to display her skill and standing in water over a foot in depth she directed a bullet to a point exactly between the eyes of the big brute and he fell over in the creek—the battle ended.

After getting him out it was found that he was of the black bear species—an unusual species for this section—was a monster in size and had one of the sleekest skins in this vicinity for years.

China in Iron and Steel.

Imagine a river connecting our Lake Superior ore deposits with Pittsburg, a river navigable to tow boats and barges, another similar river suited for bringing down coal and coke, and a river navigable to oceangoing vessels connecting Pittsburg with tidewater, and one has a rough sketch of the position in China. The Hanyang iron and steel works are 600 miles inland, on the Yangtse-Kiang river, navigable to large oceangoing steamers. The 60 per cent ore is towed 800 miles down the Tayeh river to the Hanyang works, and coal is towed 800 miles down another river to the works. Erection of the plant was started in 1891, the original plan being that of using ore from a point some 75 miles down the Yangtse-Kiang river, with coal mined near the plant. The coal proved unsuitable for smelting, and the present system has supplanted the original. The works are nothing from the American standpoint, producing only about 500 tons of pig iron daily, while the duplex steel plant involves two 15-ton converters, now being installed, with four open-hearth furnaces, making about 250 tons of steel ingots daily.

While very little, relatively, is known of the geology of China enough is known to make it obvious that there are vast possibilities. We used to be amused by the tales of American and British engineers who had had experience with Chinese methods and Chinese labor. The ridiculous inefficiency of the labor and the adherence of the people to weird traditions incited our risibilities, but those are things which can change.—Iron Trade Review.

PLOT TO SINK LINER

Can of Powder Discovered in Coal for Steamer.

Explosive Was Almost Scooped Up by a Great Shovel When It Was Seen by a Workman.

New York, Aug. 22.—Discovery of a can of giant powder in coal that was being loaded into the bunkers prior to sailing is believed to have forestalled a scheme for the destruction of the Russian line steamship Lituania.

Had the powder escaped notice it would probably have found its way with the coal into the furnaces and disaster would have followed.

The can, containing one and one-half pounds of powder, was almost scooped up by a great shovel when a workman saw it. It was taken to the captain, who had it soaked in water and the cover pried off.

INSTRUCTION TRAINS ON TOUR

Purdue Students to Instruct Farmers on Improved Methods.

New York, Aug. 22.—Two farmers' instruction trains run by the Pennsylvania lines will start out today, one in Indiana and the other in Ohio. Japan's National Beverage.

Sake is the national beverage of Japan. It has a peculiar flavor not comparable to any European drink, is made from fermented rice by an intricate process in winter time and contains from 11 to 14 per cent of alcohol. It is a necessary constituent of every ceremonial Japanese dinner, is served in little, ampulla-like jars and drunk with much formality from squat, earless sake cups containing approximately about two ounces. To the European palate it tastes sour at first, but a preference for it is readily acquired. Curiously enough, it has a much more powerful effect on the Japanese than on Europeans. A stronger variety, shochu, contains from 20 to 50 per cent of alcohol. Another form, mirin, is more or less a liqueuer.—London Lancet.

A Dutch Fishing Fleet.

If the traveler wants to get a real glimpse of picturesque Holland, a glimpse which shall long be a happy memory, let him journey to the old fishing village of Scheveningen, not far from the Hague. Its fishing fleet is an imposing one and is best seen at night, when the boats are drawn up on the beach. Each has a number, and these are painted on the sides in such large figures that they can be read at a considerable distance. At night when the fishermen begin to come to land the women of the village walk down to the beach with their knitting in their hands to meet them. They wear their wooden shoes, some of which are made to look especially clean by an application of whiting, and they make a merry clatter as they go. Industry is characteristic of the women of Holland in all walks of life. They must always be at work of some kind, and it would seem as if more knitting needles must be used in Holland than in any other country in the world.—E. J. Farrington in Interior.

Spark from Locomotive Sets Fire to Straw and Flames Spread.

Boseman, Mont., Aug. 22 — Disastrous fire has started in the timber six miles south of here. Sparks from a passing engine set fire to straw and the flame straveled a mile across the stubble like a flash and into the timber belonging to the state adjoining Gallatin national forest.

The fire has traveled somewhat more than a mile an hour, for six hours and now threatens a sawmill and a large area of valuable timber between here and Yellowstone. The forest service is gathering all men available in two main parties and will try, when the wind goes down, to get the fire under control.

Will Be Returned to London With Companion.

Detectives, with Doctor and Leneve Woman, Dodge Crowd in Departure from Quebec.

Quebec, Aug 22.—Dr Hawley Harvey Crippen and Miss Ethel Clare Leneve were taken from the provincial jail in separate carriages and driven rapidly westward.

The couple, in charge of Detective Dew, Sergeant Detective Mitchell and two wardresses, boarded the steamer Megantic for Liverpool seven miles west of Quebec, on the St. Lawrence river.

Great secrecy was observed by the detectives in removing the prisoners from the jail, as it was desired to avoid a demonstration.

An extraordinary accident occurred as Crippen crossed the gangplank. It carried an omen that might well depress a man in the shadow of the hangman's rope. Crippen came hurrying across the plank handcuffed, his hat pulled low over his eyes, and his chin buried in his collar trying, apparently, to dodge photographers.

In his haste he ran squarely into a rope that held the gangway steady. The rope caught him under the chin and jerked him backward, and had not Inspector Dew, who was close behind, caught him, Crippen would have fallen and possibly pitched between the two vessels into the water.

Miss Leneve, who had left the jail with every evidence of willingness, had to be supported as she crossed the gangplank. As she reached the deck of the Megantic she fainted and was carired to her cabin.

Crippen and Miss Leneve were hurried to cabins Nos 51 and 53, which they will occupy during the voyage. Dew took the cabin next to Crippen at one end of the suite, with the two wardresses adjoining. Miss Leneve's quarters and Sergeant Mitchell bringing up the other end of the line.

Capt. Kendall Gets Reward.

London, Aug 22.—The Weekly Dispatch says the reward of $1,250 for information leading to the arrest of Dr. Crippen has been awarded to Capt. Kendall of the steamer Montrose, on which Crippen and Miss Leneve reached Quebec.

FOREST FIRE GROWING IN MONTANA

Fire Beyond Control In Many Places

PROPERTY LOSS UNTOLD

List of Fatalities Is Expected to Be a Very Large One.

Special Trains Run to Save Lives of Those Imperiled.

Helena, Mont., Aug. 22.—The forest fire situation in Montana is the worst in the history of the state. Late reports from the Flathead country before communication was cut off, was to the effect that the situation was hopeless; that new fires had broken out and that the fighters were absolutely unable to cope with them.

The Bitter Root valley fires has also secured renewed vigor. J. M. Kennedy of the Bureau of Protection, received information that the town of Libby was surrounded by fires and that the situation was critical.

Eureka is also reported surrounded while the fires at Ann have broken out afresh. In Helena, both the Southern skies as well as those to the north and east are aglow, indicating that the flames are creeping up the Rocky mountains from the west. A few blocks is the limit one may see, so dense is the smoke in Helena. All wires between Helena and Spokane on both the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroad are down. An unverified report has reached here that the Oriental Limited train on the Great Northern has been ditched between two fires, while is it also reported that Little valley, about fifteen miles south of Helena.

Gov. Norris, who is making a tour of the state with army engineers on their inspection of irrigation prospects is expected here today and will doubtless call out all state troops to assist the regulars. Another bad fire started from threshing machines, is reported on state land adjoining the Gallatin forest. High winds are carrying the flames toward the Yellowstone park. Still another message says that the town of Sylvanite, in Lincoln county, was been wiped out. Gov. Norris has been wired for 500 men for the Libby district. Fires are now advancing on it from three directions.

SPECIAL TRAINS ARE RUNNING

To Save Lives of Persons in the Afflicted Districts.

Missoula, Mont., Aug. 22.—All day long refugees have been pouring into this city from the fire stricken districts in the west, bring heart rending tales of suffering and distress. The Northern Pacific has operated four relief specials during the day and has brought nearly 1,000 people here. The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul has a special made up of every available sort of equipment, in which 500 persons were huddled. One woman, picked up along the line at midnight, gave birth to a child in a box car.

Smoke which settled over the city was so dense that it was dark with a crimson glow showing through the smoke in the west. Fire, ashes and wood cinders are falling all over the city. From the Blackfoot region comes a rumor of disaster by fires. A prosperous ranch is said to be in imminent danger and a number of ranches have been burned by fires, which communicated from the blazing trees.

The telephone officials have rumors of 150 fire fighters being burned to death in Clearwater. The Milwaukee officials report five bridges burned on the east side of the Bitter Root river. Bates and Rogers' constructoin camp, near the summit of the divide, has been destroyed by fire with a loss of life, but the number of fatalities cannot be learned at this hour.

Further down the mountains the charred remains of men were found near the tracks. The Milwaukee railroad depots at Anderson and Deborgia were burned and during last evening the station at Huagan was also destroyed.

The fire is reported sweeping along the northern Mullan Gulch, towards the old town of St. Regis and officials on the Soo declare that the town will

A Beautiful Lake.

Perhaps the most striking instance to be seen in the whole world of the wonderful apparent coloring of bodies of water is the marvelously beautiful Blue lake, in Switzerland. Encompassed on all sides by lofty mountains, their lower ranges luxuriantly clothed with verdure down to the edge of the water and adorned with many fine forest trees, while their higher acclivities are garbed in a mantle of eternal snow, the little lake, nestling in its deep hollow basin and protected from winds and storms, is quite startling in its singular and strange beauty. The water, although really pure and colorless, appears to be of a most vivid and intense sky blue. And its transparency is so remarkable that a small nickel, coin dropped into the water in the center of the lake can be seen gyrating downward until it reaches the bottom, apparently more than a hundred feet beneath.

FREIGHT TRAINS COLLIDE; 6 KILLED

Several Others Were Seriously Injured in Crash.

FIRE ADDS TO DESTRUCTION

Racing Horses, Bound for Canadian Tracks, Are Destroyed—Oil Tank Cars Explode, Sending Debris in All Directions.

Northfield, Vt., Aug. 22.—In a head-on collision between two freight trains at noon, six men were killed and several others seriously injured. Several valuable race horses, bound for Canadian tracks, were destroyed. All the men killed were members of the crews of the two trains, but the name of but one of them is known. It will be impossible to identify most of them as the wreckage took fire immediately after the crash and the remains are but little more than a smouldering pile.

The accident occurred on the main line of the Central Vermont road. When help reached the scene they found the two trains piled on top of each other and burning fiercely. Immediately all hands started in taking out the dead and injured. The first body brought out was that of William Brooklyn, conductor of the southbound train. One after another the bodies were taken out and laid alongside the track, most of them nothing but a charred mass.

These injured were taken out: D. S. Hammel, of St. Albans, a brakeman of the southbound train, injured about the head; W. Winn of Haverhill, Mass., engineer of the northbound train, skull fractured and hip broken, taken to Heaton hospital in Montpelier; Leon Labufue of St. Albans, fireman on the northbound train, skull fractured and ribs broken. Three others are known to have been injured, but their names are not known.

According to the report of the accident received here, a train consisting of an engine and tender with a caboose attached, was bound south from St. Albans and had the right of way on the single track. The other was a heavy freight train of forty cars and was proceeding from White River Junction to Montpelier and St. Albans. It was said here that Wynn ran by a signal a short distance past the Northfield station. A few minutes later the collision occurred. There was a terrible impact and the engine and eight cars were piled up on top of the lighter train. Immediately the wreckage took fire and, fanned by a brisk wind, the flames quickly spread over the length of the train. Several oil tanks exploded with a frightfull roar, sending debris flying in all directions.

The engine crew of the southbound train never had a chance to escape, for they were buried in the wreckage. On the northbound train were several cars of live stock that did not get into the wreck, but which took fire and as a result a number of valuable race horses were destroyed. The wreck tied up all the service in the Central Vermont over this line and it will probably be several hours before the wreckage is cleared up.

With a Grain of Salt.

The earliest record of the saying "with a grain of salt" dates back to the year 63 B. C., when the great Pompey entered the palace of Mithridates and discovered among his private papers the description of an antidote against poisons of all sorts, which was composed of pounded herbs. These, according to the recipe, were to be taken with a grain of salt. Whether this was meant seriously or as a warning sarcasm is not known, but thenceforth it became the custom to say that doubtful preparations should be taken with a grain of salt. From this the meaning got transferred to sayings of doubtful truth. "Attic salt" was a Greek synonym for wit or penetration, and the Latin word "sal" had somewhat of the same meaning. It is thus easy to see how the saying "cum grano salis" could have come to mean the necessity of accepting doubtful or suspicious statements "with a grain of salt."

PRIEST FORSAKES BRIDE

Italian Prelate Leaves for Vatican to Confess Marriage.

Says He Will Take Punishment for Wrong—Probably Will Live Rest of Life in Seclusion.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 22.—The Rev. Alphonse M. Consolazia, an Italian priest of the Trenton diocese, who created a stir in church circles by marrying the 16-year-old daughter of Franz Johann, is on his way to Rome, determined, it is said, to confess that he has broken his vows to the church and to accept his punishment.

Katherine Consolazia, the sprightly bride of a few months ago, has returned to live at home. Mrs. Johann is angry and does not attempt to disguise that fact when the subject of her daughter's marriage is broached. Mr. Johann is disposed to take a more philosophical view of the situation, though sorely grieved at his daughter's alliance with the handsome young priest.

The outcome of Father Consolazia's visit to the Vatican forms a subject for conjecture among his friends. It is taken for granted that if he accepts the discipline of the church, he will be separated from his wife forever, probably spending the remainder of his life in the seclusion of a monastery, doing such penance as may be imposed.

ESTRADA VICTOR; MADRIZ IN FLIGHT

Gen. Mena Opposed Surrender and Troops Loot Granada.

NEWS OF DEFEAT CONFIRMED

Legation and Consulate Under Heavy Police Guard and Situation Is Threatening—Madriz Generals Flee Country.

Managua, Nicaragua, Aug. 22.—As a result of peace conferences President Madriz has resigned the presidency of Nicaragua, yesterday afternoon, and left with his family to Corinto. Gen. Mena opposed the surrender and, with his forces captured and looted Granada.

Washington, Aug. 22.—Official confirmation has been received at the state department of the downfall of the Madriz faction in Nicaragua. The defeat of the Madriz troops on the 18th inst., and the crossing of the chief Tipitapa river by the entire insurgent army of Estrada was confirmed. The troops of Gen. Toledo, who commander the Madriz faction, were stampeded and fled to Managua. The family of Madriz had left Managua for Corinto and were to be followed by Mr. Madriz who, after having relinquished the remnant of his authority, was preparing to flee the country. The advices declare that Managua was in turmoil and that hostile demonstrations were being made against the United States.

The following was made public by the state department:

"A telegram sent via Tegulcagalpa, Honduras, by Mr. Olivares, the consul at Managua, under date of Aug. 19, 2 a. m., confirms the fact that the army of the Estrada faction defeated the troops of the Madriz faction on the 18th inst. and effected a crossing of the Tipitapa river. The consul also states that it was reported that the Estrada forces south of Granada had inflicted a severe defeat upon a strong column of Madriz troops in that neighborhood.

"From another telegram from the consul, dated the 19th at 1 p. m., it appears that the entire invading army of the Estrada faction had crossed the Tipitapa river. Gen. Toledo, who commanded the Madriz forces on the Tipitapa river, had already reached Managua and reported that his troops were seized with panic and fled when attacked by the Estrada forces on the 18th, osme of the routed troops going to Granada, and others having already arrived at Managua. The consul mentions a current report that Granada had been sacked by the Madriz troops.

"Mr. Olivares further reports that Dr. Madriz has stated it to be his purpose to turn over to Jose Delores Estrada, a brother of Gen. Juan Estrada, the defacto authority actually in his hands, and that Jose Delores Estrada has declared that he will in turn make way for the leaders of the Estrada revolution. The legation and consulate are under heavy police guard and the general situation is reported to be very threatening."

Later advices made public were as follows: "A telegram dated Aug. 20, 10 a. m., from Mr. Johnson, consul at Corinto, confirmes what Mr. Olivares reports as to the supposed intentions of the Madriz faction. Mr. Johnson reports that the family of Dr. Madriz arrived at Corinto on the 19th, that Gen. Toledo and the family of Gen. Irias arrived on the 20th, that it is reported that Gen. Toledo will take the first opportuinty to leave the country and that Madriz, Gen. Arias and others were expected at Corinto the night of the 20th, the report being that they would leave on the gunboat Angela, or the north-bound Pacific mail steamer on Monday, the 22nd."

Barrios and Sebastian Selinas have been in Washington as special envoys of Madriz in the hope of having the department of state intercede in behalf of their leader. They have maintained friendly terms with Dr. Salvadore Castillo, the Washington representative of Gen. Estrada, the insurgent leader.

Dr. Castrillo said that he did not have the slightest doubt but that Gen. Estrada had won and that the revolution was nearing its end with the insurgents as victors.

The Invincible Billy

An Irrepressible Boy's Part In a Love Affair

By AGNES G. BROGAN

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

They sat upon the pier together, the girl whose eyes were as blue as the sea, the little boy whose flaxen curls framed the face of a cherub and the man who looked askance at the boy and frowned. The girl caressed the child. "Dear," she asked, tenderly, "are you tired?"

Billy rested the curly head against his aunt's shoulder and confidingly placed his damp boots upon the skirt of her white linen dress. "Nope," he answered concisely.

Jack Winston sighed and shook his head. "When I see the amount of affection you are wasting upon that imp," he said, "my soul is filled with wrath."

The boy scrambled to his feet suddenly and, collecting a handful of small sharp stones, began pelting them at the two occupants of a small boat which glided noiselessly along beside the pier.

"Billy," his aunt cried, horrified—"Billy, did you hit the little boy?"

"You bet I did," her nephew replied gleefully. "That was Dicky Smith. I hate Dicky Smith!"

Miss Brereton's eyes looked unutterably sad. "That was very wrong," she said reprovingly, "and you must not hate him, dear; you must love everybody."

Her nephew laughed. "Everybody!" he exclaimed derisively.

"Yes, indeed," his aunt reiterated. Billy considered.

"Do you love everybody, Aunt Beatrice?" he asked. "Do you love Mr. Winston?" A rosy flush covered his aunt's pretty face.

"Of course I do," she answered evenly.

Billy turned to seek an ally in the man. "Do you love everybody, Mr. Winston?" he persisted.

"Not by a good deal, Bill," the man responded warmly. "I have much the same feeling for Mr. Fenway, for instance, that you have for Dicky Smith."

The girl laughed and caught her small nephew by the hand. "What nonsense!" she said. "And now don't you think it is time to go back?"

The three went strolling up the sandy beach, the boy skipping along between them. The hotel guests had assembled upon the wide verandas, awaiting the sound of the gong which would summon them to the evening meal. They hailed the delinquents merrily. "Last call for dinner in the dining car," said Fenway. "Billy, come here and give an account of yourself." He caught up the boy and perched him upon his knee. Beatrice stood leaning against a white pillar, smiling down at them. Winston sat upon a lower step.

"What have you been doing, Billy boy?" Fenway questioned. The child was always very amusing, so the guests leaned forward, eagerly listening for his replies.

"Been down on the pier," Billy piped in his shrill treble, "with Aunt Beatrice and Mr. Winston." A pause. "Aunt Beatrice says she loves Mr. Winston," he repeated deliberately. For a moment there was silence, tense, deadly silence; then Jack Winston committed the unpardonable crime—he laughed. No one joined him. That made it worse, for all were fascinated in watching the girl's face, which changed so suddenly from white to crimson. She looked contemptuously at Winston for a moment because he could thus enjoy her discomfiture.

"Billy," she said desperately, "you remember, I spoke of loving everybody—not Mr. Winston in particular; he was merely included with the others."

It seemed to the man on the lower step that her eyes sought Fenway's appealingly. "Merely included with the others." He arose suddenly. "You have sufficiently cleared yourself of the imputation," he began in a low tone, but Billy was speaking again.

"Mr. Winston says," the cherub announced distinctly, "that sometimes he would like to pelt stones at Mr. Fenway." There was a general laugh at this, and Winston was conscious of an overwhelming desire to fall upon the boy and thrash him within an inch of his life.

"Thanks, awfully, Bill," Fenway observed calmly. "Forewarned is forearmed. Henceforth, whenever I see Jack Winston coming my way, I shall run."

The company dispersed in little chattering groups toward the dining room. Billy was borne thence upon Fenway's shoulder, and Beatrice followed. As Winston passed she averted her eyes, and so during the endlessly long week which followed she perversely ignored his existence and admirably succeeded in dispelling any erroneous idea which might have prevailed regarding her partiality toward him. And the injured one did himself in faraway corners and worked resolutely upon the serial story which he was preparing for one of the current magazines. He had neglected his writing lately, and there was much to do. Occasionally Billy would seek him out, but was always curtly dismissed. In fact, the thorns were beginning to show among Billy's roses, for his champion, Fenway, had suddenly departed for town, and Aunt Beatrice had developed into a very unreasonable person. One could not tell how to please her.

When they started for a walk upon their last afternoon at the seaside Aunt Beatrice first found the wooded path too shady, then decided that the sun shone too brightly upon the pier, and later when the man in the little postoffice informed them that there were "no letters today" Billy really thought she was going to cry. "P'r'aps," he comforted, "Mr. Fenway will write a nice letter to you bimeby, but," he added, with the strange perversity of childhood, "I like Mr. Winston best."

Aunt Beatrice very unexpectedly bent down and kissed his upturned face. "Billy boy," she said sadly, "Mr. Winston does not like us any more, and it is all because of you." Billy pondered deeply upon this. If it was his fault that these two funny grown-up people refused to speak to each other then some way or other he must be the one to straighten things out. He did not quite know how he was going to accomplish this purpose, but would see Mr. Winston at any rate. So it happened that Billy's chubby figure invaded the hiding place among the trees, and Winston ceased scribbling for a moment to look impatiently at the innocent face peering out from its tangled curls. "Hello!" said Billy cheerfully.

"Don't you see that I am busy?" the man answered. "Now run along."

"All right," Billy agreed, and sat down upon a fallen tree trunk. Winston resumed his writing. As he finished one sheet he would tear it hastily from the pad and toss it from him. The ground near by seemed covered with the closely written pages.

"You write a great many letters," Billy suggested politely. There was no response. "Mr. Fenway went away yesterday," he ventured again. Still no answer. "Aunt Beatrice and I are going home tomorrow," he continued. At last Billy had gained the man's attention. "Tomorrow!" he exclaimed in consternation. "She is going away tomorrow?" Billy was pleased with the sensation he had made. "Yep," he answered coolly. "No more fun here now."

Jack Winston looked far away between the trees to where he could see a glimpse of blue sea beyond. "I suppose not, now that Fenway has gone," he said bitterly. The man continued to gaze gloomily out upon the sea. He had forgotten the story; he had forgotten even Billy until the unusual silence reminded him that his unwelcome visitor had departed. Then he slowly collected the scattered sheets, dropped the pad into a loose coat pocket and, with great heaviness of heart turned to go. So she was leaving tomorrow. In all probability he would never see her again, and the happy hours of this summer which had meant everything to him would linger in her memory only as an idle seaside flirtation. The man sighed a mighty sigh, and then the twisted branches before him were parted and Beatrice herself stood there in the opening. She raised a flushed face to his; her blue eyes shone mistily. "I wanted to see you so very much," she said hesitatingly, "that I just could not wait for you to come."

He stared unbelievingly. Miss Brereton pouted. "Of course if you are not glad to see me"— she was beginning, when the glorious truth dawned full upon him.

"Glad!" he cried, and the fervor expressed in that one word seemed to quite satisfy the girl. After a long silence she laughed softly. "It was a dear little note," she said. "Do you know you have always appeared to be such a dignified, self contained person that really I have been a bit afraid of you all along—at least I never imagined that one so calm could write like that."

The last words were uttered in a tone which conveyed her entire approval of the note, which had evidently been the means of bringing her to his side. Winston realized slowly that something remained to be explained. He must be cautious.

"Have you the letter with you, dear?" he asked. She drew a crumpled paper from her belt and, smoothing it out, held it up before his eyes. The man took her hands and the note within his own.

"Dearest," he read in his own handwriting, "I can bear this silence—this separation—no longer. In pity let me see you once more." The scrawl ended abruptly, and the sheet was torn off as though in frantic haste. With a perplexed frown Winston recognized the words with which the hero of his latest serial story begins an ardent epistle to his ladylove.

Beatrice smiled. "You must admit," she said softly, "that Billy made a good messenger. I was sitting in the garden looking sorrowfully out over the hills and wondering if a certain person who considered himself mortally offended could really be so cruel as to allow me to go far away without one word of goodby when Billy, the dear, came running down the road. 'Aunt Beatrice,' he called, 'here is a letter for you from Mr. Winston!' If it had not been such a nice, anxious letter I might have properly waited for you to come to me, but as it was—well, Billy led me straight to your hiding place."

"Dearest," said Winston in the phrasing of the letter, "I humbly apologize for the many unkind remarks which I have made from time to time concerning your nephew. He is an angel, a remarkably clever child. There has never been his equal." Beatrice sighed contentedly, and Winston, happening to glance over the crown of her head at this moment, saw the aforesaid angel seated upon the tree trunk close by, apparently a very much interested spectator.

"Say," said Billy wearily, "cut it out, won't you? Supper's ready."

GLEANINGS AND GOSSIP.

Montenegro is about half the size of Wales and has only one railway.

Germany has instituted a meteorological service for the special purpose of aiding aerial navigation. All data gathered in the European observatories will be made in Germany. The results will be sent out by telegraph to the various German aero clubs, so that they may know the probable conditions which a balloon will meet as it ascends.

Nuremberg is the center of the toy trade of the world. More than half the employes of the toy factories are women and girls. The wages of the female toymakers are about five cents an hour. Of the estimated German toy output of $25,000,000 a year, about $19,000,000 is exported, more than half going to Great Britain and the United States.

A Berlin museum has recently acquired a very valuable manuscript which originated in the second century B. C. It seems to be of the nature of a biographical dictionary, for it contains a list of the leading men of the time in art, statesmanship and warfare with much other general information of a similar nature. The paper was found in the wrappings of a mummy.

Of the railways in Holland, E. V. Lucas writes: "The trains come in to the minute and go out to the minute. The officials are intelligent and polite. The carriages are good. Every station has its waiting-room, where you may sit and read and drink a cup of coffee that is not only hot and fresh, but is recognizably the product of the berry. It is impossible to travel in the wrong train."

Brazil is the land of orchids. Plants of eight leaves are sold for nine cents apiece; of 15 leaves for 18 cents; 20 to 30 leaves, 32 cents. Above 40 leaves special bargains are made. This season a remarkable plant of 206 leaves was brought to market strung on a pole and carried 40 miles by two men. Such a plant has a blooming capacity of 500 flowers. It sold in Pernambuco for $5; value in the United States, $150.

RALPH DE PALMA,
DARING MOTOR DRIVER

De Palma in his Fiat "Cyclone" racing car will meet Barney Oldfield at the State Fair on Saturday, Sept. 24, in a matched race for world's championship honors. De Palma will try and get back his lost honors for the world's mile record on a horse track. This means the finest motor racing to be seen in the world.

MICHIGAN FAIR FIRST TO GET WRIGHT AEROPLANES

After the Stirring Exhibition Elks' Week, Flights Will Draw Immense Crowds.

Having given exhibitions lasting three days in Detroit, during Elks' week, making a tremendous hit, Aviators Brookins and Hoxsey are keen about playing a return date in Detroit during the State Fair, Sept. 19-24th. They are scheduled to make four flights daily during Fair week, and now that they are familiar with the exhibition field and the physical conditions they will be prepared to perform startling things in their strange air craft.

Brookins is the holder of the world's altitude record made a few weeks ago at Atlantic City, where, before 100,000 people, he flew out over the ocean and attained a height of 6,300 feet. He had a thrilling time of it, as there was a terrific wind when he reached the higher altitudes, and to cap the climax his motor stopped when he was at the highest point. The crowds were amazed to see him, a mere speck in the sky, start suddenly downward at a terrific rate, making large swooping circles, but always pointing his craft downward at a sharp angle.

It took him over an hour and a half to ascend, but he came down in seven minutes, landed beautifully on the beach, and then fainted.

Brookins is known among his teammates as a daring and spectacular operator. Arrangements will be made to take measurements during his flights at the Fair grounds, and he has expressed the determination of breaking his own record if the weather conditions are at all favorable.

Arch Hoxsey, the other aviator who held the crowds spellbound during the Elks' week exhibition, will also be present during the Fair and because of his past performances can be counted upon to be a strong attraction. Waving his hand at the crowds, Hoxsey went sailing down the track, dodging in between lines of telephone poles, skimming scarcely a foot above the track and traveling at the rate of 40 miles an hour. Hurdling the fences surrounding the show ring, he chased a photographer off the field, then did the roller coaster stunt, circled the trees on the back stretch, came whizzing down the stretch again and landed on the track, directly in front of the grandstand, gently as a bird would light.

The immense throngs rose to their feet, and a mighty roar of approval went up. Hoxsey smiled and bowed his thanks for the reception and then, after his plane had been mounted again on the monorail, went up immediately and furnished more thrills of the same order.

Hoxsey is a finished performer, and did seemingly impossible stunts in his biplane with the greatest ease and great style. His appearance in Detroit again will mean packing the stands each day.

Throughout all the aeroplane exhibitions there is, of course, the ever present chance of accident, and to those unaccustomed to watching the flights of aeroplanes, time after time it appears that the strange machine has turned turtle and is falling to the ground. Hoxsey never has had an accident which resulted seriously, and, therefore, he is able to do startling work without nervousness.

DESERVING OF HONORS.
One of the many beauties to be seen at the State Fair, Sept. 19-24th.

Wireless Telephony.

The Swedish telegraph engineers named Enger and Holmstrom have made an important invention in connection with telephone communication. They have constructed a microphone which increases the speaking distance by 100 per cent. Experiments made between Stockholm and Berlin showed that it was possible for a conversation to be heard as distinctly as between Stockholm and Malmoe, a telephonic speaking distance of nearly 2,500 miles.

Man's outer garments ought to be made so that they could be cleaned every week or so; indeed, some now send their woolen garments to dry cleaners instead of having them "cleaned" and pressed in the ordinary way, but prices for dry cleaning men's clothing are unnecessarily high, and ought to come down, when dry cleaning would become a much greater industry. Other men in summer wear "washable" garments which are worn a day or so and then relaundered.

is now a summer as well as a winter remedy. It has the same invigorating and strength-producing effect in summer as in winter. Try it in a little cold milk or water. ALL DRUGGISTS

STATE'S HISTORY GATES MONDAY

Michigan's Fair This Year Will Represent Expenditure of a Quarter of a Million of Dollars and Will Surpass Anything Ever Seen In This State---Big Crowds Are Expected to Be In Attendence ---Reduced Railroad Rates.

exhibit, is the first fair in the entire United States to follow this suggestion.

Another thing in which Michigan's fair led the country was in the securing of the Wright brothers' aeroplanes to make daily exhibitions on the fair grounds during fair week. After Michigan had signed them the other fairs got busy. However, Michigan will be given the preference so far as the operators are concerned, and Hoxsey and Brookins will be the men detailed to make the flights in Detroit. Both these men appeared here during the exhibition held Elks' week, and they made the crowds gasp in fright by their daring work.

The fair management believes that in the appearance of Hoxsey and Brookins it has the greatest attraction ever presented at any fair. Brookins is the holder of the world's record for high flying, having reached an altitude of 6,300 feet at Atlantic City earlier in the summer. He had many narrow escapes in the higher levels, as there was a stiff wind, and to cap the climax his motor stopped when he was at the highest point. In long, swooping curves he began his dizzy descent. It had taken him an hour and twenty minutes to climb 6,300 feet, yet he came down in seven minutes. He made a fine landing on the beach, and then fainted.

Brookins said when in Detroit earlier in the summer that he would make attempts to break his record for height at the fair flights.

Sensational Auto Races.

Believing that the public interest in automobiles and automobile racing would warrant an extra effort, the fair management has designated Saturday of fair week as "Automobile day," at which time these most famous speed kings in the world will perform. Barney Oldfield, in his celebrated 200-horsepower Benz car; Ben Kerschner, in his 100-horsepower Darracq; Ralph De Palma, in his Fiat "Cyclone;" Bobbie Burman, in his Buick racer, and other amateur drivers, will all unite in putting on a racing card which will be interesting from start to finish.

Not satisfied with this big attraction the fair management appropriated for harness racing six times what was spent last or in any previous years. Secretary A. H. Moone of the Detroit Driving club was put in charge of the harness events and succeeded in getting a program of races which attracted the greater majority of the Blue Ribbon stars. There are two $5,000 events, two $3,000 and several of a thousand dollars, and every afternoon, with the exception of Saturday, the finest race programs will be presented of any state fair in the country.

Not only on the race track will the horses demand attention, but also in the nightly horse show which is to be held in the big show ring in front of the grand stand.

At night also there will be shown the thrilling "Fall of Port Arthur," in which fireworks and military bodies take part, and each night there will be an elaborate fireworks program which will close the evening's entertainment. The fireworks to be seen at the state fair this year will cost in all $5,000 and will be the handsomest display ever witnessed in Michigan.

Dog Show New Feature.

And still the new features come. Michigan dog fanciers will this year revel in a bench show the like of which is seldom seen outside of New York or Boston. One of the largest buildings on the grounds has been given over to the St. Claire Kennel club, a recently formed Michigan organization of dog lovers, and there a bench show, accommodating from 500 to 600 dogs, will be given.

Fair visitors are entitled to many free attractions, and so the plans this year include the presentation of several well-known and highly entertaining forms of amusement numbered among the free acts. A sensational troupe of aerialists, the "Flying Banvards," will give several exhibitions on the trapeze and flying rings at one end of the Midway. The "Flying Banvards" are European performers who have been before the public for years and have appeared in every large city in the United States.

At the other end of the Midway will be Mamie Francis and her diving horses. This act is what is known as a "thriller," for the handsome white brutes, at the word, dive from a platform, 54 feet above the ground, into a tank of water. Miss Francis dives with them—that is, she rides them bareback when they jump. For sensations this act is a great success.

There will be band concerts each day and evening of the fair, furnished by the Liberati concert band, assisted by a double quartet of grand opera stars and the 91st Scotch Highlanders, together with soloists and fancers.

Matrimonial Dyspepsia.

"Well, how do you like married life?" inquired the friend.

"Not at all," replied the man who had married money and was suffering for it. "I'm a case of matrimonial dyspepsia."

"Matrimonial dyspepsia?"

"Yes. She never agrees with me; she's too rich."

OBITUARIES

Miss Bertha Rhodes of Saline Township died at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Byron Rhodes, August 13, 1910, aged 21 years She was the old of two daughters and her death has caused the first break in the pleasant family circle.

In 1905 she united with the Reformed church of Macon and at once became interested and helpful in all christian work. She was a very active and willing worker in the Sunday School and Christian Endeavor where she will be greatly missed She was loved by a large circle of friends and relatives for her bright and cheerful ways and her smiling countenance.

Bertha was a very useful member of the church identifying herself in every good work and lending a hand wherever she found opportunity. We shall miss her very much for she was a friend in deed and in truth. We sympathize with the family but while we mourn their and our loss we feel that the transition from earth to heaven is her eternal gain.

One by one earth's ties are broken,
As we see our love decay,
And the hopes so fondly cherished.
Brighten but to pass away.

One by one our hope's grow brighter,
As we near the shining shore;
For we know across the river,
Wait the loved ones gone before,

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our most heartfelt thanks to the neighbors and friends who so kindly assisted us during the illness, death and burial of our dear one; also to the choir and to those who contributed the beautiful flowers.

BASE BALL

The Detroit baseball club yesterday closed a deal with the Saginaw club of the Southern Michigan league, by which Third Baseman Wuffli becomes the property of the Tigers. Wuffli will report at any time the Detroit management may set. He has had a successful season, and is hitting around the .300 mark. It is understood that the Chicago Nationals made a big offer for him, but were outbid. Wuffli is but 19 years of age, and hails from Cleveland, where he played semi-professional ball until this year.

If Kalamzoo with Valliere and Graham gone, can claim the South Michigan pennant, every manager in the league will be willing to doff his hat to Wagner and his men. The loss of Valliere means the loss of the team's best and most consistently winning pitcher. Graham's hitting and backstopping has also been a big factor in the race. Kazoo will secure pitchers with good Central league reputations and while "Heavy" Mier isn't as valuable a catcher as Graham, he isn't a poor receiver. Adrian may dispose of both Ball and Fullertan today and then again perhaps they may not. If not, both the Tots and Senators will finish the season with their original line ups intact.—Detroit Journal.

THE TOLEDO CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC

In another colum will be found an advertisment of the Toledo Conservatory of Music. The Toledo Conservatory is one of the largest schools of music in the country and offers advantages for the study of music which our readers will be quick to recognize. The advantage of study in a large city school is far greater than that offered by the musical department in the average college from the fact that the entire interests of the school are devoted to music exclusively, while in many colleges music is of bus secondary importance.

The Toledo Conservatory of Music has been established for ten years and has an enrolment of over five hundred students. A large dormitory for young ladies is maintained in connection with the school and the faculty s composed of some of the distinguished instructors in the country.

The announcement is another column of the free scholarship contest is a part of the policy of the school to place these advantages before talented and worthy stunents and assist them in securing a musical education.

The September Everybody's.

The September Everybody's Magazine is note-worthy beyond even its own standard of excellence, in that it contains the initial instalment of a new series of articles by Lincoln Steffens. Indeed, in many ways the series may be characterized as the most important that Mr Steffens himself has ever undertaken, and for the author of "The Shame of the Cities" and "The Struggle for Self-Government," this is saying a good deal. The serie carries the novel title "It—An Exposition of the Sovereign Politica Power of Organized Business."

Eight stories make up the fiction of the number, including two "Little Stories of Real Life," and the concluding instalment of a "Successful Wife," the anonymous serial that has been so widely discussed. "Law and Order" is a Texas and New York story by O. Henry, one of the last from the hand of that brilliant writer. "The Man Who Ran Away from New York" is a love story by Walter Prichard Eaton "The Water Mark" is one of Harry Allyn's humorous stories of Spanish America. "The Comer" is a political story by Arthur Train, and "The Life Tale of Pearl McCoy," by Henry B. Fuller, is a [illegible] character study certain phases of [illegible] life.

Civic Improvement.

The Civic and Town Improvement Society will hold their first regular meeting of the year at the home of Mrs. F. B. Wood, the first Friday in September at 3 p. m.

This organization is for the uplift and improvement of Tecumseh, and every woman in the village and surrounding country, who is in any way interested in this work is eligible and asked to become a member. The dues are twenty-five cents a year. We propose to make this meeting a rally and all who will join come to Mrs. Wood's on the afternoon of September 2. There will be an interesting program followed by a pot-luck picnic on the lawn.

The committee of the Civic and Town Improvement Society, who gave out the flower and vegetable seeds in the spring, would like the names of the children who have had any success with them, left with Mrs. J. D. Shull. This will assist the committee in distributing the cash prizes a little later in the season.

The Ann Arbor railroad is again having troubles of its own from the professional thieves, that seems to thrive by looting other people's property, Thursday last several boxes of shoes were discovered near the Ann Arbor tracks, that had been thrown from the train near the Canning factory. The officers were notified and the booty was traced to the "clearing house" in a nearby woods. Detectives were soon on the scent but no arrests have yet been made. This band of crooks seems to be doing business exactly similar to that so successfully run down here about a year ago. —Dundee Reporter.

SOCIAL

ANNOUNCEMENT PARTY

Given by Miss Edyth Shull In honor of Alice Combs.

A very pretty affair was the party given last Friday night at the pleasant home of Edyth Shull, when the approaching marriage of Alice Combs and John Scarlett was duly announced

A fine five course dinner, every thing in heart shape was served and the daisy idea was carried out in place cards and favors. The place cards were large daises the center being small boxes filled with rice. From the center piece long ribbons extended to each guest, which at a given signal were drawn out and were found to be hearts with the story the daisies tell of one I love, two I love etc. with twelve they marry on the heart.

12 young ladies participated in the festivities which were prolonged to a late hour, music and merry laughter with many a prediction as to who would be the next to leave the charmed circle of happy girlhood.

HOSIERY SHOWER

A very pleasant evening was that of last Thursday by the girl friends of Eolah Brown, at the home of Miss Edyth Shull. the occasion being a hosiery shower. A large real stocking was hung from the wall, a-la Christmas time and its huge proportions pointed to a goodly supply of something.

On its being presented to the bride to be it was found to contain hosiery enough to last a year. and then some. Silk and lisle and cotton and styles made up the assortment, social chat and games with dainty refreshments filled the passing hours and a merry time was enjoyed by all.

As the auspicious day draws near, each one is lead to feel, how dear the memory of these happy occasions will be in the years to come.

Winter Suitings

An elegant line of winter suiting's at $23.50 and $25,00, look them over; They wont last long, They are in the newest shades. Novelties in overcoatings, $21.00, $21.50. and $22.00 Trousers $4.85 and up, they are in our show window. Have one laid aside for cold weather. J. M. JONES & SON.

OUR NEW LIBRARIAN

As was inevitable when the time came for the giving up of public work. When the grim hand of disease was laid upon our faithfu Librarian Mrs. Huey. A change has been found necessary, and a new librarian installed in the place made vacant. At a meeting of the board last Saturday evening the subject of selecting and appointing a suitable person. was dully discussed. There were several applicants for the position and it was a delicate subject to handle, but after due deliberation it was decided to give the place to Miss Alice L. Satterthwaite, as one who was finely fitted for the work. Of course it will entail some preparatory work, before everything can be made to run smoothly but we feel that the young lady will exert herself the utmost to please her patrons. We congratulate Miss Satterthwaite on her new position, and the public also that they have so good a representative.

Oliver Plows

Yes; we are talking Oliver plows again and we like to for we have something good to talk about. If you have a good horse you tell about it. We have a superior plow and we tell about it. Light draft, easy to run, simple, well made, turns a good clean furrow and a wide one and last, but not least, it will stay in the ground and that is a lot more than can be said of several other sulky plows we might name.

THE BEST MADE

we say and we stand ready to prove it. Our sales show it, 35 Sulky plows in a little over a year and we will sell 15 more this fall. We are selling every day, in fact almost faster than we can get them here. We had to telegraph for 4 to fill orders last week. Ask your neighbor who has tried some other make and then had to come and buy an Oliver.

Instead of having "speeches" by the children in the schools every Friday why wouldn't it be a good thing, instead, to invite doctors to give the children health hints? People know very little about themselves: When an automobile owner hears a queer sound he takes his machine to a garage, and has it looked over. Thousands of cases of sickness might be avoided if people knew more about themselves

A negro woman laughed so heartily at a play in New Orleans that she died. It would not, of course, be fair to the managers of this extremely funny play to give its name.

An American firm has established a large fig packing house at Nagli, the chief producing center of Asia Minor. The figs are moistened with sea water just before they are packed and are said to ship in excellent shape. Heretofore the crop has been transported to Smyrna for final drying and packing and has averaged about 110,000 camel loads a year, a camel packing 450 pounds.

Writing to the London Daily Mail, a correspondent who has spent several years in India says of the cure there for snake bites: "It may interest you to know that common malt vinegar—the trade article—has been used in India for some years as a certain cure for snake bite. The bite of the cobra is cured by, in and in every village all over the country the head man is now supplied with a bottle of it by the government. The method of application is to make a cut between the wound and the heart, about one inch long and one-fourth of an inch deep, close to the bite, and to rub the vinegar into it with a sponge or piece of cotton rag."

Women like to receive love letters because they may be able to produce them some time and make trouble.

It takes men two generations to get used to riches, but a woman will look as though she were born rich before she has had her good luck a week.

"You haven't enough patience with the children," every wife tells her husband twice a day. "And you," he retorts, "have too much for their good."

It is pretty in the books for a man to say his wife is as high as his heart, but when in real life she is as high as his pocket book it means the same thing.

A woman with her first baby may suggest a girl with a doll, but there isn't so much resemblance to pastime when the second, third and fourth arrive.

You would be surprised and feel a trifle hopeless, if you realize how many married men, who have large families are groping through Lonesome Land.

The miser who has money to burn ought to take it with him when he dies.

There wouldn't be enough worms to go round if all the birds were early.

Matrimony is catching—as many an ex-bachelor has discovered to his sorrow.

A woman says that parting may be sweet sorrow if the alimony is satisfactory.

It is said that a king can do no wrong, but lots of kings never seem to tire of making an effort.

Beware of the stranger who displays a friendly interest in you; the chances are he has an ax to grind.

A girl seldom refuses a man unless she is reasonably sure he will propose again.

All men are born free and equal, but women are only born equally free.

The energy that some people expend in trying to create the impression that they are successful is sufficient, if properly directed, to really make them what they desire to appear to be.

Free Remedy For Weak Bowels

There are two forms of bodily cleanliness, the external and the internal. The one is for your pride in yourself; the other for your life and health. Both are important, but of vastly more importance in the long run is the internal cleanliness.

This is one point that all should watch about their body—the cleanliness of the bowels. Keep them clean and free from obstructions. To do this you must have one or two movements of the bowels each twenty-four hours. If your system does not do this naturally, in the process of eating and drinking, then you must obtain aid of some kind. After finding out that cathartics, salts and such things relieve you for a day, but bind you up worse than ever the next day, then try a simpler and more natural remedy like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

For the skeptical the best way to begin is to send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell for a free sample bottle. Use it as directed and if it convinces you that a brief continuance of its use will relieve you permanently—that it will train the stomach and bowel muscles to again work naturally a certain hour—then buy it of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as so many others are doing. They began with a sample bottle, then bought a fifty cent bottle, and now, fully convinced of its merits, they buy the one dollar family size. All the members of the family can use it down to the very youngest.

A brief use of this grand laxative tonic will cure constipation in its worst form, indigestion, liver trouble, sick headache, sour stomach and such ailments and keep you in continuous good health at a very small cost. Such is the experience of many families like that of Mrs. Oscar Fleener, Unionville, Ind., J. F. Daniel, Saron, Tex., and hundreds of others that could be named.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

The municipality of Paris has made an attempt to grapple with the problem of traffic congestion. Owing to the difficulty of crossing roads, due to the constant stream of motors, underground passages for pedestrians are to be built at various points beneath the Champs Elysees. If the Champs Elysees tunnels prove a success others will be built in the center of Paris, and foot passengers will in future cross not over streets, but under them. The scheme of inclined planes for perambulators, has been abandoned on the ground of cost, and only staircases will be provided.

What is regarded as the most ancient coin in the world is one that was discovered a few years ago by a German archeologist during his explorations in north Syria. It is a coin of pure silver, bearing a perfect Aramean inscription of Panammu Bar Rerub, king of Schamol, who reigned 800 years B. C. Up to the time this coin was found the Lydians had always been regarded as the inventors of money but this new find showed that the Semitic Arameans, who lived two centuries before the Lydians, are the Semitis Arameans, who lived two centuries before the Lydians, are the oldest known coiners of money.

A novel proposal made by a woman in spector has come under the consideration of the Rumford school shall become their own dresmakers. Needlework in elementary schools is at present confined to odd pieces of miscellaneous cloth obtained at trifling cost. The inspectors propose that the girls should be taught to mend clothes and to make complete garments suitable for their own wear. The idea is regarded as excellent; bnt the provision of material to make complete dresses would involve considerable expenditure. The view of th managrs is that it would amount to giving th children free clothes, and this principle they are not prepared to adopt. It is probable a way out of the di culty would be found if the parents qrovided the material.—London Standard.

One of the biggest blasting jobs on record has just been successfuly carried out to get rock for the Morena dam in southern California. A tunnel 125 feet long was driven into the face of the granite and 38,950 pounds of dynamite and gunpowder packed into it. The subsequent explosion dislodged 120,000 cubic yards of rock.

WIDESPREAD INTEREST IN FAIR AUTO SHOW

IMMENSE BUILDING CROWDED WITH NEW MODELS OF ALL LINES.

RURAL VISITORS RECOGNIZED AS LARGEST BUYERS OF MOTOR CARS.

Of all the big exhibitions to be seen at the Michigan State Fair this year perhaps the most educational and the one which will strike popular approval hardest will be the immense automobile show to be held in the new automobile building of nearly 70,000 square feet.

Automobile manufacturers, when automobile shows first came into vogue, had it in mind to make them instructive, but in order to accomplish this they had to have an intelligent and widespread interest on the part of the public. It took years and years of hard work to arouse the interest to its present pitch, but now nearly everyone, and surely everyone who will attend the fair, is interested in automobiles.

Among the farmers and residents of small towns and villages the automobile dealers and agents find their readiest market. Perhaps it is because of the worth of the automobile as a time and money saver or its use as a recreative agent that the motor car is so popular among the people outside of the large cities. Whatever the cause, the motor car is today in the front ranks of modern institutions in the public favor, and hence the State Fair management deemed it time to recognize the demand for an immense automobile show in Michigan. They recognized it by voting $40,000 for the new automobile building, and the forthcoming motor show bids fair to surpass the expectations of even the most sanguine among the fair managers.

Everything worthy of interest in the motor world will be on display, and visitors will find things arranged in the most convenient form to permit of their imbibing the information—the "dope"—on the new 1911 models. Cars of all prices, all styles, all makes will be seen. The best salesmen at the command of the factories and agencies will be on hand to answer questions. Interesting displays, polished and stripped chassis in full operation, showing the "inards" of the cars, will be on every hand; new appliances for the comfort, convenience and increased safety of motorists will be shown, and, in fact, those hungering for motor information can satisfy their every want at the State Fair show.

Coming as it does, the very first of the big motor shows of the country, affording ample space and excellent appointments for the display of the motor world's latest efforts, the show will without a doubt take its place among the foremost exhibitions in the motor world for the season of 1911.

Farmers nowadays take as much interest in motor cars, their principles of construction, their adaptability to their needs, as they used to center in the newest implements and machinery, the prize winning cattle and other things so close to the hearts of the agriculturist. Money is plentiful with the farmers these days, and, knowing all these things, the automobile makers and their dealers are making extensive preparations for the coming State Fair show. It is no longer an experiment—the modern motor show at the big state fairs—but a necessity, to answer the demand among the farmers for all the latest information concerning this most modern industry.

Michigan, as the foremost motor producing state in the Union, will demand, and will have, a motor show that will be a marvel of completeness.

GLASSBLOWERS UNIQUE FEATURE OF STATE FAIR

Entertainment Extraordinary Promised by John's Glassblowers.

One of the most unique exhibits to be seen at the big Michigan State Fair, which opens Sept. 19 for a week, is the performance given by John's Glassblowers, a company of trained artisans from Toronto, who show to what lengths human skill can be developed in manipulating liquid glass.

This act is considered one of the greatest in the country and is seldom seen outside of Toronto. In fact, it is appearing at but two fairs this year, Toronto and Michigan. The art of glassblowing is little understood, and it is safe to say that to a large percentage of people visiting the Fair glassblowing is an absolute novelty.

During the exhibition all sorts of articles are made by the glassblowers. Wierd forms handled skillfully in the quick hands of the performers, asume shapes unthought of. Myriads of colors play through the molten glass until suddenly, with a final touch, the completed article is held before the eyes of the audience.

EVERY COMFORT FOR STATE FAIR CROWDS

Management Arranging to Care For Biggest Throngs In History.

The State Fair management in preparing for the big exhibition to be seen at Detroit, Sept. 19th-24th, will take unusual care to provide comfortable seats and resting places for big crowds of State Fair visitors. This feature is often neglected by the managements of big fairs, but the Michigan managers will see to it that every possible comfort and convenience is provided for State Fair visitors.

In fact, all the plans of the State Fair managers this year include arrangements to handle and care for immense crowds. This policy has been adopted because of the unusual strength of the attractions to be offered. Increased railroad facilities, improved coin-counting machines at all of the entrances, liberal provision for policing the grounds, well-kept roads carefully sprinkled, well-kept lawns, hedges and shrubbery and other thoughtful provisions will insure the utmost comfort for State Fair visitors. Record-breaking crowds are expected, and everything will be in readiness when the gates swing open Sept. 19th to accomomdate thousands of people from Michigan and surrounding states and present to them the biggest and best State Fair ever held in Michigan.

TO DIVE FOR SHIP SANK FORTY YEARS AGO

Captain Sorenson Ready to Start For General Grant, Wrecked Off Island of Auckland.

Captain Nelis Peter Sorenson, of the United States and the whole wide world, believes that he has Robert Louis Stevenson's Treasure Island beaten to death.

He claims to know where $20,000,000 in gold bullion lies buried at the bottom of the ocean just where he can get at it, and shows documets to prove the existence of the wreck laden with gold, tallow and wool, just where it has lain for forty-two years.

Captain Sorenson has organized an expedition to go after the buried gold, and has given himself just 18 months to return a rich man. He has devised a clever scheme to circumvent old ocean, to defy swirling tides and smashing waves, and he has made capitalists believe in the feasibility of his scheme.

The captain is square set, hardy and florid, a Dane by birth. He arrived in New York City from his latest wanderings about 20 months ago. For 30 years he has been planning another assault upon the treasures that lies 14 fathoms deep in the bowels of the hulk. Twice he has met defeat in the project. Briefly told, the captain's story of the hidden treasure, as related in the American office, runs like this:

"May 13, 1866, the American clipper ship General Grant, was wrecked on the west coast of the Island of Auckland, an inhospitable bluff 20 miles long, 160 miles from the southernmost land of New Zealand. The General Grant was one of the four clippers owned in Boston, which were chartered by a London firm of shipping merchants to put on a packet line between Melbourne and London.

"The first vessel to sail with treasure was the General Grant. Her sister ship, the General Scott, followed her. The General Grant had aboard £3,000,000 sterling in gold bullion, shipped by the banks, and another million pounds in value of gold bars, in boxes, which 150 returning miners were taking back home with them. It took 15 days to load the gold aboard the vessel at Melbourne, and the treasure was locked into a strong compartment under the captain's cabin.

"The General Grant sailed from Melbourne May 3, 1866, and was next reported missing by the Victoria papers. In 1868 newspaper accounts of the wreck were published in America, including this statement:

"On November 21, last, the ten survivors, after eighteen months' hardship and privation on the island, were picked up by the whaling brig Amherst, Captain Gilroy, and taken to Bluff Harbor, New Zealand. The cave into which the General Grant was thrown is twenty-five fathoms deep, and 250 yards long, and the masts just reached to the top. The captain and 168 perished.

"Several of the passengers did escape," continued Captain Sorenson. "One of them, Fritz William Albert, a German, worked for me on my oyster dredger in New Zealand in 1878 or 1879. He also told me the story of the wreck. For forty-two years all that gold has lain there. I have not seen the wreck for thirty years about. But she still lies there, as sound as the day she went down.

"Now we are going to get that gold. The New Zealand government makes no claim to it. I have arranged for a concession permitting me to land a crew on the island. I shall doubtless find the hulk sound and strong. I shall have to blow out the side. To do this I will prepare a canvas hose, six inches in diameter, with loops along the side, and will fill this with dynamite.

"When I go down after the flash I will find a hole knocked in the side of the hulk just under the captain's cabin, and $20,000,000 in gold bullion will be awaiting me. The gold is all packed in cases, each case valued at $5,000. The treasure can't sink in the mud for it is hard sand and rock bottom. I have but to fasten the boxes to cables and have them hauled up.

"The expedition will start from San Francisco, in one of the Spreckles vessels, for New Zealand. We shall outfit the expedition in Dunedin, in the south of New Zealand, and sail for the Aucklands in a chartered schooner."

Captain Sorenson has served in the United States navy. It was he who dived to the wreck of the ill-fated Pacific Mail steamer, Rio Janerio, which sank in the Golden Gate, costing the lives of many passengers, including United States Consul Wildman, his wife and daughter.

"Dogs," remarked a man who travels a good deal on suburban railroads, "have a pretty easy time in New York, but I never saw anything to equal the soft trip a collie made the other day from East Hampton. A woman came aboard the train leading him on a chain and settled him in the seat in front of her in the parlor car. When the conductor came along he punched two tickets, one for the woman and the other for the dog, and the woman paid the double price.—New York Sun.

STARTS SHERMAN WAR

Roosevelt's Indorsement of Davenport Stirs Politics.

Utica, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Theodore Roosevelt spent the day with his brother-in-law, Douglas Robinson, at the latter's country estate near Jordanville. Mrs. Rosevelt and their son, Quentin, were with him.

Politics formed a fruitful subject of conversation between Colonel Roosevelt and his brother-in-law. Roosevelt is deeply interested in obtaining for State Senator F. M. Davenport, Republican insurgent leader of Oneida county, a re-nomination.

Vice President Sherman and his friends have been dominant in politics here and active warfare is considered imminent between Roosevelt and the Sherman followers.

Colonel Roosevelt, in an address before a large rural audience here dealt a blow to the vice president when he indorsed State Senator Davenport, a bitter foe of Sherman, a Hughes man and a supporter of direct primaries. The fact that the address was in the vice president's home town made it doubly interesting.

Norway's Love For Bjornson.

What Bjornson was to his own people is best made clear by an incident which occurred at his beloved Aulestad not long before he was forced to start on his final journey to Paris in search of another lease of health and life. A regiment passed the place in the course of a maneuver. Its commander sent word ahead to the poet asking him to review the soldiers as they marched by. Bjornson stood on the veranda of his house, surrounded by his entire family—a man who had never held any public office, mind you! As the troop approached on the highroad below officers and men gave the salute due to a commanding general or a member of the royal house. But this was not all. From the rapidly moving ranks rose one mighty shout after another—a spontaneous outburst of devotion and gratitude such as it has been granted very few men the fortune to inspire.—Edward Bjorkman in American Review of Reviews.

Figures of Speech.

A well known ventriloquist who had consented to give a performance in aid of charity heard that certain members of his prospective audience were determined to watch the movements of his mouth with the closest scrutiny with a view of confounding him. The night came, the attendants carried in three dummies on chairs, and the artist made his appearance. His performance was unusually successful, the muscles of his face giving no evidence of his art. The changes of voice were marvelous, and the astonished crowd at the close of the exhibition gave him a rousing cheer. Again and again they called him back, and he expressed his pleasure by innumerable bows. At last the cheering ceased, and he was permitted to retire. Scarcely had he done so when the three "lay" figures got up from their chairs and walked off the stage. The ventriloquist had employed three friends to impersonate his usual mechanical figures.

Alkarazza.

Alkarazza is the name given to vessels of very porous earthenware which when filled with water are always moist outside and owing to the evaporation of the water on their surface always keep their contents cool. Alkarazza can be made from any good potter's clay by mixing with it 10 per cent of its weight, dry, of very fine sawdust and then working it. On burning the sawdust is destroyed and the clay thereby left porous.

AUTO CRASH HURTS FIVE

Machine Plunges Over Embankment at Sedgwicks Rocks.

J. M. Worth, Driving, Lost Control of Auto Going Down Incline and It Goes Into Elkhorn Creek.

Richmond, Ind., 25.—As a result of a fast speeding automobile plunging over an embankment near Sedgwicks Rocks, four miles south of Richmond, five persons were injured; one perhaps fatally.

The injured: I. M. Worth, manager of the local branch of the International Harvester company, bruised and leg sprained. Mrs. I. M. Worth, chest crushed, three ribs broken and right lung punctured by splintered ribs; may die. Perry B. Becker, salesman for the International Harvester company, ankle fractured, and body bruised. Mrs. Perry Becker, scalp wounds and cuts and bruises; will recover. Robert Becker, age, 7, scalp wounds.

Worth, who was driving, lost control of the machine as it was running down the steep incline and the car plunged through a fence and went down the embankment twelve feet into Elkhorn Creek. The auto turned over complete.

BABY BORN WEIGHS 28 OUNCES

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Payne Gains 1 Ounce in 3 Weeks.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 25.—Dr. W. J. G. Salmon of Old Forge, near here, announced that a girl baby weighing only one pound and twelve ounces had been born three weeks ago to Mr. and Mrs. James Payne, of Moosic. When he again weighed the tiny mite of humanity on Wednesday it had gained only one ounce, weighing now just 29 ounces.

He says the baby is well and perfectly formed and smaller than the child born recently to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burpee, of East Templeton, Mass., which weighed one pound and fifteen ounces.

PRESENT SONDER BOAT CUP

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 25.—President Taft presented the Taft cup to Charles Francis Adams, second winner of the Sonder boat races between the Spaniards and Americans held off Marblehead last week.

The president and the Spanish minister made brief speeches, and the president proposed a toast to the king of Spain. It was drunk in champagne while all present stood. The president's health was also drunk in turn. Many notables were present at the ceremony.

BOY INJURED BY TOY WAGON

Tongue Inflicts Wound In Fall That May Prove Fatal.

Princeton, Ind., Aug. 25.—Edgar Amos, 7 years old, fell over a little wagon while at play and the tongue gouged nearly all the flesh from his abdomen, an injury that may result fatally.

Ray Newcomb, 12 years old, underwent an operation here for the removal of his left eye. A companion threw a stick and the sharp end pierced the boy's eye.

SHOT BY HIS JEALOUS RIVAL

Nashville, Ind., Aug. 25.—While returning from church with his sweetheart, Ralph Yoder was fired at by Marshall Moore as he passed the latter's home west of town, the bullet striking Yoder in the right leg.

Moore was recently released from a reformatory, where he served a term for the theft of a revolver from a store in Mc Lean, Ill.

Tried to Fly.

John Milton in "Britain to the Conquest" says that the youth King Harold, last of the Saxons, strangely aspiring, had made and fitted wings to his hands and feet. With these, on the top of a tower, spread out to gather the air, he flew more than a furlong; but, the wind being too high, he came fluttering to the ground, maiming all his limbs, yet so conceited was he of his art that the cause of his fall was attributed to the want of a tail, as birds have, which he forgot to make.

Quickly Subdued.

Von Blumer (roaring with rage)—Who told you to put paper on the wall? Decorator—Your wife, sir. Von Blumer—Pretty, isn't it?

FIRES 2,000,000 SHOTS HOUR

Court Action Discloses Plan to Dispose of Implement of War to the United States Government for Sum of $25,000,000

New York, Aug. 25.—Through a suit before Supreme Court Justice Brady in which John Hays Hammond and his son, Harris, are defendants, it came out that the Hammonds are associated with Henry Clay Russell Wade, who has been in Sing Sing, in the promotion of an automobile machine gune, and letters written by Wade in the sale of stock have stated that through Mr. Hammond's friendship for President Taft, the promoters expect to sell the gun to the United States government for at least $25,000,000. The letter does not name Mr. Hammond, but refers to him as a man "very wealthy, of very high standing, and closely associated with Preisdent Taft" and states that he had purchased all the treasury stock.

It was learned that Mr. Hammond and his son paid $40,000 in cash for all the $75,000 treasury stock and $25,000 more that Mr. Wade and one of his associates turned over. The other associate is Arthur M. Rose, formerly a Pittsburg promoter, who was let into the company by Wade because he claimed to be able to interest Mr. Hammond.

The suit before the court was brought by William B. Rose, Arthur's brother, to recover $8,000 from Wade, the Hammonds and Arthur Rose. In his complaint, filed by his lawyers, Rose declares that the Auto-Machine Gun company was incorporated in Delaware to exploit the "auto-machine gun," which is declared to be noiseless and smokeless, and capable of firing 2,000,000 bullets an hour. He cotracted with Wade to sell 1,500 shares of stock and Wade had agreed to let any of his prospective customers see a demonstration of the gun. Rose says he had interested a number of persons who said they would buy if the demonstration was satisfactory, and they were invited to witness a demonstration June 29 last in the company's plant at Stapleton, Staten Island. Rose says that a short time before the demonstration was to be held Wade countermanded it because he had heard that Rose had invited reporters, and Mr. Hammond objected to publicity at that time because he was afraid it would interfere with his negotiations later to sell the gun to the government. By calling off the demonstration Rose says Wade prevented the sale of the stock and caused him to lose $8,000 in profits on the stock.

The auto-machine gun is the invention of one Bangerter, who was superintendent of the water meter plant owned by William H. Marsh in Brooklyn. For several years Bangerter was working on the invention and Mr. Marsh was backing it. In May, 1908, Mr. Marsh was bitten by a pet bull dog and died of hydrophobia. Bangerter then looked around for some one to aid him to develop the gun and he ran across Wade, who took it up.

The capital stock of the company has a par value of $10, but in May last it was being sold in Wall street for as high as $30 a share. One man who was selling it had copies of a letter from Wade which was useful, when the agent was letting any one in on the ground floor. The letter said in part:

"We have an offer of $5,000,000 from an English syndicate for the exclusive right of the world, also $6,000,000 from the Abyssinian government and $8,000,000 by parties representing Russia. These offers in no way entice us, because we are perfectly satisfied we will get at least $20,000,000 to $25,000,000 from this government."

The Rose suit was before Justice Brady on a demurrer by the defendant Rose to the complaint, on the ground that he was in no way responsible for the alleged damage to his brother. The court sustained his demurrer.

RAIN AND SNOW FALL STOP FIRES

Situation at Some Points Still Regarded as Threatening.

FLATHEAD COUNTRY DRENCHED

Unless Severe Winds Prevail It Is Thought Forest Fires Will Soon Be Brought Under Control of the Fire Fighters.

Helena Mont., Aug. 25.—The forest fire situation is greatly clarified, for which nature is responsible in that light rain and snow falls have dampened the timber and thus permitted the fighters to backfire successfully. The winds have also moderated in marked degree and it is now apparently certain that the fires will be confined to the areas already burned over.

Gov. Norris has ordered that the Helena and Bute companies of the national guard be held in readiness to fight the fires in company with other similar bodies already in the field, but he expressed the belief, based upon direct reports to him from every section of the state that this would not be necessary. In only one district does the situation appear really threatening, and that is at Thompson Falls and points west along the Clarks Fork valley. This is due to the close proximity of the towns to the great forests of western Montana. Unless severe winds should fan the embers, it is thought they will escape further damage. Snow fell two inches deep in the Gallatin forest today and quenched the fires that were rapidly moving toward the Yellowstone Park, while a steady downpour of rain has saved the situation in the Flathead country.

BOYD FOREST FIRE VICTIM

Fire Chief of Wallace, Ida., Loses Life When He Returns for Parrot.

Middletown, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Word has been received here that J. D. Boyd, a son of Dr. and Mrs. John C. Boyd, of Monroe, Orange county, had been burned to death in the partial destruction of the city of Wallace, Ida., on Monday.

Mr. Boyd worked for the Northern Pacific railroad at Wallace and was fire chief of the city. He was burned to death in his home, to which he had returned in an effort to rescue a pet parrot.

Greenfield, Ind., Aug. 25.—Earl Barrett, 20 years old, an employe of the Morrison Telephone company, fell from the top of a telephone pole while at work and was perhaps fatally injured.

He sustained a large gash in the back of his head and was badly cut and bruised. His chances for recovery are slight.

BLAST WRECKS CHURCH

First Congregational In Chicago Badly Damaged.

Fire Follows Mysterious Explosion and the First Floor of Structure Is Destroyed.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—A fire of mysterious origin, which was preceded by a violent explosion, partly wrecked the First Congregational church, Washington boulevard and Ann street, and for a time threatened to destroy the structure. The building cost $150,000 and the loss is estimated at $25,000.

The flames destroyed the first floor, occupied by the Sunday school rooms, burned through the ceiling into the auditorium of the church and set fire to the pews. Stained and leaded glass windows valued at thousands of dollars were ruined.

After a hard fight the firemen prevented the flames from reaching the expensive organ. The pulpit and pastor's study were saved. Rev. W. A. Bartlett, the pastor, is on a vacation at Old Orchard, Me.

MY POLICIES MUST BE INDORSED-T. R.

This, In Effect, Is Col. Roosevelt's Answer to Barnes.

CONVENTION FIGHT SEEMS SURE

Colonel Says He Hopes There Will Be Enough Good Sense to Prevent Any One Opposing Principles for Which He Stands.

New York, Aug. 25.—Former President Roosevelt was quoted as saying in Herkimer that he had read in the newspapers the statement made by William Barnes, Jr. In that statement Barnes had left no doubt that he would continue to fight Col. Roosevelt.

"Well then," said the colonel when questioned about the statement, "they will have the fight they want. I am only going to that convention because I feel that the public interest—the interest of the people of the state—demands that the Republican party be given a chance to stand squarely and uncompromisingly for clean, decent, honest politics.

"I go to that convention to make my speech exactly as I had originally planned it, and while I hope there will be enough good sense to prevent any one opposing the principles for which I stand, yet if they oppose them, it is their own affair. As far as I am concerned the issue shall be absolutely clean cut."

The fight between the old guard and the progressives of the Republican party is to be taken to the convention. It was agreed by both sides that the struggle for the control of the convention will be one of the liveliest that has happened in this state for many years past. William Barnes, Jr., admitted that he was speaking for the leaders of the regular organization that any attempt to force a direct primary plank into the platform at the Saratoga convention, and that any effort which might be made to name some one other than Vice President Sherman as temporary chairman of the convention would be fought to the last ditch by himself and associates at the head of the state machine.

"I am ready to quit as a county leader," said Mr. Barnes, "if we are beaten and if my retention of the job of surveyor of the port of Albany rests upon my supporting the direct primaries scheme, then I will be willing to give up the job without my resignation being asked for."

Mr. Barnes thinks, however, that there will be no necessity for giving up either his place on the state committee or his surveyorship for the reason that, as he contends, the primaries will show that the majority of the voters of the state are not in favor of direct primaries. It is the opinion of Mr. Barnes that the situation might be smoothed over by permitting the election of Mr. Sherman as temporary chairman and then choosing Mr. Roosevelt as the permanent chairman.

This proposition has not been submitted to Chairman Griscom of the Republican committee, but if it should be suggested to him, it will be rejected. Mr. Griscom knows that Mr. Barnes has stated that the regulars are willing to make such a compromise, but Mr. Griscom, it can be stated, will not listen to it.

BABY DIES IN BATH TUB

Two-Year-Old Brother Turned on Hot Water That Was Fatal.

Mother Busy Preparing to Entertain Party of Friends When Sad Accident Occurred.

Detroit, Aug. 25. — Robert Kiel, 1 year old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Kiel, living in the Rocko apartments, 351 Chene street, was scalded to death in the bath tub at the home of his parents. Frederick Kiel Jr., 2 years old, a brother of the dead baby, was scalded about the legs, but is not in a serious condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Kiel planned to have a party at their home and was preparing for it. She placed her two boys in the bath tub in some lukewarm water to play, before giving them a bath, as is her custom. While the boys were in the bath tub she went to the bakery to buy a cake. While she was gone, Frederick, the oldest boy, turned on the hot water faucet. In a few minutes the water in the bath tub became hot and Frederick climbed out. His brother, Robert, was too young to get out of the water and was scalded to death.

When Mrs Kiel returned home she heard Frederick crying and hurried to her apartment when Frederick led her to the bathroom. She saw her young son lying in the bath tub and when she pulled him out he was dead.

THE NATIONAL TEACHINGS OF BROOKLYN TABERNACLE BIBLE STUDIES

ISRAEL'S KING REJECTED.

Matthew 21:1-17.—August 28.

"Hosanna to the Son of David! Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord! Hosanna in the Highest!"

ALTHOUGH God foreknew and the prophets foretold that the Jewish nation would reject Jesus and not receive him as their King, nevertheless, everything was done as though the results were not foreknown and foretold. The prophecies were fulfilled. Today's study illustrates this. Jesus offered himself to Israel as their Messianic King, just five days before his crucifixion, and on the exact day upon which, as the Lamb of God, he should have been received by them, in order that they might have been "passed over" and, as a nation, become the antitypical Levites from amongst whom would have been selected the antitypical priests. Their failure to receive Jesus at the appointed time did not at all interfere with the Divine arrangments, for all of the Jews found worthy to be of the spiritual Levites and spiritual Priests were selected, although the nation was rejected. The remainder of those spiritual, antitypical Priests and Levites God has been gathering from amongst the Gentiles ever since. By and by, all these, of whom Jesus is the Chief Priest, will be glorified on the spirit plane. Then will begin the great Messianic work for Israel, and through Israel for all the nations of the world. Thus in due time Israel's expectations will be realized on a grander scale than they ever dreamed of. Abraham, Isaac and all the prophets shall be made princes or rulers in all the earth. Israel restored to Divine favor shall "obtain mercy" of God through the glorified Church, and shall become the channel of God's favor for pouring out upon mankind riches of grace.

The Sabbath day prior to his crucifixion was spent by the Great Teacher at the home of Lazarus and Martha and Mary. His fame had spread by reason of the miracle performed upon Lazarus. A feast was given in his honor on Sabbath night after sundown. It was then that Mary anointed him with the precious perfume which Jesus said was an anointing for his burial. The fragrance of this perfume has come down to us through the ages. The next morning, to fulfill the Scriptures, Jesus sent for the ass and its little colt to be brought. The ass was probably a white one, for it is reputed to have been the custom of the kings of Israel to ride upon white asses. The multitude who had come to see Jesus, and Lazarus whom he had brought from the tomb, filled with admiration, hailed Jesus with shouts, as "The Son of David!" The Great King! The Messiah! Certain scribes and Pharisees called attention to this and suggested that Jesus rebuke them. His answer was that, had the people refused to acclaim him, the stones would have cried out; because it had been prophesied centuries before, "Shout, O daughter of Jerusalem! Behold, thy King cometh unto thee. He is meek and having salvation; lowly, and sitting upon an ass, with its colt, the foal of an ass." The little procession headed for Jerusalem, the multitude shouting and strewing their clothing and palm branches for the ass to tread upon, as marks of honor to the great King whom they imperfectly, indistinctly, recognized—not realizing the still greater glory and honor of his later revealing in the end of this Age, when "every knee shall bow and every tongue confess to him."

Four months ago—on April 24th, we passed over the historic road from Bethlehem to Jerusalem, thinking the while of the great incident of this lesson. The road sweeps around the side of the Mount of Olives on a reasonable grade until suddenly a turn of the road and the sharp declivity of the Valley of Hinnom (Gehenna) brings Jerusalem into full view in a moment. Time and again we walked over part of the road and noted where the Master halted the little procession and wept over the City, saying, "O, Jerusalem, Jerusalem, thou that killest the prophets and stonest them which are sent unto thee, how often would I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings [for safety], and ye would not! Behold, your house is left unto you desolate. For I say unto you, Ye shall not see me henceforth, till [that day when] ye shall say, Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord."—(Matt. 23:37-39.)

Our heart went out in sympathy for the Jewish people. We recalled how they have been nationally "left desolate" for eighteen centuries, and have been persecuted, even, alas, by those who have named the name of Christ! We specially rejoiced to think that "the time of Jacob's trouble" will soon be over—that the time when they will enter into the New Covenant relationship with God will soon be at hand. (Jer. 31:31; Rom. 11:27.) We rejoiced to think that soon Immanuel in the glory of his Kingdom will be revealed, and that all flesh shall behold the glory of that Kingdom. Then the Lord will pour upon Israel the spirit of prayer and of supplication and they shall look upon him whom they pierced. (Zech. 12:10.) We rejoice to think that "that day" when they shall say, "Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord," is nigh at hand. But, we reflect, correspondingly, the time of special favor to spiritual Israel must be drawing to a close.

That spot where Jesus stopped to prophesy Israel's future was the same one over which, a little later, the army of Titus marched to the destruction of Jerusalem, and, amidst famine, finally accomplished the destruction of the city, taking, according to records, ninety-seven thousand prisoners. One million, one hundred thousand, were said to have perished through famine and war. The ground around the City of Jerusalem the Romans planted thick with crosses, on which Jews were crucified until there was room for no more, says history.

The Great Teacher's entry into Jerusalem caused considerable commotion. He went directly to the Temple and ordered from it the money-changers and dove-sellers who had no right within its hallowed precincts. Thus was fulfilled the prophecy, "The zeal of thine house has consumed me." The poor, the blind, the lame, again had his ministries. Again the chief religionists of the time were vexed and considered him an intruder upon their arrangements and were displeased with the multitude's shouting his praises as the Messiah, the Son of David. They rebuked the Teacher, who answered, Scripturally, "Out of the mouths of babes and sucklings thou hast perfected praise."—Matt. 21:16; Psalms 8:2.

Fine Art of Letter Opening.

In Russia one letter in every ten passing through the post is opened by the authorities as a matter of course. Indeed, the postal authorities of every country have experts who have raised letter opening to a fine art. Some kinds of paper can be steamed open without leaving any traces, and this simple operation is finished by burnishing the flap with a bone instrument. In the case of a seal a matrix is taken by means of new bread before breaking the wax. When other methods fail the envelope is placed between pieces of wood with edge projecting one-twentieth of an inch. The edge of the envelope is first flattened, then roughened and finally slit open. Later a hair line of strong white gum is applied and the edges united under pressure.—London Chronicle.

Senator Burrows' record in public life is such that not a flaw can be picked in it. Not only has he displayed wise judgment as a statesman, but his personal integrity and his patriotism are unquestioned. He is too big a man to be annoyed by the petty misrepresentations of muckrakers, who dwell and delve in mud like mites do in cheese, but goes on his way knowing that the good people of his state and his country are with him. Mr. Burrows, as a candidate for re-election, has shown himself to be a man of so much higher standing than his traducers in not even noticing their little gibes, that he has endeared himself to the masses, for they know and recognize his true worth. Not since the days of that great political fighter, Zach Chandler, has Michigan had a leader in the senate, although Senator McMillan's influence was very great, and Mr. Burrows as been looked up to by his brother senators for advice on all weighty matters.—Grand Rapids Daily News.

Dr. Johnson's Church.

St. Clement Danes has never forgotten the fact that Johnson worshiped within its walls. The pew in which he sat (it is in the north gallery, close to the pulpit) is marked by a brass plate which was erected by the parishioners in 1851. In December, 1884, the centenary of Dr. Johnson's death was observed by a memorial service, when a special address was delivered by the Rev. Dr. Lindsay, at that time rector of St. Clement Danes. Johnson's pew was on that occasion draped in violet. Johnson was always constant in his attendance at church on Good Friday and Easter day. On April 9, 1773, he went with Boswell. "His behavior," writes Boswell, "was, as I had imagined to myself, solemnly devout. I shall never forget the tremulous earnestness with which he pronounced the awful petition in the litany, 'In the hour of death and in the day of judgment, good Lord, deliver us!'"—London News.

Hairs Upon Horses' Lips.

The fine hairs about the mouth of the horse are organs of touch of extreme delicacy. They serve to a certain extent the same purpose as our finger ends, the whiskers of the cat or the trunk of the elephant. Sensitiveness is due to specially developed endings of nerves in the skin, which are continually sending messages to the brain. The lip hairs of the horse first receive the stimulus, which is communicated to the end organs and so passes on to the brain. They come into play when the horse samples a new article of food. He first smells it and, having so far satisfied himself, touches it delicately with those sensitive hairs. The upper lip moves softly in quick sympathy and confirms the opinion suggested by the hairs. The tongue judges finally as to the fitness of the food. When the horse wishes to drink these hairs assure him that the water is free from foreign matter on the surface, for he drinks from the surface only. They detect the smallest particle of dirt and guide him to the purest place.

The Simple Diet.

There is a certain banker and broker doing business not a hundred miles from the bank, says a London weekly, whose health for some time has not been all that he could desire. Not long ago he was complaining to his brother, when the latter after a careful survey of his brother's countenance said:

"What you need, old man, is plain country food. Come to my place in the country and we'll soon set you up. This rich food is proving too much for you. Take breakfast, for instance. All I have is two cups of coffee, a bit of steak with a baked potato, some light muffins or a stack of buttered toast, together with a bit of watercress or lettuce. What do you have?"

"A cup of hot water and two slices of dry toast," he replied soberly. "But, Jim, if you think a simple diet like yours will 'set me up,' why, I'm perfectly willing to try it."

PRIMARY ELECTION.

Primary election notice is hereby given that a general primary election will be held in the Township of Tecumseh, County of Lenawee, state of Michigan at the council building within said township, on Tuesday, Sept. 6, 1910 for the purpose of nominating by direct vote candidates by each of the several political parties for the following offices, viz.:

National—One candidate for United State Senator; one candidate for representative in Congress from the congressional district of which said voting precinct forms a part.

Legislative—One candidate for Senator in the State Legislature for the Senatorial District of which said voting precinct forms a part; one candidate for Representative in the State Legislature for the Representative district of which said voting precinct forms a part.

County—One candidate for each of the following County offices, viz.; sheriff, clerk, Treasurer, register of deeds, prosecuting attorney, surveyor drain commissioner; also two candidates for Circuit Court Commissioner and two candidates for Coroner.

There shall also be elected as many delegates to the county convention of the several political parties, as said precinct or township is entitled to under the call of the county committees of said political parties, which number will be indicated by the number of blank lines printed on the official primary ballots used at said election under the heading "Delegates to County Conventions." The board of primary election inspectors will furnish delegates with credentials, entitleing them to seats in the county conventions, except where there is more than one precinct in a township and the county committee require the election of delegates from the township as a whole, such delegates must be admitted without credentials.

Relative to enrollment. The enrollment for this election was held April 4, 1910 but any qualified elector in any election precinct in the state who failed to have his name enrolled on enrollment day by reason of sickness or unavoidable absence from the election precinct and who is a qualified elector in said precinct on primary election day, or any person who has become twenty one years of age or a qualified elector after enrollment day, may have his name enrolled by the board of primary election inspectors or any primary election day upon making oath as provided in the general election law relative to the registration of electors on election days; or any person duly enrolled in the manner provided by law, but who has changed his residence to any election precinct other than that in which he was enrolled, may be enrolled in the new election precinct and may vote therein: Provided, That he has resided in the election precinct in which he seeks to be enrolled for a period of twenty days and that he obtained from a member of the enrollment board of the election precinct in which he formerly resided, a certificate stating that he was duly enrolled in such precinct, and that he is entitled to enrollment in the new precinct. In the absence of such certificate, if he can satisfy the said enrollment board of primary election inspectors upon making oath to such facts, according to the provisions of the general election law relative to registration of electors on election day) he shall be entitled to enrollment and be permitted to vote following such enrollment.

No person can vote at any primary election whose name is not enrolled.

An enrolled voter who has changed his party affiliation can be reenrolled on enrollment day only.

The polls of said election will open at 7 o'clock in the forenoon and will remain open until 5 o'clock in the afternoon of said day of election, unless the Board of Primary Election Inspectors shall in their discretion adjourn the polls at 12 o'clock noon, for one hour.

Dated this 25th day of August, 1910.

Mrs. Robt. Stretch.

As we went to press last Tuesday the news came of the untimely death of Mrs. Stretch by the explosion of the gasoline stove. Latter reports are that she turned on the gasoline for an unused burner and the overflow ignited and the flames and fumes of the gas suffocated her at once.

And although death was instantaneous. She was not so badly burned as one would suppose, was burned around the mouth nostrils, and a little on one cheek. Mr. Stretch was in the room and picked her up instantly, but life was extinct. When the neighbors came in, in answer to his call for help, the stove was burning as usual, no explosion having taken place.

She had been in poor health for sometime, and her heart was in a very weak condition making her an easy victim. She has always been a resident of Tecumseh, and was 73 yrs. of age. She is survived by her husband, Robert Stretch and three brother's, Lorenzo and Alphonso Dewey of Tecumseh, and Dr. Degarmo of Washington, Iowa. She was a quiet and unassuming nature, but was a friend of all, and will be missed among her many friends and neighbors, as they meet day by day. The family have the sympathy of the community, in this sad calamity, that has come upon them so suddenly.

Skin Troubles on Hot Days

"Sleeping" eczema is brought to the surface.

Now several good remedies are available but nothing we think, that compares with the gentle wintergreen and thymol solution, known as D. D. D. Prescription. We have watched results with astonishment, the itch stopped, the skin cooled and refreshed the eruption washed away.

Mosquito Problem Solved.

Are the mosquitoes as bad this year as people back from their vacation say?

At any rate you would all do well to provide against the itch and poison with some cooling antiseptic.

If you want an antiseptic that soothes and cools the skin while instantly destroying the poison of the mosquito bite then get D. D. D. Prescription.

We can give you a compact, neat package to have handy for 25 cents.

Forget your prejudice for just one baking

Lay aside your favorite baking powder for just once. Forget for a day that it is "the kind mother used." Dispense with the idea that there is "nothing else just as good." It may have served you admirably for years. But just remember, other things have improved since grandmother's time. So why not baking powder?

Get from your grocer today a can of Calumet Baking Powder. Bake a batch of biscuits, a cake or your favorite pastry. If the baking does not come out just as good, or better, than usual. If it is not as light, sweet and delicious. If it does not prove up to your high standard in every respect, providing of course you have in every other way exercised your usual methods, take the can of Calumet back to the grocer and get your money. This is our first step in making friends for Calumet. The continued good results, the purity, the economy in both cost and use will hold them.

BEAUTIFUL MIDSUMMER WEDDING

EOLAH BROWN AND WARREN BATES CONTRACTING PARTIES

At Home of Bride's Parents
E. O. Brown and Wife
August 24 at 6 o'clock p. m.

One of the prettiest weddings of the season was that of Miss Eolah Brown to Mr. Warren J. Bates of Bergland, at the pleasant home of her parents, E. D. Brown and wife Wednesday evening of this week.

The color scheme for the decoration throughout the house was yellow and green. Golden rod and golden glow being used in profusion.

The bride wore a dress of white embroidery, with a veil trimmed with old point lace, wore by her grandmother. She carried a white prayer book, and shower boquet of lillies of the valley. The groom wore the conventional black. The bride was attended by Miss Maude Saul as bridesmaid, who wore a yellow gown trimed in white. and carried white roses. Ralph Pino of Ithica, acted as best man.

Wee Alice Parr of St John, was ring bearer, which she carried in a fancy basket, with yellow and green decorations and a large knot, of white tulle.

The ceremony was proceeded by a short musical program arranged by Mrs. F. B. Wood who presided at the piano Mrs. F. B. Wood and Miss Edyth Shull played an instrumental duet, "The Norwegian Bridal Procession" followed by Bonnie Brown sister of the bride, who sang "Oh Promise Me" and "I Promise Thee" in a very sweet manner. She was accompanied by Mrs. Wood on the piano

At a given signal, Mrs. F. B. Wood played Lohngrins Bridal march, and the bridal party entered through a passage made by four little girls bearing white ribbons.

The bride was attended father, who later gave her away. They were met at the alter by the Rev. C. C. Kemp, who pronounced the words that made them man and wife.

After Congratulations a fine supper was served to about 110 guests.

The host of beautiful presents in silver, cut glass, linen etc., attested to the high esteem in which the bride was held,

The out of town guests were Mrs. Loyd Webb of Owosso, Ralph Pino of Ithica, Mr. Ward, wife and two children, Mrs. John Parr and baby, O. D. Castiline and wife all of St John, Mr. and Mrs. Castiline and Merdo Bancroft and wife, Floyd Anderson and wife of Maple Rapids, Mrs. Geo. C. Douglas, Misses Jessie and Audria Bates of Detroit sisters of the groom, Mrs. Ed. Macham of Elsie, Mr. Tune Dickinson and mother, Mrs. Eulis Dickinson of Adrian, Bessie Tuller of Marshall, Celeste, Marie and Lucile Miller of Ft. Wayne, Ind.

A. VanWinkle and wife and Mrs. Earnest Pangborn attended the funeral of Mrs. Edith Kirk-Yake in Clinton Wednesday.

KINCAID CASE

Three Rivers, Mich., August 24—Geo. H. Arnold, attorney in the Kincaid case, returned last evening from Chicago, bringing with him all of the missing bonds, amounting to $7,480. He also holds a stipulation signed by all the attorneys in the case consenting to the entry of a decree turning the insurance money, amounting to $5,360, over to the administrator of the estate, making the total recovery $13,200, being all the proerty that was known to have been lost.

The $50,000 damage suit brougnt againrt George T. Wolf, administrator, and Attorney Arnold by Nellie Brott was also formally dismissed, and all civil matters relative to the estate were thus closed.

The case of criminal action is now up in the Chicago police department against Dr. O. Thompson, Nellie Brott and Sculley.

Accidents will happen, but the best regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for such emergencies It subdues the pain and heals the hurts.

CATARRH CAN QUICKLY BE CURED

A bottle of Hyomei, a hard rubber pocket inhaler that will last a life time and simple instructions for curing catarrh make a Hyomei outfit.

Into the inhaler you pour a few drops of magical Hyomei (pronounce it High-o-me).

This is obsorbed by the antiseptic gauze within and now you are ready to breath it over the germ infested membrane where it will speedily begin its work of killing catarrh germs. Hyomei is made of Austrian eucalyptol combined with other antiseytics and is very pleasant to breathe.

It is guaranteed to cure catarrh, bronchitis, sore throat, croup, coughs and colds or money back. It cleans out a stuffed up head in a few mintes.

Sold by druggists everywhere and by C. A. Wright & Son, Tecumseh. Complete outfit $1.00. And remember that extra bottles if afterwards needed cost only 50 cents. Breathe it that's all.

To break up a cold in head or chest in a few minutes pour a teaspoonful of Hyomei into a bowl of boiling water, cover head and bowl with towel and breathe the vapor.

Anthony Fence

has no superior. Those who have put up Anthony lately will tell you so, the same as we do. When the American Steel & Wire Co. wanted the Best Hard Wire Fence made they bought out the Anthony, because of its reputation. The fence is made of the best hard spring steel wire obtainable and is rigidly inspected before weaving. The knot is the smallest and best made and the fence lasts.

PRICES

have been reduced about 5c per rod and now we are busy delivering fence. We sold a lot of it at the old prices, but with this drop we expect to sell five times as much as ever. See us at once as these prices are good only on the fence on hand and bought from Anthony Fence Co.

We want to close out our stock of

Free Liver Remedy

It is well to stop a physical ailment at the first signs of its approach, and that is especially true of liver trouble, which can eventually give rise to so many serious complications. Many have liver trouble and imagine it is indigestion, and hence take the wrong remedy.

When the liver does not store up sufficient gastric juices it becomes sluggish, and in this way disturbs the stomach and bowels, with which it is supposed to work in harmony. Then comes the sallow complexion, the pimply face, the dull pain in the forehead, the thinning of the blood, etc. A very quick and sensible way to stop the trouble as well as to cure it is by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which contains ingredients especially intended to promote the activity of the liver.

Among the many thousands who have written the doctor about the results achieved with his remedy, and who are glad to make the facts public so that others can help themselves, are Mr. Jas. Kennedy, St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. S. A. La Rue of Smith's Grove, Ky., and many others.

These, like thousands of others, started the use of Syrup Pepsin with a sample. If you will send your name and address you can also obtain a free trial bottle. This will prove to you that liver trouble is promptly cured with this remedy or money will be refunded. Having tried it you can then buy it in the regular way of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, and the latter is sufficient for an entire family.

This remedy is a vast improvement over cathartic tablets and salts, which only do good for the time being. Syrup Pepsin is permanent in its results, is pleasant to take and does not gripe. It is especially good for all those who cannot stand a violent purgative.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

WHAT WOMEN ARE DOING.

Mrs. Jane Eastman has given $30,000 to Dartmouth College in memory of her husband, Ira Allen Eastman, a member of the class of 1829, for twenty-two years a trustee of the College and a Justice of the Supreme Court of New Hampshire.

Mrs. Margaret H. Park, probation officer in Brooklyn, is giving a series of talks before women's organizations regarding her experience in the day and night courts. Mrs. Park is employed by the Women's Club of Brooklyn to do probation work among women and children.

Mrs. Russell Sage has given $15,000 to the National Association of Audubon Societies for its work in the South. She had already given $500 to start a special robin protective fund which the association is raising for the purpose of protecting the robins. In the South the robin is treated as a game bird and each year fewer and fewer return to their homes in the North.

The anti-suffragites of Illinois have issued a pamphlet in which they say that the men of the country are at waking up to the dangers of woman suffrage. Heretofore, they say, men have taken the position that it was a question women should decide for themselves. Now realizing the dangers, they have come out strongly against giving women the ballot. In proof of this statement they point to recent utterances of Senator Elihu Root, Nicholas Murray Butler and the Rev. Lyman Abbott. They also say that protest is being circulated in Massachusetts which has already been signed by 150 influential men.

Mrs. Frederick T. Dubois, wife of the former United States Senator from Idaho, delivered the most talked about speech at the national mothers' congress recently held at Denver. In discussing the causes of unhappy marriages Mrs. Dubois said: "The faula lies with men and women who enter marriage untrained for its responsibilities. This fault the mothers' congress s bound to efface by starting with the children and implanting in them ideas of unselfishness and regard for the rights of others."

Miss Jessie Ashley, the new treasurer of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, received her education in New York at home and in private schools. She took a three years course in the New York University law school, receiving the degree of LL. B. in 1902 and of master of laws one year later. In both years she took the honors of her class. She was admitted to the New York bar in 1903. She is an instructor of the women's law school. Her father was for a number of years president of the Wabash Railroad and her brother is now dean of the New York University law school.

Miss Nellie Colburn deputy clerk of court at San Juan at a salary of $1,500. Miss Lulu Gross deputy clerk at court at Ponce at a salary of $1,200 and Miss Mary Nimmons deputy clerk at Mayaguez with a salary of $1,200. Miss Colburn had been for several years private secretary to Judge Jenkins and had previously held a similar post with Senator Stephenson.

The Animals in the Zoo.

The sleeping hours of the animals at the zoological gardens in Regent's park vary as much, according to the families to which they belong, as do their other characteristics and habits. The orang outang goes to bed at sundown, draping its head in a blanket and refusing to see visitors after dusk. It is also an early riser. With the lions, tigers and other members of the cat tribe the night finds them at their liveliest, and they sleep most between the midday meal and supper time. The eagles go to sleep just about the time their neighbors in the owl cage are waking up, while the bears during the winter months apparently sleep all day and night too. The residents of the monkey house object seriously to being disturbed after dark, and if one of the keepers happens to take a light into their quarters they scold him unmercifully. On the other hand, it would probably take a dynamite bomb to arouse the rhinoceros, and it is not uncommon, the keepers say, to find rats biting holes in its thick hide with impunity.—London Mail.

A Ban on Patterns.

"There is one kind of correspondence sometimes received by women clerks that makes heads of firms hopping mad," said the pretty stenographer. "That is dress patterns. They don't mind letters and magazines, but if a girl wants to keep on good terms with her employer and maybe keep her job she had better advise pattern companies to send their communications to some other address. I know one employer of about 100 girls who has put up notices in the workroom to the effect that no patterns can be received at his office. Not many men go that far, but all hold the same grudge against patterns. A girl who has a new dress to make up can't help spreading the pattern out the minute she gets it. Then every other woman in the office becomes interested. Nothing is so disorganizing to women clerks as patterns. Nothing takes up more time that belongs to the firm, so you really can't blame the bosses for putting a ban on patterns."—New York Press.

PROTEST AGAINST EXPRESS RATES

SEEKING RATE INVESTIGATION

Figures Cited to Show That Rates Are Far in Excess of What They Ought to Be—Comparison With Other Business Made.

New York, Aug. 29.—More than 120 commercial organizations, among them the Merchants' Association of New York, the Boston Chamber of Commerce and Chicago Association of Commerce, have filed with the interstate commerce commission a petition asking an investigation of express rates, classifications, regulations and practices. The petition sets forth that merchants have suffered for years from unjust charges by the express companies doing an interstate business. The allegation is made that the net returns to the companies have been out of all proportion to the service rendered and the capital invested.

To show that the enormous accumulations and dividends paid upon a small investment is due to extortion, the case of one company only is cited. This company was organized with a capital of $100,000 and only recently its property amounted to $71,000. On this investment the company has paid in ten years $3,200,000 in dividends and has accumulated about $1,500,000. These dividends and accumulations, it is set forth, have come after paying to the railroad companies from 40 to 45 per cent of the gross earnings. The petition alleges that the investment of other express companies is approximately no greater in proportion to the amount of business than in the case cited and that the profits of some of the other companies are equally or more excessive.

Objection is made to the practice of express companies in charging a progressively increasing rate for the subdivision of weight carried into smaller parcels. It is set forth that the railroads do not get more pay for the increase in number of packages and that therefore the express companies should not, except where the larger number of small packages means increased cost of handling and terminal service. Under the graduate scale the railroads receive for moving 100 pounds in small parcels as high as 37½ times the amount received by them for 100 pounds of the first-class freight.

Complaint is made also that terminal charges are not imposed on an even basis, and that the charges for such service are in proportion to the distance covered by the haul, so that in the case of a haul of approximately 3,000 miles the charge for terminal service is approximately twenty-five times or more greater than the charge for similar terminal service in the case of a haul of twenty-five miles.

The petition, to argue in behalf of which the commercial organizations have retained John W. Griggs, ex-attorney general of the United States, and Benjamin L. Fairchild, will be considered by the interstate commerce commission at their fall meeting.

SENATOR GORE AT CHICAGO

States Indian Land Frauds Probe Is Commended by Many.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—Thomas B. Gore, the blind senator from Oklahoma, has paid $3,000 for publicly charging fraud in Indian land deals in Oklahoma. He has endured calumny from the men he has accused, and may be made to suffer in his political fortunes. In return, he has received personal commendation from people in every state in the Union, as many as 125 letters praising him for his action reaching him in one day.

This was stated by Senator Gore, when the blind statesman spent several hours in Chicago, stopping at the Democratic headquarters in the Congress hotel on his way down state to fulfill two Chautauqua engagements.

SLEEP UNDER CAR IS FATAL

Frank Lee, 50, Dead as Result of Railroad Accident in Freight Yards.

Saginaw, Mich., Aug. 29.—Lying near the tracks in the Michigan Central freight yards, Frank Lee of Flint, 50 years old, was found with both legs cut off. It is thought that he had been in that condition for at least half an hour.

He was removed to St. Mary's hospital, where he died. It is thought that Lee went to sleep under a freight car and when the switching was done the car passed over his legs.

TAFT PLEADS FOR PARTY HARMONY

Republicans Urged to Forget Differences and Win Victory.

PRESIDENT CITES HIS REASONS

Letter to Chairman W. B. McKinley of Congressional Committee Virtually Takes Place of Platform for Party Fall Campaign.

New York, Aug. 29.—An urgent call for all Republicans to forget their differences after the nominations of their party have been made and to unite in trying to elect Republican nominees and thus insure the further carrying out of platform promises is made in the letter which President Taft has written for use in the Republican campaign text books. The letter, addressed to Chairman William E. McKinley of the Republican Congressional committee, at their headquarters was given out. It virtually takes the place of a party platform in the campaign for congress this fall and it is evident the president intended it for such.

Only a brief and guarded reference is made to any factional strife within the party and that in the very beginning of the letter. Assuming that party candidates will have already been selected by the time his letter is published, which, however, is not the case, the question will be, says Mr. Taft "Not what complexion of Republicanism one prefers, but whether it is better for the country to have the Republican party control the legislation for the next two years and further redeem its promises, or to enable a Democratic majority in the house either to interpose a veto to Republican measures or to formulate and pass bills to carry out Democratic principles."

Only twice does the name of Mr. Taft's predecessor appear in his letter and that in reference to conservation. To Mr. Roosevelt Mr. Taft gives the credit for arousing public interest in the subject. A large part of the letter is a summary of the legislation of the last session as evidence of the desire of the Republican party to fulfill its promises. Among the measures yet to be enacted and for which he asks the return of a Republican majority Mr. Taft places the measure to curb the injunction power.

He says that the Democratic substitute would create a privileged class of lawless workmen and would seriously impair the power of the courts of equity to do justice.

The regulation of stocks and bonds of railroads, a ship subsidy measure and a national board of health are other promises which remain to be kept, the president asserts. Those who wish for such legislation, in describing which Mr. Taft uses the word progressive, should vote for Republican candidates, the president insists.

BALL GAME STARTS RIOT

Three Players Dead, Three Seriously Hurt, Many Injured.

Game Was Between Negro Clubs and Close Decision by Umpire Starts Serious Rioting.

Brooks, Ga., Aug. 29.—A ball game between negro clubs for the championship of Fayette county broke up in a riot in the ninth inning and as a result three ball players are dead, three probably fatally injured and several less seriously hurt.

The dead men are "Kid" Ivorsen, Jim Barrett and Harvey Mayes, members of the Brooks team, which was opposing the Hartford team. Pistols, knives and baseball bats were used in the riot, scores of spectators taking sides with the rival teams.

The trouble was caused by a close decision of Umpire Smith, which allowed the Brooks team to score the winning run. Although nearly all the fighting raged bout the umpire, he escaped without serious injury.

BOY IS ATTACKED BY A DOG

Knocked From His Bicycle and Terribly Bitten by Animal.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 29.—Lloyd Prayer, 10 years old, was knocked from his wheel by a bulldog and terribly injured. The boy was riding along when suddenly the dog ran out and jumped against him.

He fell from the wheel and the dog jumped on him, biting and tearing his body. He was picked up unconscious.

MICHIGAN'S GAIN 16 P. C.

Census Gives State 2,810,173—Increase of 389,151.

List of Nine Largest Cities of State Showing Present and Former Number of Residents.

Washington, Aug. 29.—The state of Michigan has gained 389,151 in population in the last decade, an increase of 16.1 per cent.

The census bureau made public the complete enumeration of the state by counties, placing the total population at 2,810,173, compared with 2,420,982 in 1900, and 2,093,889 in 1890.

Detroit	465,766	285,704
Grand Rapids	112,571	87,565
Saginaw	50,510	43,345
Bay City	45,166	27,628
Kalamazoo	39,437	24,404
Flint	38,550	13,103
Jackson	31,433	25,180
Lansing	31,229	16,485
Battle Creek	25,267	18,563

Nearly half the state's gain was in Wayne county. This is the county in which Detroit is situated, and of the county's gain of 182,797, 180,062 was in that city. Other counties showing large gains were Genesee, Houghton, Ingham, Kalamazoo, and Kent.

BASEBALL PLAYED AT NIGHT

Chicago, Aug. 29.—Electric light baseball, played in Chicago for the first time, proved a great success. Over 20,000 fans gathered at the new White Sox park and watched the Logan Squares wallop the Roger Park team 3 to 0.

They got through nine innings of excellent ball under the glare of twenty 137,000 candle power arc lights that made the diamond as bright as day. It is expected arrangements will be made to have regular games at night.

MULFORD WINS ELGIN TROPHY

Elgin, Aug. 29.—Len Mulford, in a Lozier car, won the Elgin national trophy. His time for the 305 miles and 204 feet was 4 hrs., 52 min., 29 sec.

Livingstone, in National car No. 7, winner of the Illinois trophy event, was second in the big race. Livingstone raced the full course at an average of 60.2 miles an hour.

The third place in the big race went to Arthur W. Greiner, the driver of the second national car.

In the grandstand on the last lap 10,000 spectators cheered the winner as his car dashed across the finish line.

STRUCK BY TRAIN, MAY DIE

Pontiac, Mich., Aug. 29.—Anthony Cott, a bodymaker employed by O. J. Beaudette & Co., was struck by an eastbound Grand Trunk express train No. 8, at Elizabeth street.

His left arm was severed and his head badly cut. He was removed to the Oakland hospital in an ambulance, and has but slight chance of recovery. Cott, who is 65 years old, has children in Detroit, a son being a contractor there.

Eagles Elect Frisco Man.

St. Louis, Aug. 29.—John S. Parry of San Francisco has been elected vice president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles. He defeated John Cline of Cincinnati by more than 400 votes.

FARMER IS PAINFULLY HURT

John Jameson, First Kicked by Cow, Is Similarly Hurt by Horse.

Connersville, Ind., Aug. 29. — John Jameson, a farmer living east of the city, is the victim of ill luck. While milking a cow the animal kicked him in the stomach, and he lay where he fell for twenty minutes.

Reaining consciousness, he staggered to his feet and started for the house. While passing the stall of a vicious horse it kicked him on the leg, breaking the bone and knocking him again unconscious. He was not discovered for half an hour.

CHEYENNE HAILS COL. ROOSEVELT

Cowboys and Indians Welcome Him As a Ranchman.

BIG PARADE THROUGH STREETS

Regular Troops Followed by Cowboys and Cowgirls and 200 Sioux and Shoshone Indians with Squaws and Papooses.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Aug. 29.—The thousands who gathered at the station here to meet the Roosevelt special train did not come to greet a former president of the United States. They came to cheer Theodore Roosevelt, the cowman who ran a ranch on the Little Missouri years ago; the former broncho "peeler" and Dakota deputy sheriff, and to greet him as a comrade of the range and extend him a typical western welcome.

Cow punchers by hundreds urged their ponies along the track with joyous yells, while Sioux and Shoshone braves gay in paint and war bonnets threaded silently through the great crowd to see the chief of whom they had all heard.

When he arrived Col. Roosevelt was greeted by Gov. B. B. Brooks, Senator F. E. Warren, Gen. F. A. Smith, commanding the Department of the Missouri, and members of the frontier committee.

From the station he was conducted to the Industrial Club and escorted by a squadron of United States cavalry and a mounted band. From the porch of the club Colonel Roosevelt reviewed a great parade arranged in his honor. The parade was headed by regular troops from nearly every branch of the service, including infantry, cavalry, field artillery and mounted batteries, and signal and hospital corps from Fort D. A. Russell, numbering more than 5,000 officers and men. The regular troops were in command of Brigadier General Hoyt.

Following the soldiers rode 1,500 cowboys and cowgirls and 200 Sioux and Shoshone, squaws and papooses.

After luncheon at his hotel, Colonel Roosevelt drove to the Frontier grounds where he delivered an address and witnessed the finals in the championship riding and roping contests and frontier sports.

The colonel was the guest of Governor Brooks at dinner and later attended a smoker given to the visiting newspaper men and noted visitors.

Cheyenne spent Sunday in its usual quiet. Saturday night was not so fast that it left a hang-over, and the clear-eyed inhabitants who live on the elevation of 6,000 feet rustled around early in the morning. Mr. Roosevelt was tired after a dinner party and late reception Saturday night, so he slept later than he does as a rule. He went to church in the morning and right after he got away from the congregation, put on his riding togs and joined his party. Lieut. Tompkins, R. S. Van Tassel and Nat Baker, a ranchman, went with T. R. Senator Warren used an automobile in a trip to Senator Warren's ranch out at Pole Creek, northeast of Cheyenne. The colonel found many cow punchers and range riders and twisters and peelers, awaiting his arrival. He rode over the ranch with the crowd, saw them do a few stunts and then sat down to a big game dinner in the house.

Along about 8 o'clock last night the colonel and others said farewell to Pole Creek and began the journey home. T. R. motored back. It wasn't very dark, for the stars shone clearly and the way was easy picking. They travelled at a good clip and got back tired and happy.

Cheyenne will settle down to its regular routine as soon as the Roosevelt special pulls out for Denver. The cow punchers have returned to their ranches.

Suspense.

"There isn't any suspense about your play," said the technical critic.

"That shows how you jump at conclusions," replied the author. "You just ought to see me waiting for royalties."—Exchange.

CRIPPEN IS IN ENGLAND

Liverpool, Aug. 29.—The steamer Megantic, carrying Dr. Hawley H. Crippen and Miss Ethel Leneve, brought back from Canada on a warrant issued in connection with the supposed murder of Dr. Crippen's wife, Belle Elmore, arrived here.

Great crowds had gathered early in the vicinity of the landing stage and stood waiting for hours in the hope of catching a view of Dr. Crippen and the young woman whose romantic flight with him across the ocean, in the disguise of a boy, had made her not the least interesting figure in the supposed crime. Strong barricades, however, had been erected about the landing stage especially to prevent anyone approaching the ship, and the crowds were kept at such a distance as to give them slight prospect of a close view of Inspector Dew's prisoners. The suspects will be arraigned today and charged with the crime.

WALSH WILL ASK FOR PARDON

Age and Ill Health Will Be Basis of Request for Freedom.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—Friends of John R. Walsh, serving a sentence of five years in the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan., for misapplying funds of the Chicago National bank, will ask President Taft this week for his pardon.

The plea will be based chiefly upon the fact that Walsh is more than 70 years old and upon the contention that he is in ill health.

JAPANESE CONSUL RECALLED

Political Activity and Association With Irreconcilable Filipinos Cause.

Manila, Aug. 29. — M. Iwaya, the Japanese consul, has been called to Tokio. It is reported that the American government intimated to Japan that his continuance in the office of consul was unsatisfactory owing to his political activity and his association with a group of Filipino irreconcibles.

Confirmation of the report, however, cannot be obtained. It was stated that Secretary of War Dickinson complained a short time ago of the conduct of the consul, and it was then intimated that his recall was probable.

DENVER PREPARES FOR T. R.

Colonel Arrives There at Nearly Noon—To Review Monster Parade.

Denver, Aug. 29.—Col. Roosevelt is expected here at 11 o'clock this morning. Denver has spread itself to give the ex-president a big reception. He will be kept on the move all day long. A monster parade will pass by for the colonel to review. When that is over he will eat a chuck wagon feed given by the Denver Press club.

In the afternoon he will address the Colorado legislature and will make his set speech. The Spanish War Veterans will rally and a dinner of formality will occupy Mr. Roosevelt in the evening. The city is in holiday attire. Roosevelt will be greeted with a twenty-one gun salute.

MASTODON'S TEETH FOUND

Sewer Diggers in Princeton Uncover Three Fine Specimens.

Princeton, Ind., Aug. 29.—While a sewer was being excavated near the Southern depot in the heart of the city three of the finest specimens of mastodon teeth found in this part of the state were uncovered about six feet below the surface.

Two of them were back teeth, weighing three pounds each, and a small front tooth weighed a pound and a half. On one the enamel and ivory were well preserved. On another, which had evidently been exposed to water, the enamel had burned to the brilliancy of polish agate. One side of this tooth was petrified. No bones were found.

"Hair's a bit thin on the top, sir," remarked the barber. "Won't you try a bottle of our hair restorer?"

The victim squirmed. "You made the same observation last week," he said, "and I expressed my desire to see you try the stuff on the doormat."

"Sorry; I didn't know you had been here before, sir," replied the barber as he went on shaving. "I didn't recognize your face."

"No," was the growling reply; "my face has healed since then."—London News.

It is you alone who can read the writing on your heart. See to it that it is good reading.

Acute or Chronic Which

No matter if your kidney trouble is acute or chronic Foley's Kidney Remedy will reach your case. Mr. Claude Brown, Reynoldsville, Ill., writes us that he suffered many months with kidney complaint which baffled all treatment. At last he tried Foley's Kidney remedy and a few large bottles effected a complete cure. He says, "It has been of inestimable value to me."

Drat that comet. After causing all that cold weather, just see what it's doing now.

A MATTER OF TASTE

"I wonder if he's going to pass by at 11 o'clock again today." Mrs. Anna Miller was sitting on her balcony underneath the large Chinese sunshade, her hands resting in her lap.

Yesterday, too, he had passed by when she stood behind the curtains, that he might not see her. And he had looked up to the balcony and to all the windows, and there had been such an expression of disappointment in his big brown eyes. Or maybe they were blue, those big, beautiful eyes with the long, dark lashes.

Today the sun is shining, and Gustave has told me that I must get all the fresh air that I can."

So Anna had come outside on the balcony wearing her white dress, which Gustave said was becoming to her, although she didn't care for it herself.

"I wonder what his name is? And what he's doing? Every forenoon he walks down this avenue to the railroad station to take the train or the city. Surely he must live in this neighborhood. How handsome he is, so tall and slender. Too bad that Gustave should be so little and fat; really he almost looks like a ball. And the other one's dark hair is so full and curly. Even when it was raining the other day it was curly. I wish Gustave would give up the idea of having his thin red hair trimmed every two weeks so that he looks like a walking brush."

Then he came. All at once he passed by the balcony and looked at her. Yes, Anna had plainly seen that he looked at her, although she had dropped her sewing just at that moment when he passed by.

"I wonder if I dare turn around to look at him? No, it will never do. That woman on the other side of the street would be sure to see it. That old cat sits behind her curtains all day spying at everybody. Oh, how terrible it is to live in a suburb where everybody knows everybody else."

Anna stood up quickly and as she ran into the room she got a last glance of a tall, slender figure turning around the corner.

"Really, Gustave, you must hurry now or you will miss your train. You ought to be happy because you can go to the city every day and see something of the world, while I must sit here buried among trees and meadows. No, I don't want Aunt Josephine to keep me company. I don't want her at all; then I would much rather be alone. The fresh air on the balcony does me good, doesn't it? Gustave, don't you notice that I have more color now than a few minutes ago? Goodbye."

"Yesterday he really scared me. I hadn't seen him coming. If I had seen him in time I should certainly not have blushed the way I did."

Anna pushed back her chair so that she could look down the avenue all the way down to the green woods in the distance.

"I wonder why he's always wearing a black overcoat? Black is very becoming to him. Gustave says it's too expensive and still he's rich. And he always wears a silk hat, which makes him look very distinguished. He's no merchant, I'm sure of that. Oh, and his soft black whiskers are so beautiful. What do you want now, Minna?"

Anna's voice was anything but pleasant. She hated to be disturbed by the cook.

"What are we going to have for dinner, you ask? Surely I told you last night. I didn't? Well, then, I meant to tell you. Besides, you might think of a dinner yourself just for once. But you never think of anything. You do? Oh of course, you think of your schatz, but that doesn't make your cooking any better. Cook whatever you want."

Just then he had passed by and Minna had looked at him and not even listened to her, and then she had stared and made a round of excuses, always looking at him while Anna's back was turned, so that she couldn't see him.

"It served her right that I told her to leave. Now she has spoiled the whole forenoon for me."

"You are not going to the city today, Gustave? But what are they going to do in the office then? Your bookkeeper left yesterday. I never heard anything like that. I must say you take things so. Just because it happens to be fine weather today you don't feel like going to business. We women are much more conscientious. Besides, I want you to buy something for me. I had a toothache last night. You must go and buy something for that in the city and then bring me a yard and a half of that green silk and two spools of cotton, No. 30. Are you listening? And three dozen safety pins. Goodbye dear."

"Oh, how my head is beating. I wonder why that is? Tomorrow I'm going to tell the doctor. I'm sure he'll advise me to take walks in the morning, and I will do it. It is just the best time to take a walk between 10 and 12."

Anna peered down the avenue, but didn't see anybody.

"If the doctor says that I must take a walk every morning I will start right in and tomorrow I can see from what house he comes. Oh, my God, there he is!"

"Really, I hadn't seen him all together before," Anna said to herself, and looked at him closely. "I could never see but half of him because of the garden wall. What a manly walk he has. Gustave always takes such little steps, just like an old maid. I can never keep step with him."

He was coming closer now and she could see that he was looking at her. She returned his look and for the first time saw him from the top of his head to the sole of his foot. The silk hat was as glossy as ever, the curls made him look as handsome as ever, and his frock coat was very becoming to his slender figure. Today, however, Anna saw his legs for the first time. Oh, God, how strange! He was just a little knock-kneed. And his shoes! So broad, she felt sure, that he must be flat-footed.

Anna saw everything quickly, shrugged her beautiful shoulders which Gustave loved to kiss and said:

Then she went down from the balcony into her room and thought no more of him.

Knock-kneed and flat-footed! Gustave has beautiful little feet and his legs are absolutely straight.

Today he turned around, yes, more than that, he turned back and passed by once more, looking sheepishly to the balcony, but just then Anna was in the kitchen praising Minna, who was fixing up a roast for dinner.

"UNCLE REMUS."

In personality Joel Chandler Harris had no counterpart in literary life, says Frank L. Stanton in The Delineator. He was incomparable because he was different. He had not the "literary look," nor yet that of the comfortively well-to-do farmer, however, much it may seem that the blended association would be demonstrated in appearance. Of average height, he still did not seem so, for constant application at the desk had somewhat rounded his frame; and there was yet another, rotundity that bespeaks secular living and jovial temperament. Something comically blending the pathetic spoke from his ruddy face but the mild blue eyes that seemed negligent or inattentive the previous moment brightened with a glint that was variously humorous, shrewd or sympathetic, as the provocation might be. The voice drawled lazily, faltering and hesitating increasingly as the man was closely touched.

A slight impediment of speech largely imaginary, had accentuated a native modesty that impelled an unusual degree of seclusion; and yet, upon occasion, few could enter into more animated or unfaltering conversation. When he was pleased or amused, immensely so, an apparent though scarcely audible chuckle vibrated his whole frame. He never laughed loudly; that chuckle was his superlative. And if you sat and talked with him by the hour; or, if, knowing the man, you watched him shambling his way through the crowded streets of Atlanta, your first impression was forever effaced. Through the strange mask of shyness and deceptive insignificance you saw the keen, kindly philosopher; the thoughtful, imaginative man of letters who had written his way into the heart of civilization.

The man and his methods constituted such an anomaly in American literature that one must needs tread in unusual paths to secure a glimpse of his real personality.

The sources of his knowledge of human nature were just two—observation and absorption by shy, silent contact. The fruits of these faculties were poured into the crucible of his keen but kindly philosophy and his alert introspection; the result is the stories that have made him famous.

Hope Deferred.

They sat each at an extreme end of the horse-hair sofa. They had been courting now for something like two years, but the wide gap between had always been respectfully preserved.

"A penny for your thochts, Sandy," murmured Maggie, after a silence of an hour and a half.

"Weel," replied Sandy slowly, with surprising boldness, "tae tell ye the truth, I was jist thinkin' how fine it wad be if ye were tae gie me a wee bit kissie."

"I've no objection," simpered Maggie, slithering over, and kissed him plumply on the tip of his left ear.

Sandy relapsed into a brown study once more and the clock ticked 27 minutes.

"An' what are ye thinkin' about noo—anither, eh?"

"Nae, nae, lassie; it's mair serious the noo."

"Is it, laddie?" asked Maggie softly. Her heart was going pit-a-pat with expectation. "An' what might it be?"

"I was jist thinkin'," answered Sandy, "that it was about time ye were paying me that penny!"

The Ant Eater's Lament.

The poor ant eater was up in arms. "Confound this Billy Possum craze," he growled. "There don't happen to be any possums around this zoo, and they have shaved all the hair off my tail, trimmed my whiskers and changed the sign over my cage to 'Georgia Possum.'"—Chicago News.

Home Life in Spain.

No hospitality can be more wholehearted and far-reaching than that which Mrs. Ellen Maury Slayden and her husband enjoyed in Barcelona, and of which she has written for the Century.

"One of the prettiest things in home life all over Spain," she says, "is the natural and kindly way in which the servants are made a part of the family. In the don's house the little maids often took part in the conversation, spoke to the guests, and asked them to stay longer; and even the porters and kitchen visitors popped their red-capped heads into the door to say the Spanish equivalent for 'howdy' to the family, just as old negroes do in the Southern states."

Critical Eye for Babies.

The five-year-old daughter of a Brooklyn man has had such a large experience of dolls that she feels herself to be something of a connoisseur in children.

Recently there came a real live baby into the house.

"Isn't it a nice baby?" asked the nurse.

"Yes, it's nice," answered the youngster hesitatingly. "It's nice, but its head's loose."—Lippincott's.

Brazil's Modern City.

Situated in the middle south of Brazil, the capital, Sao Paulo, has a population of at least 350,000, and is much more modern than any city in South America, excepting Buenos Ayres.

Earthquakes as Warnings.

The belief that earthquakes are signs or warnings owes its origin in part to prophecies in the Bible, where, for example, we read that "there shall be no famines and pestilences and earthquakes" as portending future calamities. Earthquakes have led to the abolition of oppressive taxation, the abolition of masquerades, the closing of theaters and even to the alteration of fashion. A New England paper of 1727 tells us that "a considerable town in this province has been so far awakened by the awful providence in the earthquake that the women have generally laid aside their hooped petticoats."

ALL DRUGGISTS

PRIMARY ELECTION.

Primary election notice is hereby given that a general primary election will be held in the Township of Tecumseh, County of Lenawee, state of Michigan at the council building within said township, on Tuesday, Sept. 13th for the purpose of nominating by direct vote candidates by each of the several political parties for the following offices, viz.:

National—One candidate for United State Senator; one candidate for representative in Congress from the congressional district of which said voting precinct forms a part.

Legislative—One candidate for Senator in the State Legislature for the Senatorial District of which said voting precinct forms a part; one candidate for Representative in the State Legislature for the Representative district of which said voting precinct forms a part.

County—One candidate for each of the following County offices, viz.; sheriff, clerk, Treasurer, register of deeds, prosecuting attorney, surveyor, drain commissioner; also two candidates for Circuit Court Commissioner and two candidates for Coroner.

There shall also be elected as many delegates to the county convention of the several political parties, as said precinct or township is entitled to under the call of the county committees of said political parties, which number will be indicated by the number of blank lines printed on the official primary ballots used at said election under the heading "Delegates to County Conventions." The board of primary election inspectors will furnish delegates with credentials entitleing them to seats in the county conventions, except where there is more than one precinct in a township and the county committee require the election of delegates from the township as a whole, such delegates must be admitted without credentials.

Relative to enrollment. The enrollment for this election was held April 4, 1910 but any qualified elector in any election precinct in the state who failed to have his name enrolled on enrollment day by reason of sickness or unavoidable absence from the election precinct and who is a qualified elector in said precinct on primary election day, or any person who has become twenty one years of age or a qualified elector after enrollment day, may have his name enrolled by the board of primary election inspectors or any primary election day upon making oath as provided in the general election law relative to the registration of electors on election days; or any person duly enrolled in the manner provided by law, but who has changed his residence to any election precinct other than that in which he was enrolled, may be enrolled in the new election precinct and may vote therein: Provided, That he has resided in the election precinct in which he seeks to be enrolled for a period of twenty days and that he obtained from a member of the enrollment board of the election precinct in which he formerly resided, a certificate stating that he was duly enrolled in such precinct, and that he is entitled to enrollment in the new precinct. In the absence of such certificate, if he can satisfy the said enrollment board of primary election inspectors upon making oath to such facts, according to the provisions of the general election law relative to registration of electors on election day) he shall be entitled to enrollment and be permitted to vote following such enrollment.

No person can vote at any primary election whose name is not enrolled.

An enrolled voter who has changed his party affiliation can be reenrolled on enrollment day only.

The polls of said election will open at 7 o'clock in the forenoon and will remain open until 5 o'clock in the afternoon of said day of election, unless the Board of Primary Election Inspectors shall in their discretion adjourn the polls at 12 o'clock nonn, for one hour.

Dated this 25th day of August, 1910

Mr. Merritt is a cousin of George Merritt, Mrs. Helen Clark and the Wilson Bros. and will be remembered by many having owned several farms in Franklin. He built the first store in Tipton. His death was probably due to appolexy as he was found in about three feet of water.

Mr. Merritt was born November 20, 1835 in Niagara county, N. Y. On November 10, 1837 he was married to Miss Mary E. Davenport at Tecumseh this state. Two children were born to this union, J. D. Merritt of Stanley Idaho, and Mrs. R. J. Wade of Nashville. Mrs. Merritt died January 1, 1874. In 1879 he married Miss Edna Waldron of N. Y. Besides the two children, and his wife he is survived by five brothers a sister and a grandson.

OBITUARIES

Little baby Marjorie Elizabeth, infant daughter of Harry Becker and wife, passed away Saturday after a brief illness of intestinal toxinea aged 15 months.

The little one had endeared herself to so many by her winning ways, that the parents are not left to mourn her alone. And we all extend our loving sympathy to them in this their time of deepest sorrow.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for the beautiful flowers. And for their loving kindness to us in our bereavement in the death of our little darling.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Becker.

Retributive Justice.

A case of retributive justice, as far as it goes, is reported from Paris. An attendant at the Andral hospital, where physiological investigations are being made, discovered that a dozen rabbits had been stolen from their hutches. The loss of the rabbits themselves was not a source of trouble to the authorities, but the fact that they had been inoculated with various germs has had a disturbing effect. It is known that the rabbits had all been inoculated, and several of them were tuberculous or typhoid subjects. The police lost no time in warning the thieves of the dangerous nature of their "swag," but none were returned.

A King's Grave Opened.

King Edward I. of England died July 7, 1307, and 400 years later the English Society of Antiquarians opened his tomb in order to find out if he really had been buried in wax, as the legend ran. The chronicler of the time remarks, "To their great astonishment they found the royal corpse to appear as represented by the historian." "Although the skull appeared bare, the face and hands seemed perfectly entire." The king was found to be 6 feet 2 inches in length, hus fully justifying his nickname of Longshanks.

BRYAN REUNION

The Sixth Annual Bryan Reunion was held at the pleasant country home of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Sisson, west of Tecumseh, Saturday August 20th.

The guests began arriving the day before and kept coming until very near dinner time on Saturday.

At one o'clock a bountiful dinner was served on the lawn, under a large spreading canvas. After dinner a business meeting was called to order by Mrs. N. L. Bryan, the elected president, Mrs. Jennie Burton of Jackson, being excused. Each responded to a roll call with a, funny story, a "Present," and "I'm here."

The following officers were elected:

Pres.—N. L. Bryan.

Vice Pres.—Gustave Sisson.

Secy. and Treas.—Florence Bryan.

A program committee was appointed by the President as follows: Mrs. A. C. Bryan, Mrs. B. J. Slater, Mrs. N. L. Bryan.

Letters were read from relatives residing in New York, Pennsylvania, Kansas and Colorado, who where unable to be present.

Recitations were given by Howard Bryan and Vera Sisson and papers were read by Mrs. Jas. Kennedy and Mrs. Jennie Bryan. A humorous selection on, "Colorado" was read by Mr. N. L. Bryan, it being sent him by his sister, Mrs. Laura Scofield of Bethune, Colo.

The rest of the afternoon was spent in visiting and a general good time.

It was late when the "Bryanites" began to depart and all gave a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Sisson for their generous hospitality.

Those present from out of town were: Mrs. Jennie Burton of Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Net Sisson and daughter Christine of Parma, Mr. Warren Sisson of Quincy, Mrs. Albert Matthews and two daughters, Alberta and Myrtlene and son Arthur of Clinton, Homer and Cara Slater an Miss Frances Hayden of Grand Rapids.

MATTES-LANNING REUNION

Although somewhat cloudy in the morning, August 18th. proved to be a beautiful day and guests to the number of 101 gathered at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Brown to celebrate the 4th annual reunion of the Mattis-Lanniug families. After partaking of the bountiful dinner spread upon the tables under a tent on the lawn, the meeting was called to order by the Pres. LaVerne Harrison. Prayer was offered by O. M. Gove after which the following officers were elected for 1911.

Pres.—Frank Mattis.

Vice Pres.—C. M. Gove.

Sec.-Treas.—Lilly M. Harrison.

Programme Com. Sarah Brown, Lucy Harrison, Iva Gove.

Resolutions of respect were read on the death of four of our number namely-Joel Clark, Clementine Ayers, Wm. Russell, Pearl Lanning.

After the business meeting the following program was given.

Closing song—"God be with you till we meet again.

After the programme the usual game of ball was played and it was not until a late hour that we wended our way home-wards voting Mr. and Mrs. Brown royal entertainers. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller invited us all to their home on the 3rd. Thursday of August 1911, Macon, Mich., Mrs. Lilly Harrison Secretary.

The twentieth annual reunion of the Hoagland family was held Saturday at the home of Ernest Hoagland south of town. The day proved to be a perfect one and at ten o'clock the guests began to arrive.

About seventy guests had assembled by the noon hour and all did ample justice to the boutiful dinner laid before them. A short program and business meeting were the features of the afternoon, Rev. Wm. Harding of Leavenworth, Kansas, gave a very interesting talk which all enjoyed. At five o'clock the guests began to leave for their respective homes declaring that had been the best reunion yet.

The out of town guests were, Rev. and Mrs. Wm. Harding of Leavenworth Kan., Arthur Harding and wife, Mrs. Chas. Beals and Orpha, Frank Temple wife and daughter of Tecumseh, Frank Hoagland and family, Roy Hoagland of Raisin, James Cook and daughter of Adrian, Mrs. Homer Miller of Rea and Mrs. Cyrus Smith and Mrs. Vreeland of St. Johns.

The population of Lenawee Co. is 47,907 in 1900 it was 48,406 showing a decrease in of 499.

COURIERS ACROSS SAHARA

New Service From Niger to Mediterranean—A 1,000 Mile Desert Route.

Though a journey across the Sahara is still an undertaking of some magnitude, the pacification of the central region by the French has been wonderfully rapid during the last five years.

Removed as it seems from the exciting influence of events in Morocco, and undisturbed by Senussite propaganda, the French officers have been able to establish friendly relations with the Tuareg and other Berber tribes, and have organized a chain of posts right across the desert connecting Algeria with French West Africa. The route for the telegraph has been surveyed and a "wireless" installation is being established.

Meantime, by the last mail from Dakar the Governor of French West Africa reports that he has instituted a monthly service by couriers between the Niger and the Mediterranean. The southern point of departure will be the ancient town of Gao on the Niger some two hundred miles south of the rail head in the Sud Oranasis. Intermediate posts have been established at Agades and the Ahaggar. The oversight of the new route covers fully 1,000 miles of desert.

Much is expected in the way of accustoming the wild tribesmen of the Sahara to the new order of things from the regular running of this service, and possibly some development of trade may follow. But at present it will be useful chiefly as a means of rapid communication between the French military posts. It is intended that officers selected for service in or returning home from the Niger districts shall make use of the transsaharan route, which will be more direct and less costly than the journey from or to France via Senegal or Dahomey. Both horses and camels will be used on the new service.

There is a good deal of fuss made because the word "obey" occurs in some marriage ceremonies. Why not leave the word out? It is humiliating to women, and cuts no other figure.—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

has for over 30 years been the leading fertilizer for this section. as it is made at Detroit by people who understand our local conditions.

We sell a certain brand for a certain soil. That is the reason we are selling more than any other dealer in the country.

WE GET "THE RESULTS"

We expect to have a good stock on hand of different brands. At the same time there is a great demand and it would be advisable to place orders early, so to be sure to get yours.

Don't be deceived in thinkimg any one brand will answer for all soils and crops, as you will be out of money and wheat.

If you buy of us, you will have results. We have so far sold four cars for fall delivery, and are selling more every day.

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES

Bridal Party Made Clean Escape.

After the wedding supper and Mr. Bates had passed round the cigars he was called with his wife and the maid of honor and best man up stairs to sign the necessary wedding papers. The groom seemed to be unduely detained by the Episcopal recter. Wishing to lose no time, however he attired himself in his traveling suit and quietly climbed out of the window and down a friendly tree and made his way unseen through the back yard where he overtook the bride, who had unoticed passed out through the kitchen and they deliberately made their way to a waiting automobile about two blocks away. The maid of honor in the meantime was preparing for the trip while the best man remained among the guests as long as possible to ward suspicion.

Although owing to the approach for a strong looking crowd they felt obliged to go before the maid of honor arrived they hurridly left town and in less than 25 minutes were safely landed in Adrian, while Tecumseh young people waited in vain to accompany them to the train and give them the usual send off.

Their Tecumseh friends are a jolly bunch and are rarely thus foiled, though they eannot help congratulating Mr. and Mrs, Bates on their successful flying trip and join in wishing them a successful and happy trip through life.

ANNOUNCEMENT PARTY

Miss Leona Beebe gave a dinner party Friday evening for eleven of her girl friends, announcing her engagement to Dr. Arnet J. Garlinghouse of this place.

An elaborate four dinner was served by her sisters, Miss Helen and Pearl Beebe and Mrs. Channing Beebe

The decorations were very pretty a ship being used as a centerpeice for the table, it was filled with flowers, and was surrounded by little suit cases ribbons being attached to them as each young lady pulled a suit case to her plate and opened it, she found rice and the picture of Dr. Garlinghouse "the man in the case." Cupids were used as place cards

The following young ladies were present; Alice Combs, Ethel Garlinghouse, Alice Satterthwaite, Ruth Keeney, Alice Bradley of Tecumseh. Mildred Heesen of Toledo. Margaret Seager. and Alice and Bessie Sudbourgh of Adrian, and Mrs. Sherman Camburn of Tipton.

TEA PARTY.

The Misses Russell entertained at tea Thursday honoring their guest Miss Jessie Bacon.

Among those present were the Mesdames Jones, Pratt, Collar, Temple and Ager and the Misses Ina Russell and Floxence Roascrans.

Dainty slippers were used for place cards. The tea was most delightful and a general good time enjoyed by all.

IS SICKNESS DOOMED?

Adrian Specialist Says it is Unnecessary and Proves it.

Prof. Joham VonOberstoez with his glorious treatment method Pranayama, whose wonderful cures without drugs, apparatus or trouble is just now creating such a great sensation at Adrian with its power to heal the sick and suffering after the most "skilled" physicians failed, will give free treatment to all sufferers from Tecumseh who will call at once bringing this paper with them. This free treatment is given in order to quickly show what this marvelous new healing method will do, as we are contemplating the establishing of a large Institute in the near future. Remember, that no matter what your ailment may be, or of how long standing you will be treated until cured without paying as much as a penny this entirely different treatment has never before been introduced in America. Epilepsy, Rheumatism, Paralysis. Eczema, Cancer, Tuberculosis also all diseases of the Heart, Nerves, Liver, Blood, Stomach, Kidney's, Bladder etc. and all difficult and desperate cases which have been abondoned by honest medical doctors especially desired. We do not want the easy cases. let the doctors have these, we will look you in the eye and tell your disease and where located in two minutes or forfeit $100.

Pranayama removes the cause by treating the patient and not the name of the disease. Sufferers you need not tell the intolerable burdens to yourself and family any longer but call at once, we want to cure you at our own expense. Office open daily in New Central Hotel Adrian, Mich.

The Father of Odessa.

A French emigre was the father of Odessa in Russia. He was the Duc de Richelieu of the line of the famous cardinal, who left France in the troublous days of the revolution and entered the Russian service. He was the governor of Odessa just a century ago. He found it little better than a fishing village and left it as it was developing into a flourishing seaport. In 1814, when the monarchy was restored, the Duc de Richelieu returned to his native land and became one of Louis XVIII.'s ministers. He died in 1821. In Odessa a statue is erected to his memory.

Missouri Laws Severe.

The Missouri laws are severe in penalty for neglect of a land owner to cut thistles before the seed ripen. The first offense is a fine of $10 and the road overseer is instructed to bring action against any land owner who fails to carry out the letter of the law. When the owner of land does not reside in the county the law directs the overseer to employ labor and the cost of cutting out the pest is taxed against the land.

Sippers and Gulpers.

Did you ever watch an Englishman at a bar? As soon as he gets a drink he sits down at a table and begins to sip it. It takes him half an hour to finish a drink which would be a mere swallow for a Yankee. Some psychologist ought to take hold of this and try to find out whether some of our disagreements with England were not due to the fundamental differences between a nation of sippers and a nation of gulpers.

Church of Sealskins.

The Rev. E. J. Peck, who returned from a lonely mission station in Labrador, says his first church was constructed by the natives out of sealskins, and did good service till a pack of Eskimo dogs ate it one night.

Free Liver Remedy

It is well to stop a physical ailment at the first signs of its approach, and that is especially true of liver trouble, which can eventually give rise to so many serious complications. Many have liver trouble and imagine it is indigestion, and hence take the wrong remedy.

When the liver does not store up sufficient gastric juices it becomes sluggish, and in this way disturbs the stomach and bowels, with which it is supposed to work in harmony. Then comes the sallow complexion, the pimply face, the dull pain in the forehead, the thinning of the blood, etc. A very quick and sensible way to stop the trouble as well as to cure it is by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which contains ingredients especially intended to promote the activity of the liver.

Among the many thousands who have written the doctor about the results achieved with his remedy, and who are glad to make the facts public so that others can help themselves, are Mr. Jas. Kennedy, St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. S. A. La Rue of Smith's Grove, Ky., and many others.

These, like thousands of others, started the use of Syrup Pepsin with a sample. If you will send your name and address you can also obtain a free trial bottle. This will prove to you that liver trouble is promptly cured with this remedy or money will be refunded. Having tried it you can then buy it in the regular way of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, and the latter is sufficient for an entire family.

This remedy is a vast improvement over cathartic tablets and salts, which only do good for the time being. Syrup Pepsin is permanent in its results. Is pleasant to take and does not gripe. It is especially good for all those who cannot stand a violent purgative.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card, or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

CAUSE OF INSANITY.

It Has Not Been Traced to Disease of the Brain.

Insanity is not a disease of the brain, because no anatomical investigation, microscopic or otherwise, can show the least difference between either brain cell or fibre of a person dying insane and the healthy brain of one killed in an accident. But the same absence of brain changes is noticeable in a whole class of important chronic nervous diseases such as migraine, neurasthenia, hysteria and epilepsy. None of these shows post-mortem any characteristic changes from normal brains.

Now, no one can minimize the importance of these nervous diseases. Insanity alone is serious enough. When that dread spectre appears, there is no getting used to it. Years of familiarity with it, both in private and in official relations, do not lessen my recoil from the spectacle of a permanent, instead of—as with drugs—a temporary, mental derangement. But it is facts connected with these same insanities produced by drugs entering the blood which awaken the hope that we may find elsewhere than in the brain the cause, and therefore, with the cause, the best treatment for this dreadful affection, as well as also for the other nervous diseases which causes no brain changes. If the brain of a man who has been addicted to immense doses of opium for years still shows in it no trace of this mind-deranging agent, while chemistry quickly finds the reactions of this drug in his blood, the mistake of years on this whole subject begins to come into view. It is singular how long the sway of hat error has continued, for even yet many physicians, including some neurologists, cannot see the two sides of the problem.

The Ideal Diet.

Too much food is as bad as too little and occasions a waste of energy and strength in the body as well as a waste of nutritive material, says a writer in "What to Eat." While in the case of some foods as purchased, notably meats, some waste is unavoidable, the pecuniary loss can be diminished, both by buying those kinds in which there is the least waste, and by utilizing more carefully than is ordinarily done, portions of what is usually classed as refuse. Much of the waste may be avoided by careful planning so as to provide a comfortable and appetising meal in sufficient amount, but without excess. If strict economy is necessary, the dearer cuts of meats and the more expensive fruits and vegetables should be avoided. With reasonable care in cooking and serving, a pleasing and varied diet can be furnished at moderate cost. It should not be forgotten that dearness of a food material depends not only on its market price, but also on the cost of its digestible nutrients. It should always be remembered that "the ideal diet is that combination of foods which, while imposing the least burden on the body, supplies it with exactly sufficient material to meet its wants."

Cause of Leaves' Change of Color.

When sap ceases to flow in the autumn, and the natural growth of the tree ceases, oxidation in the leaves takes place. Under this oxidation the leaves change to red, or, with a slight change of the condition, it might be yellow or brown. This, however, is only the chemical explanation. Life, or, as we would say, vital power, has to bear a part. If a branch is entirely cut off from the main plant, no change of color occurs. On the other hand, if a branch is injured, though not entirely cut off from the tree, a change of color takes place, even if it be mid-summer. In other words, chemistry alone cannot account for the bright colors of autumn foiage; the mysterious power we call life has to work at the same time.

Hundred of Tecumseh Citizens Can Tell You All About It

Home endorsement, the public expression of Tecumseh people should be evidence beyond dispute for every Tecumseh reader. Surely the experience of friends and neighbors, cheerfully given by them, will carry more weight than the utterances of strangers residing in faraway places. Read the following:

William C. Witherell, W. Pottawatamie street, Tecumseh, Mich., says: "My experience has convinced me that Doan's Kidney Pills are a reliable kidney remedy. I publicly recommended them some years ago and I hold as high an opinion of them as ever. Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me of backache and other symptoms of kidney trouble and I have had no return attacks. I know of several other persons who have taken this remedy with the best of results."

SPAIN SINCE 1898.

Politically Spain possesses four great guiding forces: "Conservadores," "Liberales," "Republicanos" and "Carlistas." Of these only the Republicans and the Carlists have a clear and definite programme, and it may even be said that only the latter have a real watchword. Indeed, so great is the diversity of opinion between the Republicans, and the Carlists that they are able to effect little, though they control what is numerically a strong minority (thirty) in the Cortes. The Conservatives and Liberals are the governmental parties of to day, and they, thanks to a system of alternation, or turn about, succeed each other in power in accordance with the royal will. But the curious thing about these political aggregations is that they do not have a clear and definite creed or political programme. The Conservatives of to-day are the Liberals of yesterday, for they, thanks to an evolutionary movement of the Left, found themselves on the Right and were given the name of "reactionaries." However, the Liberals, who now and then use "radicalism" and "anti-clericalism" as watchwords of their party forget their promises when once in power and in the majority of cases continue the policy of their predecessors.

In spite of all, however, in the general method of administration Spain is being regenerated. Opposition or agreement, for example, has brought about guarantees of stability to the public functionaries, thus doing away with the multitude of unemployed persons which each change of government used to bring. The type of "cesante" (dismissed public officer) is becoming more rare every day, and it is to be hoped that this evolution, having thus commenced, will end by completely destroying the type.

The life of the provinces has gained a great impetus in the last few years: Barcelona, Bilbao, Valencia, Zaragoza, Valladolid, &c., are establishing new industries and opening markets within and without the kingdom. However, the character distinctive of each of these provinces and the necessity of defending special interests cause a certain spirit of discord or rivalry to exist between them. Barcelona, for example, an industrial province par excellence, needs to import the greater part of the raw material for its manufacturing, and so a high tariff system would be the ruin of the Catalan region. Valencians, on the other hand, whose greatest resource is agriculture, are comparatively indifferent to tariff questions, for their prosperity depends in great part on rates of exchange. Owing to the depreciation of Spanish currency they are able to sell their products in foreign markets at a premium which offsets the cost of production and handling.

This especial nature of the various regions gives them also very marked political tendencies. In the centers of industry the body of laborers is Republican or Socialist (Barcelona and its neighborhood, Madrid, Valencia, Zaragoza, Bilbao, &c.). The country people on the contrary are for the most part reactionary, although private interests or the pressure of proprietor upon tenant may be determinative of the farmer's vote.

Feared by the great and powerful, frequently of but little education but of a cunning sagacity, an entangler of the clearest questions and an interpreter of the most difficult the "cacique" manages and upsets the government of a province. Mayors, Governors, Deputies, high and low officials, all owe to him their posts and are his instruments, going from Ministry to Ministry dancing attendance while at home in his little corner the "cacique" with a shrewd imagination prepares the strokes of local politics. The Province of Castellon, which elects seven Deputies, was managed by a kind of committee called the cosi, directed by a person of the middle class.

The political education of the citizen is coming more and more into evidence, and with its advance the influence of the "cacique" (political "chief" or "boss") is growing less, so that at present the regions in which the will of the latter dominates are very few. A new political power has been constituted since the loss of the colonies and has been greatly augmented in the last elections: "La solidaridad," the principle of solidarity. This is the concentration of diverse political tendencies of a section for the defence of its interests against a policy of centralization. Nowhere has the central power been so hated as in Spain, an effect without doubt of the heterogeneity of the nation's component parts. A Catalan does not desire to be classed with a Calician or an Andalusian; a Valencian or a Murcian is very different from a Navarrese or a Basque; and the diversity which exists in the legislative system in regard to privileges accorded to the various provinces has had the hardihood to show itself in the political system. It is undeniable that there has been a certain abuse of centralism; but it is also evident that both the Basque and the Catalan sectionalists have made exaggerated demands. If these should be granted national life would become impossible; the Sate would turn from a centralized into a federal State.—Yale Review.

BIGGEST FAIR IN READY TO OPEN

Splendors of the Amusement World, Aeroplanes, Automobile Show, Nightly Horse Show, Dog Show, Splendid Livestock, Auto Races, Fireworks and Midway Will Please and Entertain Thousands Next Week.

After months and months of preparation, the planning and arranging of exhibits, engaging of performers, building new buildings and doing the thousand and one things necessary in preparing a big state fair, the management announces that at last everything is in readiness for the opening next Monday of the 61st annual state fair of the Michigan State Agricultural society. And, in making this announcement it is felt that the public will approve of the plans and will be more than pleased at the superb attractions, the unexcelled exhibits in all departments, the scope and completeness of the exhibits and the amusement features of this, the most expensive and most elaborate fair ever held in the state of Michigan.

Months ago it was planned to spend money liberally and to spare no effort to make this fair this year a success in every particular. With few exceptions, these plans all worked out nicely, and nothing apparently has been overlooked that will add to the comfort, pleasure and education of the public who attend. And because of this completeness of detail in the arrangements, it is confidently expected that the attendance will surpass that of any fair ever held in the state.

WRIGHT BIPLANE AT FAIR GROUNDS

The appearance of these machines at the coming State Fair, Sept. 19-24th, is one of the biggest attractions ever offered the people of Michigan. Four daily flights will be made, and the exhibitions will be thrilling in the extreme. This cut shows Arch Hoxsey at the Fair grounds during Elks' week exhibition, when he set the crowd wild with his daring work.

A sure way of creating added interest in a big state fair is to increase the amount of premiums in all departments. This was done, and there will be close on to $35,000 in premiums given this year. In the livestock department care has been taken to allow only the best class of stock on the grounds. Every animal shown will be worthy of a prize. The care which has been taken means that the standard of exhibits will be raised considerably over that of the past, and many of the most celebrated animals in the country will be shown. The livestock feature of this years fair will go down in history as one of the most remarkable ever gathered together. This statement applies not only to cattle, but to swine, sheep, horses and poultry.

In the cooking, sewing, drawing, painting and other educational lines the exhibits will also be found to be astonishing, both as to excellence and numbers. The superintendents of these departments have all been working hard, with the result that the number of individual exhibitors has been increased in some cases nearly 50 per cent.

A feature in which the Michigan Fair will take first place among the big fairs of the country is to be found in the good roads exhibit which will be a part of the display in the new machinery building. Here Superintendent V. V. Green of the implement and machinery division has arranged, together with government good roads engineers, to show samples of good roads built according to government recommendations and specifications. Gravel and concrete and macadam forms of construction will be shown, together with the machines for preparing the materials.

Special invitations will be sent good roads and county officials to visit the department, and there they will be enabled to learn all about good roads, culverts and kindred subjects. It was recommended by the national good roads convention, in Columbus, last year, that the big state fairs take up the subject of good roads and make big displays, and Michigan's fair, according to G. D. Marshall, the Washington good roads engineer who will have charge of its

Saved by His Wit.

Lord Justice Fitzgibbon, at the time when he was one of the justices of appeals of Ireland, was holding assizes in Tipperary county when a man was brought before him on indictment for murder. The case was proved that the victim came to his death by being hit with a stick in the hands of the defendant, but the doctor testified that he had what they called in medical parlance a "paper skull."

The case looked dark for the prisoner, however, and the jury returned a verdict of guilty. As the man was brought before the court for sentence it was noticed that his lordship had his black cap in his hand.

"Have you anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced upon you?" demanded Lord Fitzgibbon.

The man looked for a moment and then said. "No, your lordship, I have nothing to say, but I should like to ask one question."

"What is that, my man?" said Fitzgibbon.

"I should like to know what a man with a head like that was doing in Tipperary?"

The black cap was put away and a prison sentence imposed.

The Story of "Hard Hit."

"Mr. Orchardson, if I thought that by killing you I could paint a picture like yours I would stab you to the heart." Such was the remark made by Pellegrini, the famous caricaturist, to the Royal academician, Sir William Orchardson, when at a private view he first saw "Hard Hit," the picture of the ruined gambler. "It was," said the artist, "the greatest compliment I could have had." Curiously enough, the model who sat for the ruined gameater was rather fond of cards himself. One day the artist noticed that he looked somewhat depressed. "What is the matter?" he asked. "I was awfully hard hit last night," he answered. "By Jove," replied the artist, jumping up with delight, "I've got it at last! 'Hard Hit,' of course." And that is how the picture got its name.

Six Follies of Science.

The six follies of science are the squaring of the circle, perpetual motion, the philosopher's stone, the elixir of life, magic and astrology.

In all ages men of undoubted ability have toiled early and late to unravel the mysteries supposed to be connected with these fascinating problems. It is not always remembered that such intellectual giants as Bacon, Sir Robert Boyle and Sir Isaac Newton sought the philosopher's stone. In the study of astrology Lilly was for a time even pensioned by parliament.

Most of these "follies" conferred indirect benefits upon science, for in seeking one thing their devotees discovered many another. The craze for the secret, or unknown, has still its hold upon men and is seen in palmistry and kindred cults.

Mistake of a Comma.

This instance of what a mistake of a comma can produce has been noticed:

CHANCE FOR CHILDREN TO DO COOKING STUNTS

Supt. T. F. Marston of the dairy and culinery department of the State Fair expects to have the feast of his life when it comes to judging the exhibits of pies and pastry this year.

The premium committee of the Fair in making up the awards in the cooking department decided that if any of the first prizes were won by girls of sixteen or under they would double the amount of the prize. This inducement will result in young people all over the state entering the lists, and the forthcoming crop of pies, cookies, cakes and other dainties will be astonishing.

As usual many of the officials with a sweet tooth and with a weakness for dainties such as "mother used to make" will offer their services, but Supt. Marston will run the risk of too many sweets and will attend to the judging himself.

VOL. LX NO. 34. TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY SEPTEMBER 2, 1910. WHOLE NO 95

EVERY REPUBLICAN SHOULD VOTE FOR SENATOR BURROWS

SENATOR J. C. BURROWS
Republican Candidate for Renomination at the Primaries September 6th

HE has been loyal to the Republican party and its principles. He has always championed the protective policy.

He helped establish the Sound Money System, and is devoting his energies to its perfection.

His wise course in both branches of Congress entitles him to first consideration.

He is a progressive, uncompromising Republican; He was a loyal supporter of Lincoln, Grant, Garfield, McKinley and ROOSEVELT, and is now of WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT. He is a man of high ideals, unquestioned integrity and patriotic zeal.

He has always safeguarded the interests of the American farmer and workingman.

He served with honor in the Civil War and is the warm friend of the soldier.

His record of achievement in Congress is not excelled by that of any man Michigan has honored.

He is at the threshold of his greatest usefulness. He will head the great Committee on Finance. He will be the Senate leader. Michigan cannot afford to lose this prestige and power.

Senator Burrows should have an overwhelming endorsement in the primaries.

FALLS FROM HIGH BUILDING

The body crashed into the skylight of the 6-story building adjoining, and became jammed in the machinery of the elevator. It was not known whether the man fell or deliberately jumped to his death.

COL. ROOSEVELT DEDICATES PARK

Speech at Osawatomie, Kan., a Most Radical One.

DINES WITH KANSAS GOVERNOR

Square Deal Was Keynote of Address in Which Many Public Questions Were Touched Upon in Sensational Manner.

Osawatomie, Kan., Sept. 1.—The nationalism was begun here. Theodore Roosevelt, speaking in the town where John Brown stood himself against the Missouri raiders in 1856, delivered himself of utterances which are construed here as the most radical he has ever made.

He split with the administration and President Taft; he will never endorse the administration for, indeed, he cannot now. Mr. Roosevelt will go along on his own hook and the regulars can follow him if they want to. He stated part of his platform.

Mr. Roosevelt declared that the American people are right in demanding a new nationalism, without which they cannot hope to deal with new problems. He declared also that the new nationalism puts the national need before section or personal need. He said that it is impatient of the utter confusion that results from local legislatures attempting to treat national issues as local issues. He did not mention President Taft.

A crown of red hot Kansas insurgents listened to the colonel make this impassioned speech and they heard Mr. Roosevelt discuss issues of the moment and the future. Some of them he has spoken about before. Others he had not. Before long he will have more to say in regard to his platform. The colonel piled point upon point in his address, and when it was over, he said that he had nothing to add because his remarks speak for themselves.

It was put up to him that he had preached socialism, but he merely smiled. His unmistakable threat to break down the business of the land if its managers do not be good, was simply a repetition of things he has said before on this trip.

T. R. had luncheon with Dr. Uhll at the state insane asylum. From there he went to John Brown park and began his speech. Gov. Stubbs, Senator Bristow, Congressman Madison, James R. Garfield, Gifford Pinchot and William Allen White were with him. They were in hearty sympathy with the colonel's declarations. Equalize opportunity, Mr. Roosevelt began, destroy privilege. While he stands for the square deal under the present rules of the game, he stands for having those rules changed.

The colonel discussed railroad corporations, tariff, the income tax and publicity of campaign funds. He intimated that he favors the recall. He showed mighty clearly that on a good many matters he does not agree with President Taft, and if he does, he did not take occasion to say so.

Mr. Roosevelt did not spare the members of Mr. Taft's cabinet. He took issue on certain things that Attorney General Wickersham has done, just as the insurgents took issue. He backed up the theories of his friends Garfield and Pinchot. He demanded an investigation of our financial system and he demanded that it be investigated right away.

There must be a government supervision of capitalization, not only of public service corporations, but of all corporations doing an interstate business. He said that he did not wish to see the nation forced into the ownership of railways, if it can be avoided; but he does want a physical valuation. This is necessary, he said, not so much for rate fixing, but as the basis of honest capitalization.

Regarding the tariff, T. R. expressed his dissatisfaction at the method of revising it. He said that it is the duty of congress to provide a method by which the interest of the whole people shall be all that receives consideration. He suggested a tariff commission wholly removed from political pressure or improper influences.

Mr. Garfield was all ears as the colonel touched upon the matter of executive power. The new nationalism, said the colonel, regards the executive power to the steward of the public welfare. Mr. Garfield has argued that the executive because of his stewardship has power to do anything his discretion dictates provided it is not specifically prohibited by the constitution or by statute.

The afternoon exercises began with a parade reviewed by Mr. Roosevelt, and which escorted him to the battleground. In line were regular troops, G. A. R. veterans, Spanish war veterans, members of the Woman's Relief corps in automobiles, and civic societies. The parade passed the modest monument erected to John Brown in a pretty little park a few blocks north of the business district, which was dedicated in 1877 by Kansas' gifted orator, John J. Ingalls.

After a brief stop at the monument the parade continued jo the battlefield. There, following introductory remarks by Cora M. Deputy, president of the board of trustees named by the legislature to manage the park, and by Governor Stubbs, Colonel Roosevelt delivered his address dedicating the grounds as a state park.

TWO TRAINMEN ESCAPE DEATH

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 1.—Engineer John Lockyear and Fireman Leonard De May, both of Evansville, on the Evansville and Terre Haute passenger train No. 1, narrowly escaped with their lives by jumping when their engine crashed head on into freight train No. 55 at Youngstown, twelve miles south of here.

The engine of the passenger train was hurled from the track on its side. No one was injured. Officials give no reason for the accident.

TAFT DEDICATES Y. M. C. A. BUILDING

MANY ATTEND THE CEREMONIES

President Stated He Had Officiated at Cornerstone Layings in Many Parts of World and Endorsed Work of Association.

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 1.—President Taft has laid another cornerstone. He acted as mason for the Beverly, Y. M. C. A., and thousands of people from all over eastern Massachusetts came into the summer capital to see the laying. The crowd was enthusiastic and took particular delight in the finished way in which the president laid on the mortar. It yelled vociferously, too, when, in the course of his address, the president declared that he expected to spend the two remaining summers of his incumbency here. Several thousand people witnessed the ceremony. Mr. Taft said in part:

"My part in the program is not speaking, but doing. It is a great pleasure for me to take part in the ceremony of dedicating a building that I believe sincerely will contribute greatly to the comfort, the welfare and the building up of good character in the young men of Beverly. I do not know how it happened, but it has fallen to my lot to take part in the dedication of buildings like this the world over. I began in Dayton, O.; I went on to Omaha and then to Seattle and then to Shanghai, and then to Hongkong, and then to Manila and now I have swung around to Beverly. And it is an evidence of the universal usefulness of the Y. M. C. A. that it is adapted, and well adapted, to the betterment of so different communities as those I have mentioned. It serves a great many purposes, but the one that impresses me as the most useful is the furnishing of a Christian club to young men at a time when the devil is very near and will get them if he can.

"I did not come here to make a speech. I came here to dedicate this building, and I regard it as a high honor to be able to take part in the ceremonies, and I am not going to weary you any more with what I have to say, except that I look forward to the usefulness of the Young Men's Christian Association of Beverly with a great deal of hopefulness, with a great deal of interest because I hope to spend two more, at any rate, of my summers here."

BROWNE WITNESS INDICTED

Grand Jury Votes True Bill Against Detective P. J. Keeley.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—Patrick J. Keeley, suspended detective, former aid who turned against State's Attorney Wayman, was indicted on a charge of perjury by the special grand jury called by the prosecutor to investigate perjury charges resulting from the attempt to save Lee O'Neil Browne, now on trial before Judge Kersten for alleged bribery.

Rumors are rife about the criminal court building that before the case of Browne could go to the jury half a dozen more indictments, involving persons closely connected with the trial, would be voted.

WIRE TAKEN OUT OF CHEEK

H. B. Frye Undergoes Operation as Result of an Accident.

Saginaw, Mich., Sept. 1.—After carrying around a small piece of steel wire in his cheek for the last two years, H. B. Frye underwent an operation and the foreign substance was removed. Two years ago Mr. Frye was working in a machine shop when a belt broke, cutting his face.

The wound was dressed and it healed. Several days ago the end of the wire protruded and for the first time he was aware that it had been embedded in his cheek since the accident.

REPS. SURE TO RETURN BURROWS

In Spite of Yellow Press Attacks He Is G. O. P.'s Choice.

IS BIG FIGURE IN WASHINGTON

Senator Burrows Has Helped Mould the Important Legislation of Congress For Thirty Years—Loyal to American Workmen.

It is fortunate that some of our quick reformers start their theories early enough to enable voters to catch their breath before the primaries.

A few months ago the yellow press of the country was sending out a wild alarm that President Taft and every Republican in congress except a dozen or two of those whose public career is characterized by masked "Stagy tendencies" was corrupt and was serving the interests and not the people.

There are always some to whom such alarms sound like a chime of bells. But like many anotherism and fad we have already discovered its fallacy.

Since that clamor was started we have seen President Taft and those same berated senators and congressmen place upon our statute books more progressive legislation than has been enacted by any single congress in a hundred years.

We have seen the country changed from a deficit in our treasury of $65,000,000 a year to a surplus. We have seen our industries prosper in every branch as never before.

No man, in congress or out of it, is entitled to more credit for these conditions than Senator Burrows.

At all times he has stood unwavering in his allegiance to our American workmen in field and factory. By his clean record and ability in the house of representatives and in the senate he has won a place on the most important committees, where the work of congress is largely done.

By reason of his great influence upon committees his thought and work have been woven into the very fabric of the nation. The work of every great body of men is done through committees, and the strength of any congressman or senator is largely measured by his committee appointments.

Senator Burrows has helped to mould all the important legislation of congress for thirty years, and no man can point to an act or vote of his in all that time that has not been patriotic and unselfish.

He has always stood like a rock for the protection of our American industries against the cheap labor of other countries.

What are the interests for which he stands?

Suppose we illustrate by a home lesson.

The Tappan shoe factory of this city employs from 200 to 250 people. They make shoes by the most improved machinery from hides upon which there is no duty.

Upon each pair of shoes the company makes a profit of less than five cents, so it is evident that the consumer is not robbed very much.

But with this small profit the company earns a fair dividend for its stockholders.

If the tariff were removed or reduced on manufactured shoes, the Tappan Shoe company must either close the factory or reduce the wages of its employes; because workers in shoe factories in Europe are not paid half what they are here.

There were never so many millions at work in our factories and industries as right now.

Not only are our factory employes well paid, but every pound of beef and pork, every dozen of eggs and bushel of grain is enhanced in value because of this condition, for with their wages they buy and eat.

CLEVELAND'S N. Y., HOLDINGS SMALL

Estate's Value Placed at $39,065 in State of New York.

APPRAISER MAKES HIS REPORT

Entire Value Unknown, as Executor Refused to Give Value of the New Jersey Holdings — Relics Go to Old Friends.

New York, Sept. 1.—William Blau, the transfer tax appraiser named to appraise the New York estate of Grover Cleveland, reported that the total estate here, all personal property, amounts to $39,065. Of this amount about $10,000 was in cash in banks. The estate had fifty shares of New York Trust company stock which sold for $490 a share, and fifty shares of the Realty Associates, worth $115 a share. The net estate subject to taxation was $32,378.

The appraiser said that the executor of the estate had declined to tell the amount of the property in New Jersey, and for that reason a tax of 5 per cent was assessed, whereas if the amount had been stated the tax would have been 1 per cent. By so doing the estate paid $400 more in taxes than if the amount of the estate in New Jersey had been stated.

In Mr. Cleveland's will he left $10,000 each to his four children in trust, the income to be paid to their mother until they are 21, when they will get the principal. If either of the daughters cease living with their mother before they are 21, they will receive the income on their share. The residue of the estate went to Mrs. Cleveland.

The children of Richard Hastings, a nephew, got $8,000, and Margaret Hastings, a niece, got $3,000. To his executor, Frank S. Hastings, Mr. Cleveland left his seal ring, "which I have worn many years and which was a present to me by my wife, who concurs in the gift," his will said. To the late Richard Watson Gilder, Mr. Cleveland left a watch and chain, presented to him in 1893 by Mr. Gilder, R. C. Benedict and J. B. Sinclair.

MULE'S KICK MAY BE FATAL

Injury Received Days Ago Grows Worse and Death Is Feared.

Fairmount, Ind., Sept. 1.—When John Howell, 65, attempted to carry a feed of hay to a transient mule which had been left in his feed barn, and allowed a few of the straws to tickle the ribs of the animal and was kicked entirely across the barn, he thought he was not seriously injured and continued at his work.

Later he was compelled to take to his bed, and the physician informed Howell that he had suffered a broken right hip. Owing to his advanced age it is feared that he will not recover.

NINE MISSING AFTER STORM

Southern Texas in Region of Brownsville Swept by Storm.

Brownsville, Tex., Sept. 1.—A serious gulf storm, which for twenty-four hours beat against the western coast of Texas, has passed, and the wind is gradually diminishing in velocity as it moves inland.

The government launch Florence, which started from Point Isabel before the gale struck, is missing. Chief Engineer E. M. Hartick Jr., with a crew of eight men, were aboard.

SCENE AT GRAVE PATHETIC

Tomb Opened to Place Arm With Body of George Fralich.

Port Huron, Mich., Sept. 1.—A pathetic scene was enacted at the grave of George Fralich of Sarnia, when his grave was reopened to place therein his arm, which was found floating in St. Clair river.

His widow and little children were present at the ceremony, which was necessarily brief. Fralich's body was dismembered in the wheel of the steamer Joseph G. Butler.

The Father of Odessa.

A French emigré was the father of Odessa in Russia. He was the Duc de Richelieu of the line of the famous cardinal, who left France in the troublous days of the revolution and entered the Russian service. He was the governor of Odessa just a century ago. He found it little better than a fishing village and left it as it was developing into a flourishing seaport. In 1814, when the monarchy was restored, the Duc de Richelieu returned to his native land and became one of Louis XVIII.'s ministers. He died in 1821. In Odessa a statue is erected to his memory.

Missouri Laws Severe.

The Missouri laws are severe in penalty for neglect of a land owner to cut thistles before the seed ripens. The first offense is a fine of $10 and the road overseer is instructed to bring action against any land owner who fails to carry out the letter of the law. When the owner of land does not reside in the county the law directs the overseer to employ labor and the cost of cutting out the pest is taxed against the land.

Sippers and Gulpers.

Did you ever watch an Englishman at a bar? As soon as he gets his drink he sits down at a table and begins to sip it. It takes him half an hour to finish a drink which would be a mere swallow for a Yankee. Some pacchologist ought to take hold of this and try to find out whether some of our disagreements with England were not due to the fundamental differences between a nation of sippers and a nation of gulpers.

Church of Sealskins.

The Rev. E. J. Peck, who returned from a lonely mission station in Labrador, says his first church was constructed by the natives out of sealskins, and did good service till a pack of Eskimo dogs ate it one night.

Free Liver Remedy

It is well to stop a physical ailment at the first signs of its approach, and that is especially true of liver trouble, which can eventually give rise to so many serious complications. Many have liver trouble and imagine it is indigestion, and hence take the wrong remedy.

When the liver does not store up sufficient gastric juices it becomes sluggish, and in this way disturbs the stomach and bowels, with which it is supposed to work in harmony. Then comes the sallow complexion, the pimply face, the dull pain in the forehead, the thinning of the blood, etc. A very quick and sensible way to stop the trouble as well as to cure it is by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which contains ingredients especially intended to promote the activity of the liver.

Among the many thousands who have written the doctor about the results achieved with his remedy, and who are glad to make the facts public so that others can help themselves, are Mr. Jas. Kennedy, St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. S. A. La Rue of Smith's Grove, Ky., and many others.

These, like thousands of others, started the use of Syrup Pepsin with a sample. If you will send your name and address you can also obtain a free trial bottle. This will prove to you that liver trouble is promptly cured with this remedy or money will be refunded. Having tried it you can then buy it in the regular way of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, and the latter is sufficient for an entire family.

This remedy is a vast improvement over cathartic tablets and salts, which only do good for the time being. Syrup Pepsin is permanent in its results, is pleasant to take and does not gripe. It is especially good for all those who cannot stand a violent purgative.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

CAUSE OF INSANITY.

It Has Not Been Traced to Disease of the Brain.

Insanity is not a disease of the brain, because no anatomical investigation, microscopic or otherwise, can show the least difference between either brain cell or fibre of a person dying insane and the healthy brain of one killed in an accident. But the same absence of brain changes is noticeable in a whole class of important chronic nervous diseases such as migraine, neurasthenia, hysteria and epilepsy. None of these shows post-mortem any characteristic changes from normal brains.

Now, no one can minimize the importance of these nervous diseases. Insanity alone is serious enough. When that dread spectre appears, there is no getting used to it. Years of familiarity with it, both in private and in official relations, do not lessen my recoil from the spectacle of a permanent, instead of—as with drugs—a temporary, mental derangement. But it is facts connected with these same insanities produced by drugs entering the blood which awaken the hope that we may find elsewhere than in the brain the cause, and therefore, with the cause, the best treatment for this dreadful affection, as well as also for the other nervous diseases which causes no brain changes. If the brain of a man who has been addicted to immense doses of opium for years still shows in it no trace of this mind-deranging agent, while chemistry quickly finds the reactions of this drug in his blood, the mistake of years on this whole subject begins to come into view. It is singular how long the sway of that error has continued, for even yet many physicians, including some neurologists, cannot see the two sides of the problem.

The Ideal Diet.

Too much food is as bad as too little and occasions a waste of energy and strength in the body as well as a waste of nutritive material, says a writer in "What to Eat." While in the case of some foods as purchased, notably meats, some waste is unavoidable, the pecuniary loss can be diminished, both by buying those kinds in which there is the least waste, and by utilizing more carefully than is ordinarily done, portions of what is usually classed as refuse. Much of the waste may be avoided by careful planning so as to provide a comfortable and appetizing meal in sufficient amount, but without excess. If strict economy is necessary, the dearer cuts of meats and the more expensive fruits and vegetables should be avoided. With reasonable care in cooking and serving, a pleasing and varied diet can be furnished at moderate cost. It should not be forgotten that dearness of a food material depends not only on its market price, but also on the cost of its digestible nutrients. It should always be remembered that "the ideal diet is that combination of foods which, while imposing the least burden on the body, supplies it with exactly sufficient material to meet its wants."

Cause of Leaves' Change of Color.

When sap ceases to flow in the autumn, and the natural growth of the tree ceases, oxidation in the leaves takes place. Under this oxidation the leaves change to red, or, with a slight change of the condition, it might be yellow or brown. This, however, is only the chemical explanation. Life, or, as we would say, vital power, has to bear a part. If a branch is entirely cut off from the main plant, no change of color occurs. On the other hand, if a branch is injured, though not entirely cut off from the tree, a change of color takes place, even if it be mid-summer. In other words, chemistry alone cannot account for the bright colors of autumn foliage; the mysterious power we call life has to work at the same time.

Hundred of Tecumseh Citizens Can Tell You All About It

Home endorsement, the public expression of Tecumseh people should be evidence beyond dispute for every Tecumseh reader. Surely the experience of friends and neighbors, cheerfully given by them, will carry more weight than the utterances of strangers residing in faraway places. Read the following:

William C. Witherell, W. Pottawatamie street, Tecumseh, Mich., says: "My experience has convinced me that Doan's Kidney Pills are a reliable kidney remedy. I publicly recommended them some years ago and I hold as high an opinion of them as ever. Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me of backache and other symptoms of kidney trouble and I have had no return attacks. I know of several other persons who have taken this remedy with the best of results."

SPAIN SINCE 1898.

Politically Spain possesses four great guiding forces: "Conservadores," "Liberales," "Republicanos" and "Carlistas." Of these only the Republicans and the Carlists have a clear and definite programme, and it may even be said that only the latter have a real watchword. Indeed, so great is the diversity of opinion between the Republicans and the Carlists that they are able to effect little, though they control what is numerically a strong minority (thirty) in the Cortes. The Conservatives and Liberals are the governmental parties of to day, and they, thanks to a system of alternation, or turn about, succeed each other in power in accordance with the royal will. But the curious thing about these political aggregations is that they do not have a clear and definite creed or political programme. The Conservatives of to-day are the Liberals of yesterday, for they, thanks to an evolutionary movement of the Left, found themselves on the Right and were given the name of "reactionaries." However, the Liberals, who now and then use "radicalism" and "anti-clericalism" as watchwords of their party forget their promises when once in power and in the majority of cases continue the policy of their predecessors.

In spite of all, however, in the general method of administration Spain is being regenerated. Opposition or agreement, for example, has brought about guarantees of stability to the public functionaries, thus doing away with the multitude of unemployed persons which each change of government used to bring. The type of "cesante" (dismissed public officer) is becoming more rare every day, and it is to be hoped that this evolution, having thus commenced, will end by completely destroying the type.

The life of the provinces has gained a great impetus in the last few years: Barcelona, Bilbao, Valencia, Zaragoza, Valladolid, &c., are establishing new industries and opening markets within and without the kingdom. However, the character distinctive of each of these provinces and the necessity of defending special interests cause a certain spirit of discord or rivalry to exist between them. Barcelona, for example, an industrial province par excellence, needs to import the greater part of the raw material for its manufacturing, and so a high tariff system would be the ruin of the Catalan region. Valencians, on the other hand, whose greatest resources in agriculture, are comparatively indifferent to tariff questions, for their prosperity depends in great part on rates of exchange. Owing to the depreciation of Spanish currency they are able to sell their products in foreign markets at a premium which offsets the cost of production and handling.

This especial nature of the various regions gives them also very marked political tendencies. In the centers of industry the body of laborers is Republican or Socialist (Barcelona and its neighborhood, Madrid, Valencia, Zaragoza, Bilbao, &c.). The country people on the contrary are for the most part reactionary, although private interests or the pressure of proprietor upon tenant may be determinative of the farmer's vote.

Feared by the great and powerful, frequently of but little education but of a cunning sagacity, an entangler of the clearest questions and an interpreter of the most difficult the "cacique" manages and upsets the government of a province. Mayors, Governors, Deputies, high and low officials, all owe to him their posts and are his instruments, going from Ministry to Ministry dancing attendance while at home in his little corner the "cacique" with a shrewd imagination prepares the strokes of local politics. The Province of Castellon, which elects seven Deputies, was managed by a kind of committee called the cosi, directed by a person of the middle class.

The political education of the citizen is coming more and more into evidence, and with its advance the influence of the "cacique" (political "chief" or "boss") is growing less, so that at present the regions in which the will of the latter dominates are very few. A new political power has been constituted since the loss of the colonies and has been greatly augmented in the last elections: "La solidaridad," the principle of solidarity. This is the concentration of diverse political tendencies of a section for the defence of its interests against a policy of centralization. Nowhere has the central power been so hated as in Spain, an effect without doubt of the heterogeneity of the nation's component parts. A Catalan does not desire to be classed with a Calician or an Andalusian; a Valencian or a Murcian is very different from a Navarrese or a Basque; and the diversity which exists in the legislative system in regard to privileges accorded to the various provinces has had the hardihood to show itself in the political system. It is undeniable that there has been a certain abuse of centralism; but it is also evident that both the Basque and the Catalan sectionalists have made exaggerated demands. If these should be granted national life would become impossible; the Sate would turn from a centralized into a federal State.—Yale Review.

BIGGEST FAIR IN READY TO OPEN

Splendors of the Amusement World, Aeroplanes, Automobile Show, Nightly Horse Show, Dog Show, Splendid Livestock, Auto Races, Fireworks and Midway Will Please and Entertain Thousands Next Week.

After months and months of preparation, the planning and arranging of exhibits, engaging of performers, building new buildings and doing the thousand and one things necessary in preparing a big state fair, the management announces that at last everything is in readiness for the opening next Monday of the 61st annual state fair of the Michigan State Agricultural society. And, in making this announcement it is felt that the public will approve of the plans and will be more than pleased at the superb attractions, the unexcelled exhibits in all departments, the scope and completeness of the exhibits and the amusement features of this, the most expensive and most elaborate fair ever held in the state of Michigan.

Months ago it was planned to spend money liberally and to spare no effort to make this fair this year a success in every particular. With few exceptions, these plans all worked out nicely, and nothing apparently has been overlooked that will add to the comfort, pleasure and education of the public who attend. And because of this completeness of detail in the arrangements, it is confidently expected that the attendance will surpass that of any fair ever held in the state.

WRIGHT BIPLANE AT FAIR GROUNDS

The appearance of these machines at the coming State Fair, Sept. 19-24th, is one of the biggest attractions ever offered the people of Michigan. Four daily flights will be made, and the exhibitions will be thrilling in the extreme. This cut shows Arch Hoxsey at the Fair grounds during Elks' week exhibition, when he set the crowd wild with his daring work.

A sure way of creating added interest in a big state fair is to increase the amount of premiums in all departments. This was done, and there will be close on to $35,000 in premiums given this year. In the livestock department care has been taken to allow only the best class of stock on the grounds. Every animal shown will be worthy of a prize. The care which has been taken means that the standard of exhibits will be raised considerably over that of the past, and many of the most celebrated animals in the country will be shown. The livestock feature of this years fair will go down in history as one of the most remarkable ever gathered together. This statement applies not only to cattle, but to swine, sheep, horses and poultry.

In the cooking, sewing, drawing, painting and other educational lines the exhibits will also be found to be astonishing, both as to excellence and numbers. The superintendents of these departments have all been working hard, with the result that the number of individual exhibitors has been increased in some cases nearly 50 per cent.

A feature in which the Michigan Fair will take first place among the big fairs of the country is to be found in the good roads exhibit which will be a part of the display in the new machinery building. Here Superintendent V. V. Green of the implement and machinery division has arranged, together with government good roads engineers, to show samples of good roads built according to government recommendations and specifications. Gravel and concrete and macadam forms of construction will be shown, together with the machines for preparing the materials.

Special invitations will be sent good roads and county officials to visit the department, and there they will be enabled to learn all about good roads, culverts and kindred subjects. It was recommended by the national good roads convention, in Columbus, last year, that the big state fairs take up the subject of good roads, and make big displays, and Michigan's fair, according to G. D. Marshall, the Washington good roads engineer who will have charge of its

Saved by His Wit.

Lord Justice Fitzgibbon, at the time when he was one of the justices of appeals of Ireland, was holding assizes in Tipperary county, when a man was brought before him on indictment for murder. The case was proved that the victim came to his death by being hit with a stick in the hands of the defendant, but the doctor testified that he had what they called in medical parlance a "paper skull."

The case looked dark for the prisoner, however, and the jury returned a verdict of guilty. As the man was brought before the court for sentence it was noticed that his lordship had his black cap in his hand.

"Have you anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced upon you?" demanded Lord Fitzgibbon.

The man looked for a moment and then said, "No, your lordship, I have nothing to say, but I should like to ask one question."

"What is that, my man?" said Fitzgibbon.

"I should like to know what a man with a head like that was doing in Tipperary?"

The black cap was put away and a prison sentence imposed.

The Story of "Hard Hit."

"Mr. Orchardson, if I thought that by killing you I could paint a picture like yours I would stab you to the heart." Such was the remark made by Pellegrini, the famous caricaturist, to the Royal academician, Sir William Orchardson, when at a private view he first saw "Hard Hit," the picture of the ruined gambler. "It was," said the artist, "the greatest compliment I could have had." Curiously enough, the model who sat for the ruined gamester was rather fond of cards himself. One day the artist noticed that he looked somewhat depressed. "What is the matter?" he asked. "I was awfully hard hit last night," he answered. "By Jove," replied the artist, jumping up with delight, "I've got it at last! 'Hard Hit,' of course." And that is how the picture got its name.

Six Follies of Science.

The six follies of science are the squaring of the circle, perpetual motion, the philosopher's stone, the elixir of life, magic and astrology.

In all ages men of undoubted ability have toiled early and late to unravel the mysteries supposed to be connected with these fascinating problems. It is not always remembered that such intellectual giants as Bacon, Sir Robert Boyle and Sir Isaac Newton sought the philosopher's stone. In the study of astrology Lilly was for a time even pensioned by parliament.

Most of these "follies" conferred indirect benefits upon science, for in seeking one thing their devotees discovered many another. The craze for the secret, or unknown, has still its hold upon men and is seen in palmistry and kindred cults.

CHANCE FOR CHILDREN TO DO COOKING STUNTS

Supt. T. F. Marston of the dairy and culinery department of the State Fair expects to have the feast of his life when it comes to judging the exhibits of pies and pastry this year.

The premium committee of the Fair in making up the awards in the cooking department decided that if any of the first prizes were won by girls of sixteen or under they would double the amount of the prize. This inducement will result in young people all over the state entering the lists, and the forthcoming crop of pies, cookies, cakes and other dainties will be astonishing.

As usual many of the officials with a sweet tooth and with a weakness for dainties such as "mother used to make" will offer their services, but Supt. Marston will run the risk of too many sweets and will attend to the judging himself.

VOL. LX NO. 34. TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY SEPTEMBER 2, 1910. WHOLE NO 95

EVERY REPUBLICAN SHOULD VOTE FOR SENATOR BURROWS

SENATOR J. C. BURROWS
Republican Candidate for Renomination at the Primaries September 6th

HE has been loyal to the Republican party and its principles. He has always championed the protective policy.

He helped establish the Sound Money System, and is devoting his energies to its perfection.

His wise course in both branches of Congress entitles him to first consideration.

He is a progressive, uncompromising Republican. He was a loyal supporter of Lincoln, Grant, Garfield, McKinley and ROOSEVELT, and is now of WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT. He is a man of high ideals, unquestioned integrity and patriotic zeal.

He has always safeguarded the interests of the American farmer and workingman.

He served with honor in the Civil War and is the warm friend of the soldier.

His record of achievement in Congress is not excelled by that of any man Michigan has honored.

He is at the threshold of his greatest usefulness. He will head the great Committee on Finance. He will be the Senate leader. Michigan cannot afford to lose this prestige and power.

Senator Burrows should have an overwhelming endorsement in the primaries.

The body crashed into the skylight of the 6-story building adjoining, and became jammed in the machinery of the elevator. It was not known whether the man fell or deliberately jumped to his death.

COL. ROOSEVELT DEDICATES PARK

DINES WITH KANSAS GOVERNOR

Square Deal Was Keynote of Address in Which Many Public Questions Were Touched Upon in Sensational Manner.

Osawatomie, Kan., Sept. 1.—The nationalism was begun here. Theodore Roosevelt, speaking in the town where John Brown stood himself against the Missouri raiders in 1856, delivered himself of utterances which are construed here as the most radical he has ever made.

He split with the administration and President Taft; he will never endorse the administration for, indeed, he cannot now. Mr. Roosevelt will go along on his own hook and the regulars can follow him if they want to. He stated part of his platform.

Mr. Roosevelt declared that the American people are right in demanding a new nationalism, without which they cannot hope to deal with new problems. He declared also that the new nationalism puts the national need before section or personal need. He said that it is impatient of the utter confusion that results from local legislatures attempting to treat national issues as local issues. He did not mention President Taft.

A crown of red hot Kansas insurgents listened to the colonel make this impassioned speech and they heard Mr. Roosevelt discuss issues of the moment and the future. Some of them he has spoken about before. Others he had not. Before long he will have more to say in regard to his platform. The colonel piled point upon point in his address, and when it was over, he said that he had nothing to add because his remarks speak for themselves.

It was put up to him that he had preached socialism, but he merely smiled. His unmistakable threat to break down the business of the land if its managers do not be good, was simply a repetition of things he has said before on this trip.

T. R. had luncheon with Dr. Uhl at the state insane asylum. From there he went to John Brown park and began his speech. Gov. Stubbs, Senator Bristow, Congressman Madison, James R. Garfield, Gifford Pinchot and William Allen White were with him. They were in hearty sympathy with the colonel's declarations. Equalize opportunity, Mr. Roosevelt began, destroy privilege. While he stands for the square deal under the present rules of the game, he stands for having those rules changed.

The colonel discussed railroad corporations, tariff, the income tax and publicity of campaign funds. He intimated that he favors the recall. He showed mighty clearly that on a good many matters he does not agree with President Taft, and if he does, he did not take occasion to say so.

Mr. Roosevelt did not spare the members of Mr. Taft's cabinet. He took issue on certain things that Attorney General Wickersham has done, just as the insurgents took issue. He backed up the theories of his friends Garfield and Pinchot. He demanded an investigation of our financial system and he demanded that it be investigated right away.

There must be a government supervision of capitalization, not only of public service corporations, but of all corporations doing an interstate business. He said that he did not wish to see the nation forced into the ownership of railways, if it can be avoided, but he does want a physical valuation. This is necessary, he said, not so much for rate fixing, but as the basis of honest capitalization.

Regarding the tariff, T. R. expressed his dissatisfaction at the method of revising it. He said that it is the duty of congress to provide a method by which the interest of the whole people shall be all that receives consideration. He suggested a tariff commission wholly removed from political pressure or improper influences.

Mr. Garfield was all ears as the colonel touched upon the matter of executive power. The new nationalism, said the colonel, regards the executive power to the steward of the public welfare. Mr. Garfield has argued that the executive because of his stewardship has power to do anything his discretion dictates provided it is not specifically prohibited by the constitution or by statute.

The afternoon exercises began with a parade reviewed by Mr. Roosevelt, and which escorted him to the battleground. In line were regular troops, G. A. R. veterans, Spanish war veterans, members of the Woman's Relief corps in automobiles, and civic societies. The parade passed the modest monument erected to John Brown in a pretty little park a few blocks north of the business district, which was dedicated in 1877 by Kansas' gifted orator, John J. Ingalls.

After a brief stop at the monument the parade continued to the battlefield. There, following introductory remarks by Cora M. Deputy, president of the board of trustees named by the legislature to manage the park, and by Governew Stubbs, Colonel Roosevelt delivered his address dedicating the grounds as a state park.

TWO TRAINMEN ESCAPE DEATH

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 1.—Engineer John Lockyear and Fireman Leonard De May, both of Evansville, on the Evansville and Terre Haute passenger train No. 1, narrowly escaped with their lives by jumping when their engine crashed head on into freight train No. 55 at Youngstown, twelve miles south of here.

The engine of the passenger train was hurled from the track on its side. No one was injured. Officials gave no reason for the accident.

TAFT DEDICATES Y. M. C. A. BUILDING

MANY ATTEND THE CEREMONIES

President Stated He Had Officiated at Cornerstone Layings in Many Parts of World and Endorsed Work of Association.

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 1.—President Taft has laid another cornerstone. He acted as mason for the Beverly, Y. M. C. A., and thousands of people from all over eastern Massachusetts came into the summer capital to see the laying. The crowd was enthusiastic and took particular delight in the finished way in which the president laid on the mortar. It yelled vociferously, too, when, in the course of his address, the president declared that he expected to spend the two remaining summers of his incumbency here. Several thousand people witnessed the ceremony. Mr. Taft said in part:

"My part in the program is not speaking, but doing. It is a great pleasure for me to take part in the ceremony of dedicating a building that I believe sincerely will contribute greatly to the comfort, the welfare and the building up of good character in the young men of Beverly. I do not know how it happened, but it has fallen to my lot to take part in the dedication of buildings like this the world over. I began in Dayton, O.; I went on to Omaha and then to Seattle and then to Shanghai, and then to Hongkong, and then to Manila and now I have swung around to Beverly. And it is an evidence of the universal usefulness of the Y. M. C. A. that it is adapted, and well adapted, to the betterment of so different communities as those I have mentioned. It serves a great many purposes, but the one that impresses me as the most useful is the furnishing of a Christian club to young men at a time when the devil is very near and will get them if he can.

"I did not come here to make a speech. I came here to dedicate this building, and I regard it as a high honor to be able to take part in the ceremonies, and I am not going to weary you any more with what I have to say, except that I look forward to the usefulness of the Young Men's Christian Association of Beverly with a great deal of hopefulness, with a great deal of interest because I hope to spend two more, at any rate, of my summers here."

BROWNE WITNESS INDICTED

Grand Jury Votes True Bill Against Detective P. J. Keeley.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—Patrick J. Keeley, suspended detective, former aid who turned against State's Attorney Wayman, was indicted on a charge of perjury by the special grand jury called by the prosecutor to investigate perjury charges resulting from the attempt to save Lee O'Neil Browne, now on trial before Judge Kersten for alleged bribery.

Rumors are rife about the criminal court building that before the case of Browne could go to the jury half a dozen more indictments, involving persons closely connected with the trial, would be voted.

WIRE TAKEN OUT OF CHEEK

H. B. Frye Undergoes Operation as Result of an Accident.

Saginaw, Mich., Sept. 1.—After carrying around a small piece of steel wire in his cheek for the last two years, H. B. Frye underwent an operation and the foreign substance was removed. Two years ago Mr. Frye was working in a machine shop when a belt broke, cutting his face.

The wound was dressed and it healed. Several days ago the end of the wire protruded and for the first time he was aware that it had been embedded in his cheek since the accident.

REPS. SURE TO RETURN BURROWS

In Spite of Yellow Press Attacks He Is G. O. P.'s Choice.

IS BIG FIGURE IN WASHINGTON

Senator Burrows Has Helped Mould the Important Legislation of Congress For Thirty Years—Loyal to American Workmen.

It is fortunate that some of our quick reformers start their theories early enough to enable voters to catch their breath before the primaries.

A few months ago the yellow press of the country was sending out a wild alarm that President Taft and every Republican in congress except a dozen or two of those whose public career is characterized by masked "Stagy tendencies" was corrupt and was serving the interests and not the people.

There are always some to whom such alarms sound like a chime of bells. But like many anotherism and fad we have already discovered its fallacy.

Since that clamor was started we have seen President Taft and those same berated senators and congressmen place upon our statute books more progressive legislation than has been enacted by any single congress in a hundred years.

We have seen the country changed from a deficit in our treasury of $65,000,000 a year to a surplus. We have seen our industries prosper in every branch as never before.

No man, in congress or out of it, is entitled to more credit for these conditions than Senator Burrows.

At all times he has stood unwavering in his allegiance to our American workmen in field and factory. By his clean record and ability in the house of representatives and in the senate he has won a place on the most important committees, where the work of congress is largely done.

By reason of his great influence upon committees his thought and work have been woven into the very fabric of the nation. The work of every great body of men is done through committees, and the strength of any congressman or senator is largely measured by his committee appointments.

Senator Burrows has helped to mould all the important legislation of congress for thirty years, and no man can point to an act or vote of his in all that time that has not been patriotic and unselfish.

He has always stood like a rock for the protection of our American industries against the cheap labor of other countries.

What are the interests for which he stands?

Suppose we illustrate by a home lesson.

The Tappan shoe factory of this city employs from 200 to 250 people. They make shoes by the most improved machinery from hides upon which there is no duty.

Upon each pair of shoes the company makes a profit of less than five cents, so it is evident that the consumer is not robbed very much.

But with this small profit the company earns a fair dividend for its stockholders.

If the tariff were removed or reduced on manufactured shoes, the Tappan Shoe company must either close the factory or reduce the wages of its employes; because workers in shoe factories in Europe are not paid half what they are here.

There were never so many millions at work in our factories and industries as right now.

Not only are our factory employes well paid, but every pound of beef and pork, every dozen of eggs and bushel of grain is enhanced in value, because of this condition, for with their wages they buy and eat.

CLEVELAND'S N. Y., HOLDINGS SMALL

Estate's Value Placed at $39,065 in State of New York.

APPRAISER MAKES HIS REPORT

Entire Value Unknown, as Executor Refused to Give Value of the New Jersey Holdings — Relics Go to Old Friends.

New York, Sept. 1.—William Blau, the transfer tax appraiser named to appraise the New York estate of Grover Cleveland, reported that the total estate here, all personal property, amounts to $39,065. Of this amount about $10,000 was in cash in banks. The estate had fifty shares of New York Trust company stock which sold for $490 a share, and fifty shares of the Realty Associates, worth $115 a share. The net estate subject to taxation was $32,378.

The appraiser said that the executor of the estate had declined to tell the amount of the property in New Jersey, and for that reason a tax of 5 per cent was assessed, whereas if the amount had been stated the tax would have been 1 per cent. By so doing the estate paid $400 more in taxes than if the amount of the estate in New Jersey had been stated.

In Mr. Cleveland's will he left $10,000 each to his four children in trust, the income to be paid to their mother until they are 21, when they will get the principal. If either of the daughters cease living with their mother before they are 21, they will receive the income on their share. The residue of the estate went to Mrs. Cleveland.

The children of Richard Hastings, a nephew, got $8,000, and Margaret Hastings, a niece, got $3,000. To his executor, Frank S. Hastings, Mr. Cleveland left his seal ring, "which I have worn many years and which was a present to me by my wife, who concurs in the gift," his will said. To the late Richard Watson Gilder, Mr. Cleveland left a watch and chain, presented to him in 1893 by Mr. Gilder, R. C. Benedict and J. B. Sinclair.

MULE'S KICK MAY BE FATAL

Injury Received Days Ago Grows Worse and Death is Feared.

Fairmount, Ind., Sept. 1.—When John Howell, 65, attempted to carry a feed of hay to a transient mule which had been left in his feed barn, and allowed a few of the straws to tickle the ribs of the animal and was kicked entirely across the barn, he thought he was not seriously injured and continued at his work.

Later he was compelled to take to his bed, and the physician informed Howell that he had suffered a broken right hip. Owing to his advanced age it is feared that he will not recover.

NINE MISSING AFTER STORM

Southern Texas in Region of Brownsville Swept by Storm.

Brownsville, Tex., Sept. 1.—A serious gulf storm, which for twenty-four hours beat against the western coast of Texas, has passed, and the wind is gradually diminishing in velocity as it moves inland.

The government launch Florence, which started from Point Isabel before the gale struck, is missing. Chief Engineer E. M. Hartick Jr., with a crew of eight men, were aboard.

SCENE AT GRAVE PATHETIC

Tomb Opened to Place Arm With Body of George Fralich.

Port Huron, Mich., Sept. 1.—A pathetic scene was enacted at the grave of George Fralich of Sarnia, when his grave was reopened to place therein his arm, which was found floating in St. Clair river.

His widow and little children were present at the ceremony, which was necessarily brief. Fralich's body was dismembered in the wheel of the steamer Joseph G. Butler.

Poumarede's Discharge

When the boys returned to school after the autumn holidays there was a new teacher for our class. His name was Poumarede, and the poor fellow was anything but handsome. He was a tall young man, evidently of peasant birth, tanned and smooth-shaven, closely-cropped hair and a thin, bony face. He was very bashful, expressed himself with difficulty and spoke with a pronounced Bearnese accent.

When he entered the classroom he carried a number of big illustrated books under his arm, which he was very much taken up with during the intermissions between lessons. He told us himself that he was studying medicine, and was innocent enough to offer d'Espaignac, the worst mischief maker of us all, to show him the hospital when he had an afternoon off.

We soon found out that a young lady with a little girl often waited for him outside the school and this gave us a fresh opportunity of teasing him.

Christmas drew near and under various pretexts we older boys had been given an afternoon off, with permission to stay out late and attend the midnight mass.

We even in the most amicable manner asked him one day: "Do you dance, M. Poumarede?" He thought for a moment, and then said, with his most pleasant smile: "No, I don't but I play the cornet." The whole class nearly died laughing.

At last the eventful night came and in the evening we all met in the great dance hall of Chateau des Fleurs, where we found the dance in full swing and soon frogot everything in the pleasure of dancing.

The hours passed like minutes and it was late when the little d'Espaignac came rushing up to me greatly excited.

"I have been looking for you everywhere. Do you know who is sitting in the orchestra? Poumarede!"

"Impossible!"

"Yes, sure enough. Our own Poumarede is up there blowing the cornet to beat the band. Come up and see!"

We tumbled down the stairs into the crowd and all night through we cried to the comrades when they waltzed by: "Have you seen Poumarede?" This was the refrain until daylight, but what happened through the night outside of this incident I only dimly remember.

We came home very late and were all given a rest in quarters the following day, which happened to be Sunday.

One evening—it was New Year's Eve—we all stared at the blackboard as we entered the classroom, where d'Espaignac had made an excellent caricature drawing of the teacher blowing his cornet, and when we saw it we roared with laughter. Poumarede was as pale as a ghost, and while pandemonium was reigning, the inspector came in to find out what was the matter. He immediately discovered the drawing and without a word he mad a sign for Poumarede to follow him.

As we rose on the stroke of 9, the teacher motioned to us to sit down again. With eyes cast down and trembling voice he addressed us in these words, which I even now, after so many years, have never been able to blot from my memory: "I have just been discharged"—that was the poor teacher's New Year's present. "The inspector has explained the matter to me. As long as I was only patient and unable to maintain order, they said nothing to me, but now the inspector says it is an open scandal. I have been seen one evening performing work supposed to be below my dignity as teacher. Of course you boys, who discovered me, are right; they are all right.

"You have seen me play in the orchestra at a dance, where I had never imagined I would meet any of my pupils. I played there this week for three francs a night."

"I needed 20 francs. Of course, it was wrong and foolish of me, but young people like you cannot understand my position. I have a wife and child, a little girl of five. Here I get only 60 francs a month, and though my wife works very hard, too, it is very hard for us to make both ends meet. This winter especially has been severe—my wife has been sick, we have had to buy medicine and we use more coal than usually.

"We are really in need of money, and because I stood for an examination I could not give more lessons than I do. One evening, last week, when I had a day off, I wanted to make my little girl happy by showing her the toy shops. I admit it was wrong of me. Children do not understand that when one is poor one must be satisfied to look without buying.

"In one of the main streets there was a beautiful window filled with toys, and at the front was a pretty doll which my poor little girl could not get her eyes away from. The price was marked on it; it cost 20 francs.

"'Come, Ninette,' I said, 'it is far too expensive for us,' and I pulled the poor little one away, though she kept turning her head to get a last glimpse of the doll.

"When we had almost reached home Ninette looked up at me with her big blue eyes and said: "Oh, papa dear, I should so much like to have that doll.'

"The next day, coming home from school, I met a friend of mine, a musician, who said to me: 'The band in the Chateau des Fleurs is to be increased during the holidays. Do you happen to know anyone who would play the cornet there?'

"Without thinking I offered myself and promised to come that night, and I only regretted it when I was there, but I had promised and I felt sure nobody would notice me. I was paid 20 francs in advance, and just before I left home I said to Ninette: 'Do not forget to put your shoes in front of the fireplace, and maybe Father Christmas will bring you the doll.

"Her cry of joy was more than reward enough for the long, tiresome nights in the orchestra, but my poor wife looked at me with anxious eyes. I calmed her with a nod of my head and left.

"On my way I went into the toy shop and bought the doll, and entered the ballroom with the box under my cloak ... and I am sure that just then I was as happy as any of you, my young friends. I noticed that you were there, but I was sure you would never discover me. While you were dancing the doll was under my chair.

"When two of you discovered me I was full of fear and that spoiled my pleasure over the doll for my little girl; but when I came home I put it next to the little shoes in front of the cold fireplace. And the next morning it was all forgotten when I saw how happy my little girl was.

"This is what I waited to tell you. Of course, it was wrong of me and the fault is my own if I have been discharged, and I beg you all to forgive me——"

Here his voice failed him and his last words were almost inaudible. It was as quiet in the classroom as in a tomb. Poumarede arose to leave, when a strange sound struck our ears, and when we turned our heads we saw d'Espaignac hide his face in his hands and sob so that his whole body trembled.—Fair Groom.

PRIMARY ELECTION.

Primary election notice is hereby given that a general primary election will be held in the Township of Tecumseh, County of Lenawee, state of Michigan at the council building within said township, on Tuesday, Sept. 19th for the purpose of nominating by direct vote candidates by each of the several political parties for the following offices, viz.:

National—One candidate for United State Senator; one candidate for representaive in Congress from the congressifnal district of which said voting precinct forms a part.

Legislative—One candidate for Senator in the State Legislature for the Senatorial District of which said voting precinct forms a part; one candidate for Representative in the State Legislature for the Representative district of which said voting precinct forms a part.

County—One candidate for each of the following County offices, viz.; sheriff, clerk, Treasurer, register of deeds, prosecuting attorney, surveyor, drain commissioner; also two candidates for Circuit Court Commissioner and two candidates for Coroner.

There shall also be elected as many delegates to the county convention of the several political parties, as said precinct or township is entitled to under the call of the county committees of said political parties, which number will be indicated by the number of blank lines printed on the official primary ballots used at said election under the heading "Delegates to County Conventions." The board of primary election inspectors will furnish delegates with credentials entitleing them to seats in the county conventions, except where there is more than one precinct in a township and the county committee require the election of delegates from the township as a whole, such delegates must be admitted without credentials.

Relative to enrollment. The enrollment for this election was held April 4, 1910 but any qualified elector in any election precinct in the state who failed to have his name enrolled on enrollment day by reason of sickness or unavoidable absence from the election precinct and who is a qualified elector in said precinct on primary election day, or any person who has become twenty one years of age or a qualified elector after enrollment day, may have his name enrolled by the board of primary election inspectors or any primary election day upon making oath as provided in the general election law relative to the registration of electors on election days; or any person duly enrolled in the manner provided by law, but who has changed his residence to any election precinct other than that in which he was enrolled, may be enrolled in the new election precinct and may vote therein: Provided, That he has resided in the election precinct in which he seeks to be enrolled for a period of twenty days and that he obtained from a member of the enrollment board of the election precinct in which he formerly resided, a certificate stating that he was duly enrolled in such precinct, and that he is entitled to enrollment in the new precinct. In the absence of such certificate, if he can satisfy the said enrollment board of primary election inspectors upon making oath to such facts, according to the provisions of the general election law relative to registration of electors on election day) he shall be entitled to enrollment and be permitted to vote following such enrollment.

No person can vote at any primary election whose name is not enrolled.

An enrolled voter who has changed his party affiliation can be reenrolled on enrollment day only.

The polls of said election will open at 7 o'clock in the forenoon and will remain open until 5 o'clock in the afternoon of said day of election, unless the Board of Primary Election Inspectors shall in their discretion adjourn the polls at 12 o'clock nonn, for one hour.

WOMANS CONGRESS.

At Coming County Fair.

The Executive committee of the County Federation of clubs of Lenawee held a meeting in Adrian last week to consider plans for the coming Woman's Congress to be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of the week of the county fair. Mrs. John Clark of Clinton, Pres. of the Federation of clubs called the meeting. Tecumseh was represented by Mrs. J. D. Shull, Mrs. A. James and Mrs. Andrew Wilson. Mrs. Rulison of Clinton, Mrs. Clara Pease of Hudson, Mrs. John Landon of Addison and Mrs. Carl Turner and Mrs Caroline Curtis of Adrian were in attendance. Mrs. Dodge former Pres. of the Federation was specially invited as it was felt that her untiring zeal made the last congress of success and it was felt that her advice would be of great benefit to the ladies. Plans were made and discussed and it is hoped this will be the best ever held. As yet no building has been found for holding the congress but it is thought another year will find them all established.

Mrs James M. Ingersoll.

At eleven o'clock Saturday evening August 20, after eight month's of severe and patiently borne suffering, death came to Mrs. Ella Ingersoll and gave her spirit sweet release from the pain racked body. Peacefully as a little child falling asleep she entered into rest.

Ella Hyde, daughter of Morris and Harriett Hyde, was born in Tecumseh, Mich., March 8, 1849. She was united in marriage to James M. Ingersoll, November 18, 1868. All of her life was spent in Tecumseh, with the exception of four years during the seventies which were spent in Adrian. While a resident of the latter place she became a member of the M. P. church and upon her removal to Tecumseh transferred her membership to the M. E. church of this place. She was also a member of the Pythian Sisters and Beer's Auxiliary. The deceased was a devoted wife and mother, finding her highest joy in her home, which is left desolate by her departure.

She leaves to grieve for her, besides her husband, her son, Wm. J. Ingersoll, of Rochester, N. Y., her daughter, Miss Edith L. Ingersoll, two sisters, Mrs. Clara Kendrick and Mrs. Henrietta Munger, and a brother, Albert Hyde, all of this place.

The fueral services were held at her home Thursday, August 25. Conducted by Rev. D. Stanley Shaw; and amid a wreath of beautiful flowers, the tribute of loving and sympathizing hearts, the wasted body was tenderly laid to rest in Brookside cemetery.

Mrs. Emma Millis.

Mrs. Emma Millis died in St. Josephs hospital Adrian, Tuesday Aug. 30, after an illness extending over a number of years. She was for many years a risident of Tecumseh and was one of the oldest members of the Baptist church and was much beloved by all. She was 72 years old at the time of her death. She was married Dec. 13 1860. to Ambrose L. Millis who died in 1896. She has lived to bury father, mother, brothers and sisters and was the last of her family She is survived by one daughter Mrs. Fred Sheldon. The beautiful spray of lillies sent by the ladies of the church attested to the love in which she was held by them.

THE NATIONAL MOTION PICTURES OF BIBLE STUDIES

BROOKLYN TABERNACLE

MISIMPROVED OPPORTUNITIES TAKEN AWAY.

Matthew 21:23-46.—September 4.

"Therefore say I unto you, The Kingdom of God shall be taken from you."

IN this Study the Great Teacher in two parables portrays the mistake made by the religionists of his day. The understanding of these parables gives a clearer insight into the cause which led to the rejection of Israel for a time from Divine favor. Incidentally, too, we are to remember that nominal fleshly Israel was a prototype of nominal Christendom. Hence we may look for somewhat similar conditions and dealings now in the "harvest" time of this Christian Age.

To get the force of the Lord's teachings here and everywhere it is necessary to remember that the Jewish people had been promised the Kingdom of God, of which David's Kingdom was a type on a small scale. For centuries they had been expecting a great King, Messiah, whose coming would exalt them and bring them into prominence as God's Kingdom. John the Baptist, when he came to introduce Messiah, told the Jews that unless they would repent and come back, to the extent of their ability, into harmony with God and the Law they need not expect to share in the Messianic Kingdom. Jesus told the people that unless their righteousness should exceed the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, they should in no wise enter into or become members of the long-waited-for Kingdom. (Matthew 5:20.) The two parables of this Study illustrate what stood in the way of the majority.

The Jewish people professed to be God's people, willing to do him service. They were treated, not as mere slaves, but, rather, like sons. All were told to go and work in God's vineyard; but they divided into two classes, represented by the two sons, in our first parable. One of these sons represented the outwardly religious, pious, who said, Yes, we will serve God. However, they did not really seek the Divine service, but rather the service of their sects and parties and their own personal aims, honor, influence and preferment. The other class of Israelites, represented by the other son of the parable, made no pretense of serving God, and were branded as publicans, sinners, harlots. Nevertheless, when Jesus appeared, when John's message went forth, and afterwards the teachings of Jesus and the Apostles, these same publicans, sinners, harlots, were the ones ready to receive him, while the religious, finding that his message was in conflict with their teachings, repudiated him. Thus one of the charges against Jesus was, "He receiveth publicans and sinners and eateth with them."

The second parable represents God as the owner of a great Vineyard, in all respects well appointed and furnished for his purpose. This Vineyard represents the Jewish nation and the Divine promises made to that people—the Law and all the arrangements of the Law Covenant, for their development. This Vineyard the owner let out to husbandmen, whose duty it was to care for the vines and the fruitage and to render to the owner the results, except a portion which they might keep for themselves. These husbandmen were the prominent religionists, of whom Jesus said, "The scribes and Pharisees sit in Moses' seat. All, therefore, whatsoever they bid you observe, that observe and do." (Matt. 23:2, 3.) The owner properly required returns on his property and sent servants to receive his share of the fruitage. But the husbandmen, instead of giving them what was due their Master, abused them by beating, killing and stoning them.

These servants were the prophets of old, sent to Israel. They should have received the kindest treatment and an abundance of fruits of meekness, gentleness, patience, etc., but, instead, they were treated as intruders by the leaders of Israel. Some of them were stoned, some beaten, some murdered, some sawn asunder. Some wandered about in sheepskins and goatskins and dwelt in dens and caves of the earth, because not appreciated. They were not treated as representatives of the owner of the vineyard. Finally the owner sent his Son, saying, "They will reverence my Son." But these same husbandmen, the religionists of our Lord's day, took counsel to kill him and to seize his inheritance. They somehow got the impression that they could lord it over God's heritage and that anybody reproving them or showing up their hypocrisies or liberating the people from subservience to them, whoever he might be—even the heir—they were at liberty to kill. They crucified him.

What may we presume the owner of that vineyard would do to those wicked husbandmen who, forgetting the ownership of the vineyard, were using it as their own, mistreating his servants and crucifying his Son? The Great Teacher put the question to his hearers, and the answer promptly came that the owner would destroy those wicked men and let out his Vineyard to others who would render him its fruitage.

This is just what happened. The scribes and Pharisees and Doctors of the Law who were using God's promises and blessings and their opportunities selfishly and in disregard of the Almighty—these were dispossessed. Their government was destroyed and Divine favor and privileges as God's mouthpieces, which they once enjoyed, were taken from them and given to others—to the Apostles and their associates, during this Gospel Age.

However, as fleshly Israel was a type or picture of nominal Spiritual Israel, we may not have to look far to find a very similar condition of things today. Today also we see some high in official position as representatives of God and his Word using their positions to entrench themselves, to hold power over the people, to carry out their own schemes. These are inclined to speak harshly, yea, to "murder" any who come amongst them meekly, humbly, in the name of the Lord. They do not literally kill them nor "shoot them full of arrows," but they do behead them in the sense of ostracism. And they do shoot out at them the arrows of bitter words, slanders, etc.

What will the Husbandman do with such servants? The answer is again that the opportunities which they have enjoyed will be taken away from them. Thank God that the next step in the programme will be that the King's Son and all of the misused servants associated with him will constitute the new "Kingdom of God's dear Son" "under the whole heavens." Matters will be no longer entrusted to any but the tried, proven, faithful.

Jesus, the rejected, "is become the chief corner-stone" of the great Temple of God, which is the Church. As the privilege of being God's embryotic Kingdom was taken from the Jews and given to Christ and the Church, so precisely the embryotic Kingdom will be taken from earth entirely—his faithful will be received to the heavenly plane and power and great glory.

Whoever stumbled over Jesus suffered loss in the sense of being broken but not beyond possibility of repair. "But upon whomsoever this stone (Messiah) shall fall, it will grind him to powder" in the Second Death.—Matt. 21:44.

PARIS MANUFACTURING CO. ACME QUALITY THE KIND

If it's a surface to be painted, enameled, stained, varnished or finished in any way, there's an Acme Quality Kind to fit the purpose.

5 Strong Reasons for Fall Painting

1. The wood is thoroughly dry.
Summer's sun has removed all moisture.

2. Paint penetrates deeper into dry wood.
The deeper it goes the better it holds.

3. Fall weather is warm, dry and dependable.
Little danger of cold, damp, rainy days, which endanger the durability of the paint.

4. Wet weather decays and destroys unprotected surfaces.
Lack of paint means unsightly and less valuable property.

5. Fall painting keeps out winter moisture.
The greatest enemy to the life and beauty of all structures.

Ask us about ACME QUALITY HOUSE PAINT. It insures the greatest protection and beauty, at the least cost per year of service. Questions cheerfully answered.

AMUSEMENTS

A GOOD PLAY

One that does one good to see it. Attractions may come and go, but it is seldom that the interest in things theatrical has been so great as announcing of "Lena Rivers" which has been secured foy Monday, September 5.

The name is not new to you as it is the most popular novel by Mary J. Holmes and dramatized by Miss Beulah Poynter. The popularity of the book was phenomenal. Its sales were stupendous and since that time ten million readers have enjoyed its pages. Nixon and Company will produce the play embodying all characters, incidents, and scenes contained in the book. The play has been as popular and successful as the book. The scenery effects and the cast have made it the most talked of play on the road.

Announcement that "Lena Rivers" will be offered at the Opera Honse next Monday evening, naturally brings a throb of joy to our play goers. The book of the same name from which Beulah Poynter made her dramatization is by Mrs. Mary J. Holmes, which assures a first-class play with plenty of comedy and a profusion of tears. A crowded house is almost a certainty.

Sis Perkins.

Yes we saw Sis! and we liked her The play was given in a very pleasing manner and every one enjoyed a hearty laugh over the many queer episodes. Mrs. Boyd Belcher as "Sis" was a great success and Boyd made a good villian, Earl Collar distinguished himself in two different barts and we were quite proud of our home talent.

A large and appreciative audience greeted them.

A MAN OF IRON NERVES.

Indomitable will and tremendous energy are never found where stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are out of order. If you want these qualities and the success they bring, use Dr. King's New Life Pills, the matchless regulators, for keen brain and strong body, 25c at C. A. Wright & Son's.

Discovery of Mammoth Cave.

Everyone has heard of the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky, but few probably are aware that its discovery was due to the search for suitable earth for the manufacture of saltpetre. The anxiety to find saltpetre earth was due to the Embargo bill passed by congress in 1807, which forbade American vessels to sell for Europe and foreign vessels to land cargoes in America.

The Americans needed gunpowder and to make it they required saltpetre. They had been getting it from Spain and Italy, but the Embargo bill stopped that, and there was no American supply of the substance. A roving chemist, named Samuel Brown had shown how saltpetre or potassium nitrate could be obtained from cave earth. And so the quest for caves was begun and assiduously continued.

When the Mammoth Cave was found, every part of the great cavern was searched for cave earth. From pit, byways and avenues slaves carried out the heavy loads of petre earth. Many thousands of tons were treated and the rude chemistry of the day produced something like 100,000 pounds of saltpetre within two years.

When Eating Causes Colds.

If one who has caught cold will stop to think, he will often find that he has prepared himself for the infection by some tax on his physical condition—some extra work which has depressed his bodily powers, some worry which has preyed upon his mind, some loss of sleep, some undue exposure to atmospheric changes, or some dietary indiscretion.

For indiscreet eating is one of the most prolific and yet the least recognized of all the predisposing causes of a cold.

Let the hearty eaters of rich food, who suffer from repeated colds, try a course of abstinence during the coming winter, and they will become convinced of the truth of these remarks. In this case the proof of the pudding is in the not eating of it.—Youth's Companion.

Free Child's Remedy

What mother is not looking for something that will help her children in the little ills of life, something for the stomach trouble and the bowel trouble? Long ago she probably has become convinced that a child cannot readily swallow a pill or a tablet, and that to "break them in half and crush them" is an annoyance; that usually they work too drastically, and are nauseating and too powerful for the little one's stomach.

Any mother who will take the trouble of sending her name and address can obtain a free sample bottle of a remedy that thousands of other mothers are using and now paying for. This remedy is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and the offer of a free trial bottle is open to any mother who has not yet used it. Having used it and convinced yourself that it is what you want, you can obtain it in the future of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as so many others are doing, the free sample being simply to convince you of its merits. It is the best way to begin on it. Mrs. L. Davis of 157 W. Harrison street, Chicago, and Mrs. Mary Belford, 1716 Coke street, Louisville, Ky., both started with a free sample and now they write that they have never been without a bottle in the house since.

It is undoubtedly a great family remedy, as it is adapted to all ages, being mild and pleasant to take and yet thoroughly effective. It is especially the ideal remedy for children and women and old folks, who need something pure, mild and natural. It has the advantage of being a thorough laxative and yet contains tonic properties. Use it for the most stubborn constipation, indigestion, liver trouble, sick headache, sour stomach and such complaints with a guarantee that it will cure.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R. 500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

SHOOTING A BIGHORN.

A Hunting Episode in the Montana Rockies.

I was certainly anxious and excited, especially when they halted 350 yards distant, and I saw they were all rams, writes a sportsman. I counted twenty of them. They were led by a kingly old monster who sprang upon a large rock, sniffed the air uneasily and looked behind him.

I was in a quandary. I had a beautiful muzzle rest on a limb, was seated with an elbow resting upon each knee, and was pretty certain I could hit that ram; but if I missed a standing shot it was certain I could not make a running shot afterward at that distance. I decided to wait and was rewarded by seeing the leader spring down and come directly toward me at a trot, followed pell mell by the rest of the band. My heart fairly leaped into my throat as I lifted the rifle from the limb and waited for the time to fire. Nearer and nearer they came gradually slackening their pace to a walk. Now was my time; and just as I shifted my rifle toward them a puff of wind wafted the scent of the Indians below to the leader, who sprang into the air as thought shot and started off at a gallop. My first shot, fired hastily, kicked up the dust under him, and followed by the entire band he disappeared in the thick pines before I could even eject the empty shell. I sprang up and rushed around the pines to where the open slope stretched below me just in time to see the band stop 350 yards distant and look back before their plunge into the gulch below. My best chance had come. Steadying myself as best I could, I held the gold bead on the shoulder of the leader and pressed the trigger. Instantly the sheep disappeared as completely as if the earth had opened up and swallowed them. Half dazed by the suddenness of it all I ran forward to the ledge, half blinded by the wind in my face, and there lay the grand old leader on his side, his eyes already glazed with death, his magnificent horns, fourteen and one-half inches and more than a full circle, making me realize my hunt for the finest trophy our country has to offer was over, and I was satisfied.

Queer Furs.

"This is cat fur,' said the furrier. "We use it for linings. An excellent lining cat fur makes, too. Dogs, calves, colts, coons, opossums, bats, rats, any animal that wears fur, in fact, is salable in the fur market. Bat hair is felted up with other stuff into an imitation skin. It is also used, I believe, in rope plaiting. The dog, the coon and the opossum yield a fur that, properly treated, makes a very handsome lining. Rat skins are employed in certain delicate repairs, and they also serve to form the thumbs of cheap gloves. A queer thing about the fur business is that the furs must be taken in the dead of winter; the trapper must work under the cruelest climatic conditions; only thus is the fur at its best. The dresser, on the other hand, who could work best in cold weather, must do al his work in the heat of summer or otherwise he would not be able to keep up with the changing fashions."

India's Precious Metals.

It is estimated that $1,500,000,000 in gold, and perhaps as much in silver, is hidden away in the Hindu stocking. Vast quantities of the precious metals are known to be kept in the form of personal ornaments. From time immemorial India has been a reservoir into which the precious metals have flowed from all quarters of the globe, only to disappear from statistics. Could the idle wealth be drawn upon, the effect on the industrial and commercial life of the country would be very great. It is, therefore, a matter of concern to try to turn India's dormant capital to active use. It may be impossible to do it. The Oriental mind views everything in a way incomprehensible to westerners. But if only a tithe of the concealed hoards of India were vitalized a new aspect might be given to the conditions of life in England's great eastern empire.

Parisian Chickenweed Sellers.

The vender of chickweed in Paris is a well-known figure. The sellers are numerous and their cry is one of the most noteworthy of those that resound in the morning in the streets of the French capital. According to the Bulletin des Halles there are about a hundred thousand canaries in the capital and the daily consumption of chickweed is estimated at $2,000. This sum looks large, but it only allows two cents for each bird. A Paris contemporary points out that a goodly portion of land between Suresnes and Courbevoie is set aside for the cultivation of the weed.

BLOCKADED.

Every Household In Tecumseh Should Know How To Resist It

The back aches because the kidney's are blockaded. Help the kidneys with their work. The back will ache no more. Lots of proof that Doan's Kidney Pills do this. It's the best proof, for it comes from Tecumseh.

Eugene Hodges, Cumings Street Tecumseh, Mich., says: "Several years ago I used Doan's Kidney Pills and found them to be a good remedy of strengthening the kidneys and clearing the system of uric poison. Other members of my family have taken Doan's Kidney Pills with good result and consequently I have no hesitation in publicly recommending them."

For sale by all dealers Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, Sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's and take no other.

Stops itching instantly. Cures piles, eczema, salt rheum, tetter, itch hives, herpes, scabies Doan,s Ointment. At any drug store.

If you find any substance in your baking injurious to health made from baking powder in this can there is—

The makers of certain Baking Powders have recently been shouting, "purity, purity, purity!!" All other manufacturers have been openly accused of offering an impure product. Calumet, as the largest competitor, has of course come in for its share. But we simply smiled—as our business grew.

For Calumet has been backed for years by an offer of $1,000 for any substance injurious to health found in the baking prepared with it. This offer has never been challenged.

Don't you think that if there was the least trace of impurity in Calumet that our competitors would be the first to jump at this offer? Wouldn't this be an ideal way of putting our product off the market entirely.

Does not this and the fact that it complies with all pure food laws, both State and National, prove that Calumet is absolutely pure?

With the purity question settled—then Calumet is undoubtedly the best Baking Powder. It contains more leavening power; it is more uniform—every can is the same. It assures better results—and it is moderate in price.

RAT BITE MAY PROVE FATAL

Anderson, Ind., Sept. 1.—Arthur, the 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Schofield, almost bled to death as a result of having been bitten on the toe by a rat. While playing about the yard the child stubbed his toe and the mother applied home remedies to the bruise in the form of a generous slice of fat pork.

The boy then played in the wood shed and the rodent was evidently attracted by the odor of the meat. It nibbled at the bacon unknown to the child and finally plunged his sharp teeth into the toe. The woung bled profusely and the child was at the point of death from loss of blood when a physician arived. The wound was cauterized, but blood poisoning is feared.

HOT SHOT FROM DENEEN

Governor Demands a Clean Up of Legislature.

Denounces Shurtleff, Chiperfield and Shanahan—Replies to Lorimer's Senate Speech.

Taylorville, Ill., Sept. 1.—Governor Deneen denounced in unqualified terms Edward D. Shurtleff, B. M. Chiperfield, David E. Shanahan and the bipartisan members who controlled the last Illinois house of representatives in his speech here.

He made his answer to William Lorimer's speech in the United States senate, but without a personal attack upon Lorimer himself.

To John E. Wayman, state's attorney of Cook county, Governor Deneen gave the advice that he investigate the Ninth ward cemetery, where, he charged, 2,000 dead men were voted fraudulently.

The governor demanded, on behalf of the Republican state organization and the Republican state administration, the defeat of every Republican candidate for the house of representatives who bolted the regular caucus of 1909, who voted for Shurtleff for speaker and for Lorimer for senator.

ROBERTS RETURNS TO MINT

Chicago Banker Will Again Become Director of Mint.

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 1.—The executive offices here have received word from Chicago that George E. Roberts, of Chicago, director of the mint for a number of years under Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt, has decided to accept that position again.

President Taft offered to make Mr. Roberts director of the mint to succeed A. Piatt Andrews some time ago. Mr. Andrews was made assistant secretary of the treasury when C. D. Norton became secretary to the president. Mr. Roberts resigned as director of the mint to become president of the Commercial National bank of Chicago.

HOKE SMITH

Whom Georgia Democrats Have Named Again for Governor.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—Sensational revelations describing the alleged system of grafting by former officials of the Illinois Central Railroad company were made in Judge Bruggemeyer's court at the hearing of the case of Frank B. Harriman, Charles L. Ewing and John M. Taylor.

Clarence H. Polley, chief clerk of the Ostermann company, testified that upon order of Henry C. Ostermann, former president of the manufacturing company, he had charged up $60 "extra" on each of 20,000 cars of the Illinois Central repaired at the Ostermann plant.

Polley further testified that also upon instructions of Ostermann he charged up miscellaneous articles to the Illinois Central company, such articles as steel balls, rivets and fillers, draw bars, lift rods, angle cocks, air hose and draft timber being charged where they were not used.

A bookkeeper in the Ostermann office, Frederick Peck, was suspected of being on the lookout for anything irregular in the business deals with the Illinois Central, Polley testified. He said that in the margin with many of the alleged irregularly charged articles Peck placed red dots. This was reported to Ostermann by another bookkeeper and Ostermann ordered Peck discharged.

Try This RICHMOND

Suds-Maker Free

You simply turn the faucet and the "RICHMOND" Suds-Maker delivers thick, hot suds. It does not in any way interfere with the hot water faucet and can be easily attached to it. It gives you instead, two faucets—one for clean, hot water—the other for thick, hot suds.

Think of the dozens of ways this ingenious device will cut down the work in the kitchen! Learn what it means to save hundreds of steps every day—to always have thick, creamy soap suds on tap. The "Richmond" Suds Maker gives you any quantity of soap and water thoroughly mixed in scientific proportion—it is always ready to meet your instant needs. It puts an end to the drudgery of dish washing—simply place dishes, silver, glassware under its creamy suds for an instant, then just rinse and wipe. It puts an instant, automatic end to waste, to unsightly soap dishes, to the nuisance of using up the odds and ends of soap. Use any kind of soap.

Just call on the plumber whose name appears below and ask to see the "RICHMOND" Suds-Maker. He will let you take one home to try. Use it ten days—then if you think you can spare it, return it, for the trial places you under no obligation to buy. This is your chance to learn about the greatest convenience, money and time saver you can install in your kitchen. Call today.

USE MILK TO FIGHT FIRE

Lacteal Fluid Used to Prevent Loss of Barns Consumed.

Blaze Supposed to Have Been Started by Tramps Smoking, Several of Whom May Have Lost Lives.

Newbury, Mass., Sept. 5.—It is believed that the fire which destroyed several of the barns and outbuildings on the farm of Edward L. Lunt, burned to death several tramps sleeping in the cow barn. The fire caused a loss of $15,000 and was only prevented from consuming the farm house by the use of many gallons of milk that was standing ready for shipment to Boston.

For some time past from two to twelve tramps have been using the Lunt cow barn as a sleeping place every night. When the fire was discovered, there was no sign of tramps, and as the place was totally destroyed, there was no opportunity of ascertaining whether or not there were any in the ruins. It is believed that the fire was caused by one of the tramps smoking in the hay loft.

CHOLERA DEATHS IN ROME

Thirteen Persons Die of the Disease in a Single Day.

Rome, Sept. 5.—Twenty-six fresh cases of cholera and thirteen deaths were reported for the day.

While every effort is being made to reassure the public in their reports on the epidemic, the belief is steadily gaining ground that the spread of the disease is far wider than the officials have admitted, and that the situation is one of exceeding gravity.

HUSBAND KILLS HIS WIFE

W. O. Vaughn Finds Spouse in Man's Company and Fires.

Couple Were Separated, but Murderer Says He Loved Her So Much He Could Not Give Her Up.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 5.—"I loved her so I could not give her up and I am glad it is all over," said W. O. Vaughn, a bricklayer of Louisville, in jail here in referring to the murder of his wife, Gertrude May, aged 22, here at 1:30 o'clock Sunday morning. Vaughn had followed his wife to this city and found her with another man. He crept up to a window and shot first at his wife's companion, Nick Ryan, a horseman, the bullet penetrating the calf of the leg.

Before he could fire a second time, both the man and woman ran and Vaughn followed his wife, who tried to escape from the house. He seized her about the waist as she was attempting to open a gate, and holding her with his left hand placed the muzzle of his revolver to her left side and fired, killing her instantly.

OLD CIRCUS MAN DEAD

James L. Hutchinson, Partner of Barnum & Bailey, Dies.

New York, Sept 5.—J. L. Hutchinson, formerly a partner of P. T. Barnum and James A. Bailey in the circus business, and one of the veteran circusmen of the country, is dead at hi ssummer home at Shelter Island.

Mr. Hutchinson was born 64 years ago at Jerseyville, O. In those days P. T. Barnum had made a great reputation as a showman, and young Hutchinson was attracted toward the circus business in the early seventies. After getting a common school education, he worked hard, saved his money and bought an interest in a small traveling circus. He prospered and later bought the controlling interest in the enterprise. He made it an active rival of Barnum's "greatest show on earth" and Barnum thought it advisable to buy him out, and make him a partner of Barnum & Bailey.

Mr. Hutchinson retired from business about fifteen years ago with a considerable fortune. He leaves two sons and two daughters. The funeral will be held tomorrow and interment will be at Woodlawn cemetery in New York.

LABOR LEADERS PREACH UNIONISM

Chicago Ministers Turn Over Pulpits to Federation.

INAUGURATE "LABOR SUNDAY"

First Occasion of Its Kind in History of United States—No Parade of Labor Unions Will Be Held Today in Big City.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—Labor Sunday was celebrated in numerous churches of various demonstrations throughout the city and suburbs. Labor leaders mounted the pulpits of several churches and preached the doctrine of "trade unionism." Also many clergymen preached special morning and evening sermons in the interest of organized labor.

One woman trade unionist was among the labor preachers. She was Miss Agnes Nester of the Glove Workers' union and treasurer of the Women's Trade Union league. She preached the morning sermon at the Winneka Congregational church, her text being "The Story of the Life of Our Working Girls Today in Shops and Factories."

The Labor Sunday idea was indorsed by clergymen of virtually every Protestant demonination in Chicago. Bishop Anderson of the Episcopal church called the attention of his clergy to the day and appropriate services were held in Episcopal churches and missions of the Chicago diocese.

The Rev. William White Wilson, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church, preached labor sermons at both morning and evening services. His morning subject was "The Church and Organized Labor," and in the evening he preached on "Honest Toil." The Rev. G. D. Cleworth, pastor of Western Avenue Methodist church, preached on "Labor, Its Contribution and Appeal." "The Labor Problem in the Light of the Gospel" was the subject of the sermon at First Swedish Unitarian church.

President John Fitzpatrick of the Chicago Federation of Labor received several hundred letters from clergymen who promised to co-operate with the officials of the federation in making the day a success.

This is the first time the day was observed in the United States. The plan to designate as Labor Sunday the Sunday immediately preceding Labor Day originated at the Toronto convention of the American Federation of Labor last November. All central labor bodies throughout the United States and Canada affiliated with the federation were instructed to co-operate in making the observance of the day general in all churches.

The parade idea was voted down overwhelmingly on a referendum vote sent out by the Chicago Federation of Labor. Officers of the various affiliated unions asserted that the workers were tired of marching and that the expense occurred by the local unions was too great.

DIPHTHERIA SCARES TOWN

South Haven Deserted by Resorters Owing to Scourge.

South Haven, Ind., Sept 5.—Discovery of nine cases of diphtheria in this city has led to an order closing every public meeting place. The health board has forbidden the opening of the public schools.

One death has occurred. Miss Marie Niedringhams of Granite City, Mo., was the victim. She was here to pass the summer. Kalamazoo physicians have been called to aid the local doctors. It is feared the exposures have been numerous. Many of the summer colony are hurriedly preparing to leave for home, abruptly closing the season.

"Tommy," said the boss, "you quit smoking two or three months ago, didn't you?"

"Yes, sir," answered the office boy.

"How much have you gained in weight?"

"Well, sir, countin' it in nickels, I reckon I've gained about four pounds."—Chicago Tribune.

PRESIDENT TAFT GREETED ON TRIP

En Route to Attend the National Conservation Congress.

REAR PLATFORM TALKS MADE

Thousands of People Turn Out in Rain to Pay Homage to the Nation's Chief Executive on Way to Meeting at St. Paul.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—Sunday was not exactly a day of rest for President Taft, although for a part of the afternoon he was able to hide away in his stateroom and get a few minute's sleep. The presidential car reached Chicago shortly before 9 o'clock last night. It is due in St. Paul early today and the president will make at least two speeches, and one, his address to the National Conservation congress, is expected to prove among the most important presidential orations of the fal lcampaign. Thousands of people turned out along the way to greet Mr. Taft, although much of the time it was drizzly and disagreeable.

At Buffalo the little town was disappointed because Mr. Taft was still asleep. But at Erie, Pa., Ashtabula, Toledo, Elkhart, South Bend and Laporte, Ind., the crowds were waiting. The preisdent made a short rear platform talk at several of these towns, shook hands with a lot of people and seemed to be enjoying himself immensely.

At Cleveland, Congressman Cassidy, who succeeded Senator Burton in the house, W. J. Marshall and Henry Davis got on and Lewis C. Laylin, chairman of the Ohio Republican committee, boarded the train at Toledo. With the coming of the Ohioans it became known to those aboard the presidential train that an effort had been made to have Gov. Hughes of New York get into the Ohio campaign. Since the governor has been nominated and confirmed as an associate justice of the supreme court he has declined to enter a political campaign.

It has become known that Gov. Hugbes probably will not resign as chief executive of New York until he is ready to assume his place upon the supreme court bench. It was said thht the governor wohld be sworn in as a member of that court about the second Monday in October, when it holds its first meeting of the fall. The governor it was said will hold office in New York until then.

Congressman McKinley, of Illinois, chairman of the Republican campaign committee, and Congressman Duncan McKinlay, of California, one of the campaign spell binders, boarded the train at Laporte and rode into Chicago.

After the parade he will go to the Auditorium, where he will deliver his address to the conservation congress.

Mr. Taft will not interfere in the method of taking testimony by an examiner in the matter of freight rate increases by western railroads. Shippers here had wanted the testimony taken by the Interstate Commerce commission. The president referred the matter to the commission.

SPURNED LOVER'S RASH ACT

Fred Losey Repents Action and Doctors Work Hard to Save Life.

Owosso, Mich., Sept. 5.—Because a young widow spurned his attentions and a rival gave him a thrashing, Fred Losey of Owosso wrote the former a tender letter and then swallowed an ounce of laudanum.

Experiencing an immediate change change of heart, he informed his landlady of his act, and asked that a physician be summoned. Then he lapsed into a comatose state and the doctor worked several hours to save his life. Losey recently came here from Oakley.

MISSION OF A TINY FISH.

To Destroy Mosquito Eggs and Save Inhabitants of Malarial Regions.

C. Kenrick Gibbons has discovered that all the pools and swamps in Barbadoes are stocked with swarms of millions, a tiny fish which gets its name from its vast numbers and which feeds on the larvae of the mosquito.

Some specimens have been got to England successfully and flourished there in the insect house at the zoological gardens. Mr. Gibbons has proposed that the millions be imported into malarial districts, and his suggestion has been acted upon with happy results. The health board of Antigua, another island, being convinced of the useful part played by these fish in consuming mosquito larvae, has arranged for their systematic distribution throughout the ponds and streams of the island.

Like tidings come from Jamaica, whither a consignment of the fish was sent not long ago. The secretary of the agricultural society there writes that the tanks at a certain hotel are full of them and that he has been informed that there has been a marked diminution of fever round about, the millions evidently accounting for the mosquito larvae. They have also been sent to Colon and British Guiana. It is suggested that these useful fish get a trial in the malarial regions of Africa if, like the malarial mosquito, the insects which carry terrible diseases which are endemic there pass the larval stage of their existence in water.

The Swedish Consul at Frankfort has discovered another small fish named the blue-eyed which feeds on mosquito larvae. At the request of the Italian Government some are to be sent to the Campagna, where so much has been done in recent years to diminish malaria.

The Wooing of the Woodcock.

The wooing of the woodcock is one of those sights to witness which a lover of nature in all its moods will make a journey of miles. The scene is enacted at twilight, and the setting is of willow or alder bushes whose branches are just beginning to show the tender green of early spring. Suddenly from the damp ground a bird form shoots upward like some swamp spirit until it is outlined against the gray of the evening sky. Then it circles above the branches, and the song of the wooing begins. Hidden in the darkness of the thick lower growth is the object to which this love song is directed. The bird above circles perhaps a score of times, then drops back to the damp thicket, making a sound which can be likened only to the dropping of water into a woodland pool. Again the bird soars and circles, singing still the love song. This is repeated time after time until the last gleam of light has faded and night's darkness comes down.

The Life Ideal.

"Just as soon as my husband and I have $500 saved up, besides our fare, we are going back to England," said a woman player. "Then we are going to buy one of those gypsy wagons they have over there. They are too awfully jolly for words, don't you know. They are quite wide, have bunks, a cunning little kitchen and sitting room. You wander through the country all day, then at night you stop, cook your supper, sit under the trees, and sleep out in the open or in the wagon, just as you choose. Many of my artist and theatrical friends have them, and just wander from place to place. It is an ideal way to live; beats houseboats or bungalows. If you have ever slept out in the open and watched the stars over your head you feel smothered in a bedroom. I played through Australia and we went from place to place in a big wagon, sleeping out of doors at night."—New Times.

Hardly Worth While.

Eleanor was the little daughter of a musician whose first oratorio was to be given at a great musical festival in the city. Eleanor had never been away from home, and her mother thought she would regard the journey to the great city as a special treat. The oratorio was pronounced a great success. But when Eleanor was being put to bed that night she looked so unhappy that her mother asked her if she had not had a good time. Eleanor looked up tearfully.

"Did you bring me all the way to the city just to hear that thing that's been coming up through the register for the last six months?"

Marion visited her auntie, who made some molasses candy for her in a spider (a name given by New England people to an iron frying pan.) She went home and told her mother, "Auntie made me some candy in a bug." Seeing her moth[illegible] perplexity, she soon corrected her[illegible] "spider."

BRIEF AND BREEZY

Why not give the precipitation of aviators in the daily weather report.

It looks as if Washington fans will have the fun of feeling sorry for St. Louis.

A writer in the National Magazine compares Roosel and Caesar. Who the dickens was Caesar.

About the only conclusiyn that can be drawn from Aldrich's explanatson is that rubber tariff was increased for a joke.

Mr. Heyburn prefers, apparently, to write sectional platforms upon which he alone may stand.

If Judge Parker cut as much ice in Democratic circles as Col. Roosevelt cuts in Republican circles but, that of course, is another story and not particularly interesting at that.

Not yet having consulted his lawyers, Dr. Crippen is undecided whether he is crazy.

An Unfortunate Vacancy

Elizabeth, just six, had been going to kindergarten and enjoyed the motion songs taught there. She was very enthusiastic at learning all the words, but one day she realized that try as she might, she could not make her voice harmonize with those of the other children. Thoroughly disheartened, she ran home to her mother and with a sigh said:

"Oh, mama, I don't know what I shall do. I'm so full of words, but so empty of tune!"—Edna E. Allen in Woman's Home Companion for September.

is taken by people in tropical countries all the year round. It stops wasting and keeps up the strength and vitality in summer as well as winter.

ALL DRUGGISTS

A Radical Departure.

There never was a time in the history of the world when good stories and articles could command such large prices as they do to-day. It is an extremely expensive thing to publish a high-class magazine nowadays, filled with the best products of the most famous authors and artists.

Yet together with its many attractive features THE CHICAGO RECORD HERALD furnishes its readers with its Sunday Magazine section that compares favorably with the best weeklies and monthlies, and has some merits peculiar to itself. The most famous writers and illustrators contribute to it. Some of the choicest novels of the year are published serially in its columns before they see the light in book form. The best new humorist since Mr Dooley began writing is a regular contributor to its columns alone. To furnish such a magazine with every copy of a Sunday newspaper is an amazing venture, yet the experiment has proved a complete success and is now firmly established.

Winning Pitcher for Hill's Athletics

Won from the Woodmeres, 9 to 3; Twenty-sixth infantry, 7 to 2; Port Huron, 4 to 2; Toledo, 8 to 1. Loss to Lansing, 4 to 2, and Ann Arbor, 5 to 4. Wilson is now under contract to the Jackson club of the South Michigan league, but because of objection by his parents to professional ball, he has remained in Detroit.

OBITUARIES

Emma Fisher Millis was born October 21, 1838 in this village Gods finger touched her and she slept August 30, 1910.

Of a modest retiring disposition, she was best known and loved by her family and intimate acquaintances.

At the age of 13 she united with First Baptist Church of which she was a faithful member, always ready to do what she could and a constant attendant to its services until the infinities of age compelled her to give up the duties she loved and enjoyed. We should not mourn but rejoice that the gentle loving spirit has been released from its earthly tenement and gone to be with those she loved long since and lost a while for unto us is left the fragrant memory of one whose life was a constant benediction

Gone home! Gone home!
She lingers here no longer
A restless pilgrim walking painfully
With homesick longing, daily growing stronger
And yearning visions of the joys to be.
Gone home! Gone home!
Her earnest, active spirit.
Her gentleness, her heart of love
The heavenly mansion now she doth inherit
Which Christ made ready ere she went above.

The Really Trulys of Heaven.

Eight-year-old William and his Uncle Will are great chums and the latter takes delight in the quaint sayings of his namesake.

It rained on the day that William was to have gone to a wonderful picnic. The little lad stood at the window trying to keep back the tears. Uncle Will, coming by and seeing the tears, slapped his nephew on the back and unexpectedly shouted: "Hello, Bill! What's your idea of heaven?"

The small boy looked up and solemnly answered: "Heaven's the place where the really-trulys are as nice as the just-supposin's."—Alice Cameron in Woman's Home Companion for September.

CIVIC IMPROVEMENT MEETING.

At a call for a meeting of the Civic Improvement Society for Friday afternoon of last week, a very generous number met at the home of Mrs. F. B. Wood and a very enthusiastic meeting followed. The various committees presented their reports which were accepted and new business followed. The floral and educational work was discussed also the lighting and beautifying of Water Works Park, the establishing of Sanitary fountains, more waste paper baskets etc. After a very breezy meeting in which every lady seemed deeply interested. The business was closed until their next meeting and a fine progrcm was given.

Piano duet Mrs. Look and Miss Shull. Vocal Solo, Miss Edyth Wilson. Talk on N. Y. City, Mrs. J. J. Belcher. Solo, Miss Stella Bush. The ladies quartette Mesdames Hanna, Mead and Hodges and Miss Caldwell then gave the closing number of the program in a very fine manner.

A pot luck supper was the next in order and a very merry time was enjoyed by all at this function. The ladies are deeply in earnest in the work and we wish them unbounded success.

LOCAL NEWS

BAPTIST CHURCH.

Grand Rally September 11.

After being deprived of the use of our church, auditorium for more than two months we will be permitted to enter it again Sunday, September 11.

We desire to make it the grand Rally day for every department of church work. Will you help us by your presence.

The morning service will begin at 10. We will have as the speaker Dr. A. Gaylord Slocum, L. L. D., president of Kalamazoo College.

The Men's class will be addressed by J. J. Gorham chief probation officer of Toledo.

A special effort will be put forth to have a large attendance at the Sunday school and Young People's meeting.

At 7:30 the Union services will be addressed by Rev. D. Stanlep Shaw of the M. E church. Will you help to make this a great day for the church? The large old church has been cleaned from cellar to garret, beautifully decorated and brilliantly lighted the tower and front has been painted. The old cracked bell, so long silent has been replaced by a fine new bell costing $200.00. The money for the bell was raised entirely outside the church membership. The improvements have extended to the parsonage also. Counting money and donations of work the improvements would not fall short of $1,000.00

Come and enjoy the fruit of our combined efforts oo the occasion of our formal opening September 11th.

Accidental Drowning

Word was received by friends here Saturday night of the accidental drowning in Long Island Sound of John H. Bangs of New York Mr. Bangs was the oldest son of Mrs. W. H. Bangs of Chillicothe, Ohio, formerly of Tecumseh, and was born in Tecumseh 38 years ago. He also was a nephew of Mrs. M. Smeltzer, George and Clara Bangs of this place. Mr. Bangs has been in New York several years engaged in the news paper business and was a very bright active young man. He leaves a wife and two small children, one a babe four weeks old besides a mother, one sister Mrs. Anna Wood of Cincinnatti and one brother Homer Bongs of White Plains, N. Y.

"Dr. Thomas, Electric Oil is the best remedy for that often fatal disease—croup. Has been used with success in our famsly for eight years."

LAMKIN REUNION.

The Lamkin family reunion was held at the pleasant farm home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Butrick near Sand Creek, August 27, which proved to be an ideal day for such an occasion.

At an early hour the guests began to arrive, numbering 50 in all, although some were absent.

Time passed all too swiftly in music games, recitations and social converse. and the hour for dinner soon came Tables were spread under a large tree on the faont lawn where a bountiful dinner was served.

The afternoon passed quickly and soon the hour of parting came; but, before farewells were spoken the meeting was called to order by Mr. Butrick who, after assuring them of a a hearty welcome to their home, suggested that the reunion be made an annual affair which seemed to be the sentiments of all.

Mr. Butrick, acting as chairman, the following officers were then chosen:

Pres.—J. S. Butrick.
Vice pres.—John Bailey.
Sec. and Treas.—Mrs. R. J. Roberts.

The last Saturday in August of each year was chosen for the reunion, but the place of meeting was not decided.

A vote of thanks was then extended to the host and hostess for their kind hospitality, and after ice cream was served the guests departed for their homes. Those present from away were as follows: Oliver Lamkin of Oakville, Verne Payne and family of Grand Rapids, E. E. Kintner and son Clarence af Painesville, O., W. J. Helm and daughter Rosalie of Vermontville.

BAPTIST

We are in receipt of a new paper volume 1, number 1. The Baptist Messenger monthly edited by Dr. Hartzog and published monthly in the interest of the Baptist church. It is quite a breezy sheet, dealing with the various meetings and work going on among them. A history of the various church organizations is given and later numbers will deal with their own church history which has been growing for over 70 years. We think it will prove quite a sucess and congratulate the Dr. on the appearance of his first issue.

IMPROVEMENTS

Heesen & Heesen have been improving the interior of their store for the last six months, and a brief mention of the same is now in order.

We have watched the changes from day to day and it think it astonishing what can be done in the line of improvement, where one would think every thing was already O. K. The new cabinet and the window arrangement finished in golden oak have quite transformed the appearance of the store. The cabinets are so designed that they make a most attractive appearance. Also a better display for merchandise allowing such garments to hang full length.

They have a clean up to date stock and other improvements are being made daily, make them a call in their newly decorated store.

PRANAYAMA.

The wonderful, entirely new natural way to perfect health, no drugs, rubbing, trouble or lies. Takes ten years from your age, gives you a plump figure, a complexion of a child and increases weight 10 to 25 lbs. a month. It rapidly builds form, new flesh and is the modern cure for rheumatism, consumption, indigestion, catarrh, constipation, paralysis, cancer, epilepsy, eczema and all other chronic diseases, practically a cure all, in fact you need not pay me a penny until you are completely cured. I will tell your disease and where located in five minutes without touching or asking a single question, or forfeit $100. Consultation free and invited, I am fond of answering questions. AMUSEMENTS

The Girl from U. S. A.

The "Girl from U. S. A.", the coming attraction at Bradley Opera House on Thursday, September 8, is a joyous creation and something new in stageland. The girl goes tantalizingly light-hearted into delicious entanglements that keep the action of the play splendidly melo-dramatic. The clean, fine atmosphere of the production is most wholesome and welcome. The heart interest is deep and natural. There is a triangle love affair and the story of the play contains several social astonishments that are delightfully artful yet genuine episodes of real life.

Great attention has been given to make the stage setting as elaborate and splendid as possible. The musical settings for the play are original and from the pen of a prominent composer but the numbers are the late popular successes of the day. You cannot fail to enjoy the powerful story of this briskly moving musical comedy drama and the solos and quartets which have been big hits everywhere the company has been this season. A handsomely costumed chorus of fine singing voices will be seen and heard, often during the action of the play.

TECUMSEH STATE SAVINGS BANK

BRILLIANT APPEARANCE SATURDAY NIGHT

Large Crowd Admiring the Transformation Scene from Hotel Office to an Up-to-Date Bank.

It was our pleasure to visit the Tecumseh State Savings Bank in its new quarters Saturday and we must confess to a feeling of surprise that so much had been wrought in so short a time.

To attempt a description is quite beyond our power but we will mention a few of the beauties that appeared to us the most. To those who watched the transformation of the floor from that of wood to stone, the change seems wonderful as well as beautiful.

The mahogany counters are supported by fine marble and the lattice work above in the same rich wood gives a fine effect. The front office is fitted up with two desks and is a very sightly place indeed, two windows lower down are pleasantly located for the transaction of business The vault is centrally located and well secured. A small room is set aside for those who have special boxes where they can transact such business as comes under this department, another room is for the special use of ladies, for a rest room and has a layatory and other accessories needful

The directors room is in the extreme north and will be quite by itself. The lighting arrangements give a beautiful effect, quite a number of large white globes being arranged on the posts of the lattice work.

The floors of the several offices and rooms are covered with green that blends with the tinting of the walls. Altogether considered the new bank is an honor to Tecumseh, and the corner of merchants block has become a thing of beauty.

Roofing Time

The best time to roof your sheds, barns and other buildings is right now in the fall before the winter storms which will cause the old roofs to leak. The best roof to buy is a prepared roofing, for the shingles sold now soon have to be replaced with new. We have sold for years the best roofing made we think.

REX FLINT KOTE

This is a high grade roofing made from felt, asphalt and other fire and waterproof articles and it will stand any test. When you buy a roofing you want one that is strictly fire-proof. Many costly fires occur from sparks on roofs from chimneys or from a threshing machine. When you buy roofing insist on a fire test. We will guarantee Flint Kote to be absolutely fire proof.

Makes a Prophecy.

"Soon there will be in the United States a college-bred sister for every college-bred brother," is the prediction of President M. Carey Thomas of Bryn Mawr. She calls attention to the fact that even the Catholics have been won over and are now strong in the belief that women should go to college, although they have long opposed it. Educated men and educated women, working together, she says, will right the wrongs which educated men working alone have been unable to put right.

Wisdom in Prison.

Fredrich Greulich, a Berlin miller, remarked at a convivial gathering: "All is not Solomonic wisdom that drops from the Emperor's lips," and is now undergoing a term of three months in jail for his offense.

Why China Has Few Trees.

Frank N. Meyer, the scientific explorer for the government in his recent penetration of China, saw farms that had been under irrigation since before Columbus discovered America. To the credit of the pagan priests, be it said, all forms of plant and tree growth were cherished and encouraged around the temples. The priests gave Meyer what information they could. The extent to which forest devastation has gone in China can be inferred from the fact that the Chinese have rooted and grubbed out every vestige of tree growth the size of your finger above the graves of their revered ancestors.

Peonies as a Medicine.

Peonies were originally esteemed less for beauty of bloom than for value as a medicine. In recognition of its curative virtues, the peony was named after Paeon, the physician of the gods. An old writer says: "About an infant's neck hang peonie. It cures Alcydes cruell maladie." Nor did the use of the plant stop there, for peony water was esteemed and rank in by-gone times, though whether as medicine or merely as a refreshing temperance beverage is more than modern writers can say.

Free Child's Remedy

What mother is not looking for something that will help her children in the little ills of life, something for the stomach trouble and the bowel trouble? Long ago she probably has become convinced that a child cannot readily swallow a pill or a tablet, and that to "break them in half and crush them" is an annoyance; that usually they work too drastically, and are nauseating and too powerful for the little one's stomach.

Any mother who will take the trouble of sending her name and address can obtain a free sample bottle of a remedy that thousands of other mothers are using and now paying for. This remedy is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and the offer of a free trial bottle is open to any mother who has not yet used it. Having used it and convinced yourself that it is what you want, you can obtain it in the future of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as so many others are doing, the free sample being simply to convince you of its merits. It is the best way to begin on it. Mrs. L. Davis of 117 W. Harrison street, Chicago, and Mrs. Mary Belford, 1710 Coke street, Louisville, Ky., both started with a free sample and now they write that they have never been without a bottle in the house since.

It is undoubtedly a great family remedy, as it is adapted to all ages, being mild and pleasant to take and yet thoroughly effective. It is especially the ideal remedy for children and women and old folks, who need something pure, mild and natural. It has the advantage of being a thorough laxative and yet contains tonic properties. Use it for the most stubborn constipation, indigestion, liver trouble, sick headache, sour stomach and such complaints with a guarantee that it will cure.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R 500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

ILLINOIS TURTLE FARM

Owner Expects Also to Raise Gold Fish and Guinea Pigs.

A mud turtle farm, which will also be devoted to the raising of mushrooms, gold fish and guinea pigs, is the latest venture of the head of one of the big Western railroads. President H. U. Miller of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois is the man who has hit upon this novel form of diversified farming as a relief from business cares, and he intends incidentally to show the farmers of the grain belt that 200 acres of terrapins and guinea pigs will pay bigger dividends than even 80 cent corn.

The farm is located at Barrington, a suburb of Chicago, and is a tract of rolling timbered land. Numerous lagoons and roads are being dug at various points on the property and an elaborate system of irrigating ditches will be established. The guinea pig yards will cover several acres and will be the largest it is expected in the country. The mushrooms will be allowed to grow wild wherever they will in marshy spots and damp nooks in the woods.

With the starting of the farm comes to light some interesting facts about a little known industry. It is estimated that over 10,000 turtles are consumed annually in Chicago restaurants. Some of them are terrapin, but the greater part are mud turtles, soft shells and snappers. The demand for mushrooms is enormous.

Derivation of Chauffeurs.

Chauffeurs—literally "firemen"—existed long before there were automobiles. About the year 1795 there sprang up in France, principally in the eastern and central regions, fantastically-dressed men, with their faces blackened with soot and their eyes carefully concealed, who gained admittance to farmhouses and other isolated dwellings at night and committed all kinds of depredations and outrages. They had an atrocious habit, from which they obtained the name that posterity has preserved for them. They first garroted their victims and dragged them in front of a great fire, where they burned the soles of their feet. Then they demanded of them where their money and jewelry were concealed. These were the first "chauffeurs."

Somewhat Different.

"Most men get their walking papers when they are discharged," remarked the letter carrier, "but is was different with me."

"In what way?" asked his friend.

"I got mine when I was appointed," answered the man of letters.

One Is Illegal.

"What is the difference between making money an earning money?" asked the youth.

"Sometimes the difference is a trip to the penitentiary for counterfeiting," answered the homegrown philosopher.

Perhaps.

Pearl—In the first chapter of the novel it states that the heroine has hazel eyes and in another chapter it alludes to her liquid eyes.

Ruby—Liquid? Well, er—perhaps she has witch hazel eyes.

When transfusion of blood from sheep to man was first discovered Frederick the Great became an ardent enthusiast in the operation and took out many herds of sheep with the army in one campaign, hoping thus to save many "powder boys" for future conflicts. But the blood of species as wide apart as sheep and men will not combine, for if the blood of any animal lower in the scale than the higher monkeys is mixed with man's a clotting perment is developed and the blood clots up the heart, which stops at once. Some people's blood, even in members of the same family, will not flow together harmoniously, and death follows.

Woman's Painful Position.

It is annoying to a woman if her husband is jealous of her, and it is humiliating if he isn't.

Humorists Not Truthful.

In the course of a London law case one of the witnesses, questioned as to a certain speech he had made at a banquet, admitted that he did not confine himself strictly to the truth. "But," he added, "I was regarded there as a humorist, and one can't be a humorist and always speak the truth."

Don's resolve to be better to the world; limit your desire to be more patient with your family and neighbors.

GLEANINGS AND GOSSIP.

Dogs, horses, cattle, mice, even fish have cancer. In Tunis and Abyssinia cancer is unknown.

BLOCKADED.

Every Household In Tecumseh Should Know How To Resist It

The back aches because the kidneys are blockaded. Help the kidneys with their work. The back will ache no more. Lots of proof that Doan's Kidney Pills do this. It's the best proof, for it comes from Tecumseh.

Eugene Hodges, Cumings Street Tecumseh, Mich., says: "Several years ago I used Doan's Kidney Pills and found them to be a good remedy for strengthening the kidneys and clearing the system of uric poison. Other members of my family have taken Doan's Kidney Pills with good result and consequently I have no hesitation in publicly recommending them."

For sale by all dealers Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, Sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's and take no other.

MRS. THOMAS F. WALSH

And Sheep Who Are Aiding In Her Convalescence from Illness.

LOAD OF SHEEP FOR TONIC

Shipped From Nevada to Assist Woman's Convalescence.

Bangor, Me., Sept. 5.—Some time ago Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh, widow of the late Nevada millionaire, was stricken ill at he home of her son-in-law E. R. McLean, in Bar Harbor. When she was improved she said if she could gain sufficient strength to endure the journey to Nevada, where she could see the sheep feeding on the ranch, she thought she could get well.

Her wish came to the ears of her son-in-law, Mr. McLean, who telegraphed orders to have the entire flock of sheep shipped with all haste by fast express from Nevada to Bar Harbor. Recently the sheep passed through Bangor and are now acting as a tonic for Mrs. Walsh.

SAILING IN AN AIR SHIP.

Undoubtedly all aeronauts count the first ascension as one of the most dramatic incidents in their lives, says Roy Knabenshue in The Delineator. No one who has ever gone into the sky forgets the incidents of his first aerial trip, for the anticipation is so keen and it is filled with so many surprises that the impressions are indelible. I can recall with great clearness my first balloon ascension, which I made from the Louisiana Purchase Exposition grounds in 1904. This first flight was more or less revolutionary. In a sense, it was pioneer work and followed much public discussion and anticipation aroused by the interest taken at the time in aeronautics by the management of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition. This was the first general attention given to the possibilities of aerial navigation, and it was all occasioned by an offer made by the Exposition management in 1903 of two hundred thousand dollars in prizes for successful flights. Prior to that time even a suggestion of aeronautics had brought only ridicule from all quarters.

It is well enough for a young man to dream of flying through the air steering a mechanically operated airship, but when the time arrives for that ship to be launched the young man is very likely to have some misgivings. I had had considerable ballooning experience prior to my coming to the fair, and I was well aware that there was danger of igniting the gas from the balloon by the exhaust of the gas engine propelling the ship. I realized also that as the ship ascended to any considerable altitude there was danger of the balloon bursting from internal pressure caused by expansion of gas through the rapid change, and I imagined what my plight would be should such an accident occur or the gas become ignited from the exhaust.

Speculating upon all the dangers, I kept looking over the crowd that had quickly gathered, and a strange feeling of loneliness came over me—a feeling that I was alone and separated from the world.

From the instant I felt the ship leave the ground the feeling of loneliness vanished entirely, for I was kept constantly occupied in steering and endeavoring to keep the ship upon an even keel. As I neared her headed back to the Aeronautic field I experienced a sensation of relief, for I realized that in the three minutes I had been in the air I had learned to steer and had the ship well under control.

ROOSEVELT TOUR ONE OF TRIUMPH

Colonel Reaches Fargo, N. D., for Labor Day Program.

DELIVERS FIFTEEN SERMONS

Visits to St. Paul, Milwaukee, Chicago, Cincinnati and Pittsburg Are Still on Itinerary—Sunday Crowds Enthusiastic.

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 5.—Even on Sunday the colonel can't keep quiet. He tried and failed. He decided that he would make no speeches from the train, but he could not resist the crowds that gathered at the stations along the line and before nightfall he had spoken at least fifteen times.

You see the colonel wanted to rest. He has had a hard week; a week stuffed with dinners and receptions and luncheons and breakfasts and formal dinners and handshakings. Saturday night at Sioux Falls they kept him at dinner until early Sunday morning and Mr. Roosevelt promised faithfully that he would sit still and read, and let the populace shout without answering their calls. But, of course, he could not do any such thing.

The Roosevelt special slid over the rails through three states Sunday. From South Dakota it carried the colonel into Minnesota and from there into North Dakota.

Mr. Roosevelt preached sermons most of the day. At little towns that bear names like those you see on sleeping cars, he faced substantial crowds of folks wearing their black suits and white organdies. The village bands played hymns on their weird sounding brass instruments. Flags were waved.

He discussed mostly moral topics. He told his hearers to be honest, to be courageous, to be good, to be kind and to be patient and true. Politics was tabooed, but it was all right for Mr. Roosevelt to tell the westerners to stand by the law and help their fellow citizens conduct themselves properly, for Sunday above all days is the day for handing out a bit of a sermon.

In the thirteen days that Mr. Roosevelt has been on the road he has covered more than 3,800 miles. He passed through fourteen states. He has addressed thousands of persons who have shown the friendliest regard for him. Wild-eyed Kansas roared with delight at his visit; Nebraska was enthusiastic, South Dakota and Seth Bullock did themselves proud; Iowa and Ohio were more than generous. The news that some New Jersey Republicans have already started a boom for the colonel did not bother him when it was put to him. He said nothing and he did not even look surprised.

The last leg of the trip is at hand. Visits to St. Paul, Milwaukee, Chicago, Cincinnati and Pittsburg will be of deep importance. When the colonel reaches the home of Mr. Taft he will be watched closely in the hope that he will commit himself; those who are with him believe that he will steer clear of politics.

Last night Mr. Roosevelt reached Fargo. Senators McCumber and Purcell, of North Dakota, boarded the train at Breckenridge and chatted with him all the way. Neither had anything to say regarding their talk, further than T. R. is a fine man.

Fargo has made elaborate preparations for the colonel's stay. The streets are all flossy with flags and banners and the home folks are contemplating a big Labor Day celebration. Mr. Roosevelt will lay a couple of cornerstones, review fire companies and make his main speech late this afternoon.

Mr. Roosevelt found a great crowd awaiting his arrival at the station. He drove immediately to the Waldorf hotel. Grouped in front of the hotel entrance were 100 little girls dressed in white and carrying Teddy bears. The kiddies ranged in age from 10 months to 10 years. They gave a soprano cheer as the colonel approached.

T. R. jumped from the machine as fast as he could and began to talk with the children. As he passed between the two lines they formed, he patted each one of them and said nice things. A lot of proud mothers and fathers swelled perceptibly when they saw what was happening. In order that the photographers can get a picture of this, the tableu will be repeated today at noon.

GEN. E. D. S. GOODYEAR DEAD

Veteran Succumbs After More Than a Year of Illness.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 5.—Gen. Ellsworth D. S. Goodyear died here after an illness of more than a year, aged 84. He was the oldest of the seven sons of Bella Goodyear, being a direct descendant in the sixth generation of Stephen Goodyear, first deputy governor of New Haven colony. His great grandfather was a revolutionary soldier and he and four others fought for the Union during the Civil war.

From 1868 to 1884 he was a United States custom house inspector at New Haven. Since leaving the custom house service he has passed a quiet life at his home in North Haven. He represented North Haven in the legislature of 1867. Of his eight children three are living. His wife is dead.

Washington, Sept. 5.—Philadelphia has a population of 1,549,008, an increase of 255,311, or 19.7 per cent, compared with 1,293,697 in 1900. The population of Alton, Ill., is 17,528, as compared with 14,210 in 1900. The population of Upper Alton is 2,918.

Troy, N. Y., has 76,813 people, an increase of 16,162, or 26.6 per cent, compared with 60,651 in 1900.

A Bismarck Incident.

It used to be the privilege of Austria's representative at any conference of representatives of the German states to smoke, the others refraining. This was supposed to be an acknowledgment of Austria's supremacy. At the first conference that Bismarck attended as Prussia's representative he began to puff smoke across the conference table as soon as the Austrian diplomat lit up. That set everybody present to smoking on equal terms, and Austria's supremacy got a blow.

MRS. KERENS AND GLADYS

MISS KERENS A BRIDE

Daughter of Ambassador Weds George H. Colket.

Marriage Takes Place in England, Only Members of the Two Families Being Present.

London, Sept. 5.—Miss Gladys Kerens of St. Louis, daughter of Richard C. Kerens, American ambassador at Vienna, and George Hamilton Colket of Philadelphia, were married in the Church of St. John the Evangelist at Herons Ghyl in Sussex.

The wedding was a quiet affair, only members of the two families being present. These included Ambassador and Mrs. Kerens, who came here from the Austrian capital. Father Bert officiated. Miss Mary Dudley Kenna, a niece of the bride, was bridesmaid, and C. Stevenson Hulburt of Philadelphia was best man.

A wedding breakfast was served at The Rocks, Boars Head, Sussex, the country house of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dudley Kenna.

DYNAMITE WRECKS MOUNTAIN

Quarter Square Mile of Clay Exposed by 30,000 Pound Charge.

San Bernardino, Cal., Sept. 5.—Thirty thousand pounds of dynamite were used in a single charge to blow up a solid mountain of slate clay near Fleming. A quarter of a square mile was exposed to view through the explosion.

A tunnel was run into the mountain 100 feet and at the end the charge was placed. This was set off by means of an electric battery 800 feet away. It is estimated the blast made accessible 200,000 carloads of clay for cement manufacturing purposes.

CORNICE DROPS 16 STORIES

Five Tons of Terra Cotta Plunge From Skyscraper to Street.

New York, Sept. 5.—A sixteen-foot length of terra cotta cornice work weighing five tons fell from the top of a sixteen-story building, crashed through and upset a scaffolding in its drop, pierced a heavy timber hood over the sidewalk built to protest pedestrians.

Bouncing into the stret, it struck a team of horses, killing one of the animals instantly and injuring the other so seriously that it was shot. A workman and a bystander were hurt slightly.

Language of Switzerland.

It is a curious fact that the people most celebrated for love of country should in a manner be without a language—that is, a mother tongue. The Swiss have three official languages—German, French and Italian. About three-fourths of the population of the mountain confederation speak German, while the remainder divide four other languages among them, chiefly French and Italian, these languages being found, as a rule, in districts in close proximity to the countries wherein those languages are the principal tongue. In Switzerland documents and notices are printed in both the French and German languages. In the national assembly members deliver their speeches in either French or German, for nearly all members understand both tongues. The decrees and proclamations of the president are translated by an official interpreter and furnished to the press in both languages.—New York Press.

SHERMAN IGNORED BY PARTY

Madison County Delegates Instructed to Support T. R. for Chairman.

Utica, N. Y., Sept. 8.—It developed following the convention of the Republicans of Madison county, at which E. Leland Hunt, of Oneida, was nominated for district attorney, Kirk Bruce Delano, of Canastota, was renominated for assemblyman, and Prof. Ralph W. Thomas, of Hamilton, endorsed for reelection as senator, the question as to whether the county delegation to the state convention should be for Vice President Sherman or Ex-President Roosevelt for temporary chairman was debated by the leaders, and a decision reached that the delegates should support Roosevelt.

The delegation will take the position that all differences should be arranged before the state convention meets, but if a fight is precipitated in the convention, Madison county's delegates will line up against Sherman.

Bore Under East River Completed and Service Started.

There Was no Special Celebration to Mark Sending of First Train Through East River Bore.

New York, Sept. 8.—The first thing of any importance that happened in this city this morning was at 10 minutes after midnight when Manhattan reached out and yanked all Long Island closer to it. The Pennsylvania road whizzed its first train from the terminal at Seventh avenue and Thirty-Fourth street to Hempstead and Jamaica.

It was a through train on the Hempstead branch which made stops at Hollis, Queens, Mineola, Garden City and other points and it was used by Oyster Bay passengers, who changed from electric to steam travel at Jamaica. It marked the completion of eight years of financiering, rock digging, tunnel boring and construction and it was the early morning signal for Long Island to get up and celebrate. It put into inauguration a schedule which brings all the towds and villages of Long Island nearer to Manhattan by from fifteen minutes to an hour.

There was no special celebration to mark the sending of the first train that ever slid under the East River, but many of the officials of the Pennsylvania railroad were in the new Thirty-Fourth street terminal or rode on the first train. There was no hitch in starting or running because the officials had experimented for days with practice trains and motormen and signal men had learned what to do.

CHICAGOAN HELD IN ROBBERY

A. Julius Suspected of Robbing Train and Killing Man in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 8.—Albert Julian, sought by the police as the bandit who killed Flagman J. M. Wine and robbed passengers on a Burlington train in this city, has been arrested.

He admitted jumping on the train at the Union station. He said he got on in front of the baggage car and rode about 100 yards. When searched he had no money. Witnesses identified him as the man who swung aboard the sleeper.

BEVERIDGE MAKES TALK

Attacks State Rights in Brilliant Speech at St. Paul.

Mr. Pinchot Given Great Ovation When He Appears on Platfrom in Response for Speech.

St. Paul, Sept. 8.—The state's rights forces in the national conservation congress are in full retreat. Staggered by the vigorous assault of Theodore Roosevelt and defeated Tuesday evening in the organization of the committee on resolutions the rout has been made complete. To Senator A. J. Beveridge of Indiana, belongs the credit.

In the most brilliant and fiery addresses yet delivered before the congress, Senator Beveridge drove his lance full against the so-called "Western idea" of conservation. In it he paid a glowing tribute to Gifford Pinchot, starting a demonstration at the auditorium for the deposed chief forester which rivaled the one in honor of Col. Roosevelt and showed that the friends of Pinchot are in control of the congress.

Pinchot was not on the program, but he continually hovered behind the scenes consulting with President B. N. Baker and Secretary Thomas R. Shipp, directing and advising. And at the close of Senator Beveridge's speech, so loud and insistent were the calls for Mr. Pinchot that he stepped to the footlights and made a few impromptu remarks. An ovation greeted him.

BANK WRECKED AT RIGA

Cement Blocks, Hurled Across Street, Crash Through Roof.

Bandits Arrive and Depart on Handcar —Excessive Charge of Explosive Foils Robbers of Booty.

Riga, Mich., Sept. 8. — Cracksmen wrecked the Farmers' and Merchants' bank in this village at an early hour when they blew the safe with nitroglycerine. The bank was a one-story cement store structure and blocks of cement were hurled across the street and crashed through the roof of a residence. None of the inmates were injured, however. It is believed that the excessive charge used by the robbers foiled them in securing much of the bank funds. The safe is said to have contained several thousand dollars.

The gang came here on a handcar and made their escape by the same means before the inhabitants, aroused by the explosion, found out what had happened.

CRUST STRANGLES A CHILD

Little Girl Expires After Choking on Morsel Given by Parents.

Beverly, N. J., Sept. 8.—Rose Fogarty, the 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Fogarty, was strangled by a piece of bread crust, which lodged in her throat.

The child was given the bread while the family were at supper. Although the parents made heroic efforts to dislodge the obstruction, the little girl expired in a few minutes.

The people are not all fooled by the assertions and claims of those who expect to get higher offices by the hollow noise they make just before the primaries. The thoughtful Republicans of Michigan are going to demand a bill of particulars before they recall their faithful servant, Senator J. C. Burrows, who has won the nation's praise and fame.—Coldwater Daily Reporter.

COMMITTEE VOTES OUSTS BALLINGER

Action Starts Spirited Fight in Committee Executive Session

'NO QUORUM' SAVES SECRETARY

Declaration Holding Cabinet Member an Unfaithful Officer Is Introduced in Executive Session by a Democrat.

Minneapolis, Sept. 8.—The Ballinger-Pinchot congressional investigating committee adopted a resolution declaring that Secretary of the Interior Ballinger should be removed.

Two Republican members left the committee room, whereupon Senator Knute Nelson, the chairman, declared there was "no quorum" and a spirited fight among the remaining members of the committee started.

At an executive meeting of the committee Senator Duncan W. Fletcher of Florida introduced a resolution holding that the secretary of the interior was an unfaithful public officer and should be removed.

Representative Madison, the Republican insurgent from Kansas, offered a substitute resolution, holding that the charges made by Gifford Pinchot and Louis R. Glavis were sustained.

Representative Ollie James Democrat, of Kentucky, offered an amendment to Madison's substitute, providing for the removal of Mr. Ballinger from office, and Mr. Madison accepted the amendment.

The vote came on the substitute of Mr. Madison as amended by the motion of Mr. James, and the roll was called.

Those voting for the substitute were Fletcher, Purcell of North Dakota, a Democrat; Graham of Illinois, Democrat; Madison, Republican, and Ollie James.

When this vote was being taken Senator Sutherland of Utah and Representative McCall of Massachusetts, Republicanscans, left the room, insisting that the full committee should be present.

The Democratic members replied that they had been months considering the evidence, that a quorum was present and had a right to transact business.

Senator Nelson took the vote, voting himself present, and then made the ruling that no quorum was present.

Mr. James made a point of order that no member had raised the point of no quorum.

The committee then took a recess until Friday, at which time reports in keeping with the resolution of Senator Fletcher and the amendment thereto offered by Representative James will be submitted.

TAFT REACHES SUMMER HOME

President Receives Many Messages of Congratulations on His Speech.

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 8.—President Taft has arrived at Beverly from his 3,000 mile trip to St. Paul. He found many congratulatory messages awaiting him on the speech he delivered to the conservation congress at the Minnesota city.

Mr. Taft reached Boston shortly before 3 o'clock Wednesday. From the south station he motored to the Hotel Touraine, where Solicitor General Lloyd W. Powers is lying ill of pleurisy. The president found that the solicitor general was improving and left the Touraine for Beverly.

MORAN MAY FIGHT WOLGAST

English Lightweight Is Out With Challenge to the Champion.

New York, Sept. 8.—Owen Moran, the English lightweight, who has just returned to New York after his ten-round no-decision affair with Frank Burns in San Francisco, has issued a challenge to Ad Wolgast.

If the challenge is accepted it will probably be Wolgast's last fight, as he has announced his intention of retiring permanently from the ring in October.

TOWNSEND WINS IN TOGA CONTEST

Defeats Senator Burrows by More Than 25,000 Votes.

OSBORN CHOSEN FOR GOVERNOR

Gubernatorial Candidate Received Two-Thirds of Entire Vote Cast—L. W. Hemans Selected by the Democrats.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 8.—The battle for the Republican nominations which has been raging for more than a year, has ended by the nomination of Charles E. Townsend for United States senator by more than 25,000 votes over Senator J. C. Burrows, who has been a conspicuous figure in national politics for thirty-three years, and Charles F. S. Osborn is the winner for governor by approximately the same figures.

The showing of Senator Burrows was a great disappointment to his friends. Mr. Townsend overwhelmed the senator in practically every section of the state. Even the upper peninsula, which but a month ago was apparently solid for the senator, turned and gave Townsend a majority. Townsend will probably carry Wayne county by 2,500 or 3,000 and his majority in the state will probably approach 30,000.

In the governorship contest Osborn made a runaway race of it, the later returns showing him but 10,000 shy of having as much as both his opponents. Lawton W. Hemans, of Mason, was nominated (unopposed) for governor on the Democratic ticket.

Congressmen chosen: First district, Edwin Denby; Second, W. W. Wedemeyer; Third, J. M. C. Smith; Fourth, Edwin L. Hamilton, unopposed; Fifth, G. J. Diekema; Sixth, Samuel W. Smith; Seventh, H. W. McMorran; Eighth, J. W. Fordney; Ninth, James C. McLaughlin; Tenth, George A. Loud; Eleventh, F. H. Dodds, no opposition; Twelfth, H. O. Young. John T. Winship, of Saginaw, received the nomination for United States senator on the Democratic ticket, unopposed.

LAFOLLETTE IS WINNER

Defeats S. A. Cook in Every County in State.

Entire LaFollette State Ticket Also Elected—F. E. McGovern Victorious by 30,000.

Milwaukee, Sept. 8.—In Tuesday's primaries the voters selected LaFollette candidates for legislative nominations to such an extent that if the Republican party is victorious in November, there will be no question as to the return of LaFollette.

Francis E. McGovern, with the LaFollette support pretty well centered behind him, carried the state for the Republican nomination for governor with a plurality which will run between 20,000 and 30,000, if present ratios of gains continue.

The entire LaFollette state ticket is nominated. Even Frank Tucker, who met death by accident last week at Oshkosh, received a plurality vote for the Republican nomination for attorney general. The Republican candidates for congress were all renominated save W. H. Stafford. His support of Speaker Cannon in the last congress cost him his position.

The platform convention will be controlled by the progressives and a distinctly LaFollette platform will be adopted. How sweeping was the victory of LaFollette can be seen when it is said that Samuel A. Cook did not carry a single county.

The Democratic state ticket will get on the official ballot. That seems assured by the returns, which show 26 per cent of the normal vote was polled. As regards county and legislative tickets, the situation is different. In some counties the Democrats will get on the ballot and in others they will

GOOSE

The GIRL

By
HAROLD MacGRATH

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

That a wooden shoed, simple minded goose girl should plunge monarchs and monarchies into a most mysterious confusion of affairs is a novelty. Yet the lovely Gretchen, the heroine of this fascinating old world novel, did just that, for no one can deny that Ehrenstein is a land of romance. There Carmichael, the dashing young American consul, learned of the dangers of falling in love with a princess; there Herbeck, the wily chancellor, tried a master stroke, evilly designed, to change the history of a throne; there royalty in disguise wandered and plotted and learned to know fellow human beings; there the treacherous Magyar gypsies lurked in the shadows to abduct a princess. And through all the little goose girl trod her lowly way toward a fate that the magic wand of chance had destined she must fill---a fate as amazing as it is fascinating to read about.

CHAPTER I.

SOME IN RAGS.

An old man clothed in picturesque patches and tatters paused and leaned on his stout oak staff. He had walked many miles that day. His peasant garb rather enhanced his fine head. His eyes were blue and clear and farseeing, the eyes of a hunter or a woodsman.

The afternoon glow of the September sun burned along the dusty white highway. From where he stood the road trailed off miles behind and wound up 500 feet or more above him to the ancient city of Dreiberg.

Across a lofty jumble of barren rock and glacial cleft, now purpling and darkening as the sun mellowed in its decline, lay the kingdom of Jugendhelt. By and by his gaze wavered, and one particular patch in the valley, brown from the beating of many ironshod horses, caught and chained his interest for a space. It was the military field, and it glittered and scintilated with squadron after squadron of cavalry.

"The philosophy of war is to prepare for it," mused the old man, with a jerk of his shoulders, "France! So the mutter runs. There is a Napoleon in France, but no Bonaparte." He laughed ironically and cautiously glanced at his watch, an article which must have cost him many and many a potato patch. He stepped forward. He had followed yonder goose girl ever since the incline began. Oft the little wooden shoes had lagged, but here they were, still a hundred yards or more ahead of him.

The little goose girl was indeed tired, and the little wooden shoes grew heavier and heavier, and the little bare feet ached dully, but her heart was light and her mind sweet with happiness. Day after day she had tended the geese in the valley and trudged back at evening alone, all told a matter of twelve miles, and now she was bringing them into the city to sell in the market on the morrow. After that she would have little to do save an hour or two at night in a tavern called the Black Eagle, where she waited on patrons.

Presently there was a clatter of horses, a jingle of bit and spur and saber. Half a dozen mounted officers trotted past. The peasant on the parapet instantly recognized one of the men. He saluted with a humbleness which lacked sincerity. It was the grand duke himself. There was General Ducwitz, too, and some of his staff, and a smooth faced, handsome young man in civilian riding clothes, who, though he rode like a cavalryman, was obviously of foreign birth, an Englishman or an American.

When the cavalcade reached the goose girl the peace of the scene vanished forthwith. Confusion took up the scepter. The silly geese, instead of remaining on the left of the road in safety, straightway determined that their haven of refuge was on the opposite side. Gonk, gonk! Quack, quack! They scrambled, they blundered, they flew. Some tried to go over the horses, some endeavored to go under.

The civilian looked casually at the girl.

"By George!" he exclaimed in English.

"What is it?" asked the duke, gathering up the reins.

"The girl's face. It is beautiful."

"Pretty figure, too," said one of the aids, a colonel. But his eye held none of the abstract admiration which characterized the American's.

The goose girl had seen this look in other men's eyes. She knew. A faint color grew under her tan and waned.

The troop proceeded with dust and small thunder and shortly passed the city gates. It traversed the lumpy cobbles of the narrow streets, often crowding pedestrians. One among those so inconvenienced was a youth dressed as a vintner. He was tall, pliantly built, blond as a viking, possessing a singular beauty of the masculine order. He was forced to flatten himself against the wall of a house, his arms extended on either side in a kind of temporary crucifixion. Even then the stirrup of the American touched him slightly. But it was not the touch of the stirrup that startled him. It was the dark, clean cut face of the rider. Once they were by the youth darted into a doorway.

"He? What can he be doing here? No, it is utterly impossible. It is merely a likeness."

He ventured forth presently, none of the perturbation, however, gone from his face. He ran his hand across his chin. Yes, he would let his beard grow.

The duke and his escort turned into the broad and restful sweep of the Konigstrasse. At the end was the Ehrenstein Platz, the great square round which ran the palaces and the royal and public gardens. The halt was made in the courtyard and all dismounted.

The American thanked the duke gratefully for the use of the horse.

"You are welcome to a mount at all times, Mr. Carmichael," replied the duke pleasantly. "A man who rides as well as yourself may be trusted anywhere with any kind of a horse."

The group looked admiringly at the object of this marked attention. Here was one who had seen two years of constant and terrible warfare, who had ridden horses under fire and who bore on his body many honorable scars, for the great civil strife in America had come to its close but two years before and Europe was still captive to her amazement at the military prowess of the erstwhile inconsiderable American.

As Carmichael saluted and turned to leave the courtyard he threw a swift, searching glance at one of the palace windows. Did the curtain stir? He could not say. He continued on, crossing the Platz, toward the Grand hotel. He was a bachelor, so he might easily have had his quarters at the consulate, but as usual with American consulates—even to the present time—it was situated in an undesirable part of the town, over a bierhalle frequented by farmers and the middle class.

Meanwhile the goose girl, now joined by the old man, marshaled her geese and proceeded.

"What was that song you were singing before the horses came up?" he asked her.

"That? It was from the poet Heine"—simply.

He stared at her.

"Heine? Can you read?"

"Yes, herr."

A goose girl who read Heine?

"And the music?" he inquired presently.

"That is mine"—with the first sign of diffidence. "Melodies are always running through my head. Sometimes they make me forget things I ought to remember."

"Your own music? An impresario will be discovering you some fine day, and your fortune will be made."

"I AM ONLY A GOOSE GIRL."

The light irony did not escape her. "I am only a goose girl."

He felt disarmed. "What is your name?"

"Gretchen."

"What else?"

"Nothing else," wistfully. "I never knew any father or mother."

"So? But who taught you to read?"

"A priest. Once I lived in the mountains at an inn. He used to come in evenings when the snow was not too deep. He taught me to read and write. I know that Italy has all the works of art, that France has the most interesting history, that Germany has all the philosophers and America all the money," adding a smile. "I should like to see America."

"Do you live alone?"

"No. I live with my foster mother, who is very old. I call her grandmother. She took me in when I was a foundling. And what might your name be?"

"Ludwig. I am a mountaineer from Jugendhelt."

"We are not friendly with your country."

"More's the pity. It is a grave blunder on the part of the grand duke."

"Wasn't it all about the grand duke's daughter?"

"Yes. But she has been found. Yet the duke is as bitter as of old. What is this new found princess like?"

"She is beautiful and kind."

The geese were behaving, and only occasionally was she obliged to use her stick.

He observed her critically, for he was interested. She was not tall, but her lithe slenderness gave her the appearance of tallness. Her hands, rough nailed and sunburnt, were small and shapely. Her hair, in a thick braid, was the tone of the heart of a chestnut bur, and her eyes were of that mystifying hazel, sometimes brown, sometimes gray.

"How old are you, Gretchen?"

"I do not know," she answered, "perhaps eighteen, perhaps twenty."

Arriving at length in the city, they passed through the crooked streets.

"Gretchen, where shall I find the Adlergasse?"

"I will show you. You are also a stranger in Dreiberg?"

"Yes."

They took the next turn, and the weather beaten sign Zum Schwartzen Adler, hanging in front of a frame house of many gables, caused the mountaineer to breathe gratefully.

"Here my journey ends, Gretchen, at the Black Eagle," he said.

They were passing a clock mender's shop. The man from Jugendhelt peered in the window, but there was no clock in sight to give him warning of the time, and he dared not now look at his watch. He had a glimpse of the ancient clock mender himself, however, huddled over a table upon which sputtered a candle. The eyes of the two men met, but only for a moment. The mountaineer started to cross the street to the tavern.

"Good night, Gretchen. Good luck to you and your geese tomorrow."

"Thanks, Herr Ludwig. And will you be long in the city?"

"That depends; perhaps," adding a grim smile in answer to a grim thought.

He offered his hand, which she accepted trustfully. He was a strange old man, but she liked him. When she withdrew her hand something cold and hard remained in her palm. Wonders of all the world, it was a piece of gold! Her eyes went up quickly, but the giver smiled reassuringly and put a finger against his lips.

"But, herr," she remonstrated.

"Keep it. I give it to you. Do not question Providence, and I am her handmaiden just now. Go along with you."

So Gretchen in a mild state of stupefaction turned away. Clat-clat! sang the little wooden shoes. A plaintive gonk rose as she prodded a laggard from the dank gutter. A piece of gold! Clat-clat! Clat-clat! Surely this had been a day of marvels.

She was regarded with kindly eyes till the dark jaws of the Krumerweg swallowed up both her and her geese.

"Poor little goose girl!" he thought. "If she but knew she could make a bonfire of a thousand hearts. A fine day!" He eyed again the battered sign. It was then that he discerned another leaning from the ledge of the first story of the house adjoining the tavern. It was the tarnished shield of the United States.

"Two weeks tramping about the country in this unholy garb, following false trails half the time, living on crusts and cold meats! Ah, you have led me a merry dance, nephew, but I shall not forget!"

He entered the tavern and applied for a room, haggling over the price.

The nights were chilly. Carmichael in order to finish his cigar on the little balcony fronting his window found it necessary to put on his light overcoat, though he perfectly knew that he was in no manner forced to smoke on the balcony. But the truth was he wanted a clear vision of the palace and the lighted windows thereof and of one in particular. He had no more sense than Tom Fool, the abetter of folijes. She was as far removed from him as the most alien of the planets, but the magnet shall ever draw the needle, and a woman shall ever draw a man. He knew that it was impossible, that it grew more impossible day by day, and he railed at himself bitterly and satirically.

He sighed and teetered his legs. Carmichael sighed for the Princess Hildegarde, understanding. It was sigh or curse, and the latter mode of expression wastes more vitality.

Arthur Carmichael was Irish. He was born in America, educated there and elsewhere—a little while in Paris, a little while at Bonn—and, like all Irishmen, he was baned with the wandering foot, for the man who is homeless by choice has a rustle poison in his blood. He was at Bonn when the civil war came. He went back to America and threw himself into the fight with all the ardor that had made his forbears famous in the service of the worthless Stuarts. It wasn't a question with him of the mere love of fighting, of tossing the penny. He knew with which side he wished to fight. He joined the cavalry of the north and hammered and fought his way to a captaincy. He was wounded five times and imprisoned twice. At the end of the conflict he returned to Washington.

Without any influence whatever save his pleasing address and his wide education he blarneyed the state department out of a consulate. They sent him to Ehrenstein at a salary not worth mentioning, with the diplomatic halo of dignity as a tail to the kite. Two years in any one place was not in reckoning as regarded Carmichael, yet here he was, caring neither for promotion nor exchange. So, then, all logical deductions slumered down to one—cherchez la femme.

The dreamer is infariably tripping over his lilipstons, and Carmichael was rather boyish in his dreams. What absurd romances he was always weaving round her! What exploits on her behalf! But never anything happened, and never was the grand duke called upon to offer his benediction.

It was all very foolish and romantic and impossible, and no one recognized this more readily than he. No American ever married a princess of a reigning house, and no American ever will. This law is as immovable as the law of gravitation. Still, man is master of his dreams, and he may do as he pleases in the confines of this small circle.

"How the deuce will it end?" musing half aloud. "I'll forget myself some day and trip so hard that they'll be asking Washington for my recall. I'll go over to the gardens and listen to the band."

He was standing in front of the hotel when he noticed a closed carriage hard by the fountain in the Platz.

"Ha, a fare!"

A woman in black, thoroughly veiled and cloaked, came round from the opposite side of the fountain. She spoke to the driver. The lady stepped into the carriage, the driver woke up his ancient Bucephalus and went clicketyclack down the Konigstrasse toward the town. To Carmichael it was less than an incident. He twirled his cane and walked toward the public gardens. The band struck up again, and he drifted with the crowd toward the pavilion.

Within a dozen feet of him, her arms folded across her breast, her eyes half shut in the luxury of the senses, stood the goose girl. He smiled as he recalled the encounter of that afternoon. It was his habit to ride to the maneuvers every day, and several times he had noticed her and her beauty.

"Why couldn't I have fallen in love with some one like this?" he cogitated.

Colonel von Wallenstein of the general staff approached her from the other side. Wallenstein was a capital soldier and a jolly fellow round a board, but beyond that Carmichael had no real liking for him. There were too many scented notes stuck in his pockets.

The colonel dropped his cigarette, leaned over Gretchen's shoulder and spoke a few words. At first she gave no heed. The colonel persisted. Without a word in reply she resolutely sought the nearest policeman. Wallenstein, remaining where he was, laughed. Meantime the policeman frowned. His excellency could not possibly have intended any wrong. The law of redress in Ehrenstein had no niche for the goose girl.

"Good evening, colonel," said Carmichael pleasantly. "Why can't your bandmaster give us light opera once in awhile?"

The colonel pulled his mustache in chagrin.

"Light operas are rare at present," he replied, accepting his defeat amiably enough.

And then a pretty woman rose from a chair near by. She nodded brightly at the colonel, who bowed, excused himself to Carmichael and made off after her.

Carmichael looked round for Gretchen. She was still at the side of the policeman. She came back.

"Did you get your geese together without mishap?" he asked of her.

The instinct of the child always remains with the woman. Gretchen smiled. This young man would be different, she knew.

"They were only frightened."

"We don't have goose girls in America," he said.

The magic word America, where the gold came from, flamed her curiosity.

"You are from America?" she asked.

"Yes."

"Are you rich?"

"In fancy, in dreams," humorously.

"Oh, I thought they were all rich. Did you fight in the war?"

"Yes. Do you like music?"

"Were you ever wounded?"

"A scratch or two. But do you like music?"

"Very, very much. When they play Beethoven, Bach or Meyerbeer—ach, I seem to live in another country. I hear music in everything—in the leaves, the rain, the wind, the stream."

It seemed strange to him that he had not noticed it at first, the almost Hanoverian purity of her speech and the freedom with which she spoke. The average peasant is ignorant, diffident, with a vocabulary of few words.

"What is your name?"

"Gretchen."

"It is a good name. It is famous too."

"Goethe used it."

"So he did." Carmichael ably concealed his surprise.

THE BROOKLYN TABERNACLE BIBLE STUDIES

"MANY ARE CALLED BUT FEW ARE CHOSEN."

Matthew 22:1-14.—September 11.

Many of us have not in the past sufficiently discerned that none of the lessons of the Great Teacher were given in literal language—that they were all symbolical; as we read, "Without a parable spake he not unto them."—Matt. 13:34.

In today's Study we have another beautiful parabolic lesson respecting the Kingdom. We might inquire why the Bible is so full of these lessons concerning the Kingdom? Is it not because the Kingdom of God is the only hope of the world? Are we not learning this more and more? Faith in the coming Kingdom of God under the whole heavens began to grow dim within less than two centuries after the death of the Apostles. Instead of longing, hoping, to become the Bride of Christ, to be associated with him in his glorious Kingdom for the overthrow of Sin and Satan and Death, and for the uplifting of mankind during a reign of a thousand years, a new faith and a new hope came in, contrary to the Scriptures. This unscriptural hope instructed Christians that they should expect an earthly Kingdom of their own establishment in which the popes would reign as representatives of Jesus, and the cardinals and bishops as representatives of the apostles and the "little flock," to whom the Kingdom is promised. Thenceforth the work of the Church, to "build one another up in the most holy faith," gave place to the unscriptural course of neglecting the Church and laboring for the world, under the unwarranted assumption that it is the duty of the Church to convert the world. As to how much injury has thus been done it is difficult to estimate. For the sake of numbers standards have been lowered and worldliness has been recognized, until today Christendom is in a sad plight as respects true doctrines and high moral standards.

As Messiah is to be the Great King of earth during the period of his Mediatorial reign, it is the Father's good pleasure that he should have a "Bride." And this Gospel Age is set apart for the finding and development of this Bride class of many members. The Kingdom is the great prize which the Father is to bestow upon his Son—to be shared by the Church, the Bride of Christ. The parable of today's Study outlines the call of this Bride class or Kingdom class from Jesus' day down to the completion and glorification of this company. Nowhere is Jesus represented as calling his own Bride. This is foreshown in Abraham, who typified the Father, and Isaac, who typified Jesus; and Abraham's servant, sent to call Rebecca to be the Bride of Isaac, typified the holy Spirit, whose work during this Gospel Age is bringing to Christ the Bride class—"the very elect."

So this parable shows that the King sent forth the call to the Marriage. The Jewish people, the children of Abraham, according to the flesh, had been invited to this high honor from the time of the giving of the Law Covenant at Sinai. Century after century they waited for the announcement to be made to them that the nuptial feast was ready. Finally, when Jesus came, the announcement went to them. All things are now ready! Come to the feast! Meantime, they had become overcharged with the cares of this life—business, politics and religious schemes of their own concocting. They manifested no interest in the announcement and even beat some of the servants, the Apostles and others, who sought to help them, and to draw their attention to the Great Feast, which was their special privilege.

The Almighty was wroth and sent the Roman Armies and "destroyed those murderers and burned up their City," Jerusalem, in A. D. 70. Then the King said to his servants, The wedding must take place even though those who were bidden are not worthy. Go ye therefore into the highways and as many as ye find bring to the marriage feast. As the city represented the Jewish nation, so the highways represented the world in general—the Gentiles—to whom the message of the Kingdom was sent after fleshly Israel had first enjoyed the offer and but partially improved it. Another statement of the parable shows three different classes:—

(1) The Jewish rulers who rejected him.

(2) Those called from among the streets and lanes of their city and gathered to the spirit plane by Jesus and the Apostles.

(3) Then the report was given, "We have done as thou hast commanded and yet there is room." Then the message went forth to go everywhere among the Gentiles and urge them to come in, until the house should be filled—until the elect number for whom the feast was provided would be found. Our Study shows that the wedding was furnished with guests—good and bad. In other words, the offer of a share with Christ in his Kingdom has attracted some naturally very fallen, as well as some better favored by nature. But the arrangements of the Great King are such that the "wedding garment" covers all the blemishes of the most imperfect as well as those of the least imperfect.

The latter part of our Study shows a discrimination and judgment ultimately to take place amongst those invited to the wedding and accepted. As none were permitted to enter in without a wedding garment—without an acknowledgment of the merit of Christ's sacrifice—so none will be permitted to remain and participate in the wedding festival except those who maintain their standing of confidence in Christ. Any who take off the "wedding garment" will be sure to be expelled from the privileges enjoyed and will go out from the light and blessings afforded to this favored class, into the "outer darkness" of the world and of nominal Christianity, in which shortly there will be a great time of trouble, symbolically represented by the "weeping and gnashing of teeth."

Are we not even now in the time of this inspection of the guests? And are not all Christian people who cast away their confidence in the sacrifice of Christ and who accept Evolutionary theories and Higher Criticism taking off "the wedding garment," and will they not all eventually find themselves in outer darkness, in confusion, in bewilderment? And will they not be sadly distressed in the great time of trouble which the Scriptures seem to be near?—Daniel 12:1.

PRIMARY ELECTION.

A hotly contested election at the primaries Tuesday, gave some unexpected results but in the main was quite satisfactory.

Osborne led by a fine majority for governor and Chas. Townsend had about 25,000 majority for Senator. Leighton Bush lead for Clark, VanDuzen for Treasurer and Michner for Pros. Atty. Now every one will be anxious for the fall elections to make sure of the right men.

Summer's End Issue of Lippincott's

Lippincott's for September is a characteristic and delightful uumber, maintaining all the excellencies of old-time reputation. The complete novel is "The Mischief of Time," a beguiling story of English social life, by Dorothea Deakin, author of "Georgie," "Color of Rose," etc. The leading character is a plucky young girl who prides herself on the fact that whenever she has set her heart on a thing she has always gotten it. She finally embarks on a bigger undertaking than she has ever before attempted, with a result that is not quite what she anticipated; yet she did not lose nor can it be truthfully said that she was entirely successfull.

The short stories are as varied and entertaining a group as have ever appeared in one number of a magazine. Burton Egbert Stevenson whose dashing cavalier romances "At Odds with the Regent" ond "The Cadets of Gascony" have endeared him to all fiction lovers, contributes a dramatic tale called "Flaherty's Promotion." Will Levington Comfort, whose "Routledge Rides Alone" has been the most talked about book of the year, is responsible for "The Woman or the Spider," a detective story of fine conception and unexpected ending.

Don't let the baby suffer from eczema, sores or any itching of the skin. Doan's Ointment gives instant relief cures quickly. Perfectly safe for children. All druggists sell it.

Never can tell when you'll mash a finger or suffer a cut, bruise or scald. Be prepared. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil instantly relieves the pain—quickly cures the wound.

Hot Weather Affects the Skin.

Tender skins are bound to be affected by the increased amount of poison in the copious perspiration thrown off during hot weather. Rashes, hives, blotches, pimples, prickly heat result. Often too, serious skin troubles begin this way

To wash away the poison entirely, to clean and cool the skin, make an application of a simple solution of wintergreen with thymol, known as D. D. D. Prescription. Doctors prescribe this D. D. D. Prescription for eczema. It is sold for the purpose in dollar bottles, but we can give you for 25 cents enough D. D. D. to keep your skin fresh and clean from summer blemishes.

If there is any itch this wintergreen lotion will take it away instantly, the very second it is applied to the skin. We assure you of this for we have seen the result with D. D. D.

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES

McCOY-WILSON

Mr. Sidney J. Wilson and Miss Helen V. McCoy married in Adrian Wednesday Sept 7th, 1910.

And still another of the HERALD girls has taken to herself a husband, dropped the stick, laid aside her composing rule, thrown in her type and is one of us no more. One and all we wish her a loving companion a cheerful fire-side and a happy home, and to both we extend our most hearsfelt congratulations and best wishes for their future.

AVERY-LANNING AVERY-FENTON

Miss Elnora Avery and Mr. Harry Fenton. The young people have the best wishes of their many friends.

DINNER PARTY

A very pretty three course dinner was that given Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. J. J. Orr by Miss Myrtle Foster, honoring her sister Miss Lena. About sixteen young ladies responded to the invitations. The house was beautifully decorated with flowers and presented a very pretty scene with the happy faces and the dainty dresset of the guests. The table had a most elaborate centerpiece of white asters which by some manipulation was drawn up to form a wedding party. Dolls dressed to represent the minister the bride and groom and guests were thus disclosed

At a given signal each girl drew the ribbon attached to her place card and drew in a member of the party, Lena Foster received the groom, Alice Combs the bride and Myrtle Foster the minster who announced the approaching nuptials of Leon Williamson of Tecumseh and Miss Lena Foster of Quincy which event will take place Oct., 12, 1910.

An elaborate three dinner came next after which cards were indulged in to a late hour. The guests all reporting a most delightful evening.

EXCITEMENT

Wednesday in the vicinity of the Herald office was one of accidents. An automobile passing through town random and crushed a little dog belonging to Mr. H. Stahl and later a horse with a buggy attached came down the street at a fearful speed, and when last seen was going east at the same rapid pace.

It does seem that it is unnecessary to run down and kill even the meanest cur that walks our streets and when the auto speeds on with a backward glance of the driver, it looks like wanton cruelty. The death agony of even a dog is hard to witness.

This auto did not belong to our townspeople, but even they might take warning. So many little children are in danger, let alone the pet animal that it would seem a little care should be taken in driving through the busy streets.

Free Child's Remedy

What mother is not looking for something that will help her children in the little ills of life, something for the stomach trouble and the bowel trouble? Long ago she probably has become convinced that a child cannot readily swallow a pill or a tablet, and that to "break them in half and crush them" is an annoyance; that usually they work too drastically, and are nauseating and too powerful for the little one's stomach.

Any mother who will take the trouble of sending her name and address can obtain a free sample bottle of a remedy that thousands of other mothers are using and now paying for. This remedy is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and the offer of a free trial bottle is open to any mother who has not yet used it. Having used it and convinced yourself that it is what you want, you can obtain it in the future of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as so many others are doing, the free sample being simply to convince you of its merits. It is the best way to begin on it. Mrs. L. Davis of 187 W. Harrison street, Chicago, and Mrs. Mary Belford, 1710 Coke street, Louisville, Ky., both started with a free sample and now they write that they have never been without a bottle in the house since.

It is undoubtedly a great family remedy, as it is adapted to all ages, being mild and pleasant to take and yet thoroughly effective. It is especially the ideal remedy for children and women and old folks, who need something pure, mild and natural. It has the advantage of being a thorough laxative and yet contains tonic properties. Use it for the most stubborn constipation, indigestion, liver trouble, sick headache, sour stomach and such complaints with a guarantee that it will cure.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R. 500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

SEIDEL SNUBS T. R. RECEPTION QUIET

Colonel Visits Trade Schools and Is Guest of Press Club.

VISITS THE DEUTSCHER CLUB

Presents Compliments of German Kaiser to Club Members Who Were Present—Delivers Address at Hippodrome.

Milwaukee, Sept. 8.—Our friend Vox Populi came to the aid of Mr. Roosevelt and Milwaukee gave him a hearty, but not a rousing reception. The fact is the colonel did not care for a noisy time and when he hit the town he surprised the committee by telling them that he did not care to make half of the speeches he was scheduled for and so he did not do it. Mr. Roosevelt had a pretty strenuous day of it in St. Paul and he needed a rest.

For anybody else it would have been a red hot day but for the colonel not at all. He was not disturbed by not receiving a greeting from the mayor, who had long ago declared his intention of not meeting the colonel. The Socialist mayor did not show himself once. The reception committee was a trifle chagrined, but the colonel roared and thought it a good joke. Milwaukee threw open its gates to T. R. and gave him the city's freedom.

When he arrived in Milwaukee, Mr. Roosevelt was told of the results of the primaries in which LaFollette was endorsed for the senatorship. He appeared to be pleased and said he does not believe that LaFollette can be defeated in the legislature.

The colonel did not discuss any other politics. He was more anxious to go around town and see the city. He asked last night tha he be taken to the Deutscher club, where he had been once before and had a great time.

This organization of Teutons is one of the most famous in the country. T. R. had counted on a German party and they gave him one that was entirely satisfactory. There was plenty to go around and each was in good cheer. Mr. Roosevelt joined in the old familiar "Hoch Soll Er Leben" that the Deutscher club boys sing and sing.

The colonel told the Deutscher club that he had invited himself to their party. He did not consider a visit to Milwaukee complete unless he went there. Mr. Roosevelt recalled that "while in Germany on my recent European tour I told the Kaiser that I expected to visit Milwaukee in the near future, and I would bear his compliments to the Deutscher club. I take this opportunity to present them."

Mr. Roosevelt spent a couple of hours at a Bohemian dinner in the Press club before he started on his real work of the evening. James R. Garfield was with T. R. The colonel had a rattling good time with the newspaper men. In the hippodrome the colonel addressed thousands.

He moralized along the same lines as he has been doing these last two weeks, but the audience caught it all and received it enthusiastically. Before he was introduced by the president of the Press club T. R. was serenaded by a glee club in German. This innovation was immense. T. R. beamed and exclaimed, "Fine, by George, fine." Some one handed him a bunch of flowers following which the colonel got up and began his extemporaneous speech.

The colonel swung into the main theme of his address after a somewhat long discourse on the trade schools. Inasmuch as he was the guest of the Press club, Mr. Roosevelt took the newspapers around which to build his speech, and he pounded away at dishonest editors and praised the honest ones. He declared that the newspaper man, whether he be editor, publisher, or reporter, is as much of a public servant as the man in the service of the government. Journalism, he said, is the most important profession in the country. The man who is straight in handling the news is a man of importance.

Made Him Feel Old.

"What's the matter?"

"Oh, nothing much."

"But you look as if you had something serious on your mind."

VOL. LX NO. 34. TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN, TUESDAY SEPTEMBER 13, 1910. WHOLE NO 95

TEN KILLED WHEN TUNNEL CAVES IN

Many Others Seriously Injured in Jersey City Disaster.

LIST OF THE DEAD AND INJURED

Priests Aid in Rescue of Dead and Dying—Many of the Victims Horribly Mutilated — Tunnel Death List Very Large.

New York, Sept. 12.—The long list of more than 200 workmen killed in the construction of the New York, Lake Erie and Western railroad's new open cut through the Bergen Hill was increased by ten, with the cave-in of a section of the adjoining old tunnel of the western entrance to the cut, just west of the Hudson boulevard, between Hopkins avenue and Elm street, Jersey City. Ten were killed and as many more were injured, some so seriously that the doctors at the hospitals believe they cannot recover.

Ever since the Millard Construction company completed the open cut, the Erie railroad has been putting the finishing touches to the great engineering job with the help of a big gang of drillers, laborers and muckers, who had worked for the construction company.

The injured: George Plash, chest, arms and legs crushed; Carman Reo, right leg broken; Pantaleone Cortellio, right leg crushed; W. S. Johnstone, right leg crushed; Angelo Dellamo, head and body bruised; John Lewis, colored, fractured legs, chest crushed; Poro Bonenatto, injuries to head and body; Leo Fortelli, body bruised; Joseph Cutone, legs crushed.

The drill drivers and rockmen put in a hard day's work on Saturday and had broken up a big section of the trap rock over the brick arch of the tunnel. Orders were given to the drill drivers, helpers and laborers to clear away the broken stone and thirty or more started on the job early Sunday morning. At the same time a big steam shovel tackled the debris which bottled up the west end of the tunnel.

The brick arch on top of the tunnel bore the entire weight of the rock. The men pounded the broken stones with their sledge hammers and pried with their crowbars, unconscious of any unusual danger, tumbling the stones down to the track level to the muckers. In the meantime derrick men were yanking great blocks of rock from their resting places on the roof of the arch by means of two derricks standing on the edge of the cut and swinging them to spots where the drillmen could further reduce their size.

At 10:30 o'clock while the men were the busiest, and the steam shovel was bucking the pile hardest, a 35-foot section of the brick arch suddenly caved in with a dull bang. Persons looking down from the Hudson boulevard bridge, saw many men slip into the hole with tons of broken stone. Most of them went down feet first with their hands raised above their heads.

Mass had just been finishd at St. John's Catholic church, nearby, and the Rev. Father H. W. Smith, the rector, and his assistants, Fathers W. B. Dunn and J. F. Mulligan, went to the cut to minister to the spiritual needs of the dead and dying.

As fast as a wounded man was discovered, the priests administered the last rites of the church and in most instances, Father Mulligan and one of the doctors made the trip up the bluff in the derrick box with the victims.

Dr. Mueller, the first physician to reach the injured saw a leg protruding from under some rocks. He dived after it and the man's shoe came off in his hand. The leg was hanging limp from the hip and the doctor realized that a speedy amputation was necessary to liberate the victim. He quickly performed the operation and John Blass, a drill foreman, was carried up in the bucket. He was taken to the city hospital, where he died.

Dr. Presley, of the city hospital, found two men locked in each other's arms under a pile of broken stone. He pried them apart and carried one to the box dangling on the end of the derrick rope. As he stepped in the man gasped and died in his arms. While digging out the pair, an excited Italian rolled a rock on Dr. Presley's left wrist, badly bruising it.

TEXAS STORMS ARE SEVERE

Cotton Crop Damaged by Wind and Hail—Many Chickens Killed.

Galveston, Tex., Sept. 12.—A severe wind, hail and rain storm which swept over four or five counties Friday night and Saturday, damaged crops, especially the cotton crop, which was stripped from the fields by the wind or ruined by the hail. Thousands of acres of unpicked cotton was beaten down by the hail and later placed into swelling streams by heavy winds.

The hail killed chickens and other farm yard fowls by the thousands. The storm swept through sixty miles of the Brazos bottoms and destroyed crops on either side, the greatest damage being from hail.

SMALL CHILD ELECTROCUTED

Daughter of Wire Chief Touches Dynamo and Is Killed.

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 12.—While waiting for her father to leave his work and accompany her home, Helen Hoke, 3 years old, was electrocuted in the dynamo room of the Central Union Telephone company.

Bernard Hoke is wire chief and was talking with his wife when the child walked from them and came in contact with the machine. The parents were overcome with grief and are in a serious condition.

CHURCHMEN FORM IMMENSE PARADE

Eucharistic Congress at Montreal Goes Into History.

500,000 SEE LAST SERVICES

Procession Spectacular—Grandstands Collapse and Many Are Injured—Floral Offerings Very Profuse—100 Trains Leave City.

Montreal, Sept. 12. — Over 100,000 persons, laymen and clerical, formed the great procession which, from a spectacular point of view closed the twenty-first Eucharistic congress. It is estimated that close to 500,000 people were massed along the route from Place D'Armes to Fletcher's field on the mountain side.

His eminence, Cardinal Vannutelli, walking under a huge canopy and carrying a monstrance containing the host, stood the journey from Notre Dame to the open air altar well, but it was evident that he was completely worn out, and that a few moments more before being helped into his carriage after the ceremony, would have seen his collapse. His calm, pleasant face was pale and drawn and he tottered and almost fell as he ascended the altar steps. Other dignitaries in the procession, many of them old had to be assisted before the end of the route had been reached.

Although the procession went off without a hitch there were many accidents reported along the route. Many enterprising citizens built grandstands, small flimsy affairs, along the streets on which the procession was to pass. Although they were all inspected and passed upon by the building department, several of them collapsed. Boys fell out of windows, off fences and telegraph poles, and women fainted from the crush and heat.

At 1:15 Sunday the mighty bells of Notre Dame announced to the waiting thousands that the procession had started. It was nearly 6 o'clock when they pealed again, announcing that the host was leaving the church.

In the procession the laity came first, marching by parishes or choirs or societies, or organizations, of one description or another. The delegates from all parts of the world were included. Most of them wore no uniforms. A body of papal souaves in their baggy trousers and red and grey uniforms, followed the police and firemen at the head of the procession, while another detachment brought up the rear.

The lay brothers led the clerical division. Then came the friars, the fathers, the priests, all the different grades of the church, men from every part of the world. They were followed by choir boys and a colytes surpliced in red. Following them came 150 bishops and archbishops, clad in all the gorgeous splendor of the Roman Catholic church. Each bishop was attended by two priests.

The smell of incense and the singing of a boys' choir announced the coming of the papal legate and the host. His eminence walked under a canopy attended by Prince De Croy and the other members of his staff. Before him were young flower girls clad in red and blue satin, who cast flowers before the legate as he walked. The flowers were offerings from all over the world, every Roman Catholic parish having done something to contribute blossoms. It was a bed of flowers his eminence walked upon from the church to the Champ de Mars. Following the canopy were altar boys carrying candles, and then more boys with incense.

The Sixty-Fifth regiment of Montreal, the French-Canadian corps, acted as the guard of honor. Cardinal Gibbons was the next dignitary to walk after the papal legate. After him was Cardinal Logue. Archbishop Bruchesi of Montreal brought up the rear.

When the repository on Fletchers field was reached, the benediction of the Holy Sacrament took place, after which the clergy went to the Hotel Dieu, where the holy host was placed.

Last evening the whole city was illuminated, and the crowds on the streets were immense. Many persons only came for the day, and they could find no place to sleep or to eat, or the means of getting back to their homes. Over a hundred extra trains left the city after 7 o'clock last night, but the congestion continued around the stations.

FLEET OFF TO TARGET SHOOT

Annual Practice of Atlantic Battleship Fleet Will Begin Today.

Old Point Comfort, Va., Sept. 12.—Neptune interfered with the program for the annual target practice of the Atlantic battleship fleet, chopping the seas off the Virginia coast so badly as to delay the beginning of firing for another day. Admiral Comley went out from Hampton Roads last night with the entire Third division, including the Georgia, Nebraska, Rhode Island and Virginia, and accompanied by the Idaho, Mississippi and Vermont.

Admiral Vreeland was in charge of the Second division, consisting of the Louisiana, Kansas, New Hampshire and South Carolina. The remainder of the fleet sailed at daylight this morning.

DR. FRENCH PASSES AWAY

Aged Physician Was One of Founders of Republican Party.

Battle Creek, Mich., Sept. 12.—Dr. S. S. French, a widely known physician, died at his home here. He was 94 years old.

Dr. French read the first resolution that resulted in the "Under the Oaks" meeting when the Republican party was organized.

LORIMER RESIGNS CLUB MEMBERSHIP

Quits Hamilton Club as Result of Roosevelt Episode.

WILL ALSO TAKE THE STUMP

Report Is That Many of Senator's Friends Will Also Tender Their Resignations—Directors May Refuse to Accept Them.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—William Lorimer ha made two unexpected moves. His first was to resign from the Hamilton club as his answer to the snub he suffered when, at the direction of Theodore Roosevelt, who refused to dine at the same table with him, his invitation to the Hamilton club banquet having been withdrawn in a telegram signed by President John H. Batten.

The senator's second swing was in an announcement, made through County Controller James L. Monoghan, that, breaking his months of persistent silence during the rain of legislative bribery scandals and indictments, he would take the stump for at least two speeches preceding the Republican primaries next Thursday. These addresses, at which the senator will answer Gov. Deneen will be as follows:

Tuesday night—Dewey hall, Twelfth street and Fortieth avenue.

The senator's resignation from the Hamilton club was in the following letter sent to President Batten:

"I hereby tender my resignation as a member of the Hamilton club and ask that it be accepted immediately."

Senator Lorimer was just leaving the LaSalle Street National bank in his automobile for his summer place on Fox lake when he was asked for a statement of his reasons for resigning.

"It is true," said Mr. Lorimer, "that I have sent in my resignation as a member of the Hamilton club. That speaks for itself and I have no further comment to make on the circumstances that caused me to take that action."

"There are numerous members of the club," said President Batten, "who criticise Col. Roosevelt for refusing to sit at table with Senator Lorimer, who was a member of the club and had been invited to attend."

In spite of Presiden tBatten's belief that Lorimer's friends would not take their cue from the senator and also send in their resignations, there were reports that numerous withdrawals were in contemplation. Members who, it was stated, might follow this course are Congressman Frederick Lundin, City Collector E. J. Magerstadt, Chris Mamer, Joseph Bidwill, Jr., James L. Monaghan, Joseph Badenoch, Coroner Peter M. Hoffman, Judge Adelor J. Petit, State Representative James M. Kittleman, Harry F. Atwood, who is a candidate for congress in the Third district; former City Clerk John R. McCabe, Fred M. Blount, and others almost as well known.

Among the possibilities is that Senator Lorimer's resignation will not be accepted by the board of directors, whose next meeting will be held Sept. 20. A special meeting may be called.

HAMILTON NEAR DEATH

Aviator Probably Fatally Injured in California.

Wife Among the Spectators Who Saw the Big Biplane Suddenly Dashed to Earth.

Sacramento, Cal., Sept. 12.—Charles K. Hamilton, who made the great race from Philadelphia to New York in an aeroplane on June 13, was seriously and perhaps fatally injured at the fair grounds here when his new 115-horse power biplane Hamiltonian crashed to the ground after a spectacular flight.

The huge machine swooped down to the earth at an acute angle, dashing to the ground in full view of 20,000 spectators, among whom was the aviator's wife.

Hamilton was found unconscious and covered with blood under the engine of the biplane. He was extricated and taken to his hotel. An examination failed to reveal any broken limbs, but the surgeons fear that the pelvic bone is fractured and that he sustained internal injuries.

Her Fault.

The teacher in charge of the primary department at a school in West Philadelphia was talking the other day about her work and her pupils.

"They are dear youngsters," she said, "but they sometimes make curious remarks. Several times I have had occasion to reprove a little boy who isn't bad, but who is very mischievous and annoying. He is always getting into trouble and making a disturbance.

"One day he had been more than usually uproarious, and I was very tired. Instead of scolding or punishing him I began in rather an exasperated tone to talk to him.

"'Tom,' I said, 'I'm afraid I'm never going to meet you in heaven.'

"He looked up with the most shocked face. 'Why, teacher,' he said, 'isn't that just too bad? What have you done?'"—Philadelphia Times.

A Modest Request.

An impeccably dressed gentleman the other day when walking along Piccadilly felt a movement in his pocket and, clapping his hand thereto, seised the wrist of the thief. He drew forth the erring member, and, looking at it with supreme disgust, he released it, saying, with a grimace of disgust, "For heaven's sake, my good man, go and wash your hands before you put them in a gentleman's pocket again!"—London Tatler.

MAINE CAMPAIGN CLOSED; IN DOUBT

Chairmen of Both Parties Are Claiming the Victory.

MAJORITIES WILL BE REDUCED

Indications Are D. J. McGillicuddy, Democrat, Will Win in Congressional Race—Vote Will Be Close in Many Districts.

Augusta, Me., Sept. 12.—Maine's strenuous campaign in over a quarter of a century has closed, and from a conservative standpoint it may be said that the state is in doubt and that there is a possibility that at least one Democratic congressman may be elected. Although both sides are confident, even the most sanguine of the Republican leaders admit that if Gov. Fernald is re-elected, he will not have a majority of more than 2 000 or 3,000. On the other hand Mayor Frederick W. Plaisted, of Augusta, the Democratic nominee for governor, says that he will be elected by a plurality of 5,000. Gov. Fernald was elected two years ago by a plurality of 7,223. The doubtful congressional district is the Second, where Congressman J. P. Swayzie is a candidate for re-election, and is opposed by Daniel J. McGillicuddy of Lewiston.

In the contest of two years ago Mr. Swayzie had a majority of about 1,200 over Mr. McGillicuddy and since that time the Democrats in the district claim that various matters have happened to assist them. It is alleged that Congressman Swayzie's attitude in favoring Speaker Cannon will hurt him in various parts of the district and it is alleged that in his recommendatoins for federal appointments he has made a number of enemies. This district was formerly represented by Charles E. Littlefield and years ago by Nelson Dingley, the father of the famous Dingley law. It is believed that Asher C. Hinds, parliamentary clerk to the speaker, will be elected in the First district over his Democratic opponent, William M. Pennell, of Brunswick. It seems to be the impression that Congressman Edwin C. Burleigh, of Augusta, and Frank E. Guernsy, of Dover, will be re-elected in the Thrid and Fourth districts respectively.

Although the passage of the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill and alleged extravagance against the present administration have been urged why Republicans should desert their ticket, yet there are hundreds of men who will vote for the Democrats on election day on account of the workings of the prohibition liquor law. A few years ago the legislature passed a law known as the Sturgis bill, which gave the governor the authority to send deputies into a county where he had reason to believe that the sheriff and others had not been enforcing the law. This law has aroused a number of voters.

Byron Boyd, chairman of the Republican state committee, and Frederick Emery Bane, of the Democratic state committee, both contend that victory will reward their efforts.

Consul King David.

This amusing anecdote of Lamartine is related by the Baroness Bonde in her volume of letters. Shortly after the revolution of February he wrote on the blank leaves of his pocketbook the names of his protegés and sent the list to be provided with places immediately. Previously, however, it seems, he had scribbled "David" on the page, and the head of the cabinet appointed the said David consul at Bremen. The postulant, however, never came forward, and, though the poet did not like being disturbed, M. Hettel was obliged to ask who was the David on his list.

"He who danced before the ark," was the answer.

"Oh, dear! I have gazetted him to Bremen!"

"How very singular! I meant him for a subject for meditation, not for nomination. But you can cancel it."

The moniteur registered the change, but few knew that the last consul appointed to Bremen was King David!

RAWN HEIRS WANT CASH

Accident Insurance Amounting to $127,000 Is Demanded.

Life Insurance Policies Held by Monon President in Sum of $43,000 Paid—May Be Legal Contests.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—Formal demand for the payment of $127,000 accident insurance carried by the late Ira G. Rawn, president of the Monon railroad, has been made of the nine companies in which he held policies. According to the verdict of the coroner's jury Rawn came to his death by a bullet of a revolver held in his own hand.

All the life insurance policies, aggregating $43,000, have been paid except a couple in small companies for $2,000 or $3,000. In most cases the policies were paid within two days of proof of death. The proofs of loss were sent to the various concerns in registered letters by F. B. Johnstone, of the law firm of Runnels, Burry & Johnstone, attorneys for the Rawn family.

Mrs. Rawn and other members of the family, who were in the Winnetka residence on the night of Mr. Rawn's death, were included among the affiants and in some cases the certificate of the clergyman who officiated at the funeral and a copy of the coroner's jury's verdict were included.

RAIN DROWNS GRASSHOPPERS

Farmers Reap at Least One Good Result From Downpour.

Peru, Ind., Sept. 12.—The heavy rains in Miami county have been of much benefit to the farmer. Pastures are brightening, corn is showing marked improvement and gives promise of a good crop, the grasshoppers, which have been ruining many clover fields, have been drowned and in a few days the ground will be in excellent shape for plowing.

Many farmers who expected to sow wheat in this year's corn ground expect a delay because windstorms have leveled the corn, which would be ruined if the seeding was commenced now. There will be a great deal of late seeding this fall on this account.

DECLARES HIS WIFE BIT HIM

Kokomo Man Makes Unusual Charge in His Divorce Plea.

Kokomo Ind., Sept. 12.—Seeking a divorce, Sylvester Young, in his complaint filed, charges that his wife in a fit of anger bit him severely, burying her teeth in the flesh of his forearm.

Alleging that his wife has a violent temper, Young says that in her angry moods she had often struck him, tore his coat and the sleeves from his shirt. The biting incident is brought out with force in showing the alleged savagry of the woman when angry.

LORAINE FALLS INTO SEA

Actor-Aviator Swims to Lighthouse and Breaks Record.

Makes Trip From Holyhead to Dublin and Return, Making Record for Sea Journey by Aeroplane.

Dublin, Sept. 12.—Robert Loraine, the actor-aviator, failed to swim the Irish channel by sixty yards. He left Holyhead, travelled sixty miles, being out of sight of land for more than forty miles, and then, with victory apparently in his grasp, fell into the sea. It was not known here that he was going to make the attempt.

Yachtsmen in the bay saw an aeroplane descending from a great height. It struck the water about sixty yards from the shore near the Baily lighthouse. Loraine, who was wearing a lifebelt, swam towards the lighthouse, from which a boat put out. Soon afterwards the Dublin steamer Adela lowered a boat and drew the partly submerged aeroplane to the side of the ship. After reaching the lighthouse, Loraine set out again in a boat for the Adela. He found the injury to the machine was slight. The Gnome engine was in perfect condition. Loraine proceeded to Dublin and later returned to Holyhead, having made a record over sea journey by aeroplane.

ROOSEVELT REACHES HOME

Expects Hard Fight in the Coming New York Convention.

Oyster Bay, Sept. 12. — Mr. Roosevelt has returned from his long and lively jaunt into the west, where he encountered the reception of his career. Nobody realizes better than T. R. that he is about to enter one of the most strenuous and bitter fights that he ever engaged in during his career as a politician.

Just what course the colonel will pursue at Saratoga he does not know himself. He said that he will work for a clean cut and progressive ticket, and that he is willing to take a chance of getting licked in the struggle. There were no crowds and no brass bands to greet the colonel as he stepped off the train in Jersey City. The two young sons of Publisher Howland, Karl and Harold, were on hand, but a demonstration was lacking.

The Bride's Troubles.

It was the servant's day out, and the young bride was doing her best to hurry along the dinner she was trying to cook. The husband, tired of waiting, bustled into the kitchen and said impatiently:

"You know, we'll be late for the theater if you don't hurry dinner."

"Well," sighed the bride, "I can't tell what's the matter, but these coffee grains simply won't boil soft, and as for the eggs, they've been boiling at least two hours, and they're still as hard as ever."

But the dinner was concluded at last, and then the young husband declared he couldn't find his silk hat.

"Oh," exclaimed his wife, "you said it needed ironing, you know, so I sent it this morning to the laundry with the wash."

Ready For the Next One.

A generous and brave but very eccentric Virginia planter named Hill Carter, who had once been an officer in the United States navy, had a hand to hand battle at fisticuffs one day with his plantation overseer and came off second best. He therefore challenged the overseer to a formal duel, but the latter declined on the ground that, being a husband and father, he was under obligation not to risk leaving his family destitute. Carter at once removed that objection by settling upon the family a comfortable annuity. Then everything was got ready for the fight, but just as the two men faced each other the sheriff arrived on the scene, took them into custody and had them bound over to keep the peace. Mr. Carter did not, however, change the deed of gift with which he had provided for the overseer's family, remarking that he might wish some time to resume the interrupted fight and hence would rather keep everything in readiness for immediate action.—New York Post.

The GOOSE GIRL

By HAROLD MacGRATH

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs Merrill Company

He was willing to swear that she was making fun of him. Was she a simple goose girl? Was she not something more, something deeper? War clouds were forming in the skies. They might gather and strike at any time. And who but the French could produce such a woman spy? Ehrenstein was not Prussia, it was true, but the duke, with its 20,000 troops, was one of the many pulses that beat in unison with this man Bismarck's plans. He was certainly puzzled, but a glance at her hands dissolved his doubts. These hands were used to toil. They were in no way disguised.

"You have been to school?"

"After a manner. My teacher was a kind priest. But he never knew that, with knowledge, he was to open the gates of discontent."

"Then you are not happy with your lot?"

"Is any one, herr?" quietly. "And who might you be and what might you be doing here in Drelberg, riding with the grand duke?"

"I am the American consul."

Gretchen took a step back.

"What did Colonel Wallenstein say to you?" he asked.

"Nothing of importance. I am used to it. I am perfectly able to take care of myself," she answered.

"What did the policeman say?"

"What would he say to a goose girl?"

"Shall I speak to him?"

"Would it really do any good?" skeptically.

"It might. The duke is friendly toward me, and I am certain he would not tolerate such conduct in his police. My name is Carmichael. Now, listen, Gretchen—if at any time you are in trouble you will find me at the Grand hotel or at the consulate next door to the Black Eagle."

"I shall remember. Sometimes I work in the Black Eagle."

"Good night," he said.

Gretchen extended her hand, and Carmichael took it in his own, inspecting it.

"It is a good hand. It is strong too," he said.

"It has to be strong, herr. Good night."

Carmichael raised his hat again, and Gretchen breathed contentedly as she saw him disappear in the crowd. Suddenly she felt an arm slip through hers. Her head went round.

"Leo?" she whispered.

It was the young vintner whom Carmichael had pushed against the wall that day.

"Who was that?" he asked.

"Herr Carmichael, the American consul."

"Carmichael!" he gasped.

"What is it, Leo?"

"Nothing, only I grow mad with rage when any of these gentlemen

"IT MIGHT. THE DUKE IS FRIENDLY TOWARD ME."

speak to you. Gentlemen! I know them all to well. Ah, how I love you!"

Gretchen thrilled.

"To me the world began but two weeks ago. I have just begun to live," he whispered warmly.

"I am sad and lonely tonight," she said gloomily.

"Why, indeed!"

"Leo, as much as I love you, there is always a shadow."

"What shadow?"

"It is always at night that I see you, rarely in the bright daytime. What do you do during the day? It is not yet vintage. What do you do?"

"Will you trust me a little longer, Gretchen, just a little longer?"

CHAPTER II.

FOR HER COUNTRY.

"COUNT, must I tell you again not to broach that subject? There can be no alliance between Ehrenstein and Jugendheit."

"Why?" asked Count von Herbeck, chancellor.

"One of my reasons is that I do not want any alliance with a country so perfidious as Jugendheit. What! I make overtures—I, who have been so cruelly wronged all these years? You are mad."

"But what positive evidence have you that Jugendheit wronged you?"

"Positive? Have I eyes and ears? Have I not seen and read and heard?"

"Your highness knows that I look only to the welfare of the country. In the old days it was a foregone conclusion that this alliance was to be formed. Now, you persist in averring that the late king was the chief conspirator in abducting her serene highness, aided by Arnsberg, whose successor I have the honor to be. I have never yet seen any proofs. Show me something which absolutely convicts them and I'll surrender."

"On your honor?"

"My word."

The duke struck a bell.

"My secretary and tell him to bring me the packet marked A. He will understand."

The duke was frank in his likes and dislikes. He hated secrets, and he loved an opponent who covered his in the open. It was this extraordinary rectitude which made the duke so powerful an aid to Bismarck in the days that followed. The man of iron needed this sort of character as a cover and a buckler to his own duplicities.

Herbeck was an excellent foil. He was as silent and secretive as sand. He moved, as it were, in circles, thus always eluding dangerous corners. He was tall, angular, with a thin, immobile countenance, well guarded by his gray eyes and straight lips. He was a born financier, with almost limitless ambition, though only he himself knew how far this ambition reached. Twice had he saved Ehrenstein from the dragnet of war and with honor.

The secretary came in and laid a thin packet of papers on the chancellor's desk.

The secretary bowed and withdrew.

The duke stirred the papers angrily, took one of them and spread it out with a rasp.

"Look at that. Whose writing, I ask?"

"FORGERY!" ROARED THE DUKE.

Herbeck ran over it several times. At length he opened a drawer in his desk, sorted some papers and brought out a yellow letter. This he laid down beside the other.

"Yes, they are alike. This will be Arnsberg. But"—mildly—"who may say that it is not a cunning forgery?"

"Forgery!" roared the duke. "Read this one from the late king of Jugendheit to Arnsberg then if you still doubt."

Herbeck read slowly and carefully.

Then he rose and walked to the nearest window, studying the letter again in the sharper light.

Herbeck returned to his chair. "I wish that you had shown me these long ago. You accused the king?"

"Certainly, but he denied it."

"In a letter?"

"Yes. Here, read it."

Herbeck compared the two. "Where did you find these?"

"In Arnsberg's desk," returned the duke—"Arnsberg, my boyhood playmate, the man I loved and trusted and advanced to the highest office in my power. Is that not the way? Well, dead or alive, 10,000 crowns to him who brings Arnsberg to me dead or alive."

"You are very bitter," said Herbeck.

"And have I not cause? Did not my wife die of a broken heart, and did I not become a broken man? You do not know all, Herbeck—not quite all. Franz also sought the hand of the Princess Sofia. He, too, loved her, but I won. Well, his revenge must have been sweet to him."

"But your daughter has been restored to her own."

"Due to your indefatigable efforts alone. Ah, Herbeck, nothing will ever fill up the gap between, nothing will ever restore the mother." The duke bowed his head.

Herbeck opened another drawer and took forth a long hood envelope crested and sealed.

"Your highness, here is a letter from the prince regent of Jugendheit formally asking the hand of the Princess Hildegarde for his nephew Frederick, who will shortly be crowned. My advice is to accept, to let bygones be bygones."

"Write the prince that I respectfully decline."

"Do nothing in haste, your highness. Temporize. Say that you desire some time to think about the matter. You can change your mind at any time. A reply like this commits you to nothing, whereas your abrupt refusal will only widen the breach."

"The wider the breach the better."

"No, no, your highness; the past has disturbed you. We can stand war, and it is possible that we might win, even against Jugendheit, but war at this late day would be a colossal blunder. Victory would leave us where we began thirty years ago. And an insult to Jugendheit might precipitate war."

"Have your way, then."

The duke departed, stirred as he had not been since the restoration of the princess. He sought his daughter. She was in the music room. "My child," he began, taking Hildegarde's hand and drawing her toward a window seat, "the king of Jugendheit asks for your hand."

"Then I am to marry the king of Jugendheit?" There was little joy in her voice.

"Ah, we have not gone so far as that! The king, through his uncle, has simply made a proposal."

"It is for you to decide, father. Whatever your decision is I shall abide by it."

"It is a hard lesson we have to learn, my child. We cannot always marry where we love. Diplomacy and politics make other plans. But fortunately for you you love no one yet, and the king is young, handsome, they say, and rich. Politically speaking, it would be a great match."

"I am in your hands. You know what is best."

The duke was poignantly disappointed. Why did she not refuse outright, as became one of the house of Ehrenstein?

"What is he like?" she asked.

"That no one seems to know. He has been to his capital but twice in ten years. The young king has been in Paris most of the time. That's the way they educate kings these days. They teach them all the vices. Your father loves you, and if you are inclined toward his majesty, if it is in your heart to become a queen, I shall not let my prejudices stand in the way."

She caught up his hand with a strange passion and kissed it.

"Father, I do not want to marry any one," wistfully. "But a queen!" she added thoughtfully. "Would it be for the good of the state?"

Here was reason. "Yes; my objections are merely personal," said the duke.

"For the good of my country I am [illegible] an opponent who covered his

TWO EL DORADO BOYS IN ST. LOUIS SANITARIUM HAVE INFANTILE PARALYSIS.

The following item has reference to a former Tecumseh resident and many will remember Mrs. Morris and her little one.

J. R. Lambert and daughter, Mrs. Lena Morris, and her son, Arthur Morris, will leave Thursday for St. Louis, where Arthur will enter McLain sanitarium for treatment for infantile paralysis with which he has been afflicted since June, 1909; the boy is eleven years old. The family believes that the paralysis is due to malaria contracted in swimming and playing about the river. He has been under the care of physicians and osteopaths constantly and has made steady progress toward health and it is hoped the treatment in St. Louis, will effect a complete cure, the trouble now being but a slight curvature of the spine. Mrs. Morris will return in a few days; the grandfather Mr. Lambert, will stay with him as long as he is in the sanatarium will be from three months to a year.

Joseph, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Cal Fisk, is in this sanitarium for the same trouble and is improving right along; although he was previously unable to walk he can now take several steps unaided. This is joyful news to his many friends here.—Daily Republican ElDorado Kansas.

Mr. Taft and the People.

From an Editorial in September Century.

There probably has never been a President so misunderstood by the country or one by whom the popular tendencies and temper have been so misunderstood. Mr. Taft's methods are different from those to which we have been accustomed, but we have had glimpses of a hand of iron under the glove of velvet; and whatever may be the disagreement with his policies, in or out of his party, it is futile to assume that he is the servant of any special class or interest, or that he has any other purpose than the highest good of his country.

GRAIN CROPS ARE GOOD

Fair Yields Are Shown In the State by August Report

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 8.—According to the August crop report issued by Secretary of State Martindale today the average estimated yield of wheat in the state and in the northern counties is 19, in the central counties 22, and in the southern counties and upper peninsula 18 bushels per acre. The quality as compared with the average in the state is 93 per cent. The total number of bushels of wheat reported marketed by farmers in August at 116 mills was 266,342 and at 112 elevators and to grain dealers 326,065, or a total of 592,407 bushels. The estimated total number of bushels of wheat marketed in August is 1,500,000.

The estimated average yield of oats in the state is 31, in the southern counties 32, in the central counties 36 in the northern counties 25 and in the upper peninsula 22 bushels per acre. The estimated average yield of rye in the state is 16 bushels per acre. As compared with the average, the condition of corn in the state is 81 per cent. According to the report the upper peninsula will produce the best yield. The average condition of potatoes is 69.

REOPENING DAY AT THE BAPTIST CHURCH.

Sunday was a bright and beautiful day, the new bell in the tower of the Baptist church rang out the welcome to the reopening services. For two months the Baptist congregation has been worshiping in the chapel while the auditorium was underdoing repairs.

Everything was in order for Sunday the decorating is elegant; the platform was refurnished and adorned by a beautiful rug. There can be no contention as to the lighting for the new system of lighting thoroughly illuminates the auditorium; the tower and doors and wood-work of the exterior has received a new coat of paint.

At the morning service the Presbyterian congregation united with the Baptist and Dr. A. Gaylord Slocum president of Kalamazoo college delivered an able address on the Mission of the Church

The combined men's classes of the two having the ladies as their guests listened to J. J. Gorham of Toledo on the work of the juvenile court. Mr. Gorham is chief probation officer of Lucas county which includes the city. The address was listened to with wrapped attention.

In the evening Rev. D. Stanley Shaw delivered a sermon of rare merit in the optomistic out look for christianity, all the congregation uniting.

One interesting event occured at the morning service, when Dr. L. G. North in behalf of the trustees, arose and stated that the pastor had worked heroically all summer and was entitled to a vacation and urged the pastor to avail himself of the privelege.

The music was in charge of Mrs. Grace Moore and was an important feature of the services. Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Ruthruff singing solos at each service.

FRATERNAL VISIT

Eighteen members of our W. C. T. U. met with Mrs. Henry Pocklington of Ridgeway last Friday afternoon. After a business meeting a fine program was given consisting of readings and music. Musical numbers were given by Miss Shaw, Mrs. Kendrick and Florence Linton. At the close of the program an hour of social converse was enjoyed and the ladies were then invited to the dining room where a bountiful supper was provided by Mrs. Pocklington to which all did ample justice.

After voting the hostess a royal entertainer, good byes were said and all departed for home, hoping to meet again on similsr occasions in the future.

Important Changes in Train Service.

Effective Sunday, Sept. 18 Lake Shore Ry. Jackson branch trains Nos. 315 and 318 will run daily between Jackson and Adrian, former connecting at Adrian with Fast Mail No. 32 for Toledo and points east, and No 48 for Toledo and way stations; latter connecting at Lenawee Junction with train No. 47, which will run daily, from Toledo and way stations. Effective after Sept. 11 Jackson branch Sunday only trains Nos. 310 and 313 will be discontinued.

PROPERTY SOLD.

The house of Hannah Pocklington deceased was sold at auction Saturday afternoon with A. C. Aylesworth as auctioneer. There were some 8 or 10 bidders and it was finally struck off to Fred and Minnie Wheelan for $850, bidding was lively for awhile showing that the property is much in demand and that there is lots of money in Tecumseh to be invested.

SATTERTHWAITE BROS.

The National Board of Moving Picture Censorship

The big practical step toward eliminating pictures that are dangerous, and encouraging wholesome ones, was the formation, by the People's Institute of New York, of the National Board of Censorship. This is composed of public-spirited men and women, persons of high professional standing, representatives of the municipal government, and of social organizations, along with those of the main combination of manufacturers. Many of the so-called "independents" voluntarily submit their films also for the National Board's "O. K."—which, as a certificate of good standing and respectability, has business value.

Four times a week the censors meet passing each time upon fifty-odd series of films. Slips of paper are handed around and criticisms and suggestions are written on them by the censors. These command the manufacturers' attention, although, in many cases, the rearrangement of plot and picture means an immediate money loss.—From "The Moving Picture and the National Character," in the American Review of Reviews for September.

Dr. and Mrs. Snyder have presented the Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian church with a complete outfit for one table—an exquisite tablecloth, napkins and doylies, with a beautiful set of Dresden china. The ladies are to be congratulated on this generous gift.

A few days ago we were the recipients of a little gift from one of our subscribers and friends from the country and with it came a little note, the sentiment expressed is so beautiful that we print it for we are sure others will appreciate it with us. It was early morning and she was out in the field. "Oh but it was lovely out there so early, so still, and such floods of glorious sunshine on the tender green of the grass, the grass that was but sere brown earth, until the recent rains, and now sparkling with dew drops, and I the primitive woman gathering food for the race". The morning, the surroundings, every thing, reminded me of what my brother said one beautiful autumn day, several years ago, "This is one of God's days".

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES

A BRILLIANT EVENT

WAS THE MARRIAGE OF MISS RACHEL EDGERTON TO MR. HARRISON TEMPLE.

One Hundred and Twenty-five Guests Witnessed the Beautiful Nuptial Ceremonies.

The colonial and charmingly quaint old residence at Edgerton Place in Ballville, was the scene of one of the interesting and brilliant events of the season Wednesday evening when Miss Rachel Edgerton, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Edgerton, was married to Mr. Harrison Frank Temple, of Tecumseh Mich.

The decorations were simple and effective and every detail was appropriately in keeping with the general atmosphere of colonial charm and beauty which the whole house with its low-ceilinged, rambling rooms, conveys.

The ceremony took place in the east parlor, where across the corner on the north side was arranged a wall of golden rod and on either side stood large bouquets of orange-shaded marigold. The wide veranda and yard were hung with Japenese lanterns which artistically illuminated the attractive grounds.

The nuptial hour was announced at 7 o clock by the strains of the Lohengrin Bridal chorus played by Miss Bess Pease, and the bridal party, led by the officiating minister, Rev. C. G. Miller of the Presbyterian church, proceeded down the stairway in the rear of the house on the north side, and through the hall to the spot chosen for the celebration of the service

The bride's only attendant, her sister Miss Dorothy Edgerton, walked with the best man, Mr. Ross Ferguson of Toledo, and the groom entered alone, followed by the bride, who walked with her father.

The bride's type of beauty made her appear more charming than usual in her bridal gown, which was fashioned from ivory white messaline, made en train with over skirt effect and trimmings of pearl and irridescent beads. Her long bridal veil was caught with small white flowers and white ribbon in her coiffure and her flowers were white bride's roses.

Miss Dorothy Edgerton in a gown of lavender silk crepe and gold was individually charming and attractive and her flowers were also white roses.

During the reception which, because of the presence of many young people was gay and informal, Dr. and Mrs. H G. Edgerton and Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Temple of Tecumseh received with the bridal party. Mrs. Edgerton wore gray silk and Mrs. Temple's gown was of lavender messaline.

Supper was served to the guests at small tables placed throughout the house. The bride's table was arranged in the dining room where on either side of a centerpiece of asters in many artistic shades, stood candlesticks and candelabra filled with yellow candles. At this table covers were laid for the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Sarnes, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Temple of Tecumseh; Mr. and Mrs. Victor Zahm, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sherwood, Mrs. Charles Hermon, Mr. and Mrs. James Metzenbaum of Cleveland; Misses Nellie Benner, Dorothy Edgerton, Mary Kinney, Jennie Mae Harris of Tecumseh; Bess Pease and Bernice Sisson of Toledo; Messrs. Henry Edgerton, Vernor Crane and Dwight Clarkson of Tecumseh; Fred Temple and Sam Foote of Detroit; Ross Ferguson of Toledo and Ike Gusdorf.

Misses Helen Jackson, Clara Wrigley, Leone Dick, Lucy Dewey, of Clyde; Reva Dick, Jeanne Land, Ruth Pontius, Ruth Haynes, Florence Smith, Sarah and Frances Hamilton, Anna and Esther Love, Edith Tschumy, Hazel DePew, of Detroit; and Miss Dudrow assisted in the serving. Miss Nellie Benner caught the bride's bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Temple left late Wednesday night for Chicago, from where they will take a lake trip, and on their return will be at home at Britton, Mich. The bride's traveling dress was of black and white checked material with which she wore a small toque of harmonizing colors.

The gifts included a wide variety of beautiful silver, linen, china ond cut glass, and also several checks, among which was one for a handsome sum from the grooms parents.

With the marriage and departure from the city of Mrs. Temple, Fremont has lost one of her most winsome and attractive young women. The bride is one of the first members of the younger set to be married and her wedding was the culmination of a series of many delightful pre-nuptial affairs arranged in her honor by her numerous friends. Mr. Temple is cashier of the bank at Britton and has made many friends in Fremont during his visits here who heartily congratulate him and wish to the young couple the brightest and happiest future.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Temple, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Temple, Miss Jennie Harris, Miss Alice Combs, Duane Service, Vernor Crane and Dwight Clarkson of Tecumseh Mich.; Bernice Sisson, John Scarlet and Ross Ferguson of Toledo; Fred Temple and Sam Foote of Detroit; Phene Highbie of Cleveland; Mrs. Adelene Highbie, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Clark of Ballevue; Mr. and Mrs. James Metzenbaum of Cleveland, and Miss Statira Biggs of Chicago

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Marjorie Fields Celebrated Her 7th Birthday Saturday

18 little girls came to celebrate the birthday of Miss Marjorie and enjoyed a fine lawn party, her teacher Miss Brown was present and helped to make them merry. Games were played, songs were sung and dainty refreshments were served and it would be hard to tell which was the happiest little maid in the crowd.

Among the games was one called Scissors, and that was the best of all. A line was stretched from one tree to another and little packages were hung along it, each girlie was blind-folded and given a pair of scissors, she turned around 3 times and then cut for a package, after each one had her package they sat on the grass and opened them and great was their delight over the little presents. Marjorie received many very pretty gifts from her friends.

HANDKERCHIEF SHOWER

A very pretty party was that given by Miss Nettie Kaiser on Friday evening last in honor of Miss Alice Combs. 15 young ladies were present and were presented with white paper cases with the word handkerchief printed across one corner. A word contest was then in order and the one making the most words out of handkerchief was a prize winner. Miss Jennie Harris made 90 words and was awarded a lovely handkerchief, which she in turn presented to the bride-elect. The next stunt was original verses or sentiment which were at once transcribed in a little book and also presented to Miss Alice and they were each one a pretty tribute to their friend.

Light refreshments were served in a very dainty manner the pure white paper napkins carrying out the handkerchief effect

Miss Nettie then presented Miss Alice with a Japanese umbrella as a shower was threatening, on opening this she was flooded with a fine assortment of handkerchiefs with which to wipe away the tears of parting with "maiden meditation fancy free" as she starts fourth on the journey of matrimony. Cards furnished the later amusement of the evening. Each guest reported a most pleasant evening and parted at a late hour. Congratulating their hostess on the success of her entertainment.

The McCoy and Wilson families and other relatives gave Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Wilson a miscellaneous shower Friday evening at their new home on Shawnee street.

The engagement of Miss Minnie Corey of Woonsocket, R. I., to Mr. Ed Stebbins, formerly of Adrian, has been announced, marriage to take place the latter part of October.

THE VANISHING STURGEON.

Big Fish Has Been Hunted to the Point of Extinction.

The bitter and sometimes bloody rivalry in the early nineties incident to the sturgeon industry of Delaware Bay was occasioned by the boundary dispute between Delaware and New Jersey, now decided in favor of the latter state. But the subject of the contention, the sturgeon, has completely disappeared.

The fish had been hunted to the point of extinction. The Delaware river and Bay fishery in 1888 yielded a catch of 6,400,000 pounds. Then the increased demand for caviar in Germany and other parts of Europe marked the fish's extermination in the East and a prodigious decline in the supply from the great lakes, Minnesota, Washington, and Oregon. A keg of caviar weighing 135 pounds that cost $12 in 1885 was worth $40 in 1894 and by 1900 fetched $100, while D. W. S. Tower records that in 1899 96 sturgeon at Bayside, N. J. were sold for $3,923—over $40 apiece.

D. L. H. Bailey, of Cornell, expresses the belief that civilization has passed the hunting stage with staple food fishes as with cattle and sheep. We must "come to a scientific development and utilization of water fields"—that is stock them with fish as we stock out pastures. We are doing this with shad in the Potomac, the Susquehanna, and the Delaware rivers and in every other Atlantic coasted stream; with black bass, craples, rock bass, brook trout, landlocked salmon, lake trout, and the more desirable catfishes in the Eastern half of the country; with Salmon in the Hudson and Delaware; with brook trout, striped bass, rainbow trout, oysters, frogs, lobsters, and crabs on the Pacific coast and in the Western rivers and lakes, and with European carp in every farmer's fish pond of the land. But the artificial propogation of the sturgeon is more difficult.—New York Times.

The figures of the London police courts show a very decided increase during recent years in serious crime.

Carl Schmelz of Pittsburg has invented a gun which may make useless all the armour plate yet produced. It is a little affair mounted on wheels standing about two feet high and is not much longer than a man's arm. Its power comes from an arrangement of the breech and a peculiar construction of the rifled barrel. Schmelz tested his gun before some naval experts and put a clean hole through a seven inch steel armor plate. He says the gun can be fired 100 times in rapid succession without becoming heated.

Free Child's Remedy

What mother is not looking for something that will help her children in the little ills of life, something for the stomach trouble and the bowel trouble? Long ago she probably has become convinced that a child cannot readily swallow a pill or a tablet, and that to "break them in half and crush them" is an annoyance; that usually they work too drastically, and are nauseating and too powerful for the little one's stomach.

Any mother who will take the trouble of sending her name and address can obtain a free sample bottle of a remedy that thousands of other mothers are using and now paying for. This remedy is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and the offer of a free trial bottle is open to any mother who has not yet used it. Having used it and convinced yourself that it is what you want, you can obtain it in the future of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as so many others are doing, the free sample being simply to convince you of its merits. It is the best way to begin on it. Mrs. L. Davis of 137 W. Harrison street, Chicago, and Mrs. Mary Belford, 1716 Coke street, Louisville, Ky., both started with a free sample and now they write that they have never been without a bottle in the house since.

It is undoubtedly a great family remedy, as it is adapted to all ages, being mild and pleasant to take and yet thoroughly effective. It is especially the ideal remedy for children and women and old folks, who need something pure, mild and natural. It has the advantage of being a thorough laxative and yet contains tonic properties. Use it for the most stubborn constipation, indigestion, liver trouble, sick headache, sour stomach and such complaints with a guarantee that it will cure.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

SCARED THE WORDS AWAY.

An American in Madrid Couldn't Talk to the Watchman at All.

Oftentimes folks get so nervous in a foreign country that they forget every word of the language, especially if they are new to it. That was the case with a young American in Madrid, and it came near getting him into trouble.

He was out late at a theatre the very first night after his arrival in the city. When he got back to the small native hotel where he was stopping with the idea of improving his Spanish he found the door locked. It wasn't until after a vain search for a doorbell that he remembered what some one had told him about the serenos, the night watchmen. He clapped his hands and the watchman came around the corner on a trot.

He took a key from his pocket and opened the door and then turned to the young man and asked in Spanish: "What is the number of your room?" The young man had heard that if he gave a number for which the sereno could find no key he was in danger of being arrested, and that thought drove every bit of Spanish out of his head.

He stood there there dumb while the sereno looked at him angrily. The young man was trying his best to remember how to say the number in Spanish when luckily one of the employees strayed down through the hall. It was the porter who had carried up the American's trunk earlier in the day.

He knew the American and told the sereno it was all right. The young man didn't have any trouble thereafter, but he still is wondering what would have happened if the servant hadn't happened to come along just at that time.—New York Sun.

Smoke Conquered.

Smoke has at last been conquered and soon will be no more—in the big city. Pittsburg is to be sent to the dot room and then massaged; her begrogged and soot-ridden thoroughfares are to become so many spotless ways and her skyscrapers and palaces of a thousand steel millionaires are to listen, freed of their shrouds, in the gladsome sunshine.

H. M. Wilson, chief engineer of the Technologic Branch of the United States Geological Survey, is authority for the statement, and he will soon tell the world of the success of experiments which his experts have been conducting in the great city of furnaces. These experts, D. T. Randall and H. W. Weeks, have just made their reports. Mr. Randall states positively that it is not necessary to use any one certain patented furnace to obtain smokeless conditions. According to him, here is the secret of all smokeless burning of coal:

"Stokers or furnaces must be set so that the combustion is complete before the gases strike the heating surface of the boiler. When partly burned gases at a temperature of say 2,500 degrees Fahrenheit strike the tubes of a boiler at, say, 350 degrees Fahrenheit, combustion is necessarily hindered and may be entirely arrested. The length of time required for the gases to pass from the coal to the heating surface probably averages considerably less than a second, a fact which shows that the gases and air must be intimately mixed when large volumes of gas are generated, as at times of hand firing, or the gas must be generated uniformly, as in a mechanical stoker."

Smokeless cities only awake a quickened public conscience to the fact that this nuisance means uncleanliness, poverty, wretchedness, disease and death. The public has only to realize that smoke in the cities costs in merchandise in stores and warehouses more than $600,000,000 a year. This loss in money is based on the statement of the Chicago smoke inspector that his city suffers a loss each year of $500,000. More than a third of all people in this country live in the great and moderate sized cities."—The Garden Magazine.

Education of Girls in India.

According to the Director of Public Instruction in the Punjab the education of women in that province is on the whole making satisfactory progress. In most of the large towns a very considerable proportion of Hindu little girls are learning to read and write their mother tongue. Mohammedan education has greater difficulties to contend with, since Urdu, which is taught in Mohammedan schools, is neither their mother tongue nor the language of their religious books.

The prejudice against female education is said to be lessening and the chief obstacle to progress are the lack of qualified teachers and the fact that most of the schools are accommodated in a rented house which are ill-ventilated, added to which the facilities for physical exercise is nil.—Westminister Gazette.

BLOCKADED.

Every Household In Tecumseh Should Know How To Resist It

The back aches because the kidneys are blockaded. Help the kidneys with their work. The back will ache no more. Lots of proof that Doan's Kidney Pills do this. It's the best proof, for it comes from Tecumseh.

Eugene Hodges, Cumings Street Tecumseh, Mich., says: 'Several years ago I used Doan's Kidney Pills and found them to be a good remedy for strengthening the kidneys and clearing the system of uric poison. Other members of my family have taken Doan's Kidney Pills with good result and consequently I have no hesitation in publicly recommending them."

REMARKABLE OPERATION.

Surgeons Open Skull and Cut Out Nerve to Prevent Suicide.

Physicians who are here attending the convention of the American Neurological Association saw a woman who had been saved from suicide by a daring and successful operation for tic neuralgia, the first of its kind ever performed.

Mrs. A had been afflicted for several years with violent and piercing pains in the ear. At times they were so excruciating that she screamed in agony, and it was impossible to alleviate them appreciably with powerful drugs. Life was unbearable, and several times she threatened self-destruction.

Seven physicians treated her in vain. She finally came under the care of Dr. Clark, who has paid special attention to all forms of nerve disease. He made an elaborate study and found that the malady was not face neuralgia, as had been supposed, but that it was due to the condition of the nerve connecting the geniculate ganglion with the brain.

Dr. Clark decided it would be necessary to sever this filament, known as the pars intermedia, which lies between the seventh facial and eighth auditory nerves. Mrs. —— was informed that the operation was a daring one and that it involved risk. She said she would gladly undergo it, as life was not worth living and that if she died as a result of the operation, she would be better off than if she continued to live without finding relief.

Dr. Clark consulted with Dr. Taylor, the well-known surgeon, who performed the operation five times on dead bodies before Mrs. A. was placed on the operating table. Her skull was trephined back of the ear and part of the bone was broken down. This gave an opening a quarter of an inch in diameter. An instrument was put down for three inches, the cerebellum was lifted and by means of a small electric light the nerves were revealed. A small glass drainage tube was put in place, as the use of a sponge or any such substance would have produced a dangerous pressure. By means of a small hook the nerve was raised and then severed.

The surgeons could see plainly the nerve controlling respiration, the disturbing of which would have caused death. The variation of an eighth of an inch through any cause would, in the opinion of Dr. Clark, have proved fatal. He spoke in highest terms of the skill of Dr. Taylor, who had operated in accordance with his diagnosis. The ganglion is now not deprived of nourishment, although it no longer connects with the brain.—New York Herald.

The Tale of a Goldfish.

Sam MacDonald, traveling salesman, is an original humorist. He has many original practical jokes to his credit, but his "Adventure of the Goldfish," which took place last night, must take precedence over all former outups.

Sam picked a goldfish out of a bowl in the Hotel Bingham, placed it in his pocket, and repaired to the bar of the hostelry. "Firewater!" he ordered. When the little glass and the accompanying water were placed on the bar Sam picked the goldfish out of his pocket and slipped it in the glass. The fish revived and swam merrily around.

MacDonald paid for the drink, drank it and then picked up the goldfish, put it in his pocket and left the bar, followed by the amazed glances of the barkeeper and the other men in the place.

To and her hotel the joker repaired. There the feat was repeated. The goldfish, as before, revived in the cold water. To eleven hostelries did Sam bring amazement, and, in some cases alarm. When he came back to the Bingham, Sam picked the goldfish out of his pocket and slipped it into the bowl, where it disported itself merrily with its mates, none the worse for the remarkable tour of rum shops.—Philadelphia Times.

Wonderful Underground Village.

Deep in the salt mines of the hamlet of Villicska, in Austrain Poland, some 11 miles from Cracow, lies a veritable underground village which dates away back to the days when slaves first opened these mines in 1334. It is a busy subterranean human hive, all the busier in contrast with the sleepy hamlet above. In fact, all the life of the settlement is concentrated below ground. The air is clean and the temperature that of a warm spring day. The center of the mine is situated in a sort of court which forms a railway station. Here all the railway lines which intersect this huge mine meet. Men and women go above ground to do their marketing, and meet in this court on their return to gossip and compare their bargains. Children play about in the shade of the grottos and sail boats in the gutters, running with salt water. These gutters were made hundreds of years ago to get rid of the moisture which runs from the upper floors of the mine, and lead down to the very bottom, forming a huge salt lake, the water of which is gradually pumped off and distilled to obtain salt. So difficult and expensive is it to light up the whole mine, that visitors must make up a party of at least 20, and pay various sums according to their number. No less than 260 steps lead down to the second floor of the mine, first over the salt lake, and it is then as the shape of St. Mark's stands.—Globe Weekly.

REV. JONES' PRESENTATION.

The Hon. Charles V. D. Joime, judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Camden county, N. J., contributed the following story to a number which had been told at a meeting of the Historical Society, relating to the confusion of ideas which sometimes resulted from an effort of the primitive mind to grasp abstract ideas:

"During war times," said the judge, "the city of Trenton, where I then lived, was a red-hot abolition town, and those who did not fight devoted their time at home to patriotic declamation.

"Among the most violent of these was an old fellow whom we called Major Howard. The colonel was less bitter against the threatened severing of the Uion than he was about the wrongs of the black man, and the negroes for miles around looked upon the old abolitionist as their potent saviour, feelingly firmly convinced that it was through his oratorical efforts that the war had been begun and was maintained.

"A 'monster mass meeting' and torchlight parade was planned in honor of their champion, who was apprised of the movement and promised to review the proposed parade from the porch of his home.

"The evening of the celebration arrived, the brigade marched through the town and halted before the colonel's home. The Rev. Jefferson Obdike Jones had been coached in his presentation speech by a then prominent Trenton jurist, who was a notorious wag, and he proceeded with it as follows:

"'Colonel Howard, we am overcome wid mortification at de ignominiousness ob dis yere 'casion. Yo' well-known and insidious pusillanimity towards de membahs ob our race am notoriously cognizant whereber de breast of man an' incinerate by de predelicitions ob ingiorious freedom. Dis am a most monotoneous occasion; we am ambigious to put ourselbs on record as prescribing our depreciation ob yo' efforts on our behalf; we feel dat yo' am one wid us in de immortal sentiments ob life, liberty an' de pursuit ob happiness, an' we know dat, aldough yo' skin am white, at haht yo' are as black as we are.'

"This was as far as he ever got. The cheers and huzzas of the spectators drowned the rest. The colonel executed a war dance on his veranda and finally retreated, but he never heard the last of the address ob presentation.'"—Philadelphia Times.

The Ghost of a Famous Town.

Virginia City is indeed a strange town—a living skeleton. In the height of its opulence it boasted a population of thirty thousand. To-day there are less than one-tenth than many, dilapidation and ruin are seen on every hand. The chief streets terrace along a great hillside. Farther up the slope are wastes of sagebrush growing in stunted clumps that half hide the earth with their gray twigs and foliage. Down below is a valley where the mines have dumped vast heaps of waste. The entire region is a wild upheaval of hills, and around the horizon are seen ranges of snowy-topped mountains. The only trees are an occasional gnarled scrub pine or dwarf cedar a few feet high. Formerly scrub pines of fair size were plentiful on the hills; but they were practically all used for firewood long years ago. After they were gone some Chinamen ran a woodyard and sold pine roots. Probably one hundred and fifty donkeys were engaged in toiling about the uplands and bringing in the stumps and roots of the old scrub pines. This material, too, was exhausted presently, and now the fuel comes by train.

The town streets are rough and dirty, and as I walked about I was constantly encountering old tin cans and getting my feet tangled up in wires from the baled hay. Buildings in good repair are rarities. There are tottering fences and ragged walls and broken roofs and smashed glass, and many windows and doors are boarded up.

The search for gold has resulted in tearing the country all to pieces. Everywhere the hills are dotted with prospectors' holes. From any height you can see dozens—perhaps hundreds. They suggest the burrowing of woodchucks or prairie dogs. The region along the Comstock lode abounds too in deserted shafts. Usually the spots where had been the buildings and the machinery for working the abandoned mines are now only marked by great dumps of waste, with possibly a few immense foundation stones and irons.

Two miles from Virginia City is the village of Gold Hill, which, if anything, is deader than its neighbor. There is the same dilapidation and wreckage, and the same canting walls and neglect of repairs. On the borders of this hamlet I met a Scotchman who affirmed that his cabin was the oldest dwelling in the region. The main part contained a single room, but there was a lean-to at the rear and a little cave ran back under the hill. The owner invited me in to rest myself and, as we entered, a gray cat departed through a missing window-pane.—The Outing Magazine.

A ship without a rudder; a waif, a nothing, a no man. Have a purpose in life, if it is only to kill and divide and sell oxen well, but have a purpose; and having it, throw such strength of mind and muscle into your work as one has given you.—Carlyle.

Mackerel Getting Hobo Habit.

Mackerel are scattered more than ever, and odd ones are being heard from in places where they never were found at this season in past years. Just what to make of it the dealers and old fisherman do not know, unless that the big school has been broken up by the cold weather and the smaller schools are losing fish that stray off and seek warm water at the first shore they strike.—Boston Globe.

The building trade has the greatest number of strikes. The coal and coke industry comes next.

Mrs. O. C. Edwards of MacLeod, Can., has compiled a book showing the legal status of women in Canada. One injustice to which Mrs. Edwards calls attention is that according to the laws of Canada the father owns the children and decides as to the education, religion, domicile, etc. The consent of the father alone is required in regard to the marriage of a minor daughter. In one case in the province of Quebec, according to Mrs. Edwards, a father gave his 12-year-old daughter as a wife to a comrade of his who was over 40.

WHERE THE FAT ACTOR FAILS.

The Moving Picture Maker Demands Speed Always.

Fat comedians have little chance of employment in a moving picture company.

"There's where the shadow has it on the substance," said a cadaverous person; "the worst worry I have is caused by my tendency to grow fat since I settled down to a life before the camera with no one night stands.

"It tickles me to death to be cast for one of those harrowing pursuits. I glory in Marthon races over hill and dale with a bunch of men on bikes and a few autos in the ruck, for it's sure to keep off the sign of prosperity. Once a man gets fat he gets slow, and the film demands speed before sense or comfort. Thinness and muscular development are sure assets.

"When I got the job I was pretty shy on muscle, but after I had been set to breaking up furniture, throwing stores around, been in a few dozen fights, been thrown into the drink a score of times and chased over the country by a few bull pups who might forget to grab the pad hanging to my coat and grab me, why, I began to develop muscle.

"I remember we tried a fat comedian once. Played opposite to me. I threw him into the water from a boat under High Bridge. As soon as he struck the water he began to yell for a boat. It seems he could not swim. The more he yelled the more the manager shouted to him to keep on yelling and for me to leave him alone—that the picture was just right. Finally with an unearthly scream he threw up his hands and came for thought he would sink. But he didn't. He struck mud instead and stood just chin deep, in the water, going down. As soon as he realized what had stopped him he began to plough for the shore. As he reached shore, the camera boat following, he stood and raged in mud from head to foot, and the camera man was taking it all in. He stood there for fully five minutes cursing until the sweat rolled down his face and wilted his collar. Then the manager shut off the camera and hurried ashore and began congratulating the fat man on his fine piece of acting.

"'Acting!' roared the fat fellow, swelling up awfully. 'If I could act like that I wouldn't want a job with no film house.'

"Then he walked off and never came back."—New York Sun.

Prof. Somerville's paper before the British association on the timber supply shows that the world is steadily approaching a timber famine. Already Britain pays each year £27,000,000 for wood; Germany, with nearly 12 times the area of forest possessed by Britain, annually pays £12,000,000 for imported timber; and, although the United States of America exports wood and wood products to the value of £20,000,000 per annum, she has to pay as much of imports. In Europe, Sweden and Russia, are, of course, the chief timber exporting countries, but in both cases the vast inroads on supplies is seriously felt, and exports are being appreciably reduced. There are, of course, Canada and Siberia, but in Canada, at all events wood is being used up at a rapid rate.

ILLINOIS PRIMARY ELECTIONS TODAY

First Trial of Newest Law at the Polls to Be Given Test.

NOMINATIONS ARE IMPORTANT

Candidates Will Be Selected for State Treasurer, Superintendent Public Instruction, Congressmen and Legislators.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—Illinois' newest primary law, the most sweeping in its provisions of any ever written on the statute books, will be given its initial test at the polls today.

Candidates for the office of state treasurer, state superintendent of public instruction, and also for congress, judgeships, and the state legislature are to be chosen.

The voters throughout the state of the Republican, Democratic, Prohibition and Socialist party organizations are afforded an opportunity to express their choice as to the candidates of their party where more than one candidate appears for the nomination for any office.

Every official to be elected next November, except trustees of the state university, and including a congressman in each of the twenty-five districts, are to be nominated at these primaries. Even the state, senatorial and precinct committeemen are subject to this law, but in their cases the vote today becomes an election, the candidate receiving the plurality of votes being considered the chosen committeeman.

There are ballots for each of the four political parties. All the candidates are not printed on one ballot as at a regular election. A voter on entering the polling place must state to the judges the political party with which he wishes to vote at this primary, and the ballot of that party will be furnished him. There is no circle on these ballots, the voter being required to mark a cross in the square in front of the name of each candidate for whom he wishes to vote.

One other feature in this primary law relates to the nomination of candidates for the legislature. In nominations, as in the election, the "plumping" system is allowed. Three candidates for representative will be elected in November in each senatorial district, and in making the nominations today the voter may cast his ballot for one, two or three candidates, if there are more than one in the field.

If he marks a cross in front of the name of only one candidate, that will count three votes for that candidate. If he marks it in front of two, it will give each of them one and one-half votes. If he marks it in front of three it will give each one vote.

BLAST IN INDIANA MINE

One Man Is Killed and One Fatally Injured.

Transfer of 300 Men to Another Part of the Shaft Prevented a Frightful Disaster.

Linton, Ind., Sept. 15.—One man was killed one fatally injured and five others seriously hurt in a gas explosion caused by a miner's defective lamp in Vandalia mine No. 10, nine miles from here.

There were 300 men working in the mine, but they had been changed to another part of the shaft, and this alone prevented a frightful disaster.

PANAMA ELECTION IS OVER

Pablo Arosmena Will Fill Term of Late President Obaldia.

Panama, Sept. 15.—The election of three vice presidents of the republic by the national assembly has taken place. The vote was practically unanimous for Pablo Arosmena for first vice president, Frederico Boyd for second and Rodolfo Chiard third.

Arosmena is at present minister of Panama to Chili. He will assume charge of the government Oct. 1, acting as president for the balance of the unexpired term of the late President Obaldia.

While Sleeping on Couch Victim Is Attacked by Large Reptile.

Pittsburg, Sept. 15.—Barbara Klee, aged 18, daughter of a dairy farmer of North Braddock, was bitten in the left hand by a blacksnake while she was sleeping on a couch in her home.

Lighting a lamp she saw a four-foot blacksnake crawling from the dining room into the kitchen and escape into a rat hole. A physician cauterized the wounds. The arm is badly swollen, however, and blood poisoning is feared.

PRESIDENT PLANS CANADIAN TREATY

Starts Negotiations for Reciprocity Treaty with Canada.

CANADIAN OFFICIALS FAVORABLE

Manufacturing Interests of Dominion Have Started Campaign Against Proposed Trade Agreement—Do Not Favor Idea.

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 15.—The first formal step has been taken toward the negotiations of a reciprocity treaty between the United States and Canada. President Taft has obtained the consent of James Bryce, the British ambassador, to the waiving by that country of the formality of negotiating through the British embassy. This will allow the authorities at Washington to deal directly with the Canadian officials. The permission of the British government was readily given.

Actual negotiations for the treaty will be begun soon after the president returns to Washington, about the middle of October. Mr. Taft is hopeful of having the movement under way before congress reconvenes in December.

This government's representatives in the negotiations have not been selected, but whoever they may be the president himself can be counted upon to take an active part in the proceedings, for he believes that the negotiation of a trade impelling treaty between the United States and Canada is one of the most important tasks confronting his administration.

It was largely through Mr. Taft's personal efforts that the negotiation for a commercial treaty with Canada under the maximum and minimum clause of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law were carried to a successful conclusion, and it was learned that the subject of a reciprocity treaty was also discussed at the conference held between Mr. Taft and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Canadian premier, in Albany last spring.

While the Canadian officials are in favor of a reciprocity treaty with this country, there is strong opposition in many parts of that country. Recently the manufacturing interests in Canada have started a campaign against the proposed trade agreement. The general impression among United States officials is that the treaty negotiations will be long drawn out. Nobody is optimistic enough to expect that any results at conferences will be laid before congress in the coming short session. President Taft is hopeful that an opening wedge for general reciprocity between the two countries may be driven by an agreement at first on agricultural products.

The question of a favorable trade agreement with Canada figured considerably in the Maine election and is a factor that is to be reckoned with in Massachusetts and in other New England states. Eugene Foss, who was elected to congress from the Fourteenth Massachusetts district at a special election last spring, made Canadian reciprocity one of his issues. He is being talked of now as a candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket.

Rhode Island Burglars Secure $30,000 in House Robbery.

Summer Home of Judge Lebaron B. Colt of U. S. Circuit Court Looted—Other Burglaries Reported.

Providence, Sept. 15.—Two burglaries netting $30,000 in diamonds and jewelry to the robbers have been reported. The heaviest sufferer was Judge Lebaron B. Colt, of the United States circuit court, whose summer home at Bristol was robbed of $20,000 worth of jewelry. All the heirlooms and valuables of Mrs. Colt were taken.

The other burglary occurred at Watch Hill, where "Intermere," occupied by Hrs. E. M. Burrall, of Waterbury, Conn., and her sister, Miss Thatcher, of Boston, was looted to the tune of $10,000 worth of jewelry, the property of both women.

MILES POINDEXTER IS VICTOR

Success in Primary Is Implied as Rebuke to Secretary Ballinger.

Washington, Sept. 15.—Politicians here affect to see in the victory of Representative Miles Poindexter in the Washington state senatorial primaries, an implied rebuke by the Republicans who participated, of Secretary Ballinger.

Poindexter was opposed by Secretary Ballinger, who issued a statement at one stage of the campaign arraigning him. In the house, Poindexter voted with Pinchot's friends and the Democrats to withhold from Speaker Cannon the power to appoint the house members of the joint committee to investigate the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy.

JAIL BREAKERS ARE RETAKEN

Five Prisoners Who Assaulted Sheriff Maloney Are Recaptured.

Dover, Del., Sept. 15.—All but one of the six men who broke jail here after knocking down Sheriff Maloney, have been recaptured. Leander De Shields, who instigated the plot and hit the sheriff, was caught in midstream, swimming the St. Johns river.

Lewis Brittener, held for swindling, and Ernest Plummer, a negro, imprisoned for shooting a friend at a camp meeting, tried hard to make good their escape, but were caught by the crowd which pursued with guns and revolvers. De Shield's capture was made by Recorder James Paron. One man held for a trivial offense is still at large.

BANK SWINDLER CONFESSES GUILT

Adolph Rothsbarth Is Short in Bank Account $128,000.

WALL STREET PROVES UNDOING

New York, Sept. 15.—Adolph Rothsbarth, representative in America of the largest hop dealing firm in the world, Rothbarth & Co., of Frankfort-on-the-Main, London, St. Petersburg and New York, is in the Tombs a confessed bank swindler. His victims were the Mercantile National bank, which, according to the district attorney's office, is out $58,000, and the Liberty National bank, which holds $75,000 of his fraudulent notes.

After twenty years of honorable dealing as the New York agent of a firm whose credit is internationally good, Rothsbarth, in 1905, made up his mind that he wanted to be a millionaire and get his million quick. He ventured into Wall street, and played the bull end of the market and put up for margins cash that he had obtained from the banks on the strength of impeachable business statements and was ruined in the panic of 1907. Thereafter he played a confidence game with these banks, the Mercantile, the Liberty and the National Park banks, keeping each institution ignorant of his borrowings from the others and floating his hop business with the proceeds of false statements of credit and cash.

Now, with the written evidence of his frauds in the hands of District Attorney Whitman, his $400,000 business reduced to the value of a desk and two or three office chairs, and the fear that he may have ruined the prospects of his German brothers, who were ignorant of his transactions, Rothsbarth says he wants to go to prison for the longest term the law can provide. This happens in his case to be ten years.

His game was a swindle of the simplest variety. He used the known reputation of the foreign house of Rothsbard & Co., as his trump card and for a second his own previous credit with the banks that dealt largely in commercial paper.

Like the bills of lading forger several years ago who was caught because he inserted in his counterfeit papers freight car numbers higher than the road which owned the cars had ever gone in numbering them, Rothsbarth was tripped up through carelessness in a trivial detail. He forgot to make copies of the false statements he made to the Mercantile and the National Park. The statements differed amazingly. The credit men of these banks happened to make comparison. They saw instantly that one of the statements must be a lie. A little later they learned that both were false. So they went for Rothsbarth in a hurry and after a brief period of excuses, in which he insisted that careless bookkeeping was responsible for the discrepancies, his defense collapsed. He admitted his guilt and sought to explain the cause.

STATE CONVENTION TURMOIL

C. A. Goodwin Chosen for Governor After Long and Bitter Struggle.

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 15.—The Republican state convention here broke all records for the bitterness and closeness of the struggle for the nomination for governor between Charles A. Goodwin, who was Governor Lilley's executive secretary, and Everett J. Lake, former Harvard football star.

After a seven hour session and the throwing out of one ballot because more votes were cast than there were delegates in the convention, a decision was reached on a roll call vote late in the day, C. A. Goodwin capturing the nomination by a vote of 318 to 259.

ready to make any sacrifice."

"Very well, but weigh the matter carefully. There is never any retracing a step of this kind." He paused and then said:

"You are all I have, girl."

"My father!" She stroked his cheek.

The restoration of the Princess Hildegarde of Ehrenstein had been the sensation of Europe, as had been in the earlier days her remarkable abduction. For sixteen years the search had gone on fruitlessly. In a garret in Dresden the agents of Herbeck found her, a singer in the chorus of the opera. The newspapers and illustrated weeklies raged about her for awhile, elaborated the story of her struggles, the mysterious remittances which had from time to time saved her from direst poverty, her ambition, her education which by dint of hard work she had acquired. The duke accused Franz of Jugendheit. Search as they would, the duke and the chancellor never traced the source of the remittances. The duke held stubbornly that the sender of these benefactions was moved by the impulse of a guilty conscience and that this guilty conscience was in Jugendheit.

And was the girl happy with all her new grandeur, with all these lackeys and attentions and environs? Sometimes she longed for the freedom and lack care of her Dresden garret, her musician friends, the studios, the crash and glitter of the opera.

She was lovely enough to inspire fervor and homage and love in all masculine minds. She was witty and talented. Carmichael said she was one of the most beautiful women in all Europe.

She was still in the window seat when the chancellor was announced.

"Your highness," he said, "I am come to announce to you that there waits for you a high place in the affairs of the world."

"The second crown in Jugendheit?"

"Your father"—

"Yes. He leaves the matter wholly in my hands."

"It is for the good of the state. A princess like yourself must never wed an inferior."

"Would a man who was brave and kind and resourceful, but without a title—would he be an inferior?"

"Assuredly politically. And I regret to say that your marriage could never be else than a matter of politics."

"I am, then, simply a certificate of exchange?"

"The king of Jugendheit is young. I do not see how he can help loving you the moment he knows you. Who can?" And the chancellor smiled.

"But he may not be heart whole."

"He will be politically."

"Politics, politics—how I hate the word! Sometimes I regret my garret."

The chancellor wrinkled his lips.

"Will you consent to this marriage?"

"Would it do any good to reject it?"

"On the contrary, it would do Ehrenstein great harm."

"Give me a week," wearily.

"A week!" There was joy on the chancellor's face now, unmasked, unconcealed. "Oh, when the moment comes that I see the crown of Jugendheit on your beautiful head all my work shall not have been in vain. There is one thing more, your highness."

"And that?"

"There must not be so many rides in the morning with his excellency Herr Carmichael."

There was a sinister note of warning in the chancellor's voice.

* * * * * * *

The Black Eagle (Zum Schwartzen Adler) in the Adlergasse was 200 years old and had been in the Bauer family all that time.

Had the manager, Frau Bauer, or Frau Wirtin, as she was familiarly called, been masculine she would have been lightly dubbed Bauer VII. She was a widow. She was thirty-eight, plump, pretty and wise.

Tonight the main room of the tavern swam in a blue haze of smoke, which rose to the blackened rafters, hung with many and various sausages, cheeses and dried vegetables. Dishes clattered, there was a buzzing of voices, a scraping of feet and chairs, a banging of tankards.

Gretchen came in, a little better dressed than in the daytime, the change consisting of coarse stockings and shoes of leather, of which she was correspondingly proud.

"Will you want me, Frau Wirtin, for a little while tonight?" she asked.

"Till 9. Half a crown as usual."

Gretchen sought the kitchen and found an apron and cap. These half crowns were fine things to pick up occasionally, for it was only upon occasions that she worked at the Black Eagle. In an obscure corner sat the young vintner. His face brightened as he saw the goose girl. In the very corner itself was the mountaineer who possessed a Swiss watch and gave golden coins to goose girls. He was

Carmichael was often a visitor at the Black Eagle. Later he stepped into the big hall in his evening clothes.

"Good evening, Frau Wirtin."

"Good evening, your excellency."

She was quite flattered when this fine young man spoke to her. "What is on your mind?"

"Many things." He saw Gretchen. "The goose girl," he murmured suddenly. "Is Gretchen one of your waitresses?"

"She comes in once in awhile. She's a good girl. I'm glad to help her."

Gretchen saw Carmichael and nodded.

"I shall be at yonder table," he said, indicating the vacant chair. Carmichael made his way to the table. Across the room he had not recognized the vintner, but now he remembered. He had crowded him against a wall two or three days before. The vintner turned back the lid of his stein and drank slowly.

Carmichael sat down. Now, this vintner's face was something familiar. Carmichael stirred his memory. It was not in Dreiberg that he had seen him before. But where?

Gretchen arrived with the tankard.

MEMORY DAY.

Thursday, September 30

This day set apart by an act of our legislature is for the improving and beautifying the Silent City of our dead and the graves of our loved ones.

Just as Autumn with its fading leaf and flower so emblematic of the final accomplishment of the duties of life is putting on its robes of somber hue so with life's journey ended our loved ones are lying wrapped in the robes of immortality, and we would honor their memory by making beautiful their last resting place.

This "Memory Day" was established at the instigation and request of the State association of Farmers' clubs and the state granges as a day set apart in the autumn time to supplim ent the work of Decoration Day in the spring time.

Dear reader, you who have loved ones sleeping in our Silent City, are you ready to do your part in keeping Memory Day as a sacred duty.

COUNTY MEDICAL MEN IN SESSION TUESDAY

The regular meeting of the Lenawee County Medical society was held in the office of Dr. L. G. North, Tuesday afternoon. At four o'clock, 27 assembled and the meeting was called to order Dr. R. S. Walker of Toledo read a very able and insturctive paper on "Genitory Urinary." Dr. P. M. Hickey of Detroit gave an illustrated lecture on X-ray work in medicines and surgery. Dr. Orrin Rice of Tipton presented an interesting case of hip joint disease in a four year old child.

After Dr. Walker's paper the physicianf adjourned to the Royal theatre where Dr. Hickey exhibited about 75 plates which were of much interest to the assembled physicians.

WOMAN ON SCHOOL BOARD

Ann Arbor men were a surprised lot at their school election, when the women turned out in force and elected a woman to fill one of the vacancies on their school board. Only men had been nominated, but women are ready for any emergency and had slips printed with Mrs F D. Armstrongs name pasted on the Men's Causus ballots and came out ahead.

Good for Ann Arbor women. We think every school board should have one woman on it. So let the good work go on.

WOMEN TO THE FRONT

The Adrian Woman's Club has secured some fine talent for their Star Course, as the following:

The Oratonl Artists, Senator La-Follette, Karl Jansen, Byron C. Platt George Edgar Vincent, Steindell Trio.

LIBRARY NOTES

Through the generosity of Charles Tefft Hewitt, a former resident of Tecumseh but now of Pittsburg, 183 volumes of beautifully bound books have been added to the Library this week. Each book contains a book plate which explains that it is presented in memory of Mr. Hewitt's daughter, Elisabeth Selheimer Hewitt, 1904-10. Mr. Hewitt expects to send five hundred books altogether. Too much cannot be said in praise of one who shows himself so loyal to the home of his youth and who in his sorrow shows such thoughtfulness for others' happiness.

Below is given a partial list of the books. It is suggested that you clip it for furthur reference:

THREE TEMPTING QUESTIONS.

Matthew 22:15-22; 34-46.—September 18.

"Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's; and unto God the things that are God's."

THE Pharisees and Sadducees of our Lord's day were the leaders of religion. They had formed a trust or federation, so to speak, and rarely made an attack upon each other, although their doctrines were directly opposed. The Pharisees acknowledged God and the prophets and the Law, and believed in a future life by a resurrection from the dead, and believed in a coming Messiah to exalt their nation and through it to bless the world. The Sadducees believed nothing of the kind—they were agnostics, Higher Critics. They were making the best of the present life, doubting any future existence. The Pharisees opposed Jesus because he did not acknowledge them, but criticised them, and showed the hypocrisies of their claims to be perfect and holy in the keeping of the Law, and reproved them for their lack of sympathy with the poor and less pretentious.

The Sadducees opposed Jesus because, from their standpoint of unbelief, he was a fraud. But even as a fraud they would not have bothered themselves to oppose him, only that they perceived that he was gaining an influence with the people—an influence which they feared might, sooner or later, lead to some disturbance of the peace and unfavorably influence the conduct of the Roman Empire towards the Jews. So while the Sadducees and Pharisees both opposed Jesus, their opposition was for different reasons.

The triumphal entry of Jesus into Jerusalem, and the crying of the multitude, "Hosanna to the Son of David," the Messiah! awakened envy in the minds of the Pharisees. But in the Sadducees it produced a fear that the common people should become so aroused as to involve their nation in some strife with the Empire. The Pharisees strove to turn away the sympathy of the people from the Great Teacher, and, to this end, sought to catch him in his words by putting the question, "Is it lawful to give tribute?"

They reasoned that if Jesus would say, It is not unlawful, they would have little difficulty in having him arrested as a leader of sedition and thus compel Pilate to put him to death. They reasoned further that if Jesus should answer that it was lawful to give tribute to Caesar he would thereby alienate the sympathy of the multitude, which cried "Hosanna!" after him; for the Jews held, almost superstitiously, the idea that they, as God's Kingdom, must not pay tithes to any earthly Kingdom—that it would be irreverent to do so, excepting under compulsion. We notice how artfully they endeavored to ensnare the Master by complimenting him upon his truthfulness, saying, "Master, we know that thou art true!" Not only so, but they sought to impress upon him their appreciation of him as a Teacher—that he would teach the light, the Truth, at any cost. And so they said, "Thou teachest the way of God in truth!" And further, they fortified their position by saying: "We know that thou regardest not the person of men!"

These treacherous compliments were intended to ensnare him, but he promptly answered. "Why tempt ye me, ye hypocrites?" Why do you veil your base designs under guise of speaking for the Truth? "Show me the tribute money." This was, literally, the census coin in which the tax was to be paid. They handed him a denarius, the usual wage for the day laborer, corresponding in value to about seventeen of our cents. Jesus asked, "Whose is this image and superscription?" They answered, "Caesar's." Jesus replied, "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto God the things that are God's." No wonder the wily Pharisees were troubled to know how to catch him in his words! On the contrary, they were caught; for all of their complimentary remarks stood to his credit in the minds of the common people.

Next, the Sadducees, the agnostics, tried to entrap the Great Teacher by asking one of their stock questions. Seven different brothers in turn married the same woman and all died before she did. To which of them will she be wife in the resurrection? They did not ask, To which will she be wife in heaven or Purgatory or eternal torture, for neither Jesus nor the Jews held any such teaching. The Pharisees and Jesus taught the resurrection of the dead, and it was against this teaching that the Sadducees aimed their sarcastic question.

Note the majesty of the Master's answer: "Ye do err, not knowing the Scriptures, neither the power of God!" You do not understand the Scripture teaching respecting such questions, and you are ignoring in your question the great Divine power which, at that resurrection time, will be exercised and will straighten out all the difficulties of the situation. Then the Great Teacher proceeded to inform them that such as would (gradually) attain to the resurrection, such as would get a complete raising up out of sin and death conditions, would "neither marry nor be given in marriage," but would be sexless, as are the angels. Thus the supposed great and unanswerable question of the Sadducees fell flat and their ignorance was exposed.

Next, one of the Doctors of the Law endeavored to entrap the Lord on a question of the relative importance of the Divine commandments, asking which Jesus considered the great one of all. The Great Teacher promptly divided the ten commandments into two, according to the Law (Deut. 6:5), and answered, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind." This is the first and great (chief) commandment. And the second is like unto it—"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." On these two commandments hang all the Law and the Prophets." What could the Lawyer say to such a summarization of the Law? He had nothing left to say. He was answered as never before.

The Great Teacher asked the Pharisees, "What think ye of the Messiah? Whose Son is he?" They answered, "The Son of David." The Teacher then queried, "How then doth David in spirit (prophetically) call him Lord, saying, The Lord said unto my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand till I make thine enemies thy footstool? If David then calleth him Lord, how is he his Son?"

Of course the question was too deep for the Pharisees. The Great Teacher could answer all of their questions, but they could not answer his. How beautifully clear we see it to be that the Messiah, according to the flesh, was born of the lineage of David, but that God's purposes were not fully accomplished in Messiah of the flesh—that he lay down his flesh, sacrificially, and was raised from the dead to the plane of glory, honor and immortality, "far above angels, principalities and powers." We perceive that in the days of his flesh he was the Son of David, but that in his glorification he is David's Lord in that David will receive through him, in due time, not only resurrection from the dead, but also the blessings of participation in the Messianic Kingdom. The father of Messiah in the flesh will thus become the son of the Messiah of glory, whose earthly life is to be the restitution price for the whole world, including David. Thus it is written, "Instead of thy fathers shall be thy children, whom thou mayest make princes (rulers) in all the earth."—Psa. 45:16.

It will be full moon Sept. 18, and then in five days the Autumnal Equinox. A curious fact is recorded that if those who are interested will look in the East just at sunset, that the full round moon will appear just as the sun goes down, and for several evenings the moon will rise shortly after sunset with but slight variation in time Of old it was beleived that this the harvest moon was sent to prolong the day.

Preparations in Waldron indicate the approach of winter, if the publication of a village ordinance can be taken as a criterion. Property owners are ordered to remove the snow on the sidewalks before 10 a. m., or the council will do so after that time for 6 cents per linear rod. Waldron seems to have a corner on the "beautiful" for September.

20th Anniversary

OF Frank D. Avery's Grocery

Today is the 20th anniversary of my business career in the grocery business in Tecumseh. While I have not become a wealty man and some of the time the road has been pretty rough I am thankful to still be in the race.

I take this time to thank the many friends who, by their patronage, have made it possible for me to continue in business.

I am better equipped to take care of the business than I ever was before and shall do everything in my power to make this store worthy of your patronage.

Thanking you for all past favors and hoping for more in the future, I remain

Yours for business,
F. D. AVERY.

ANOTHER SHOWER

Wednesday Night

Mrs. Frank Camburn who has been spending the last week at the home of her parents Andrew Wilson and wife was the victim of a miscellaneous shower.

She and her husband expect soon to set up house-keeping and her many relatives took this opportunity to show their appreciation. She received many fine gifts. 500 and Pedro were the games of the evening. Refreshments were served and a merry time enjoyed by all.

Miscellaneous Shower

Miss Elizabeth Widney gave a little party Wednesday evening to 12 young ladies honoring Miss Alice Combs. The house was beautifully decorated in SCARLET, this idea being carried out as far as possible in every particular,

The gifts were numerous and varied as best suited to the needs of a young housekeeper. Light refreshments were served in a very dainty manner. Games were indulged in for the rest of the evening and a most enjoyable time was reported.

PRANAYAMA.

SAYS IT IS WONDERFUL.

Mrs. Wm. A. Brown, wife of a long and well known resident of Tecumseh, says: It is certainly wonderful how Mr. Brown recovered so rapidly under trearment from Prof. Johann von Oberstolz, the pranayama" Mr. Brown was on his death bed ten days ago after being confined to the house for 3 months with asthma, heart, kidney and bladder trouble, besides dropsy and terrible pain in the stomach. Nothing but poisonous cobeine tablets would ease him.

The above and other remarkable cases in Lenawee county have created so much interest for this entirely new and different treatment for all kinds of chronic diseases that it is a common occurrence for Prof. von Oberstolz to be compellcc to turn patients away from his office, being unable to treat all who call. He makes no charges for ocnsultation. He wil tell your disease and where located in five minutes, without asking a single question, or fur,eit $100. No medicines, rubbing, trouble or lies No uncurable cases accepted for treatment; but no matter what your ailment is or of how long standing, or how many physicians failed to even benefit you, it is still possible to find a quick and permanent cure under pranayama, which is doing such marvelous work for scores of Lenawee county sufferers just now. Names will be gladly given upon request.—Adrian Times.

TONIGHT!

AMUSEMENTS.

Berthe M. Clay's famous novel dramatized "Thorns and Orange Blossoms." The Treadwell-Whitney Stock Co. present the above attraction with all special scenery and equal to a 50c or 75c production. The feature bill of the week.

The Treadwell-Whitney Stock Co. are giving excellent satisfaction and the people who attend wonder how they can produce the bills they do at the prices they charge—10c for the balcony and 15c for the entire first

The truth of the matter is that this is the first time since playing the 24 weeks engagement at Lansing that they have played at such prices, their regular prices being 10, 20 and 30 cents.

Tecumseh people should improve the opportunity and see this excellent company tonight and Saturday—their last two nights here.

Make Room for the Hats

Adrian is contemplating enlarging the cloak rooms at the high school to accommodate the hats of the young lady pupils. We wonder if the size of the hat indicates the capacity of the brain; and in what ratio we may have to build on ar Tecumseh also.

BISHOP WILLIAMS

Bishop Williams is a strong supporter of the new canon which was granted at the recent diocesan convention allowing other ministers to speak in Episcopal churches.

It is expected that this will be a bone of contention at the general conference to be held in Cincinnati O., in October, at many are opposed to it and a petition is to be presented for a repeal of this canon. Bishop Williams will oppose this, as he feels the cause of Christianity would receive a hard blow should they return to the old policy of fsolation as before.

The bishop has many warm friends in all denominations in Tecumseh for his liberal broad-mindedness, and it is hoped his policy will win in the coming convention.

CATARRH GERMS

Move Out When Hyomei Moves In.

No stomach dosing, HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-me) is made from the highest grade of eucalyptus forests of inland Australia and combined with the excellent antiseptics employed in the Listerian system.

In inland Australia the atmosphere is so impregnated with balsam thrown out by the encalyptus trees that germs cannot lives and in consequence catarrh and consumption are unknown

Breathe HYOMEI and get the very same, pleasant, healing germ-killing air as you would get in the eucalyptus forests and kill the germs.

HYOMEI is sold by C. A. Wright & Son, Tecumseh, and by druggists everywhere at $1.00 0 complete outfit.

An outfit consists of a bottle of HYOMEI, a hard rubber pocket inhaler and simple instructions for use. Rule For Pure Ice Cream.

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the government food chemist, has found a new victim for his spear, this time it is the virulent ice cream. In his paper on the subject Dr. Wiley says:

"Inasmuch as ice cream is prescribed frequently by physicians for invalids and convalescents and inasmuch as it is largely eaten by children and others whose stomachs have not full vigor, a definite idea of its composition is necessary to prevent injury and abuse. Genuine ice cream is an article of diet that should be consumed in moderation, not only by the sick but by the well."

Dr. Wiley has prepared a set of standards for ice cream makers, and his is sued by the department of agriculture. Under the law it is forbidden to use eggs, corn flour, or starch, or mucilaginous bodies to make the ice cream firm. The law also provides that ice cream to be sold as such must contain 14 per cent of butter fat for vanilla flavor and 12 per cent for fruit flavors, and that all thickeners, glucose, and artificial colors or ingredients must be eliminated.

How He Kept His Clothes Dry.

Among a large shooting party on a northern grouse moor was a certain elderly professor, whose skill with his gun was hardly equal to the profundity of his intellect. Suddenly a heavy shower of rain came on, and there was no shelter on the moor the shooters get thoroughly drenched through. At least, all but one suffered—the professor. He had mysteriously disappeared when the rain came on, and he did not rejoin the party until the sun was shining once more. To the amazement of the others the erudite one was as dry as a bone. The others, drenched and disgusted, inquired of him how it was he had escaped a wetting.

"Directly the rain came on," replied the professor, "I went off by myself, stripped off my clothes and sat on them until the storm was over."—London Telegraph.

Electricity For Headhunters.

Having done what they could to put an end to the work of the savage head hunters of Formosa, the Japanese, who own the island, are making strenuous efforts to bring down wholesale punishment upon them. On the island there are about 100,000 of these savages, who delight to run a man to earth and take his head as a trophy, and when recently 300 Japanese treasure seekers were massacred and their heads taken it was decided to invoke the aid of modern science and execute the savages in job lots. Wire fencing were run around the villages, and then when the Japanese fired a few shots the Formosans ran away, but only to fall upon the highly charged wires and be electrocuted.—The Pathfinder.

Constipation Cure Free

With the first signs of constipation you resort to the home methods of relief, such as hot or cold water on arising, lots of stewed fruit with your breakfast, etc., but what do you do when these fail?

The majority then start on salts and purgative waters, then change to cathartic pills, etc. If you have gone through these various stages you know they were all useless, so far as permanent results go. Now you should try just once again, but try something practical and sensible, a remedy made and intended for the purpose you are trying to accomplish. Such a remedy, as thousands can testify, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is guaranteed to be permanent in its results. Its ingredients are such that by a brief use of it the stomach and bowel muscles are trained to again do their work normally, so that in the end you can do away with medicines of all kinds. That it will do this Mr. G. Y. Dodson of Sanville, Va., will gladly attest, and so will Mrs. S. A. Hampton of Portage, O.

To those who are still skeptical there is a way to prove these assertions without a penny of expense: Simply send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell and obtain a free sample bottle. After using it if you are then convinced it is the remedy you need, buy a fifty cent or one dollar bottle of your druggist and continue to use it for a brief time until cured. The directions are simple and the dose is small. It is pleasant to the taste, does not gripe and is promptly effective, and these statements are guaranteed or money will be refunded.

This remedy is over a quarter of a century old and is personally taken by more druggists than any other similar remedy on the American market. Because of its effectiveness, purity and pleasant taste it is the ideal laxative remedy for children, women and old folks generally.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

FACTS CONCERNING BLOOD.

It Is the Most Genetic Thing About Animals.

A drop of the blood of a walrus shows no relation with a drop of whale's blood, or of the blood of any other cetacean, such as seals or porpoises, which, like the walrus, are mammals that have taken to the sea. Instead of that, the blood of the walrus immediately reacts with the blood of horses, asses and zebras, thus proving that he is an equine that no longer grops grass but goes where he can live on an exclusively fish diet. Likewise the hippopotamus is shown to be a modified pig.

Where a blood relationship exists, but is distant, these reactions are proportionately faint, but where no reactions occur there is no relationship at all. Thus, geology indicates that birds are descended from reptiles, and, oddly enough, the blood of a bird shows a distinct, though very faint reaction with the blood of a snake but none whatever with that of the winged bat or the flying squirrel, for these are mammals.

On the other hand, the marsupials, once such a great family, but now reduced to the kangaroo, the opossum and a small creature in South America, have now not a single blood relation left. As to man, he has no relationship to monkeys, but the blood of anthropoid apes shows a very faint reaction with his. Meantime, all the races of man are unmistakably of one blood, whatever their color or abode.

Hence the blood is by far the most hereditary thing about us. Neither the shape of the skeleton, nor the contour of the body, nor brain, heart, lungs, stomach, intestines, liver or skin, nor even ancestral habits about the great Food Question—Darwin's only Creator—how to eat or keep from being eaten—are comparable to a single drop of blood for telling the correct story of descent. All this gives a new meaning to the words, "For the blood thereof is the life thereof." Likewise, the old saying that insanity runs in the blood now wears a scientific look, since blood and family are so inseparably associated.

Average Ages of Birds.

The doctrines of vegetarianism appear to be slightly shaken by the result of an investigation that an English newspaper has made into the subject of the longevity of birds. With one notable exception the meat-feeding birds are the longer lived. The exception is the swan.

The average ages of some of the best known birds are given in the following table:

	Years.
Blackbird lives	12
Blackcap	15
Canary	24
Crane	24
Crow	100
Eagle	100
Fowl, common	10
Goldfinch	15
Goose	50
Heron	59
Lark	13
Linnet	22
Nightingale	18
Parrot lives	60
Partridge	15
Peacock	24
Pelican	50
Pheasant	15
Pigeon	20
Raven	100
Robin	15
Skylark	30
Sparrow Hawk	40
Swan	100
Thrush	10
Wren	8

During the first 10 months of 1910 the number of homestead entries recorded in Canada was 31,578, an increase of 6,273 over the corresponding period of 1907.

The abnormally dry season on the watersheds from which Vienna draws its water supply made it necessary recently to reduce the service in each house one tap.

Cuba's tobacco production in 1908 manufactured and unmanufactured was of the value of $35,000,000 gold of which $11,000,000 worth was used for home consumption.

No Guess Work About the Baking if you use CALUMET Baking Powder

When the baking does not come just right you are inclined to blame everything but the real cause. Poor baking powder spoils more food than any other one thing. Try a can of CALUMET and feel easy about your baking. It never fails to produce sweet, delicious food. On account of its great raising power and moderate cost it is the most economical.

Misleading advertisements may have led you to believe that you take baking powder into the stomach in the same form as it is in the can. Here is the truth: In the process of baking the heat causes a chemical reaction in the baking powder which destroys or entirely changes the nature of the original ingredients. Therefore, the original contents of the can or what is printed on the label is no indication of what you get in the food.

In Calumet Baking Powder the ingredients are so scientifically compounded that this chemical reaction leaves no tartaric acid, Alum, Lime or other residue in the food. In a Cream of Tarter or Trust Baking Powder this chemical reaction turns the Cream of Tartar into Rochelle Salts, a drug which should never be taken in food.

CALUMET complies with all pure food laws—both State and National. Your Grocer will guarantee it. If he offers "something just as good," refuse it—insist on having CALUMET and be sure of good baking.

Received highest award World's Pure Food Exposition, Chicago, 1907, which positively proves there is no guesswork about CALUMET, because this award means that it was highest in quality and is absolutely pure.

HEIRLOOM GEMS ARE STOLEN

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 15.—Between midnight and 8 o'clock Wednesday morning thieves entered the Royal Alexandria hotel and stole diamonds and other jewels valued at $100,000, the property of the Countess of Antrim. Many of the jewels were priceless, being heirlooms and gifts.

The countess went to bed late. The jewels were locked in a special bag with a peculiar key which could not easily be duplicaed

WALSH PARDON IS PLANNED

George T. Buckingham Will Present Document to President in Person.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—The petition for the pardon of John R. Walsh, former railroad builder and ex-banker, who is imprisoned in the federal prison at Fort Leavenworth, will be filed with the department of justice in Washington in about two weeks. The plea will be considered by President Taft.

"The petition is a long document, but should be ready for filing in about two weeks," said Attorney George T. Buckingham. "I myself shall convey it to Washington."

For the present, at any rate, no American manufacturer is going to make a millionaire of himself by exporting mill machinery to Palestine. "In this country there are few flour mills," writes Consul Wallace from Jerusalem, "and a very feew for extracting oil from sesame seed. Otherwise the land is devoid of mills. The country women use small stone hand grinder for cracking or crushing grain for the use of the family, and and it fully answers their purpose. Labor is cheap and time of no consequence. This implement has been used by them for ages past, and as they are very poor it is impossible under present conditions to sell them improved grinders."

If you live in a noisy part of the town you cannot reasonably object to any particular noise that is not measurably greater than other noises in the neighborhood. This is the law laid down by Supreme Court Justice Henrick in New York in refusing an injunction to stop the use of pasteurizing machinery in a dairy. It was alleged that the machinery was noisy. Justice Hendrick did not deny the allegation. He merely called attention to the fact that in the neighborhood of the dairy were New York stables, salons, tenement houses, a wheelwright shop, a blacksmith shop, a steam laundry and a piano factory. The dairy machinery was not so noisy as to be exceptional.

Cry Baby Cure.

Alaska babies do not cry. They try it and then give up the bad habit from choice. To this desirable end they are gently persuaded by their mothers. When a baby begins to cry the mother takes a pot of water, fills her mouth with the liquid and squirts it into the face of the weeping infant. If the cry increases in force, so does the stream of water. No word is spoken, no blow is struck, but the victory is sure. Very soon the infant begins to connect weeping with the squirting of water in its face. Becoming firmly convinced that the two things are inseparable, it decides to cry no more.

Chinese Coolies Smuggled.

Smuggling Chinese coolies from Mexico into the United States is a busy industry on the border and is profitable one, but occasionally there is a setback. The other day one of the smugglers was caught as he was entering San Diego harbor at night with eight coolies in a steam launch.

Diplomacy.

"To pretend to be ignorant of what every one knows, and to know what every one else does not know, to listen and what no listener comprehends, not to hear what everyone hears, and, above all, to be able to do the impossible, often to have to keep the secret one must hide the fact. And there is nothing to look one's self up in but quills, and to stem deep when one is only as they say, empty and hollow; to play a part ill or well, to set spies and pension traitors; to loosen seals, intercept letters, and try to disguise the meanness of the methods by the importance of the object—that's politics, or I'm a dead man."—Beaumarchais' Marriage of Figaro.

TAMPA STRIKERS BOLD

J. F. Easterling Shot by Striker and May Die of Injury.

Tampa Mayor Threatens to Call Out State Troops to Protect Life and Business Interests.

Tampa, Fla., Sept. 15.—The strike and lockout of cigarmakers in Tampa has reached the guerilla warfare stage. The strikers are losing ground, a number of the factories having located branches in other towns, receiving forces of non-union men from Tampa. J. F. Easterling, bookkeeper in Bustillo Bros. & Diaz's factory, who has been active in recruiting for the branch his people have opened in Jacksonville, was shot down in the street and may die.

The shot was fired from a crowd of strikers which had assembled in front of the factory of his firm. Wednesday an attempt was made to assassinate J. Costo, a manufacturer, but the shot missed him. The mayor has issued a statement to the effect that life and business will be protected even if state troops have to be called.

EDWARD C. STOKES

Who, According to Late Returns, Has Won Nomination for Senate.

BAR WOMEN IN PARADE

Only Civil War Vets In Line at Atlantic City.

Officers of the Various Women's Organizations of the G. A. R. Expected to Ride.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 15.—Women of the organizations affiliated with the G. A. R. will be barred from the big encampment parade next week. The announcement is made by Executive Director F. M. Sterrett that the line will be composed entirely of civil war veterans, with the exception of a gun detail from the Sons of Veterans for escort duty and to fire salutes.

Officers of the various women's organizations, such as the Army Nurses, Women's Relief corps, Daughters of Veterans, and others, it is understood had expected they would be permitted to ride in automobiles and carriages in the parade.

STOKES IS PROBABLE VICTOR

Leads Ex-Gov. Murphy of New Jersey in Race for U. S. Senate.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 15.—Whether Ex-Gov. Franklin Murphy or Ex-Gov. Edward C. Stokes was the popular choice for United States senator at Tuesday's primary election is still in doubt. The contest between the two was so close that with the belated returns it was impossible to say which had won. From latest returns received Stokes has about 3,000 lead.

Try This RICHMOND

Suds-Maker Free

You simply turn the faucet and the "RICHMOND" Suds-Maker delivers thick, hot suds. It does not in any way interfere with the hot water faucet and can be easily attached to it. It gives you instead, two faucets—one for clean, hot water—the other for thick, hot suds.

Think of the dozens of ways this ingenious device will cut down the work in the kitchen! Learn what it means to save hundreds of steps every day—to always have thick, creamy soap suds on tap. The "Richmond" Suds Maker gives you any quantity of soap and water thoroughly mixed in scientific proportion—it is always ready to meet your instant needs. It puts an end to the drudgery of dish washing—simply place dishes, silver, glassware under its creamy suds for an instant, then just rinse and wipe. It puts an instant, automatic end to waste, to unsightly soap dishes, to the nuisance of using up the odds and ends of soap. Use any kind of soap.

Just call on the plumber whose name appears below and ask to see the "RICHMOND" Suds-Maker. He will let you take one home to try. Use it ten days—then if you think you can spare it, return it, for the trial places you under no obligation to buy. This is your chance to learn about the greatest convenience, money and time saver you can install in your kitchen. Call today.

PANAMA CANAL TO BE FORTIFIED-U. S.

President Will Ask $2,000,000 Appropriation to Start Work.

TAFT LEAVES ON SHORT TRIP

Reciprocity Treaty Between the U. S. and Newfoundland Also Said to Be Contemplated—Naval Base on Guanatanamo Island.

Beverly, Sept. 19.—President Taft, in his coming message to congress will give prominence to a recommendation that at least $2,000,000 be appropriated for immediate use for beginning the fortification of the Panama canal. It became known that the president's economy plans do not contemplate any interference with the established naval policy of adding two battleships a year to the American fleet.

Mr. Taft believes that there ought to be no delay in this government's undertaking the fortification of the canad. He recommended an appropriation of $2,000,000 for this purpose at the last session, but it encountered some opposition in the house and was not passed.

Mr. Taft holds that the United States has ample power under her treaty rights to fortify the canal. In fact, the only way this government can "police and protect" the canal, in his opinion, is by fortifying it, and he proposes to exert his influence to accomplish this as soon as possible.

It was learned that the administration is thinking of establishing a strong naval base on Guantanamo Island, near Cuba. Secretary of the Navy Meyer will take a trip to Guanatanamo for the purpose of observing conditions there. It is the opinion of the navy experts that future wars in which this country may be engaged, if they ever come, will be fought out in the neighborhood of the Panama canal and it is in connection with this opinion that the secretary is looking toward Guanatanamo as affording a base for an American fleet.

Of almost equal interest, with the news of the president's attitude towards the canal, was the announcement of the likelihood of the negotiation of a reciprocity treaty between this country and Newfoundland. Charles Pepper, an American tariff expert, is in Newfoundland now investigating the tariff question with a view to opening of negotiations.

The president left here about 11 o'clock last night for Boston, where he took the midnight train for New Haven. Mr. Taft will leave New Haven at 3 o'clock this afternoon after attending a meeting of the Yale corporation. He will go to Cincinnati by way of Springfield, Albany and Buffalo.

The president's three day cabinet session at Washington will begin a week from today. It is said that the Ballinger case will not be taken up by the cabinet. The president regards the case as absolutely settled, as far as he is concerned, until the majority members of the congressional committee report. It is doubtful if the president would accept Ballinger's resignation now, even if it were offered.

TRACTION CARS IN COLLISION

Two Persons Killed and 13 Seriously Injured in Crash—Cars Wrecked.

West Union, Ind., Sept. 19.—In a collision near here Saturday night between two Union Traction cars, two persons were killed outright, and thirteen injured, some of them so seriously that they may die.

Cars on the road are accustomed to pass at this point, but the eastbound car did not take the siding and fifty yards from the switch came into collision with the westbound car. Both were running at high speed and were telescoped and the passengers caught in the wreckage.

PASTOR OFFERS TO SELL 2 CHILDREN

Advertises Sale and Appears but Is Nearly Mobbed.

LATER SAYS SALE WAS JOKE

Minister Was Subjected to Many Slurs From Audience When He Appeared in Pulpit to Preach Sermon Sunday Morning.

Pittsburg, Sept. 19.—There was near rioting at Circleville, Pa., near Irvin, Saturday evening when Rev. Thomas G. Boord, pastor of the Wylie Avenue Baptist church of Pittsburg, after advertising that he would sell two of his five children to the highest bidder, made an effort to auction the children off. The minister never got an apportunity to finish the sale as 1,000 people protested and the minister was nearly mobbed. Nor were matters better Sunday morning when Rev. Mr. Boord appeared in the pulpit, for he was subjected to many slurs from his congregation. The following circulars were passed about Circleville, which is the home of Rev. Boord:

"Auction tonight. The undersigned will sell at public auction his two children, as hereinafter described.

"One boy, 7 years old, fair complexion, weighs 45 pounds. Strong of body and mind. Has never been to school, but would make a competent newsboy and be able to earn good wages in three years. Will be great support in less than eight years. One girl, aged 10 years, dark complexion, weighs 53 pounds. Has had four years' schooling. Was youngest pupil in her class. Can execute any household duties, such as plain sewing and cooking, dish washing, etc. For a child's nurse cannot be excelled. Will be competent to keep ordinary house in six years' time.

"Sale to take place corner Third and Main streets at 7:30 tonight. Terms and conditions of sales and reasons for selling made known before sale begins. Purchaser must be good moral person."

At the appointed time Rev. Boord appeared with the two children and made explanation that he had five children and was not able to support them; that he wanted to sell two in order to keep the other three. Some persons in the crowd became abusive and Boord finally announced a postporement of the sale of the children.

Later Boord, who is a candidate for the legislature, declared it had been but a joke on his part; that he had intended to illustrate certain points with the children as examples, but the crowd took him seriously and made trouble.

DEMOCRATS VINDICTIVE

Party in Shively's Home County Refuse to Endorse J. W. Kern.

Action Grows Out of Contest in the Legislature in Which Shively Defeated Kern for Toga.

Indianapolis, Sept. 19. — Friends of John W. Kern, the Democratic nominee for United States senator, are greatly disturbed by the refusal of St. Joseph county, the home of Senator Shively, to indorse Kern in the convention that selected candidates for the legislature. A resolution pledging nominees to support Kern was voted down and it is charged that intimate friends of Shively led the opponents of the resolution and defeated it.

Kern and Shively have not been on speaking terms since Kern charged that Shively's nomination by the Democratic caucus two years ago was secured by the purchase of eight Democrats who were pledged to Kern. Kern's friends did not believe Shively would carry his enmity to the point of open opposition to Kern's election, and the action of the St. Joseph county Democrats came as a great shock to them.

CHICAGO PASSES 2 MILLION MARK

Final Figures Record Gain of 486,708, or 28.7 Per Cent.

POPULATION NOW IS 2,185,283

London, Paris and New York Are Big City's Only Leaders in Cities of the World—Many Contend Count Is Too "Low."

Chicago Sept. 19.—There are 2,185,283 of us. This is the verdict of Uncle Sam on the completion of his decennial count of every man, woman and child in Chicago.

This is 486,708 more than there were ten years ago, and 1,085,433 more than twenty years ago, an increase of almost 100 per cent in the twenty year period and of 27.7 per cent in the decade.

This momentous bulletin from the census bureau at Washington aroused at least fifty-seven varieties of emotions in the breasts of citizens of the city who were informed of it. Most of them were satisfied with the showing, expressing a growing interest in the improvement of the city, which has kept pace with its growth.

Among the circumstances cited as reasons why the city had not grown quite a half a million were:

Chicago has not increased one inch to area during the last ten years. The suburbs, composed of people who work in Chicago, are geographically and mentally, part of Chicago. They have grown tremendously. The bank clearings have increased far more than 28.7 per cent in the decade. The commerce of the city has doubled or more than doubled in the decade.

The rate of increase is greater than in the case of cities which rank third, fourth, and fifth in the country, these being Philadelphia, 19.7 per cent; Boston, 19.6 per cent; and St. Louis, 19.4 per cent. Chicago has left Philadelphia, the metropolis of the nation before there was any Chicago, 636,275 behind her. The two million mark has been passed.

Chicago is now either fourth of fifth among the great cities of the world, its rival being Berlin, which probably is smaller, its 1908 census giving it a population of 2,048,000. London, New York and Paris hold the first, second and third places.

The world has no parallel to the growth of a city from nothing to over two million within a century. Men are now living in Chicago who were counted in its first census, that of 1840, when it had 4,479 inhabitants.

The growth of the city in the last decade has been solid; no annexations but on the contrary a hugo emigration of city men to the surrounding suburbs; no boom times, but on the contrary a panic during the period; no great influx of impoverished immigrants from Atlantic liners.

Notwithstanding this the increase was as great as if during the ten years the fifteen largest cities in Illinois outside of Cook county had been annexed. The increase amounts to the combined population of Peoria, Springfield, Quincy East St. Louis, Belleville, Danville, Joliet, Decatur, Bloomington, Moline, Rock Island, Cairo, Rockford, Pontiac, Lincoln, and a few others.

City Statistician Francis A. Eastman and Robert C. Givins, president of the Three Million club, insisted that enormous numbers had been missed in the counting of noses, and submit many reasons to back up their views.

ALEXANDRA WANTS ANTHEM

Desire of the Queen Widow Causes Court Circles to Gasp.

London, Sept. 19.—Queen Alexandra threatens to become something of a royal problem. The latest rumor dealing with King Edward's widow has made even court circles gasp. She is credited with the desire to have a "secondary national anthem" exclusively her own, and as Alexandra is the sort of person who gets what she wants, Englishmen are already looking forward to the early publication of "God Save Queen Alexandra," as the song is to be called.

DEMOCRATS HOLD PRIMARY SEPT. 20

Mayor Gaynor Party's Choice to Head State Ticket.

HEARST OPPOSES N. Y. MAYOR

Independence League Gives Notice of Intention to Nominate Full State Ticket—Haven's Name Will Also Be Presented.

New York, Sept. 19.—For the Democratic state convention at Rochester, Sept. 29, the primaries are to be held in the up-state counties and cities on Tuesday, Sept. 20. There is only one notable contest, that in Oneida county.

There is also a contest in Ulster county between the friends of Alton B. Parker and Supreme Court Justice Betts, the latter desiring to control the delegates to the state convention for the reason that he is a candidate for associate justice of the court of appeals on the ticket to be named in Rochester, and does not wish to be dependent upon Judge Parker. Judge Parker has been the undisputed leader of the Democratic party of Ulster county for thirty years.

There is the greatest eagerness on the part of all Democrats from all parts of the state to know the real physical condition of Mayor Gaynor. In many counties of the state Mayor Gaynor appears to be the most popular candidate for the Democrats to nominate at Rochester. Mayor Gaynor, it is said, will, either before the convention assembles or while it is in session, make known his desires.

As it is many Democrats are speaking up for the nomination of Representative James S. Havens, of Rochester, who defeated George W. Aldridge in the special election for congress in the Monroe district last spring. The Monroe county Democrats are to present Mr. Havens to the convention as their candidate for governor.

Edward M. Sheppard, of Brooklyn, will have support and possibly there will be delegates there for Supreme Court Justice Gerard, Alton B. Parker, D. Cady Herrick, Representative William Sulzer and Thomas M. Osborne. Former Supreme Court Justice Charles Frank Brown is also being boomed.

There has been no active canvass made for delegates in support of any Democratic candidate for governor except Mayor Gaynor, Representative Sulzer and Mr. Osborne. A bureau was opened at Fishkill early in the year under the auspices of Maurice Minton and Mr. Minton's agents have visited nearly every county in the state and organized Gaynor clubs.

Mr. Sulzer has visited many counties in the state and has spoken in many of the cities in advocacy of his candidacy and he said that he had done this understanding Mayor Gaynor was not to be a candidate.

No Democrat in the regular organization connected with the league has the slightest idea what William R. Hearst will do on his arrival in this country Oct. 1. The Independence League, Hearst's organization, has filed notice at Albany that it will nominate a complete state ticket, candidates for associate judges of the court of appeals, supreme court justices, congressmen, senators and assemblymen. Hearst in his papers has practically advocated the nomination of Justice Gerard for governor by the regular Democratic state convention.

Mr. Heart is unalterably opposed to Gaynor for governor, and his recent cabled interviews from Europe have left the regular Democrats in the dark as to his connection or non-connection with Col. Roosevelt.

The GOOSE GIRL

By HAROLD MacGRATH

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs Merrill Company

which one sat down at Carmichael's elbow.

"Will you not join me, herr?" he invited.

"Thank you," said the vintner.

Gretchen took up the empty tankard and made off. Carmichael was first to speak.

"She is the handsomest peasant I ever saw or knew."

"You know her?" There was a spark in the vintner's eyes.

"Only for a few days. She interests me." Carmichael produced a pipe and lighted it.

"Ah, yes; the pretty peasant girl always interests you gentlemen." There was a note of bitterness. "Did you come here to seek her?"

"You seem to possess a peculiar interest."

The vintner flushed. "I have that right," with an air which rather mystified Carmichael.

"That explains everything. I do not recollect seeing you before in the Black Eagle."

"I am from the north; a vintner, and there is plenty of work here in the valleys late in September."

"The grape," mused Carmichael. "You will never learn how to press it as they do in France. It is wine there; it is vinegar this side of the Rhine."

"France," said the vintner moodily. "Do you think there will be any France in the future?"

Carmichael laughed. "France is an incurable cosmic malady; it will always be. It may be beaten, devastated, throttled, but it will not die."

"You are fond of France?"

"Very."

"Do you think it wise to say so here?"

"I am the American consul; nobody minds my opinions."

"The American consul," repeated the vintner.

Gretchen set the tankards down, and Carmichael put out a silver crown.

"And do not bother about the change."

"All Americans are rich," she said soberly.

The vintner laughed pleasantly.

CHAPTER III.

THE YOUNG VINTNER.

CARMICHAEL thirstily drank his first tankard, thinking: "So this vintner is in love with our goose girl? Confound my memory! I would give 20 crowns to know where I have seen him. A fine beer," he said aloud, holding up the second tankard.

The vintner raised his. There was an unconscious grace in the movement. A covert glance at his hand satisfied Carmichael in regard to one thing. He might be a vintner, but the hand was as soft and well kept as a woman's. Could a man with hands like these mean well toward Gretchen? Gretchen was both innocent and unworldly. To the right man she might be easy prey; never to a man like Colonel von Wallenstein, whose power and high office were alike sinister to any girl of the peasantry. But a man in the guise of her own class, of her own world and people, here was a snare Gretchen might not be able to foresee.

"Gretchen is beautiful enough to be a queen, and yet she is merely a Hebe in a tavern," remarked Carmichael.

"Hebe?" suspiciously.

"Hebe was a cup bearer to the mythological gods in olden times," Carmichael explained. He had set a trap, but the vintner had not fallen into it.

"A fairy story." The vintner nodded. He understood now.

Carmichael would lay another trap.

"What happened to her?"

"Oh," said Carmichael, "she spilled wine on a god one day, and they banished her."

"It must have been a rare vintage."

"I suppose you are familiar with all the valleys. Mosell?"

"Yes. That is a fine country."

The old man in tatters sat erect in his chair.

"You have served?"

"A little. If I could be an officer I should like the army." The vintner reached for his pipe, which lay on the table.

"Try this," urged Carmichael, offering his pouch.

"This will be good tobacco, I know." The vintner filled his pipe.

Carmichael followed this gift with many questions about wines and vintages, and hidden in these questions were a dozen clever traps. But the other walked over them unhesitant, with a certainty of step which chagrined the trapper.

By and by the vintner rose and bade his table companion a good night. He had not offered to buy anything. This frugality was purely of the thrifty peasant. But the vintner expressed many thanks. On his way to the door he stopped and whispered into Gretchen's ear.

The press in the room was thinning. A carter sauntered past and sat down unconcernedly at the table occupied by the old man, whose face Carmichael had not yet seen. A little later a butcher approached the same table and seated himself. It was then a dusty baker came along and repeated this procedure, and Carmichael's curiosity was enlivened. Undoubtedly they were Socialists, and this was a little conclave, and the peculiar manner of their meeting, the silence and mystery, were purely fictitional.

Had Carmichael not fallen a-dreaming over his pipe he would have seen the old man pass three slips of paper across the table. He would have seen the carter, the butcher and the baker pocket these slips stoidly. He would have seen the mountaineer wave his hand sharply and the trio rise and disperse. Carmichael left the Black Eagle, nursing the sunken ember in his pipe.

Intermediately the mountaineer paid his score and started for the stairs which led to the bedrooms above. But he stopped at the bar. A very old man was having a pail filled with hot cabbage soup. It was the ancient clock mender across the way. The mountaineer was startled out of his habitual reserve. The clock mender held the aspect of a weary, broken man. He shuffled noiselessly out. The mountaineer followed him cautiously. Once in his shop the clock mender poured the steaming soup into a bowl, broke bread in it and began his evening meal. The other, his face pressed against the dim pane, stared and stared.

"Gott in himmel! It is he!" he gasped chokingly.

Krumerweg was indeed a crooked way. It formed a dozen elbows and ragged half circles as it slunk off from the Adlergasse. It was half after 9 when Gretchen and the vintner picked their way over cobbles pitted here and there with mudholes. They were arm in arm.

"Only a little farther," said Gretchen, for the vintner had never before passed over this way.

"Long as it is and crooked, heaven knows it is short enough!" He encircled her with his arms and kissed her. "I love you! I love you!" he said.

Her bosom swelled, her heart throbbed, and she breathed in ecstasy the sweet chill air that rushed through the broken street.

"After the vintage," she said, giving his arm a pressure. For this handsome fellow was to be her husband when the vines were pruned and freshened against the coming winter.

"Aye, after the vintage," he echoed. But there was tragedy in his heart as deep and profound as his love.

"My grandmother—I call her that, for I haven't any grandmother—is old and seldom leaves the house. I promised that after work tonight I'd bring my man home and let her see how handsome he is. She is always saying that we need a man about, and yet I can do a man's work as well as the next one. I love you, too, Leo!" She pulled his hand to her lips and quickly kissed it, frightened but unashamed.

"Gretchen, Gretchen!"

She stopped. "What is it?" keenly. "There was pain in your voice."

"The thought of how I love you hurts me. There is nothing else, nothing, neither riches nor crowns, nothing but you, Gretchen."

They proceeded until they came to the end of their journey at No. 40 in the Krumerweg. It was a house of hanging gables, almost as old as the town itself.

Frau Schwarz, Gretchen's grandmother, owned the house. It was all that barricaded her from poverty's wolves, and, what with sundry taxes and repairs and tenants who paid infrequently, it was little enough.

Gretchen opened the door, which was unlocked. There was no light in the hall. She pressed her lover in her arms, kissed him lightly and pushed him into the living room. Gretchen ran forward, lighted two candles, then kissed the old woman seated in the one comfortable chair.

"Here I am, grandmother!"

"And who is with you?"

"My man!" cried Gretchen gayly.

"Bring him near me."

Gretchen gathered up two stools and placed them on either side of her grandmother and motioned to the vintner to sit down.

"Where are you from? You are not a Dreiberger," the old woman asked.

"From the north, grandmother."

"Your name."

"Leopold Dietrich, a vintner by trade."

"Give me your hand."

The vintner looked surprised for a moment. Gretchen approved. So he gave the old woman his left hand. The grandmother smoothed it out upon her own and bent her shrewd eyes. A frown began to gather on the vintner's brow and a sweat in his palm.

"I SEE RICHES."

"I see many strange things here," said the palmist in a brooding tone.

"What do you see?" asked Gretchen.

"I see very little of vineyards. I see riches. I see vast armies moving against each other; powder and fire; devastation. I do not see you, young man, among those who tramp with guns on their shoulders. You ride. There is gold on your arms. You will become great. But I do not understand."

"War!" he murmured.

Gretchen's heart sank.

"Shall I live?" asked the vintner.

"There is nothing here save death in old age, vintner." Her gnarled hand seized his in a vise. "Do you mean well by my girl?"

"Grandmother!" Gretchen remonstrated.

The vintner withdrew his hand slowly.

"Is this the hand of a liar and a cheat? Is it the hand of a dishonest man?"

"There is no dishonesty there, but there are lines I do not understand. It is like seeing people in a mist. They pass instantly and disappear. But I repeat, do you mean well by my girl?"

"Before God and his angels I love her; before all mankind I would gladly declare it. Gretchen shall never come to harm at these hands. I swear it."

"I believe you." The old woman's form relaxed its tenseness.

There was a sound outside. A carriage had stopped. Some one opened the door and began to climb the stairs.

"There is something strange going on up there," said Gretchen in a whisper.

"Three times a veiled lady has called at night on a sick lodger; three times a man muffled up so one could not see his face."

"Let us not question our 20 crowns rent, Gretchen," interrupted the grandmother. "So long as no one is disturbed, so long as the police are not brought to our door, it is not our affair."

The vintner picked up his hat, and Gretchen led him to the street.

He hurried away, giving no glance at the closed carriage, the sleepy driver, the weary horse. Nature never heed the man dressed as a carter who, when he saw the vintner, turned and followed. Finally when the vintner veered into the Adlergasse he stopped, his hands clinched, his teeth hard upon each other. He even leaned against the wall of a house, his face for the moment hidden in his arm.

"Wretch that I am! Damnable wretch! Krumerweg, Krumerweg! Crooked way, indeed!" He flung down his arm passionately. "There will be a God up yonder," looking at the stars. "He will see into my heart; know that it is not bad, only—Oh, Gretchen!"

"I DO NOT WISH ANY QUARREL, MY CAPTAIN."

"Gretchen?" The carter stepped into a shadow and waited.

Carmichael did not enjoy the opera that night. He had missed the first acts, and the last was grewsome, and the royal box was vacant. Outside he sat down on one of the benches near the fountains in the Platz.

He left the bench and strolled around the fountain, his cane behind his back, his chin in his collar.

"Just a moment, my studious friend," he was saluted.

"Wallenstein! I didn't see you." Carmichael halted.

"I'm absentminded," Carmichael admitted.

"Not always, my friend. Now, I do not believe that it was absentmindedness which made you step in between me and that pretty goose girl the other night."

"Ah!" Carmichael was all alertness.

"It was not, I believe?"

"It was coldly premeditated," said Carmichael, folding his arms over his cane, which he still held behind his back. "But that happens to be an innocent girl, colonel. You're no Herod. You really annoyed her."

"Pretense. They always begin that way. I do not wish any quarrel, my captain. But that girl's face has fascinated me. I propose to see her as often as I like."

"I have no objection to offer. But I told Gretchen that if any one, no matter who, ever offers her disrespect to report the matter to me at the consulate."

"Well, in case she is what you consider insulted what will you do?" a challenge in his tones.

"Report the matter to the police."

Wallenstein laughed.

"And if the girl finds no redress there," tranquilly, "to the chancellor."

The colonel laughed harshly and strode abruptly away.

Carmichael saw a carriage coming along. He recognized the white horse as it passed the lamps. He stood still for a space, undecided. Then he sped rapidly toward the side gates of the royal gardens. The vehicle stopped there. But this time no woman came out. Carmichael would have recognized that lank form anywhere. It was the chancellor. Well, what of it? Couldn't the chancellor go out in a common hack if he wanted to? But who was the lady in the veil? As soon as the chancellor disappeared Carmichael hailed the coachman and engaged him for a drive for 3 crowns.

Carmichael slid over to the forward seat and touched the jehu on the back.

"Where did you take the chancellor tonight?" he asked.

"Du liber Gott! Was that his excellency? He said he was the chief steward."

"So he is, my friend. I was only jesting. Where did you take him?"

"I took him to Krumerweg. He was there half an hour—No. 40."

"Where did you take the veiled lady?"

The coachman drew in suddenly. "Herr, are you from the police?"

"Thousand thunders, no! It was by accident that I stood near the gate when she got out. Who was she?"

"That is better. They both told me that they were giving charity. She went into No. 40. You won't forget an extra crown, herr?"

"No; I'll make it five. Turn back and leave me at the Grand hotel."

On the return to the hotel the station omnibus had arrived with a solitary guest.

"Your excellency," said the concierge, rubbing his hands, "a compatriot of yours arrived this evening."

"What name?" indifferently.

"He is Hans Grumbach of New York."

"An adopted compatriot, it would seem. He'll probably be over to the consulate tomorrow to have his passports looked into. Good night."

So Hans Grumbach passed out of his mind; but, for all that, fortune and opportunity were about to knock on Carmichael's door, for there was a great place in history ready for Hans Grumbach.

AMUSEMENTS.

Robt. Spaulding, known as "The Fighting Parson" is the leading character in W. F. Mann's production of the same title that comes to the Bradley Opera House on Friday, Sept. 23.

It's a pastoral comedy drama written by John A. Preston whose success as a playwright needs no introduction to the theatre going public. All the dramatic critics claim this to be Mr. Preston's best work and W. F. Mann, that successful proeucing manager of Chicago has mounted the piece with special settings and a cast second to none. It's a well told story of a young minister's struggle for right and success against so many odds but his faith in God is strong, never gets discouraged and has but one maxim "There is some good in all of us." His love scenes are tender and pathetic. His emotional scenes are strong and stern. This combination in a character makes it one to be admired. It's a great moral sermon with a strong heart interest. You laugh, you shed a tear and leave the theatre feeling that there is still good in this grand and glorious world and put your faith in God. Characters like "The Fighting Parson" cannot help but succeed, which of course, he does.

WOMAN AGAIN

Miss Ine McClary occupies that unique position of being the most expert midway manager in the world to day.

A queer business for a woman yet 5 years experience has built up a reputation second to none in the world.

The management of the State Fair has turned the entire midway over to Miss McClary, and she has been working on it several months. The result of her work will be judged during the Fair, and it is predicted that the public will come away with an exalted opinion of woman,s ability in this line of business, fake shows are abolished and high-toned ones substitutep, fun and jollity will be the leading feature of the State Fair midway, and Miss McClary will furnish the best in every particular.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

HELD IN ADRIAN ON FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 16

Delegates and a County Committee Named

A feature of the Democratic county convention held in Adrian on Friday was the announcement by Hon Jas. W. Helme that he will be a candidate and make the race for the state senate in this district against Fred B. Kline this fall if his name is placed on the ticket.

At the meeting of the connty committee directly after the convention, the two Lenawee members of the senatorial committee were appointed by the committee with instructions to secure the nomination of Mr. Helme for state senator. Dr. Treat and J. B. Allen were appointed, with George Eldredge as alternate.

MORNING SESSION.

Dr. D. L. Treat called the convention to order Friday a. m. and made a short speech to the delegates assembled, He called David Pontius of Dover to the chair and John C. Howell was made temporary secretary. James H. Baker made a motion that the usual committees on permanent organization and order of business, credentials and resolutions be appointed. Motion carried.

AFTERNOON SESSION

At the afternoon session the county committee was appointed as the wards and townships were called:

Tecumseh—Garland Gillesple.

On motion of Garland R. Gillesple of Tecumseh, the chairman of the county committe, who was to be selected later, was given power to fill vacancies from such townships as were not represented.

George H. Eldredge then reported on credentials.

Charles Humphrey reported on permanent organization and order of business.

R. I. Bonner reported for the committee on resolutions presenting the following:

"The Democrats of Lenawee county in a convention today, for the purpose of ratifying the nominations made by our party at the recent primary election, and appointing delegates to the state convention, a county chairman and committee, are unanimous and harmonious in sentiment and action.

"We hail as a good omen the election in Maine and the action of the people throughout the nation wherever they have asserted their will politically.

"We believe that all taxation should be based upon justice, and in our opinion a tonnage tax should be levied upon all iron and copper mined in the state of Michigan. The state of Michigan was at one time rich in timber, which has been appropriated by the lumber barons without tax or any proper return to the people. Our timber is now gone, our minerals are rapidly being depleted, and now the last asset of the state, the wonderful water power, is in great danger of being gobbled up by the interests. We favor the most stringent conservation of all our remaining resources and we ask our legislative candidates to boldly affirm this action if elected.

"We strongly favor the adoption of the 'Oregon law' by the state of Michigan. We believe it to be the best law in behalf of the people that has ever been adopted. This law includes the initiative, referendum and recall, and gives the people an absolute way of getting what they want.

"There never was a time when the people of the state of Michigan were so dissatisfied with the administration of public affairs as during the past four years. The treasury of the great state of Michigan bankrupt, the treasurer indicted for malfeasance in office and the banks refusing to pay the checks of the constituted authority. We cannot 'point with pride' to such conditions. We as citizens and Democrats of the rich and beautiful state feel deeply humiliated.

"We submit to the Democrats of Lenawee county for careful consideration the fact that there is no Democratic newspaper in Lenawee county. It is a weakness that we should overcome, and we believe it is the duty of every Democrat to give his hearty support and encouragement to any movement that will insure the establishment of such a paper.

"We heartily indorse our candidate, Lawton T. Hemans, for governor and our candidates for legislature and county offices. We call upon all good citizens to rally to our standard this year and thereby establish a new and purer order of things politically."

The report of the committee on resolutions was accepted by a rising vote, and the next business was the appointment of a county chairman. Chas. Humphrey named R. I. Bonner for the position and though the latter declined at first, he was prevailed upon to accept and his name was unanimously carried as the choice of the convention.

DELEGATES TO STATE CONVENTION

Franklin—Dr. Rice.

Macon—Geo. Scarlett.

Raisin—Geo. Holloway.

Ridgeway—Lavern Gripton.

Tecumseh—Garland Gillespie.

R. I. Bonner then made a motion that the Democratic party makr preparations for a Democratic banquet to be held this winter. This suggestion was received with hearty applause and the motion was carried unanimously.

Mr. Treat then took the floor and made a short speech explaining his desire to withdraw from the senatorial race. He stated that he was unable to enter the campaign on account of his business and professional work. He stated that he desired to give up his position on the ticket to Mr. Helme, as Monroe county has no candidate.

Mr. Helme took the floor and stated that he has always been a member of ehe Democratic party and has worked hard for the cause of Democracy in this county and state.

Justice Humphrey read a vote of thanks to Dr. Teeat for his services as chairman of the county committee, and expression of regret that he cannot serve as state senator. This was adopted.

L. S. Mann and J. C. Howell, two of the Democratic candidates, then made short speeches to the convention, stating their position in their campaign.

After some discussion as to the banquet which was provided for by Mr. Bonner's motion, the convention adjourned.

SOCIAL

20TH ANNIVERSARY

About 25 of the relatives of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Spaulding were invited to take dinner with them on Saturday September, 17. This was the 20th anniversary of their wedding day, but they did not make this fact known, but the brothers and sisters did not forget the occasion and remembered them with a fine couch.

Mr. Spauldings father who is in his 80th year was an honored guest. A three course dinner was served to which every one did ample justice. Music and song and a general good time was enjoyed by all.

Mr. Spalding being of a poetic mind as well as a practical farmer composed the following verses while working in the field which was read at the dinner table, and they explained the occasion most clearly.

Once on a cold September morn,
A wee bit of a baby girl was born,
In an old log cabin in Franklin town,
Which long since then has tumbled down.
This wee bit of a baby with proper care,
Soon developed into a maiden fair
All went well, until one day,
A red headed book agent came that way,
Did he sell her a book with covers red?
He told this little maiden instead,
He offered himself to her that day,
She jumped at the chance without delay,
September 17 was the day that she chose
To puff up her hair and dunn her best clothes,
To join hands for life with this red headed jay,
Who promised he'd meet her that very day.
20 years have quickly sped away,
Since that most plearant wedding day
That day to me is prized most dear
Friends that is why I've asked you here
To help us in our feeble way,
To celebrate our wedding day.

DINNER PARTY

Mrs. Mae Keyser delightfully entertained a company of ladies at her home at dinner last Friday. Her guests were Mrs. Albert Reason, Mrs. John Freeman, Mrs. Abner Wilson, Mrs. Andrew Wilson and Dr. Pauline Bredow.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Waldron delightfully entertained about 42 of their neighbors at their cottage at Wamplers lake last Saturday. Feasting and fun were indulged in, boating, fishing and ducking, this last was the stunt of Will himself. He must have one baptist foot for he evidently beleives in immersion. Needless to say the crowd had a jolly time and left for their homes at a late hour, pronouncing their host and hostess the best ever.

PRANAYAMA.

A well known lady here was such a physical and nervous wreck for years that she could not walk across the room alone. Saturday she had to be assisted into the Hudson House for treatment from Prof. Johann von Oberstolz, the Adriah pranayama, whose marvelous cure without the aid of medicine, rubbing, trouble or lies, is the talk of the entire county. Yesterday, only four days latea, the patient walked into the Hudson House and even up and down stairs unaided, to the great astonishment and admiration of all present. Only a day previous two physicians pronounced her case beyond human aid. Is it surprising that so many patients call upon Prof Prof. von Oberstolz, that it is no uncommon thing for him to turn many away being unable to treat all who call? He tells your disease and where located in two minutes, without touching or asking a single question, or will forfeit $100.—Hudson Gazette. At Coller House, Tecumseh, every Monday and Thursday. Pump Soup.

"What makes this vegetable soup taste so different?" asked the young husband.

"Only the leeks you sent home," replied the bride. "You remember you said you were going to order leeks."

"I didn't order any leeks," growled the husband, but he finished his bowl of soup rather than disappoint her.

That afternoon he stopped at the grocery store.

"How did you come to send leeks up to my house this morning?" he demanded. "I didn't order them."

"Great Scott! Did you eat them."

"O, for land's sake. They were Mrs. Jackson's tulip bulbs. She left them on the counter and they got into your basket by mistake."—Detroit Free Press.

Sympathize with any woman because of her hard work in raising a family, and her husband will look injured. Doesn't he Pay the Bills?

Surround a mule with a hundred bushels of oats and he will eat just enough and no more. Isn't it too bad that man hasn't that much sense?

CHILDREN'S SAYINGS.

"When I grow up," said a six-year-old child, "shant I feel strange for a day or two?"

Little Johnny witnessed a military drill. One of the officers rode a horse which was very unruly, and in some of his antics nearly threw his rider, whereupon little Johny exclaimed excitedly, "Mamma, mamma, Mr. Fissel's horse don't fit him!"

A little boy, four and a half years old, was taken to the shoemaker's shop to get his boots half-soled. He watched the shoemaker very closely while he was fitting the last, and finally said: "I am afraid it will be hard to find one the right age for my boots."

She Almost Remembered.

Little Josephine, aged four, was intently studying the pictures in a book and seemed very much interested in a picture of Charles Dickens.

Taking the book to her mother she inquired who it was.

"That is Dickens, dear," said her mother.

The picture was wonderfully fascinating to the little girl and when her big sister came from college in the evening she ran and got the book, turned to the picture and said:

"Sister, see! This is a picture of Mr. Darn"

Her sister replied, "No, dear, that is Mr. Dickens."

"Well," said Josephine, "I knew it was some kind of a swear-word."—The Delineator.

Constipation Cure Free

With the first signs of constipation you resort to the home methods of relief, such as hot or cold water on arising, lots of stewed fruit with your breakfast, etc., but what do you do when these fail?

The majority then start on salts and purgative waters, then change to cathartic pills, etc. If you have gone through these various stages you know they were all useless, so far as permanent results go. Now you should try just once again, but try something practical and sensible, a remedy made and intended for the purpose you are trying to accomplish. Such a remedy, as thousands can testify, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is guaranteed to be permanent in its results. Its ingredients are such that by a brief use of it the stomach and bowel muscles are trained to again do their work normally, so that in the end you can do away with medicines of all kinds. That it will do this Mr. G. V. Dodson of Danville, Va., will gladly attest, and so will Mrs. S. A. Hampton of Portage, O.

To those who are still skeptical there is a way to prove these assertions without a penny of expense: Simply send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell and obtain a free sample bottle. After using it, if you are then convinced it is the remedy you need, buy a fifty-cent or one dollar bottle of your druggist and continue to use it for a brief time until cured. The directions are simple and the dose is small. It is pleasant to the taste, does not gripe and is promptly effective, and these statements are guaranteed or money will be refunded.

This remedy is over a quarter of a century old and is personally taken by more druggists than any other similar remedy on the American market. Because of its effectiveness, purity and pleasant taste it is the ideal laxative remedy for children, women and old folks generally.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 1,500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

MACON

A farewell reception was given the Rev. J. D. Halliday and wife, at the home of S. E. Canklin last Thursday afternoon. The house was crowded with friends who wished to show their love and good will to the pastor who had served them so faithfully for the past four year. Supper was served by the ladies of the church, after which Goldsmith's "The Village Preacher" was read as a fit description of our pastor. A purse of silver was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Halliday as a parting gift. Mr. Halliday expressed his thanks and his warm friendship for the Macon peole. A touching prayer was offered and in closing all were requested to join in singing, "Blest be the Tie that Binds."

According to the investigation of the United States geological survey, Virginia was the pioneer coal producing state. The occurrence of coal was known in the Richmond basin as early as 1700, and in 1789 shipments were made to some of the northern states. In 1882, according to R. C. Taylor, the production amounted to 48,214 gross tons. The first coal was taken from what is usually termed the Richmond basin, a small area in the south-eastern portion of Virginia, near the city of Richmond. This basin is situated on the eastern margin of the Piedmont plateau, 13 miles above tidewater, on James river. It lies in Goochland, Henrico, Powhatan and Chesterfield counties. The coal beds are much distorted and the coal is of rather low grade when compared with that from other districts with which it has to come into competition. This coal is now mined only for local consumption

A TREASURE SHIP.

How the Centurion Captured a Gold-Laden Spanish Vessel.

Of the many incidents of Anson's great voyage round the world in the middle of the eighteenth century, none has made a greater impression on the popular mind than the capture of the great treasure ship Nuestra Senora de Cabadonga, on April 20, 1743. In the first place, the value of the prize was enormous; in the second, the duel between the Centurion and treasure ship was a fine single-ship action; and in the third place, the victory came at a time when Anson's fortunes seemed to be at a low ebb, when one disaster after another had reduced his squadron to one ship, and when sickness had reduced his gun's crews to two men each.

The Nuestra Senora de Cabadonga, or as it is also called, de Covadonga, was a treasure ship from Manila, commanded by Don Geronimo Montero, and laden with specie and merchandise. She was sighted at sunrise from the masthead of the Centurion, and Master Richard Walter, Anson's chaplain and historian, tells us that "a general joy spread through the whole ship." Galleons nearly always cruised in couples, and it was supposed another must be near. The Centurion at once stood toward the Spaniard, and before 8 o'clock her officers could see the enemy from the deck. The firing of a gun by the galleon was taken by Anson's men to be a consort to make haste and rejoin, and "to amuse the Dons" the Centurion herself fired a gun to leeward. But Don Geronimo Montero had no consort, nor did he underrate the prowess of his opponent. The Spaniards know they were face to face with Anson and the Centurion, and they were keen to fight. Throughout the forenoon the two ships crept closer and closer together, till by midday only a league separated them. Then the Nuestra Senora de Cabadonga brought to under topsails, with her head to the northward, and at the top-gallant masthead the standard of Spain was flying.

Anson was not slow to accept the challenge, and he laid his plans with great for sight. Into the tops he sent 30 picked men, the best small arms marksmen in the ship. His broadside guns were manned only with two men each, and to them he gave instructions to do nothing but load their gun. The rest of the men were divided into gangs of 12, with orders to move up and down the battery for the sole purpose of running out and firing the guns as they were loaded. It was an unconventional way of fighting; continuous independent fire was the last thing the Spaniards expected, and it threw them into as much confusion as the disaster which overtook them within a few minutes of the opening of the fight. A mass of mats and hammocks in the netting of the galleon caught fire, burning fiercely and blazing up nearly as high as the mizzen top. The two ships were practically within pistol shot, and it was probably some gunwads from the Centurion which started the blaze. To free themselves from the danger was no light task, and it took the Spaniards some time to cut the nettings away and tumble the flaming mass overboard, and in the meanwhile Anson's marksmen in the tops were subjecting the galleon's upper decks to an incessant fusillade. Walter describes the effect as "prodigious havoc," and adds that the marksmen succeeded in "killing or wounding every officer but one that appeared on the quarter deck, and wounding in particular the general of the galleon himself."

The fight raged in for two hours, Anson changing from round shoot to grape in the second part of the engagement with deadly effect. The ships were so near that some of the Spanish officers were seen running about with much assiduity to prevent the desertion of their men from their quarters, but all their endeavors were in vain. After having as a last effort fired five or six guns "with more judgment than usual," they yielded up the contest; and the galleon's colors being burned off the ensign staff at the beginning of the engagement, she struck the standard at her main top-gallant masthead. The Centurion did not escape undamaged; at the moment the galleon struck Anson was informed quietly that his ship was on fire near the powder room. He received the news with apparent emotion, and taking care not to alarm his people, gave the necessary orders for extinguishing the fire.

The specie in the Nuestra Senora de Cabadonga included 1,312,843 pieces of eight, and 35,682 ounces of virgin silver, and the total value of the prize was assessed at £ 13,000. And in this connection it is interesting to note that two other Spanish treasure ships captured by English commanders bore names similar to that of Anson's prize. There was the Nuestra Senora del Rosarian, which Drake took, "and in it great booty," from that most haughty of Spanish seamen, Don Pedro los Remedios, which was taken very richly laden by the Royal Family privateer off Cape St. Mary's three years after Anson's great capture.—London Globe.

The man without a purpose is like the Virtues of the Dog.

The dog is a noble animal, compared with man, because he never borrows your money to spend on midnight suppers for chorus girls, and because if he did he would pay you back, instead of black-guarding you to your friends for a skinflint.—New York Press

A little boy came to this sentence in his reading lesson: "There is a worm; do not tread on him." He read it thus, to his teacher's great surprise: "There is a warm doughnut; tread on him."

Catching Him Right.

A story is told of a Frenchman who was very anxious to see an American business man at his home. The first morning when he called at the house the maid replied to his query, "The master is not down yet," meaning downstairs. The following morning he called again and was met with "The master is not up yet," that he had not yet arisen from his bed. The Frenchman looked at her with doubtful eye, paused for a few seconds and said: "Eet ees veery deeficult, but eef ze master will be neither up nor down, but in ze middle, zen I vill call zat time."

Possible Explanation.

"It is said," remarked the reader, "that intellectual women seldom make good mothers. I wonder why?"

"That's easy," replied the home-grown philosopher. "They don't often get a chance."

ENGINEER COOKED ALIVE

Seriously Scalded While Working in One of Plant's Boilers.

Hartford City Man Will Probably Die of Injuries Caused by Fireman Turning on the Steam.

Hartford City, Ind., Sept. 19.—Engineer Albert Roush, of the Hartford City Lighting company's plant, was literally cooked from head to foot in the boiler at the plant. He is still alive, but his injuries are believed to be fatal. Roush had spent the greater part of the day inside the boiler and resumed work after dinner.

John Werner, the fireman, forgetting about him, turned on the 150-pound steam pressure a few minutes later and was horror stricken to see Roush tumbled out of the opening, cooked from head to foot, bleeding and exhausted. He is a mass of burns and suffering tortures. Werner is almost distracted over his absent-mindedness and its probably fatal result.

BALLOONS RACERS SIGHTED

Three Gas Bags In Aerial Contest Passed Over Pittsburg Sunday.

Pittsburg, Sept. 19.—Three of the balloons which started in the contest for the aerial championship, from the Indianapolis Speedway on Saturday, passed over Pittsburg about noon on Sunday, heading for the Allegheny mountains. After reaching McKeesport, they ran into an aerial eddy, formed by wind currents.

The balloons went round and round in the invisible whirlpool for a long time. Then the pilots shot their gas bags straight up out of the eddy and all proceeded on their way toward the east. Each ballon was too high to identify, even with powerful glasses. They were soon lost to sight.

BIG STRIKE IN PROSPECT

English and Welsh Coal Miners Involved With Operators.

About 12,000 English Miners Will Strike and 200,000 Welsh Miners May Be Locked Out.

London, Sept. 19.—The Cambria colliery men at a mass meeting here decided to strike. Twelve thousand men will quit work today. The result will probably be that the Welch Coal Mine Owners' association will lock out 200,000 Welch miners.

The miners will strike without giving the legal notice, which will render them unable to draw strike pay from their union. The strike will also be in defiance of a decision reached at a conference at Cardiff, Wales, which was attended by delegates representing the entire Welch coal field. The delegates favored a general stoppage of work in sympathy with the men of the Cambrian field, but the leaders urged the gravity of such a step. Then the delegates agreed that a ballot of all the men should be taken before a strike notice was served on the owners. The Cambrian miners refused. This action, it is feared, will provoke the owners to a general lockout.

Japan's Greatest Asset.

But the basic answer to the question, "How does Japan manage to pay her bills?" can hardly be found in the statistical table of her financial annual. The greatest asset of our empire is sentimental. Great as our western friends may see this fact clearly, permit me to put it in the following manner: Let the government of the United States go to Mr. Smith in Chicago, and Mr. Brown in Wall street, and say to them, "You are receiving $100,000 a year income, and we want you to give to the support of the government in one form or another $30,000 a year of your income." Let the German government or the British go to their people and say the same thing. What would happen? A first-class revolution on the spot.

The people of Japan are performing the financial miracle of giving up about 30 per cent of their net income every day, without saying a word about it. In other words, the greatest asset of the Japanese empire of today is the patriotism of her people. Within 25 years, perhaps, at the rate of conquest western commercialism and the doctrine of individual rights are making among our people, we shall be as civilized as any other so-called Christian nation. As yet, however, the state to the imagination of the people of Japan is greater than all the gods. The glorification of the state is the Mecca of all our dreams. We take very seriously all matter connected with the state; so seriously indeed, that we have no sense of humor about them. That is the reason why we caricature all of our eight million gods in the pleasantest of moods in the world, but would not for a moment permit any one to caricature his majesty the emperor. This too is the reason why we have no graft in our government finance. And that saves a lot of money for our treasury.—Adachi Kinnosuke in Review of Reviews.

DETROIT TUNNEL IS OPEN

Michigan Central's Big Bore to Windsor in Commission.

Heavily Loaded Freight Trains Are Drawn Through the Tunnel by Electric Motors.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 19.—Establishment of a regular freight service through the double-barreled Michigan Central railroad tunnel under the Detroit river between Detroit and Windsor, Ont., marked the beginning of the end of the road's car ferries, one of the picturesque marine features of the two cities.

Several preliminary rounds were first made through the tunnel by heavily loaded freight trains drawn by electric locomotives in preparation for the new schedule.

Passenger service under the river will be established as soon as the engineers become conversant with the handling of the motors on the tunnel grades. The $15,000,000 tunnel work will be augmented by the complete electrification of the Detroit terminals.

RANCHMAN ROUTS 3 BEARS

Jesse Slaughter Has Unique Experience in Mountain Cattle Camp.

Basin, Wyo., Sept. 19.—While Jesse Slaughter, a young ranchman, was cooking supper at his cattle camp in the mountains, three bears suddenly rushed out of the brush and charged him. He stunned one with a rock and with his pocket knife managed to reach its heart and fell it before the second bear reached him.

Number two rose up and struck at him. He held out the knife and slashed the bear's paw so badly that it turned and ran, followed by the third bear.

PILOTS BOAT THROUGH RAPIDS

Capt. Klaus Larsen Makes Thrilling Voyage in Safety.

Niagara Falls, Sept. 19.—Capt. Klaus Larsen has demonstrated that a motor boat can safely pass through the whirlpool rapids and whirlpool, but his little launch, the Ferro, came to grief between the whirlpool and Lewiston.

The engine did not work, and she drifted into an eddy near Nigara university and the boat was pulled ashore. Larson was helped out and after being placed aboard an electric car was taken to Lewiston. There he was congratulated by many for his daring voyage through the gorge in a launch eighteen feet long and five feet beam.

MANY DIE AT BULL FIGHT

Grandstand Collapses, Carrying Scores Down to Death.

Scene One of Great Confusion—Uninjured Start Work of Rescue Aided by the Spanish Soldiers.

Madrid, Sept. 22. — During a bull fight at Mejorada the grandstand collapsed, burying hundreds of occupants, and it is feared a score or more have been killed. The scene is one of terrible confusion. The body of one man and several other persons badly injured were removed immediately and the work of rescue is now going on.

The rending of the timbers gave warning and while the mighty structure sagged men, women and children arose from their seats and with screams of fear attempted to fight their way through the exits. Many were badly wounded by being trampled upon before the building completely toppled.

SOUGHT MIKADO'S LIFE

Discovery of Plot to Slay the Emperor of Japan.

Would-Be Assassins Are Under Arrest and Will Be Put to Death After Trial.

Tokio, Japan, Sept. 22.—A sensation was created by the publication of alleged details of a plot among his own subjects to assassinate Emperor Mutsuhito.

The startling story appeared in the Hochi Shimbun, which says the plotters, who are under arrest, will be put to death after trials before a special secret court.

This is the first time in the history of the country that the life of the sovereign has been plotted against by his own people and the fact made known.

MOSQUITOES HOLD A TRAIN

Invade Engine Cab in Such Numbers as to Drive Crew Out of It.

Granite City, Ill., Sept. 22. — Mosquitoes stalled a freight train for more than three hours, the crew having been driven from the cab by the insects. Not until bonfires were lighted on either side of the track did the engineer and fireman climb into the cab and take the freight to the yards.

George Shelton, engineer and Thomas McLean, fireman, were both badly bitten and their faces were swollen to considerable more than normal size.

McKinley Renominated.

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 22.—Following in address by Thomas Watson of Indiana, Congressman W. B. McKinley was renominated at the Republican congressional convention of the Nineteenth district held at Weldon Springs.

SUICIDE CAUSES LAW SUIT

Chadderton Sues Holzfoester for Alienation of Wife's Affections.

Cincinnati, Sept. 22.—In a suit filed in the Kenton county, Kentucky, circuit court against Henry Holzfoester, of West Covington, the woman committed suicide when she became stricken with remorse.

The suit was filed by William Chadderton, the woman's husband, and asks for $25,000 damages. Mrs. Chadderton ended her life three months ago by taking paris green.

Minnesota Congressman Is Defeated in Race for Congress.

Winona Statesman Issues Statement in Which He Defends Position—Has Been Member of Congress Eighteen Years.

DUKE WEDS A MICHIGAN GIRL

St. Paul, Sept. 22.—The majority against James A. Tawney, "stand-pat" chairman of the appropriations committee in the national house, and a stanch ally of Speaker Cannon, is estimated at over 3,000.

Late returns from the primaries confirm the defeat of the Winona representative for renomination and show that his seat will go to Sidney Anderson of Lanesboro if the Republicans carry the district in the fall elections.

F. E. Gaiteide, a member of Tawney's campaign committee, admits the nomination of Anderson by a majority of 2,000 to 2,500.

First District—Sydney Anderson, 3,000; Second, A. B. Ward, 600 to 1,000; Fourth, Fred C. Stevens, 1,300; Fifth, Frank M. Nye, 1,300; Sixth, C. A. Lindbergh, about 8 to 1; Eighth, Clarence B. Miller, about 2 to 1; Ninth, Halvor Steenerson, about 2 to 1.

Insurgency, rampant in Minnesota at the primaries, could not defeat Fred C. Stevens in his campaign for renomination for congress in the Fourth district. It did, however, cut his majority to the lowest figure on record, and gave Hugh T. Halbert, progressive, more than 6,000 votes. It compassed the downfall of the most radical standpatter in the state, James A. Tawney, of the First district, and nominated a practically unknown man, Sydney Anderson, of Lanesboro, for congress, in place of the man who had served eighteen years in the house.

Speaking in Winona, Congressman Tawney said: "The cause of my defeat may be summed up in one sentence—the use of a man's personal popularity to give a color of truth to misrepresentations. The measure which Mr. Roosevelt attacked in his speech at the conservation congress in St. Paul was one that was designed to prevent the improper use of the public money and was passed by both houses of congress. I believe my course in regard to it was right, and I had rather be beaten for doing right than win a victory based on misrepresentation."

MAN MISTAKEN FOR DEER

Clifford Judd Shoots Brother-in-Law While Out Hunting.

Accident Occurs in Adirondack Mountains Where Underbrush Was Thick—Slayer Prostrated.

Utica, N. Y., Sept. 22.—Clifford Judd shot and killed his brother-in-law, Theron Plumb, near Tupper lake, in the Adirondacks, mistaking him for a deer. They were hunting in the country where the brush was thick, and a short time after they had separated Judd heard a threshing sound.

Suddenly a dull brownish spot showed through the bush. Judd raised his rifle and fired. The object fell, but to make sure of his game Judd pumped two more shots at it. He forced his way through the undergrowth, only to find that instead of a deer he had shot his brother-in-law. The shock of the discovery completely unnerved Judd. The first shot had struck his brother-in-law in the back, the bullet passing out the left side of his chest above the heart. The other two shots failed to take effect. Judd summoned help, and when a physician examined the body, he announced that Plumb had been killed

Winthers, Warren; Oscar Zimmer, Bluffton.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Sept. 22.—Thirty-nine persons were killed and twenty or more fatally injured in the most disastrous traction car wreck that has marked interurban traffic since the system was established when a south bound limited and a northbound local car on the Wabash Valley line collided near Kingsland, north of this city. The accident occurred on a short curve and many of the bodies were so mangled that identification is rendered slow, if not in some cases impossible.

Hardly any of the passengers in the two cars escaped injury, but the less seriously hurt gave what assistance they could, and in a few moments twenty-five bodies, horribly mutilated, were carried to the road side and laid along the track. Others were so pinioned in the debris that they could not be reached until wrecking crews arrived upon the scene. The northbound car was loaded with people coming to the county fair here, and among them were many women and children.

What led to the accident is not known, but it is supposed that there was a misunderstanding of orders. The car carrying the people to the fair was an extra, and it is believed that its position on the road was not definitely known and the limited, running on its own time, was not apprised of its approach. The curve where the wreck occurred is one of the shortest on the Wabash Valley line, and there was only an instant after the local car was sighted before the crash came. Even the motormen on the two cars had not time to jump.

The scenes following the wreck were peculiarly pathetic, as mothers and fathers saw the mangled forms of their children taken from the wreckage and a husband saw a wife, or a wife saw a husband taken out so mangled that identification could be made only from the clothing. Physicians and nurses were rushed to the scene of the wreck from this city and other places on the line and many of the injured are now in hospitals. Some of them died before medical attention could be given and two died while being conveyed to hospitals.

That the cars were running at a very fast rate is demonstrated by a view of the wrecked cars after they had run into each other, the iron and wood of one could not be distinguished from the other, so tangled was the mass and in this was a struggling, shrieking mass of humanity, praying, calling for help and pleading for relief from their misery.

There were four men in charge of the two cars—two conductors and two motormen—and of these, three are dead and the fourth badly injured. Thirty-six of the dead were identified, mostly by the clothing they wore and letters and papers found on their persons, but three who were killed outright have not been identified, and one dying on the way to the hospital, is unknown.

Owing to the delay in attending the injured, or the inability in such a great number to get around to all of them, several died from loss of blood, which could have been prevented had the survivors not been so greatly appalled as to be incapable of rendering assistance.

Of the thirty-six identified dead, eighteen were from Bluffton and many of them were among the most wealthy class. They were going to see the races at the Fort Wayne fair and just as the two cars met many of them were singing comic songs and cracking jokes. There were a number of young people in the northbound car, and they had been in a specially hilarious mood from the time the car left Bluffton.

There were two physicians on the cars at the time of the wreck. One of them escaped serious injury and, with the other, who had himself been painfully hurt, rendered first aid to those who survived the shock of the collision. Relief cars were hurried from this city and physicians went from Bluffton in autos. Many of the dead already had been removed from the debris of the cars and the grewsome work of taking out the mangled bodies of those in the farther recesses of the wreckage was begun by the company's wrecking crews.

One of the survivors says that both cars were tearing along at full speed when they came within sight of each other on the curve, and there was no time to check their onward plunge. They came together with a splintering crash and then arose shrieks of those who were not killed in the impact. Help from the nearby residents was rendered to such as could be removed from the wreckage, but it seemed a long time until skillful ministrations of surgeons, equipped for emergencies, was provided.

When a relief car arrived at Kingsland, the physicians found more work for the coroner and undertakers than for themselves. The dead and dying were lying in the fields and woods nearby and little could be done for most of the injured, as they seemed to be beyond medical aid. The wood and iron work of the cars were in a tangled mass and the bodies of some of the victims were twisted and mangled out of recognition.

Owing to the confusion, the identification of the dead was not rapid. The fact that so many of the cars' occupants were dead, and so many others seriously hurt, placed a great handicap on the efforts to identify those who had been killed. Few in the cars escaped death or injury and those in their dazed state at first could render little aid in determining who the dead were.

It is impossible to say how many of the twenty seriously injured will die, but physicians hold out hope for several of them.

CHAPTER IV.

AT THE BLACK EAGLE.

HANS GRUMBACH was standing on the curb in front of the Grand hotel, his back to the sun. It was 9 o'clock. Hans was short, but strongly built—a mild, blue eyed German, smooth faced, ruddy cheeked, white haired, with a brown button of a nose.

Presently two police officers came along and went into the hotel. Grumbach turned with a sigh and followed them. Doubtless they had come to look over his passports. And this happened to be the case.

The senior officer unfolded the precious document:

"It is not yet vised by your consul," said the officer.

"I arrived late last night. I shall see him this morning," replied Grumbach.

"You were not born in America?"

"Oh, no; I came from Bavaria when twenty."

"Did you go to America with your parents?"

"No; I was alone."

"What is your business in America?"

"I am a plumber, now retired."

"You are forty?" said the officer, referring to the passports.

"Yes."

"As soon as these are approved by his excellency the American consul kindly have a porter bring them over to the bureau of police. It will be only a matter of form. I shall return them at once."

Grumbach produced a Louis Napoleon, which was then, as now, acceptable that side of the Rhine.

"Drink a bottle, you and your comrade," he said.

This the officer promised to do forthwith and, followed by his assistant walked off briskly.

Grumbach took off his derby and wiped the perspiration from his forehead.

Coming up the thoroughfare with a dash of spirit and color was a small troop of horses. Grumbach watched them till they disappeared into the palace courtyard. He called to the waiter.

"Who are they?"

"The grand duke and some of his staff, herr."

"The grand duke? Who was the gentleman in civilian clothes?"

"That was his excellency Herr Carmichael, the American consul."

"Very good. And the young lady?"

"Her serene highness the Princess Hildegarde."

"Bring me a glass of beer," said Grumbach, sinking down at a table.

"HER SERENE HIGHNESS THE PRINCESS HILDEGARDE."

When the waiter returned he said, "Where does Herr Carmichael live?"

"The consulate is in the Adlergasse. He himself lives here at the Grand hotel."

So Herr Carmichael lived here. That would be convenient. Grumbach decided to wait for him. The American consul later came along with energetic stride. Grumbach rose and caught Carmichael by the arm.

"Your pardon, sir, but you are Mr. Carmichael, the American consul?"

"I am."

"Will you kindly look over my papers?" Grumbach asked.

"You are from the United States?" Then Carmichael remembered that this must be the compatriot who arrived the night before. "I shall be very glad to see you in the Adlergasse at half after 10. Any one will show you the way. I cannot transact my business in these dusty clothes. Good morning."

Grumbach liked the consul's smile. More than that, he recognized instantly that this handsome young man was a gentleman.

He had more than an hour to idle away, so he wandered through the park, admiring the freshness of the green, the well kept flower beds, the crisp hedges and the clean graveled paths. Nothing had changed in Dreiberg save the Konigstrasse, whose cobbles had been replaced by smooth blocks of wood. At times he sent swift but uncertain glances toward the palaces. He longed to peer through the great iron fence, but he smothered this desire. He would find out what he wanted to know when he met Carmichael at the consulate. Here the bell in the cathedral struck the tenth hour. Not a semitone had this voice of bronze changed in all these years. It was good to be here in Dreiberg again.

He had put out his first protest against the world in the Adlergasse forty years since. He came to a stand before the old tavern. Not even the sign had been painted anew. He noted the dingy consulate sign, then started up the dark and narrow stairs. The consulate door stood open. A clerk, native to Ehrenstein, was writing at a table. At a desk by the window sat Carmichael deep in a volume of Dumas.

"Mr. Carmichael?" said Grumbach in English.

The clerk indicated with his pen toward the individual by the window. Carmichael read on. Grumbach went boldly over and seated himself in the chair at the side of the desk.

"I am Mr. Grumbach. I spoke to you this morning about my passports. Will you kindly look them over?"

Carmichael took the papers, frowning slightly. The consul went over the papers.

"You will have no trouble going about with those," Carmichael said listlessly. "Is there anything I can do for you?"

"There is only one thing," answered Grumbach. "It will be a great favor."

"What do you wish?"

"An invitation to the military ball at the palace after the maneuvers," quietly.

Carmichael sat up.

"I am afraid you are asking something impossible for me to obtain," coldly.

"Ah, Mr. Carmichael, it is very important that I should be there. I can give you no explanations. I wish to attend this ball. I do not care to meet the grand duke or any one else. Put me in the gallery where I shall not be noticed."

"That might be done. But you have roused my curiosity. You have some purpose?"

"A perfectly harmless one," said Grumbach, mopping his forehead.

This movement brought Carmichael's eye to a scar on the back of his visitor's head. Grumbach acknowledged the stare by running his finger along the subject.

"I came near passing in my checks the day I got that," he volunteered. "Everybody looks at it when I take off my hat. I've tried tonics, but the hair won't grow there."

"Where did you get it?"

"At Gettysburg."

Carmichael was no longer indifferent. He gave his hand.

"I've got a few scars myself. What regiment?"

"The —th cavalry, New York."

"What troop?" with growing excitement.

"C troop."

"I was captain of B troop in the same regiment. Hurrah! Work's over for the day. Come along with me, Grumbach, and we'll talk it over downstairs in the Black Eagle. You're a godsend. C troop! Hanged if the world doesn't move things about oddly. I was in the hospital myself after Gettysburg—a ball in the leg. And I've rheumatism even now when a damp spell comes."

So down to the tavern they went, and there they talked the battles over, sundry tankards interpolating. It was "Do you remember this?" and "Do you recall that?" with diagrams drawn in beer on the oaken table.

"But there's one thing, my boy," said Carmichael, "the odds were on our side or we'd be fighting yet."

"That we would."

"But you're from this side of the water?"

"Yes; went over when I was twenty-two. I'm from Bavaria."

Grumbach circled the room. All the near tables were vacant. The Black Eagle was generally a lonely place till late in the afternoon. Grumbach touched the scar tenderly. Could he trust this man? Could he trust any one in the world? The impulse came to trust Carmichael, and he did not disregard it.

"I was born in this very street," he whispered.

"Here?"

"Sh! Not so loud. Yes, in this very street. But if the police knew I wouldn't be worth that!" with a snap of the fingers.

"But what does this all mean? Can I help you in any way?"

"No; no one can help me."

"But why come back?"

"Who can say what a man will do? Don't question me. Let be. I have said too much already."

"But your name?"

Grumbach laughed unmusically. "Grumbach is as good as another. Listen. When I left Dreiberg there was a reward of a thousand crowns for me dead or alive."

Carmichael was plainly bewildered.

"You were mad to return."

"I know it. I couldn't help it. Oh, don't look like that! I never hurt anybody unless it was in battle"—naively. "Now, what has happened since I went away? I have dared to ask questions of no one?"

Carmichael, strangely attracted and trustful of his questioner, gave him a brief summary of events, principal among which was the amazing restoration of the Princess Hildegarde. To describe the Princess Hildegarde was not only an easy task but a pleasant one to Carmichael.

"So she is gentle and beautiful? Why not? Ach! You should have seen her mother. She was the most beautiful woman in all Germany, and she sang like one of those Italian nightingales. The king of Jugendheit wanted her, but she loved the grand duke. So the Princess Hildegarde has come back to her own? God is good!"

"Well," said Carmichael, beckoning to the waitress and paying the score, "if any trouble arises send for me. You don't look like a man who has done anything very bad." He offered his hand again. Grumbach pressed it firmly, and there was a moisture in his eyes.

Grumbach declined Carmichael's invitation to lunch and immediately sought his own room. Once there he closed the shutters and opened his battered trunk. From the false bottom he took out a small bundle. Mad fool that he had been! How many times had he gazed at these trinkets in these sixteen or more years! How many times had the talons of remorse gashed his heart!

MAD FOOL THAT HE HAD BEEN!

Two little yellow shoes, like two butterflies; a little cloak trimmed with ermine, a golden locket shaped like a heart!

* * * * * * *

Grumbach was very fond of music. There was nothing at the opera, so he decided to spend the earlier part of the evening in the public gardens.

Subsequently he found himself standing beside a young vintner and his peasant sweetheart. Their hands secretly met and locked behind their backs. Grumbach sighed. He would always go his way alone.

The girl turned her head. She loosened the vintner's hand.

"Do not mind me, girl," said Grumbach, his face broadening.

The girl laughed easily and without confusion. Her companion, however, flushed under his tan, and a scowl ran over his brows.

GOOD WAY TO USE HYOMEI FOR CATARRH

Besides breathing through the inhaler a few times a day, many catarrh sufferers write that they find inhaling HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-me) from a bowl of steaming water each night before retiring a great aid in curing stubborn cases.

Try it; it's very simple; gives quick relief and you breathe eassier.

Fill a bowl half full of boiling water; pour into it a teaspoonful of HYOMEI, cover head and shoulders with a towel, and breathe through nose and mouth the pleasant, medicated, antiseptic and healing vapor that arises.

This method relieves that stuffiness at once and makes your head feel fine.

You can get a bottle of HYOMEI at druggists everywhere or at C. A Wright & Son's, Tecumseh, for only 50 cents. Ask for extra bottle HYOMEI Inhalent.

But bear in mind that a HYOMEI outfit which includes inhaler and bottle of HYOMEI costs $1.00.

But, as stated before, if you already own an inhaler, o bottle of HYOMEI costs but 50 cents.

HYOMEI is guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son Tecumseh, and druggists everywhere to cure catarrh, sore throat, coughs, colds, asthma and croup, or money back. Try it on that generous basis.

"The Fighting Parson" contains passages of delicate humor and pretty sentiment and Mr. Walter Regan playing the Minister gives a sunny confident portrayal of this character" —Elmyra Gazette.

The above criticism is only one of many that W. F. Mann's "The Fighting Parson" has received during its tour of the country. It could hardly be other. because the characters are delightfully interesting and admirably played by a superb company of polished performers selected for his or her ability in their respective line. It is produced in four acts with a heart interest that holds and grips until the final curtain, yet with enough clean cut comedy to make you forget you had shed a tear a minute before. At your local play house tonight.

The "Candy Girl," which plays at the Opera House next Tuesday will no doubt be our feature show of the season. It is not often that shows of this size come to our town and it will be a great treat to our people which every one should take advantage of. If our people turn out and give them a packed house it will make it possible to get more good shows like it to come here. This is the very same show that plays the big cities and gets $1.50 a seat. The prices here will only be 25c., 50c., 75c. and a few at $1.00. Better reserve your seat at once and make sure of it, as no doubt our Opera House will be packed and you might fail to get a seat if you wait. Manager Marks assures us that nothing will be cut, that the same performance will be given here in every respect as in the big cities His contract with the company calls for it or all money will be refunded, so every one who attends can expect to see the best show that has ever visited our town. This company was a good one last season, but is claimed to be 2 to 1 better this season. Let everyone turn out and see a nice clean, refined show. The production complete same as played in Adrian Monday night.

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES

PRE-NUPTIAL DINNER

In Honor of Leon Williamson

The Young Men's Club entertained Tuesday evening in honor of Leon Williamson whose marriage occurs October, 12. A four course dinner was served in a most delightful manner. Mrs. Alec Reed catering.

Covers were laid for fourteen. Cards and Billiards were indulged in by those so inclined but the tops best enjoyed the social chat that followed the evenings entertainment.

5 O'COLCK TEA

Thirty-two ladies were entertained at the pleasant home of Mrs. George Jackson on Thursday afternoon. The rooms were beautified with lovely flowers.

Social converse was enjoyed and an elaborate two course supper was served. When the ladies returned to their homes it was with a feeling that such social occasions helped to make life happier and better.

KITCHEN SHOWER

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Miss Florence Rosacrans Tuesday night, who with Miss Bess Babcok gave a kitchen shower to Miss Alice Combs.

Quite a large company of young girls assembled for the occasion. Card games were indulged in. A dainty repast was served after which Miss Alice was presented with a grain sack whose horny appearance was a sight to behold. The contents proved to be about everything needful in a well regulated kitchen.

In the card games Miss Grace Alberts carried off first prize which she in turn presented to the bride, as also did the winner of the consolation.

The crowd dispersed at a late hour feeling that they had been highly entertained.

DROWNED

FRANK L. TUCKER

Former Resident of Macon Mich.

Corpse of Second Assistant Attorney General, of Wis., found in Fox river. Frank L. Tucker was a candidate for Attorney General on the Progressive Republican ticket.

Mr. Tucker attended the Dolliver meeting at Armory B. on the evening of August 31, parted with his Republican friends shortly after the close of the meeting and was supposed to be on his way to the hotel. From various incidents that developed at the Light St. bridge in the early morning it was feared their had been a drowning and that Mr. Tucker was the victim. Mathew Doley tender of the bridge discovered a small leather grip and a derby hat lying on the side walk of the bridge. on a small tag on the grip were the words Frank T. Tucker The police were at once notified and began dragging the river and at 10 o'clock in the forenoon the corpse wsa brought to the surface and was identified as being Mr. Tucker, whether it was a case of accidental drowning or suicide is as yet undecided, though many circumstantial developements point to the latter, as his friends think he had been acting strangely of late suffering lapses of memory and will and they believe he was suffering with temporary aberation, his friends declaring his physical condition was very bad indeed.

Frank T. Tucker was born in Macon, Mich., June 11, 1864, he was the son of Dr. E J. Tucker who was killed at Chatanooga, being Lieutenant in the Mich., 4th Cavalry. He was married about three years ago and leaves a wife and two year old daughter to mourn his untimely death,

MILLINERY

We were greatly pleased with the many pretty things shown by Miss Pierce in her millinery store this week.

She is showing some beautiful black beavers in all the latest shapes Turbans are shown in various shapes and sizes to suit young faces or old. The most conservative can not fail to be suited; persian effects are shown in all their beautiful shades; wings and plumes and beautiful flowers are used in profusion. Call and see her new fall goods.

Y. M. C. A. WORK.

Principal Smith will have charge of the physical work, Dr. Hartzog of the religious, and Rev. Weld of the Social work. Among the events proposed are night classes. First aid to injured, High school reception, basket ball and Bible study groups.

L. SCHIPPACASSE EXPIRES.

Popular Second Baseman is the Victim of Typhoid Fever.

It is with regret that we record the following as Schiappacasse was at one time a member of our Tecumseh Base Ball Club and a general favorite with all.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept., 20.—Louis Schiappacasse, the second baseman, died at his home in this city this morning after a four weeks' illness from typhoid fever.

"Schippy," as he was known to thousands of baseball fans all over the state, contracted typhoid fever in Muskegon where he has been playing ball all season, and was brought home a week ago. He was once one of the best known players in the Southern Michigan league, was a clever second baseman and a terrific slugger and for two seasons he was one of the leading batsmen in the league. He was signed up with Saginaw last year, though he became dissatisfied with conditions there and when he reported this season was still dissatisfied. As a result he did not do his usual good work and was later sold to Muskegon, where he played a brilliant game till his illness.

Schiappacasse was 28 years old and was unmarried.

HAD MADE HIS "LAST" WILL.

Wm. A. Brown of Tecumseh some few weeks ago was told he was dying because drugs with long Latin names could not help him, as cures do not reside in drugs. He, however, soon changed his mind about dying, even though the death sentence had been pronounced on him by several physicians. Mr. Brown was on the streets yesterday—first time in months. A more enthusiastic person could not be found. He said: "If it had not been for Prof. Johann von Oberstolz, the pranayama, I would now be out at Brookside (cemetery). My dropsy has all disappeared; stomach and bladder which caused me such excruciating pains day and night for months have about left me; I enjoy my food; sleep sound; bowels regular again. I intend to assist my son conduct a stand at Adrian fair all next week. Yes, pranayama treatment is certainly wonderful, just wonderful. Fo matter what ails one I believe Prof. von Oberstolz can cure you. Just see what he did for me."

Mr. Brown was kept very busy on the streets shaking hands, receiving congratulations from his many Tecumseh friends after he had many explanations and praises regarding this glorious new treatment method—pranayama, which the more intelligent physicians and scientists all over the country say will establish a new era in history. Prof. von Oberstolz can be consulted at the Coller House, Tecumseh, every Monday and Thursday.

CONCERNING FISH EGGS.

Simple Means by Which the Hatching of Them May be Expedited.

The Aquarium received lately from the United States Fisheries Bureau 5,000,000 white perch eggs—the eggs of this species are very small—which have been placed in hatching jars in the Aquarium's model fish hatchery.

The period of incubation of fish eggs depends largely on the temperature of the water in which they are spawned or placed. Whitefish eggs in water of a temperature of 58 degrees would hatch out in about three days; in water at a temperature of 53 degrees, that being about the present temperature of the Croton water as it flows into the Aquarium's tanks, whitefish eggs require for hatching a period of from fifteen to twenty days.

The susceptibility of fish eggs to temperature makes it possible to do things with them that could not be done otherwise. If in such a hatchery as the Aquarium, for instance, with its limited space, it should be desirable to expedite the hatching of a batch of eggs to make room in jars or troughs for other eggs, this can be done by the simple expedient of raising the temperature of the water.

When the eggs are in the hatchery water is all the time running into the jars or troughs and running off, in constant circulation, to give the eggs aeration; but this circulation can be suspended for a comparatively brief time without injury. By shutting off the inflow of new water the temperature of the standing water in which the eggs would then remain could be in an hour or two perceptibly raised by the warmth of the surrounding air in the building; and by the increase of warmth in the water the hatching of the eggs would be accelerated. When little fishes are about ready to come out a hatching that might have extended through a week can by this means be completed in a day.—New York Sun.

Constipation Cure Free

With the first signs of constipation you resort to the home methods of relief, such as hot or cold water on arising, lots of stewed fruit with your breakfast, etc., but what do you do when these fail?

The majority then start on salts and purgative waters, then change to cathartic pills, etc. If you have gone through these various stages you know they were all useless, so far as permanent results go. Now you should try just once again, but try something practical and sensible, a remedy made and intended for the purpose you are trying to accomplish. Such a remedy, as thousands can testify, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is guaranteed to be permanent in its results. Its ingredients are such that by a brief use of it the stomach and bowel muscles are trained to again do their work normally, so that in the end you can do away with medicines of all kinds. That it will do this Mr. G. Y. Dodson of Sanville, Va., will gladly attest, and so will Mrs. S. A. Hampton of Portage, O.

To those who are still skeptical there is a way to prove these assertions without a penny of expense: Simply send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell and obtain a free sample bottle. After using it, if you are then convinced it is the remedy you need, buy a fifty cent or one dollar bottle of your druggist and continue to use it for a brief time until cured. The directions are simple and the dose is small. It is pleasant to the taste, does not gripe and is promptly effective, and these statements are guaranteed or money will be refunded.

This remedy is over a quarter of a century old and is personally taken by more druggists than any other similar remedy on the American market. Because of its effectiveness, purity and pleasant taste it is the ideal laxative remedy for children, women and old folks generally.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and Dr. Caldwell will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

GOING ABOUT IN CHINA.

Sedan Chair In Crowded, Noisy Streets of the Cities.

There are but two ways to go about the Chinese city—on foot or in a sedan chair. The streets are from four to eight feet wide, the average being probably about six feet, and wheeled vehicles are out of the question. Even the jinrikisha cannot be used here. If you try to make your way on foot the density of the moving masses renders progress almost impossible and rowdies and pickpockets are numerous, so that the best plan is to take a responsible native guide and chairs.

These chairs are carried by two, three and sometimes four men, according to the weight of the passenger. The two bamboo poles by which the chair is supported are about 18 feet long and are joined at the front and rear ends by a crosspiece. After you have taken your seat the coolies raise the ends of the poles to their shoulders and are off at a dog trot, only interrupted by a "congestion of traffic," which occurs very frequently. It is surprising to see how rapidly they can go through the crowded streets, the whole line of chair carriers are yelling all the time, as are the other people who are carrying burdens for as there are no carts in use the entire merchandise of the city is transported in the same manner, not in chairs, of course, but slung on poles carried across the shoulders.

The noise resulting from the simultaneous shouting of every one in sight, both in front and in the rear, for the stream is flowing in both directions, is enough to make one wonder if the long expected riot has not begun.—Canton Cor. Denver Post.

The Reflective Instinct.

With a groan of despair he made up his mind to die.

Ruined financially, and with not a particle of hope for getting on his feet again, he realized that the only chance for his family escaping pauperism and its attendant wiseries was to obtain immediate use of his heavy life insurance.

Furthermore, if he lingered on he would be unable to pay the premiums on his policies, which, unfortunately, were not old enough to carry themselves, so that they would forthwith lapse.

Death, therefore, was the only solution to the problem. It was a decision the bitterness of which can only be understood by those forced by circumstances to control it.

He put on his hat and overcoat and went out of the house, lest the expression on his telltale countenance should betray to his loved ones his full intention. While he was traversing the crowded streets he would consider the best and least suspicious modes of consummating his purpose. If he could encompass it so that the thing looked to the world like an accident, so much the better. There would then be no scandal.

As he stepped from the curb to cross the street an automobile, driven by a reckless, careering chauffeur came tearing around the corner at terrifying speed.

And the energetic leap which the would-be suicide made back to the sidewalk out of its path was a caution.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Expensive Mud.

America leads the world in the production of mud—not cheap, low grade mud, but mud of a very expensive quality. Our mud is not packed in neat boxes, labeled "Made in America" and protected by tariff duties from the pauper mud of Europe. It is spread out thickly over millions of miles of our country roads.

Only one mile in 14 of America's roads can be said to be really improved. The rest are mud—deep narrow streaks of sticky, oozy mud. The farmer fights with mud when he takes his load to market. It is said it cost him 25 cents a ton per mile to haul his produce, while the thrifty Frenchman on mudless roads does it for half as much. The American farmer pays for his mud in decreased profits, in arder labor, in poorer schools; his wife pays in isolation and loneliness.

Nor is the farmer the only one who pays the mud tax. The city man who thinks he is buying eggs is buying also mud. Mud puts its price upon our bread, our meat, and our fuel. Three hundred million dollars a year is the estimated cost of muddy roads. We can think of no way in which our people could get less fun for the same money.—Success Magazine.

Teachers.

We all love our teachers. That's the reason we pay them so little. A labor of, by, and for love is a noble thing, and we should not debase those whom we love by offering too much filthy lucre.

We do not want our teachers to be stung by the money-bee. Nor are we entirely unselfish in this. If they were so stung, they might communicate the infection to our spotless children, whom we would not make nurse-maid for anything in the world except to show that they are better off than those of our neighbors.

Teachers should struggle to make both ends meet. Only thus can they set the divine example. If there is to be any wage-cut due to the industrial depression, it should begin at the bulwark of our liberties, whether it be the little red school-house on the hill or the big, ill-ventilated, unsanitary education emporium in our cities.—Lippincott's.

The only freedom some men seem to care for is the freedom to annoy others.

You can get anything cheap at that season of the year when you don't want it.

Prof. Charles Ricket of Paris claims to have discovered a means for purifying air in a room, his apparatus consisting of an air filter which mechanically sterilizes the air. Very fine drops of glycerine are scattered along the walls of a cylinder containing a suction fan, through which the air is whirled.

One of the latest photographic inventions is a lens by means of which a complete view all around the observer can be taken at once, and is called a periscope. Such a lens should prove successful on board ship or in other places where an all-around view is essential. The result is attained by means of a circular ring of glass curved on the outer surface and flat inside. By this the light from all sides is reflected down the tube which carries the lens.

JAMES S. SHERMAN

About Whom N. Y. State Fight for Speaker is Raging.

BEAT SHERMAN IN VOTE

Oneida Progressives Elect Nine Out of Twenty-Three.

Resolutions Endorsing Col. Roosevelt for Temporary Chairman of State Convention Are Passed.

Utica, N. Y., Sept. 22. — The nine Oneida county delegates, who will support Theodore Roosevelt for temporary chairman of the Republican state convention as against Vice President Sherman were selected and instructed at the Second assembly district convention, held in the village of Whitesboro. These nine delegates represent the main fruits of the fight of the progressives against the old guard in Tuesday's primaries. The other fourteen delegates from the First and Third districts were captured by the Sherman forces as shown by the complete returns.

The progressive delegation to the state convention from the Second district is headed by Senator Frederick M. Davenport. The resolutions adopted by the convention, strongly endorsed direct primaries and highly commended President Taft, Col. Roosevelt, Gov. Hughes and Senator Davenport. The resolutions contained no reference to Mr. Sherman.

Senator Davenport, who is a leader of the progressives, made a warm defense of Roosevelt and urged the adoption of resolutions supporting him as against Sherman for the temporary chairmanship. Such resolutions were adopted.

GRAND ARMY MEN PASS IN REVIEW

Atlantic City in Gala Attire to Honor Old Soldiers.

44 STATES ARE REPRESENTED

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 22.—Once again the "boys in blue" have paraded in review before their commander-in-chief.

With steps not so sprightly as they once were, but with the same spirit, they marched the broad avenues of this city and were accelaimed by big crowds which came to see the feature of the forty-fourth annual encampment of the G. A. R. Ideal weather favored the old soldiers.

Forty-four states in the Union they helped to preserve were represented in the procession. Every building along the line of march was hidden beneath the national colors and the walks were massed with people whose interest did not cease until the last of the line had passed.

Silas Towler, chief of staff of the commander-in-chief, was marshal, with Walter E. Edge of Atlantic City as his chief of staff. The first troops in line were the City cavalry of Atlantic City, and the advance guard was made up of a provisional regiment from the Sons of Veterans under the command of Colonel Henry Stewart.

Then came the commander-in-chief and his staff under the personal escort of U. S. Grant post of Brooklyn. Following these came the long line of "boys in blue," headed by the department of Illinois because of the seniority of its organization.

Near the end of the route the battle-scarred remnants of a once great army were reviewed by Commander-in-Chief Samuel R. Van Sant. On one side of him on the reviewing stand stood the vice president of the United States and on the other was Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A., retired. About them on the platform were several thousand guests.

Vice President Sherman arrived in the city as the parade was forming. He was met by a reception committee composed of local officers and representatives of the G. A. R. The Morris guard, an independent military company of Atlantic City, acted as his guard of honor during his stay in the city.

NEW COUNTERFEIT $2 BILLS

Two Foreigners Held in Paterson, N. J., on Charge of Passing Notes.

Paterson, N. J., Sept. 22.—A new counterfeit $2 silver certificate has made its appearance here and two foreigners are under arrest, charged by secret service men with attempting to circulate the counterfeit bill.

The counterfeit certificates are marked "A," and are numbered "D, 53579983." There is no silk in the paper, which is lighter than that coming from the government printers. The words "Washington, D. C.," are slightly heavier than in the genuine certificates.

HAMMERSTEIN GUES ADRUNG

Operatic Director Leaves for London to Built New Opera House.

New York, Sept. 22.—Oscar Hammerstein sailed on the Mauretania for London, where he goes to superintend the beginning of the building operations on his new opera house in London. He will return in a few weeks.

Although no announcement was made, it became known that Mr. Hammerstein had engaged Lina Cavalieri-Chanler for his London opera house.

A Hard Task.

"Now, sir," said an Irish barrister with severity to a loquacious witness, "hold your tongue and give your evidence clearly!"

ROBBERS SET FIRE TO PALATIAL HOME

First Loot Residence of $50,000 Worth of Property.

OWNER ALONE AT THE TIME

Was One of the Wealthiest Men of Hinsdale, a Chicago Suburb—Threatened with Death by the Burglars.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—Flames that destroyed the handsome residence of William E. Muse in Hinsdale, Chicago suburb, were set by burglars, who stole $50,000 worth of property, according to reports made to the police.

It is said the burglars were discovered in the house by Mr. Muse, who was threatened with death by a man holding a revolver pointed at him when he struck a match to investigate the cause of mysterious noises. After the thieves had departed the house was found to be in flames.

The police were told that oriental rugs, silverware, and other property valued at $50,000, was stolen by the thieves.

The house, valued at $25,000, and containing $15,000 worth of furniture, was destroyed. Mr. Muse had a narrow escape from death.

The barn in the rear was found to have been sprinkled with oil and a barrel of pine was found, but the robbers apparently did not have time to set fire to this portion of the property.

Mr. Muse is one of the wealthiest residents of Hinsdale. His fortune is estimated at $200,000. He is an attorney and besides operates drygoods stores in Texas and California.

MAN TAKES PARIS GREEN

Alex. Crowe, Arrested, Attempts to Take His Own Life.

Is In Mercy Hospital After Having Taken Enough of Poison to Kill Fifteen Men.

Bay City, Mich., Sept. 26.—With enough paris green in his stomach to kill fifteen men, Alex. Crowe is in Mercy hospital with only a bare chance of pulling through. Crowe is the young man who a few weeks ago was arrested in this city under the supposition that he was a real bad escaped convict from Canada. His capture was the result of an effort of his Saginaw sweetheart to get him into trouble, she having written to the Saginaw police that Crowe was living under an assumed name. She gave his address and Bad Axe and Saginaw officers came here, surrounded his home and captured him.

Since then Crowe has been growing despondent, it is alleged, and the disgrace of arrest, together with further trouble with the woman, appears to have affected him greatly, and he took paris green and became deathly ill. He refused to see a doctor, but from some unknown source secured more paris green.

The police were called and Crowe was put into the patrol wagon, but he had paris green in his pockets, and declaring that no one could keep him alive, he stuffed his mouth full of the stuff. The overdose was so heavy that it caused a reaction and that is why Crowe is still alive. Crowe's relatives live in Canada.

T. R. DEPARTS FOR G. O. P. MEETING

Colonel Is Certain Progressives Will Win a Victory.

MAY MAKE KEYNOTE SPEECH

Mr. Roosevelt Knows Ranks Are Torn With Factional Strife but Takes "Big Stick" and "Elephant" Ammunition Along.

Oyster Bay, Sept. 26.—On the eve of his departure for Saratoga, Mr. Roosevelt took occasion to make a positive announcement regarding his attitude on the direct primary question. He was angry at stories that appeared in two New York papers saying he was going to compromise because a lot of up-state delegates are not satisfied with the direct primary. He said he is not.

"The statement that I have considered a compromise on the direct primaries plank is untrue," Roosevelt said. "I stand exactly where I stood and while it is true that there are some up-state leaders who are not with us, I believe we will have a majority with us for direct primaries."

He was pretty much wrought up over these reports of a compromise, was Mr. Roosevelt. He said unkind things about the correspondents who wrote the stories and said that he wouldn't talk with them in the future. Some one mentioned the Ananias club and he smiled.

Now that he has put his position clearly, the colonel is all ready for the real fight at Saratoga. He is for the Cobb-compromise direct nominations bill, which is favored by Gov. Hughes and President Taft. He still is for a clean cut, progressive, ticket and platform and he will make his fight in that direction.

Mr. Roosevelt is certain that the progressives will win. He expects to unseat Sherman as temporary chairman and to make the keynote speech himself, in which he will round the opening notes for the others to follow. It was stated that the colonel was not going into the scrap blindly, that even if he was victorious at Saratoga the battle was just begun.

He knows that the Republican ranks are torn with factional strife, but that will not make the slightest difference in his position. He said that he will fight for the progressives, and he will continue to work for a victory in this state no matter what the old guard may seek to do.

Roosevelt wants to confer with the up-state men on a good many things before he expresses his opinions. He realizes the importance of satisfying the up-staters, and for that reason has said all along that good gubernatorial timber from there is of more value than any that can be found here. The convention will be an open one, the issue is plain, and there is little doubt as to the outcome, he thinks.

6 DIE IN AUTO PLUNGE

Large Machine Runs into Canal Near New Orleans.

Auto Was Driven by Thomas Boettler, Former Proprietor of the Oak Hotel in New Orleans.

New Orleans, La., Sept. 26.—Six persons, two of them women, lost their lives when a large automobile ran off the road, crashed through a fence and plunged into a canal.

The first body recovered was that of John Freeman, a traveling salesman for a New York perfumery house. Two other bodies were recovered, those of Thomas Boettler and an unidentified woman.

The car left West End, a lake resort, shortly before daylight and was on the way to New Orleans. It was driven by Thomas Boettler, former proprietor of the Oak hotel in this city. Two women and three men were his guests on the fatal ride.

LABOR INDORSES FREIGHT INCREASE

3,000 DELEGATES ARE PRESENT

Chiefs of Four Organizations Instructed to Assist Capital in Demand for Higher Freight Rates, and Square Deal.

New York, Sept. 26.—The most significant council of railroad employes ever held in this country, instructed at the Amsterdam Opera House the chiefs of the four great organizations of railroad workmen to go to Washington and appeal to the government of the United States for a square deal to their employers.

The meeting was characterized by the brotherhoods themselves as the most momentous since the first spike was driven into the first railroad for these reasons. It was the first out and out announcement that the interests of employes and employers are identical. It was the first time the powerful unions have ever united to back up the railroad companies by going directly to the government. It marked, as the leaders of the brotherhood agree, the growth of a spirit of fairness and mutality toward the companies that pay the wages. It served notice that while the brotherhoods are not winded to be tags for any political party, they intend to scrutinize the attitude of candidates for office, particularly for federal office, as to how employers as well as employes shall be treated by the law-makers and law enforcers.

Three thousand delegates, representing the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, Order of Railway Conductors and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, gathered at the Amsterdam Opera House and listened to speeches from Warren S. Stone, grand chief of engineers; A. B. Garretson, president of the conductors; W. G. Lee, president of the trainmen; P. H. Morrison, president of the Railroad Employes' association; G. H. Stine, vice president of the trainmen, and other executives.

The delegates came with authority from 350,000 railroad workmen on sixty-three railroads east of the Mississippi river; and they represented 2,000,000 voters dependent for a livelihood on the railroad companies. After four hours' conference they addressed a memorial to President Taft, the Interstate Commerce commission and all national and state law-making bodies. The memorial contains resolutions which support the proposal of the railroad companies that they be permitted to make a reasonable increase in rates.

The brotherhoods did not take action suddenly or tumultuously. The proposal to stand by the companies had been talked over for several months in all the lodges. It had been threshed out thoroughly and the delegates came to the conclusion with one idea in mind, that the employes were in the same boat with the companies. They were in absolutely harmony on all of the principal points brought up at the meeting.

There is no confession of weakness on the part of the unions in such support of the companies. They will continue to insist upon higher wages, more favorable working conditions, shorter hours and adequate compensation for workmen injured or killed in the service, but the companies must have more earning power to meet these demands.

There will be no political agitation, but candidates for office will be requested to answer questions concerning their attitude towards employers and employes.

South Norwalk, Conn., Sept. 26.—Because Miss Clara DeWitt of this city tried to play tennis in a hobble skirt she is in a hospital with a broken leg.

ALL ABOARD FOR ADRAIN

TAFT CABINET TO MEET AT CAPITOL

President and Advisors to Confer on Offical Matters.

FIRST MEETING OCCURS TODAY

Mr. Taft Will House All the Members of His Official Family at the White House, Thereby Setting Up New Precedent.

Washington, Sept. 26. — President Taft's cabinet "house party" will get together this morning. The president himself has reached Washington after an absence of three months and his official advisors have also been dropping in, one by one, from all parts of the country.

Secretary of State Knox, Secretary of Agriculture Wilson and Secretary Ballinger were already here when the president arrived. Secretary Knox had been spending the summer at his country home at Valley Forge, Pa., with the exception of a few weeks, when he was fighting black flies up on the Maine trout stream. Uncle Jim Wilson had, as usual, been looking over that farm of his in Iowa, with an occasional excursion into the surrounding territory to air his political views or to run to Washington for a few days. Mr. Ballinger had spent his vacation of the Pacific Coast.

Postmaster General Hitchcock arrived with a fine coat of tan collected on the Arizona desert. Secretary MacVeagh also rolled in looking the best possible advertisement for a New Hampshire summer, and Secretary Meyer also showed up with every appearance of having had a good rest.

Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor, and Attorney General Wickersham will arrive today. Secretary Dickinson is the only member of the cabinet who will not be on hand to have his room assigned to him at the White House. He is in Japan and the president and the members of the cabinet will have to wait for a later meeting to hear from him.

This cabinet meeting at the White House is going to be a unique affair. Old timers in Washington do not recall a similar instance of the president taking all the members of his cabinet under the roof of the White House for a three or four days' stay. Administration matters will be discussed. Mr. Taft expects to thresh out with his advisors all the difficulties of the administration and to invite the frankest discussion.

While the filling of the vacancies on the supreme bench is to be discussed at the cabinet meetings, the president, it is known, will not commit himself on this matter and will make his own decision. There is no reason at this time for believing that anybody stands a better chance than Gov. Hughes for the appointment as chief justice.

Besides the question of the establishment of postal savings banks, the effecting of further economies in administration, the president and his cabinet also will consider foreign affairs, including the readjustment of affairs in Nicaragua, and the general political situation. It is in regard to the possibility of some political development from the cabinet meetings that official Washington is chiefly interested in at this time. The president appreciates the critical situation of the party in reference to the coming congressional elections and it is believed that some plan of action will be considered and adopted at the three days' session.

The GOOSE GIRL

By HAROLD MacGRATH

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

The band was playing "Les Huguenots," and the girl hummed the air.

A hand was put upon Grumbach's shoulder authoritatively. The police officer who had examined his passports that morning stood at Grumbach's elbow.

"Herr Grumbach," he said quietly, "his excellency the chancellor has directed me to bring you at once to the palace."

"To the palace?" Grumbach's face was expressive of great astonishment. "My passports were wrong in some respect?"

"Oh, no, herr. They were correct."

Grumbach roused his mind energetically.

"But whatever can the chancellor want of me?"

"That is not my business. I was simply sent to find you. His excellency is always interested in German Americans."

"Shall we go at once?" asked Grumbach. "I never expected to enter the palace of the Grand Duke of Ehrenstein," Grumbach added. "It will be something to tell of when I go back to America.

"The palace is lighted up," was Grumbach's comment as the two passed the sentry outside the gates.

"The duke gives the dinner to the diplomatic corps tonight."

"A fine thing to be a diplomat."

"I myself prefer fighting in the open. Diplomats? Their very precious hides are never anywhere near the wars they bring about. No, no—this way. We go in at the side."

"You'll have to guide me. Yes, these

The majordomo was thunderstruck. He threw back the bolts, and the carter pushed his way in. That ring on the carter's finger!

"Take me to the baron."

Vastly subdued, the majordomo preceded the carter into the office of the embassy and went in search of the baron, who was in his study.

"Your excellency, there is a man in the office who desires to see you quickly. A carter!"

The ambassador jumped to his feet.

"One moment, your excellency. He wore a ring on his finger, and I could not refuse him." The majordomo whispered two words. The ambassador rushed from the study. It was dark in the embassy office. Quickly the ambassador lighted some candles. Gas would be too bright for such a meeting.

"WHO ARE YOU?"

"Well, your excellency?" said a voice from the leather lounge.

"Who are you?" For this was not the voice the baron expected to hear.

"My name at present does not matter. The news I bring is far more important. His majesty emphatically declines any alliance with the house of Ehrenstein."

"Damnation!" swore the ambassador.

"The exact word used by the prince. Now then, what's to be done?"

"This means war."

"War! It looks as if you and I, baron, shall not accompany the king of Prussia into Alsace-Lorraine."

"This is horrible!"

"But what possessed the prince to blunder like this?"

"The prince really is not to blame. Our king, baron, is a young colt. A few months ago he gave his royal uncle carte blanche to seek a wife for him. Politics demanded an alliance between Jugendheit and Ehrenstein. There have been too many years of useless antagonism. On the head of this bolt from heaven comes the declaration of his majesty that he will marry any other princess on the continent."

"They will pull this place down."

"Let them. We have 10,000 more troops than Ehrenstein."

"You young men are a pack of fools!"

"Softly, baron."

"Where is the king?"

The carter smiled. "He is hunting, they say, with the crown prince of Bavaria."

"But you, why have you come dressed like this?"

"That is a little secret."

"But what's to be done?"

"Tell lies. They will suspend the catastrophe till we are ready to meet it. The marriage is not to take place till spring. That will give us plenty of time. After the coronation his majesty may be brought to reason. This marriage must not fail through now. The grand duke will not care to become the laughingstock of Europe. The prince's advice is for you to go about your affairs as usual. Only one man must be taken into your confidence, and that man is Herbeck. If any one can straighten out his end of the tangle it is he."

"Where is the prince?"

"Wherever he is he is working for the best interests of the state."

"There is the Bavarian princess," remarked the ambassador musingly.

"Ha! A good thought! But the king is romantic. She is older than he and ugly."

"You are not telling me everything," intuitively.

"I know it. I am telling you all that is at present necessary."

"You make me the unhappiest man in the kingdom! I have worked so hard and long toward this end. When did the king decline this alliance?"

"Evidently the moment he heard it. I have his letter. Listen:

"My illustrious and industrious Uncle—I regret exceedingly that at this late day I should cause you political embarrassment, but when I gave my consent to the espousal of any of the various princesses at liberty surely it was understood that Ehrenstein was not to be considered. I refuse to marry the daughter of the man who privately strove to cover my father with contumely, who dared impute to him a crime that was any man's but my father's. I realize that certain policies called for this stroke on your part, but it cannot be. My dear uncle, you have dug a fine pit, and I hope you will find a safe way out of it. I refuse to marry the Princess Hildegarde. This is final. It can be arranged without any discredit to the duke your highness has thrown me over. I shan't go to war about it.

"FREDERICK.

"Observe My illustrious and industrious uncle?" laughed the carter without mirth. "Our king, you will see, has a graceful style." He gained his feet. He was young, pleasant of face, but a thorough soldier.

"You are Lieutenant von Radenstein!" cried the ambassador. "I recognize you now."

"Thanks, your excellency!"

"You are in the royal household, the regent's invisible arm. I have heard a good deal about you. I knew your father well."

"Again, thanks. Now, the regent has heard certain rumors regarding an American named Carmichael, a consul. He is often seen with her highness. Rather an extraordinary privilege."

"Rest your mind there, lieutenant. This Carmichael is harmless. He can be eliminated at any time."

"This is reassuring. You will see the chancellor tonight and show him this letter?"

"I will."

"One word more, and then I'm off, diplomats. Men like you and me do all the work. I was in the civil war in America."

"That was a great fight," remarked the officer. "I should like to have been there."

"Four years—pretty long. Do you know Herr Carmichael?"

"The American consul? Oh, yes."

"He and I fought in the same regiment."

"Then you saw some pretty battles."

Grumbach took off his hat. "See that?"

"Gott! That must have been an ugly one."

The somber black of Carmichael's evening dress stood out conspicuously among the blue and green and red uniforms at the grand duke's dinner. Etiquette compelled him to wear silk stockings, but that was the single concession on his part. He wore no orders.

The duke sat at the head of the table and her serene highness at the foot. And it was by the force of his brilliant wit that the princess did not hold in perpetuity the court at her end of the table. For a German princess of that time she was highly accomplished. She was ardent, whimsical, with a flashing mentality which rounded out and perfected her physical loveliness. Above and beyond all this she had suffered; she had felt the pangs of poverty, the smart of unrecognized merit. She had been one of the people, and her sympathies would always be with them, for she knew what those about her only vaguely knew, the patience, the unmurmuring bravery, of the poor.

"Gentlemen," said the duke, rising and holding up his glass, "this night I give you a toast which I believe will be agreeable to all of you, especially to his excellency Baron von Steinbock of Jugendheit. What is past is past. A new regime begins this night." He paused. All eyes were focused upon him in wonder. Only Baron von Steinbock displayed no more than ordinary interest. "I give you," resumed the duke, "her serene highness and his majesty Frederick of Jugendheit!"

The princess grew delicately pale as the men and women sprang to their feet. Every hand swept toward her, holding a glass. She had surrendered that morning—not because she wished to be a queen, not because she cared to bring about an alliance between the two countries. No; it was because she was afraid and had burned the bridge behind her.

The tan trinned on Carmichael's face, but his hand was steady. She sat still in her chair, her lids drooped, but a proud lift to her chin. Beautiful to him beyond all dreams of beauty! God send another war and let him die in the heart of it, fighting!

In the ballroom the princess was surrounded. Everybody flattered her, congratulated her and complimented her.

Carmichael was among the last to approach her. By this time he had his voice and nerves under control.

"I thought you had forgotten me," she said. They walked to the conservatory.

"Forget your highness?" He bowed over her hand and brushed it with his lips, for she was almost royal now. "Your highness will be happy. It is written. You will be a great queen."

"Who knows?" dreamily. "When I recall what I have gone through all this seems like an enchantment out of a fairy book and that I must soon wake up in my garden in Dresden."

If only it might be an enchantment, he thought—if only he might find her, as the grim old chancellor had found her, in a garret! What? Dreaming again. He shrugged.

"Why did you do that?" she asked quickly.

"It was a momentary dream I had, and the thought of its utter impossibility caused me to shrug."

"This dream—was there not a woman in it?"

"Oh, no; there was only an angel."

"You interest me; you always interest me. You have seen so many wonderful things. And now it is angels."

"Only one, your highness." This was daring. "But perhaps I am putting my foot where angels fear to tread," which was still more daring.

"Angels ought not to be afraid of anything." She laughed. There was a pain and a joy in the sound of it. She read his heart as one might read a written line.

"Dreams are always unfinished things," he said, getting back on safer ground.

"What is she like, this angel?" forcing him upon dangerous ground again willfully.

"I dare not tell you." His eyes sought hers unflinchingly. The chancellor and Baron von Steinbock came up.

"Your highness," began the benign voice of the chancellor, "the baron desires, in the name of his august master, to open the ball with you. Behold my fairy wand," gayly. "This night I have made you a queen."

"Can you make me happy also?" said she so low that only the chancellor heard her.

"I shall try. Ah, Herr Captain," with a friendly jerk of his head toward Carmichael, "will you do me the honor to join me in my cabinet a quarter of an hour hence?"

"I shall be there, your excellency." Carmichael was uneasy. He was not certain how much the chancellor had heard.

CHAPTER V.

THE KING'S LETTER.

CARMICHAEL at once sought the chancellor's cabinet. To his surprise the room was already tenanted. Grumbach and a police officer!

"What's the trouble?" Carmichael inquired.

"Your excellency knows as much as I do," said the officer.

Occasionally Grumbach wiped his forehead. Then the chancellor came in. He bowed cordially and drew chairs about his desk. He placed Grumbach in the full glare of the lamp.

"Herr Grumbach," said the chancellor in a mild tone, "I should like to see your papers."

Grumbach laid them on the desk imperturbably. The chancellor struck the bell. His valet answered immediately.

"Send Breunner, the head gardener, at once."

The chancellor shot a piercing glance at Grumbach.

Breunner entered. He was thin and partly bald.

"Breunner, her highness will need many flowers tomorrow. See to it that they are cut in the morning."

"It shall be done, excellency."

The chancellor turned to the passports.

"There is only one question, Herr Grumbach. It says here that you were a native of Bavaria before going to America. How long ago did you leave Bavaria?"

"A good many years, your excellency."

"You have, of course, retained your Bavarian passport?"

Grumbach brought forth a bulky wallet.

"Here it is, your excellency."

The chancellor went over it carefully.

"Herr Captain, do you know this compatriot?"

"We fought side by side in the American war. I saw no irregularity in his papers."

"Then he is no stranger to you?"

"I do not say that. We were, however, in the same cavalry, only in different troops. Grumbach, you have your honorable discharge with you?"

Grumbach went into his wallet still again. This document the chancellor read with an interest foreign to the affair under his hand. Presently he laughed softly.

"I am sorry, Herr Grumbach. All this unnecessary trouble simply because of the word Bavaria. How long will you be making your visit?"

"Only a few days. Then I shall proceed to Bavaria."

"Your excellency has no further orders?" said the head gardener patiently.

"Good heaven, Breunner, I had forgotten all about you! There is nothing more. Herr Captain, you will return with me to the ballroom?"

"If your excellency will excuse me, no. I am tired. I shall return to the hotel with Herr Grumbach."

Carmichael and Grumbach crossed the Platz leisurely.

"How did you come by that Bavarian passport?" asked Carmichael abruptly.

"It is a forgery, my friend, but his excellency will never find that out."

"You have me all at sea. Why did he bring in the head gardener and leave him standing there all that while?"

"He had a sound purpose, but it fell. The head gardener did not recognize me."

"Do you know him?"

"Yes. He is my elder brother."

The ambassador from Jugendheit, Baron von Steinbock, was not popular in Dreiberg, at least not among the people who still held to the grand duke's idea that the kingdom had been behind the abduction of the Princess Hildegarde. Never a hot headed Dreiberger passed his house without a desire to loot it, to scale the piked fence and batter in the doors and windows.

The king of Jugendheit was to marry her serene highness. The menials in and about the embassy felt the new importance of their positions. So then imagine the indignation of the majordomo when, summoned at dusk one evening to the carriage gates three or four days after the portentous news had issued from the palace, he found only a ragged and grimy carter who demanded peremptorily to be admitted and taken to his excellency at once.

"Go away!" The majordomo spun on his heels contemptuously.

"I will skin you alive," vowed the carter, striking the iron with the butt of his whip. "If you do not open these gates immediately. Open!"

"If you do not stop hammering on those bars I shall send for the police."

The carter thrust a hand through the grill. There was a ring on one of his fingers.

"Imbecile, set your eye on that and admit me without more ado!"

To be continued.

We have observed that a husband is less careful than a lover in concealing the fact that he chews tobacco.

Nothing makes an old widower quite so mad as an intimation that some designing woman will "rope him in."

D. T. & I. CASE IN COURT AGAIN

Judge H. H. Swan of United States court, handed down two important decisions, Friday morning involving the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton railway, which has been in a receiver's hands for some time.

The first was an order denying the right of F. J. Lisman & Co., of New York, William J. Courtney, and the Citizens Trust Co., of Springfield, O., and others, to intervene in the suit of the United States Motrgage & Trust Co., to forclose on $5,000,000 of second mortgage bonds issued by the D. T. & I for the purpose of purchasing the stock of the Ann Arbor railway. The second was an order permitting Joseph Ramsey, Jr, and other creditors to intervene. An order will be granted next Tuesday for the foreclosure of the mortgage on which the bonds are based.

Lisman & Co. and the Springfield people sought to attack the validity of the bonds on the grounds that they were issued for an illegal purpose, claiming that one railway corporation has no right to acquire the stock of another corporation. Judge Swan held that under a statute of 1891, a company had such a right. The other petitioners intervene as creitors. Detroit Times.

HOSPITAL SITE SELECTED

New Emma Bixby

At last the site for the hospital has been selected by the Adrian Council after causing more newspaper notoriety than any city event in recent history and the curious point is that a site has been selected that had not entered into the controversy in any way. The committee reported in favor of Conklin and Eldridge properties and the council at once authorized the purchase at $4,800.

NOTICE

The Local Option Law is aimed to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors. I have been making an investigation around the County and I find that a great many places are selling what is known as Hoptuit and Cream of Hops. I have had some of these analyzed and I find they contain better than three and one-half per cent alcohol. I do not know whether the dealers are aware of this or not, but hereafter anyone that I know of handling Hoptuit or Cream of Hops, will be prosecuted. I desire to say I am also informed that one or two dealers in the County are handling what they claim to be a soft drink, but they say when some one wants to buy a bottle of it to take away, that they cannot let any of it go out of their place. If they are handling such a drink it looks suspicious if it cannot be sold to be taken away. I expect from time to time to have the various soft drink places in this Connty, inspected, and their beverages analyzed, and from this time on dealers must handle beverages of such kinds at their own risk and must see to it that their beverages are not of this class. If any such beverages are handled in this County from this time on and I find it out, the person handling them will be prosecuted whether he has knowledge or not that the beverages are of such a class. In other words he must know for himself what he is selling. Some complaints have reached my office in regard to druggists selling liquor on prescription to persons in the habit of getting intoxicated. Under our recent Supreme Court decision the druggists sell at their peril, and a prescription is not an absolute protection to them. I want to caution the druggists also, of this County, to use due care and caution that there may be no violation of the law in this regard.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Augusta Hoagland-Beals, wife of Chas. Beals passed away Thursday afternoon about 5 o'clock after a brief illness of two weeks. She had been in feeble health for some time, but just two weeks ago she suffered a stroke of paralysis and from that time grew worse rapidly until the end came.

She would of been 69 years old next month and had been married 41 years the 12. Her life was gentle but like the still waters it was deep. In her heart she carried those she loved, and her hand was never weary, her step never failed in caring for or waiting upon those who were in any way dependent upon her.

There fell upon the house a sudden gloom,
A shadow on those features fair and thin,
And softly from that hushed and silent room,
Two angel's issued, where but one went in.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

As it has pleased our heavenly father to remove from our midst our beloved sister Mrs. Ella Ingersoll to a fairer home above. Therefore be it resolved that we express our heartfelt sympathy to the loved ones who are left to mourn her loss.

Resolved that they are not the only ones for we as a society of the T. B. A. miss her pleasant smile, her cheerful greeting, and feel that we have lost one of our most faithful workers. Resolved that we extend to the daughter an invitation of adoption she to take her mothers place in our hearts and do as her mother has done everything that was best for the interest of the Post. Therefore be it resolved that these resolutions be printed in our home papers and a copy be sent to the bereaved family.

Can we but weep dear sister thou art gone
Unto thy beautiful, thy well rewarded home.

Committee T. B. A. Mrs. A. L. Brazee, Mrs. T. Hanley, Mrs. W. Shurtz.

GRAND COMMANDER OF MASONS RESIGNS OFFICE

No Explanation is Given of Most Singular Act

Detroit, Sept. 23.—For some reason which is guarded by absolute secrecy Gen. Samuel Crocker Lawrence, most puissant grand commander of the ancient Accepted Scottish Rite for the northern Masonic jurisdiction of the United States, resigned his office yesterday.

The session at which the resignation was handed in was the last of the ninety-eighth annual meeting of the supreme council, sovereign grand inspectors-general. The grand commander is the head of the highest degree in Masonry. The office is of life tenure, and is so high an honor that only the most serious reasons could induce a Mason to resign it voluntarily.

NOT SO MANY DIE

Death Rate 15 to the 1000 in U. S.

By the late census it is estimated that the rate per thousand of deaths in the United States is only 15. This is the lowest average ever recorded for this country. England had a little better showing in the same time, her rate being 14 1-2 per thousand. This low rate is attributed in both countries to the absence of any wide spread epidemic.

A. D. Lawrence and wife are spending the week in Detroit for the annual reunion of his old comrades in arms of the 9th Cavalry, this being the only Cavalry regiment from Michigan that went with Sherman to the sea. There are less than a dozen of his old company left and of the special chums who have met year after year, only three are left. One by one they drop away and are seen no more. The statistics of the last year show a fearful mortality and the record for the years since the close of the war are sad indeed. Those honorably discharged numbered 1,664,214 and the number now living, as near as can be approximated, is 560,000. According to the last government report 2861 veterans died every month, 660 every week, 94 every day, and one every 20 minutes.

OF INTEREST TO METHODISTS

BEAUTIFUL BOOKLET ON CENTENARY OF M. E. CHURCH IN MICHIGAN

On this, the 100th anniversary of Michigan's Methodism, a very interesting booklet has been issued, which will be of interest to all who have the cause of Methodist at heart.

The first Methodist sermon of record in Michigan was delivered by a local preacher from Canada, named Freeman, in 1801. In this same year the talented Nathan Bangs appeared on the council and held a few services. In 1809 Rev. Wm. Case, an energetic and able young man was appointed to Detroit. There was no society or prospect of organization but several converts were made by his preaching.

In 1810 the first Protestant religious society in Detroit was organized by Wm Mitchell, who succeeded Rev. Case. This society was composed of seven members. This small beginning has grown into the present Central Church of 1500 members but Michigan Methodism of over 112,000.

The first Methodist edifice was a little log church on the north side of the road running from Detroit up to River Rouge. This was built in 1818. In 1909 a building called the Pioneer church was erected near the site of the old log building whose charred remains in 1851 was made into canes and sold for the benefit or the Missionary society.

On this occasion it was thought it would be a nice thing to hold the 65th M. E conference in the Central church, the mother church of Methodism in Detroit and the invitation extended last year was heartily accepted.

M. E. CONFERENCE

It was a touching sight at the opening of Conference, when men with silvered locks and shoulders bent with age, and men in the prime of life knelt at the altar and partook together of the sacrament of the Lords supper. And when the role was called of those who had passed to the great beyond, a brother sang softly "In the sweet bye and bye" all joined in singing with tears rolling down their cheeks, a tribute of love for the departed.

It has been a very busy week, so many important events having to be considered and passed upon. A notable event of this years meeting was the celebrating of the hundredth year of Michigan Methodism.

Despite the threatening weather of Friday the Detroit M. E. Conference and their guests of the Michigan Conference convened at Jackson went for a ride on the river Friday morning. The M. E. Conference after a short session marched in a body to the 3rd. St. dock where they met the others and boarded the St., Claire for their trip. The exercises in commemoration of this centenary of Michigan Methodism were held in the Central M. E. church at 1:30 Friday afternoon opening with the hymn "Faith of our Fathers" closing with old "Coronation.

The appointment for the different churches were given out Monday at this writing we have not learned who will be with us this year.

AMUSEMENTS.

A Treat For Tecumseh People.

We understand that Manager Mark has gone to the expense of getting the PIKE ORCHESTRA of Morenci to furnish the music for "THE CANDY GIRL" at the Opera House tonight.

This will indeed be a treat for Tecumseh theatre goers as Pike's Orchestra is known to be one of the best in the state and can handle all of the special music with the show which is a great improvement to any musical show.

"THE CANDY GIRL" is a first class production in every way. Special scenery and electrical effects. They played in Adrian last night and every body was well pleased with the show. There are 16 musical numbers introduced with the chorus during the show and when put on with a full orchestra they will make an evenings entertainment which you cannot afford to miss. If you want Tecumseh to have first class attractions, do your share by turning out and helping to support same.

A HOLLOWAY YOUNG MAN

A prominent young man from Holloway suffered with epilepsy since childhood. His parents resorted to all the usual treatments and spent a fortune in a vain effort to save their son from this worse than death disease—falling fits. They finally decided to have him treated by Prof. Johann von Oberstolz, the Pranayama, who has made more than one Lenawee county family happy again through his wondrous work for chronic sufferers of all kinds. The young man alluded to above is now on the high road to recovery to the great astonishment of relatives and friends who were under the impression that epilepsy was incurable. No medicine surgery or rubbing were used—only nature, the best of all remedies.

Prof. von Oberstolz may be consulted free of charge as follows:

THE AGRICULTURAL WORKS

AN OLD LAND-MARK

A Brief History of its Early Inception and its Many Changes Which Will be of Interest.

The origin of this establishment dates far back in the history of our town: In 1833 a two-story wooden building was erected on this corner and was used as a carriage shop for a number of years. In 1836 just east of this T. T. Kneeland and Walter Welch purchased a lot and put up a building and established an iron-foundry, their chief manufacture being plows.

Mr. Chas. Hewett purchased a one-third interest in this factory in 1837 and became a silent partner. After several years this firm was known as the Kneeland & Hewitt factory, they then purchased the wooden buildings owned by J. N. Chandler and carried on the business until 1817, when T. T. Kneeland sold his interest to Soloman H. Wheeler. Through many changes the firm became Wheeler & H. J. Snell, they run the concern a year and then sold out. Morris Hyde and Isaac Ketcham, shortly after this they sold out to Hudson Conkling and John Hall, they selling to E. D. Burlingame. About a year later C. A. Stacy bought a half interest and the firm was known as Burlingame and Stacy, Luke Mooney bought an interest and they ran the business about 4 years during which time the buildings were burned to the ground At this time Judge Stacy had drawn the brick from Comforts brick yard to build the Stacy home and he had them at once drawn to the ground and in 30 days the new building was erected. In 1865 Messrs Burlingame and Stacy sold the entire establishment and good will to Messrs John Richard Horace Brewer, Geo. Curtis, Wm. Parson ane Richard McConnell, this was under the firm name of J. Richard & Co. In 1868 Richard sold his interest to Hiram Raymond and it was at this time they erected a fine new front containing on the 1st. floor an office and sales-room with the two upper stories for general purposes' since then most of the changes have been within the memory of most of the residents of Tecumseh and we are glad to see the improvements that are going on to bring this building back to the point that these early owners desired an ornament to the village as well as a fine place of business and we wish the present owners Brown & Co success in their new quarters.

IMPROVEMENTS

The march of improvements still continues the Porte-cochere over the walk in front of the Barrett house is a decided addition to the building and marks the entrance to the hotel in a very effective manner the awning of metal and glass over the south windows of the State Savings Bank is an added improvement shading yet not darkning the office. Paint has added much to the out side of the whole building.

CARD PARTY

Despite the heavy rain about forty ladies gathered at the pleasant home of Mrs. Dwella Hodges on Friday afternoon. Cards furnished the amusement of the afternoon, pedro being the game played.

Mrs. E. E. Hendershott was the winner of the first prize. Most delightful refreshments were served and the ladies all report a most enjoyable time, and their hostess a charming one.

700,000 IN STRIKE WAR

Great Industries in Germany Are at a Crisis.

Unless the Disputes Can Be Settled Within a Few Days 700,000 Men Will Be Idle.

Berlin, Sept. 26.—German industry is seriously disturbed by strikes and lockouts. Unless the disputes can be ended within the next few days 700,000 workmen will be idle.

Negotiations for peace between the Association of Metal Employers and Metal Trade Workers will begin at once. An adjustment of the differences in this trade will have great influence on the situation in allied industries.

The total number of metal workers is close to 600,000. They have been financially assisting the striking shipbuilders. To cut off this aid the Association of Metal Employers recently decided to lock out 60 per cent of its men unless the shipbuilders returned to work prior to Oct. 8. In retaliation the employes voted to declare a strike. The 40,000 shipbuilders show no signs of weakening. The managing committee of the socialist party is aiding in the support of the idle men.

Demand For Rat Skins.

The use of rat skins in various industries has created a demand in London alone to the amount of nearly 200,000 a year. They are used, among other things, for bookbinding, photo frames, purses, and for thumbs of gloves.

A new branch of work is likely to increase the consumption largely, and is much as 75 to 90 cents a day has been earned by the unemployed in Denmark last year, when the rat act was passed. The damage done by rats in England alone is estimated to amount to many million dollars per annum, and their capture already occupies a large number of persons.—Fur News.

Sunflower Philosophy.

Very young people and very old people are abused as much for getting married as a widower.

Look yourself over. Do you bore people? A good many do, and you are not above suspicion.

A ferry-boat in use in the harbor of Dusseldorf is supplied with a deck which can be raised and lowered 17 feet. In fact, it is a floating elevator. This feature is necessary because of the difference of the levels of the two landing stages made use of by the craft.

A recent traveler in the land of dikes and windmills has been at pains to make notes of the names bestowed by the Dutch merchants upon their country houses. Here are a few examples translated: "Our Contentment," "Joy and Peace," "Leisure and Happiness," "My Desire Is Satisfied," "Friends and Quiet," "My Wife and I," "Not So Bad." To say the least, any one of these would seem to indicate more of the genuine sentiment of the householder than can possibly be expressed by the "Belle Vues" and "Cedars" of Suburbia.

Sample Helps Frail Women

So many women are dragging out weary lives just because their digestive organs are weak. The result is poor circulation, nervousness and the verge of invalidism. It is often very unnecessary and the woman's own fault.

The first thing to do is to look to the welfare of your bowels. There the trouble usually lies. All physicians know that a large percentage of women are habitually constipated, and from this results indigestion, piles, weariness, etc., that women constantly complain of. But there is no use taking "female remedies" and things of that kind until you have started your bowels to moving. You will find that when the bowels move regularly once or twice a day all your petty ills will disappear. Take a good, mild laxative tonic like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for awhile and you will find yourself rapidly getting better and stronger, your bowels will regulate themselves and weak at stated times, and then your headaches and dizziness will disappear. Don't take strong cathartic pills or salts, but just such a mild and pleasant-tasting remedy as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

You can obtain a bottle of your druggist for fifty cents or one dollar, and either size may be enough to permanently cure you. Thousands of women keep it regularly in the house and will no longer be without it, as it cured them and can be used with safety by every member of the family, down to the youngest child, but if you have never used it take the advice of Mrs. Earl S. Cox, 409 Twenty-fifth street, Moline, Ill., and Mrs. Ellen Dungan, Muncie, Ind., and send to Dr. Caldwell for a free trial bottle, as they did, and learn for yourself what it will do in your own case. That it will cure you, as it did them, there is no doubt.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. SIX MEET DEATH AT FATAL CURVE

Another Disaster on Traction Line in Indiana.

SIX KILLED AND MANY INJURED

Limited Passenger Car Runs Into a Freight on the Indiana Union Traction Company's Line Near Tipton.

Tipton, Ind., Sept. 26.—A head-on collision on the Indianapolis and Peru division of the Indiana Union Traction company's lines between a limited passenger and a freight car, near here, resulted in the death of six persons and serious injury to six more.

The dead are Dr. W. T. Holthomer, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Walter Holthomer, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Fred Rallsback, Hymeria, Ind.; Jonce Paker, motorman on limited, Logansport; Lewis Brook, Kokomo, Ind.; B. F. Welsh, Marshall, Mich.

The cars came together on a curve. All the passengers in the smoking compartment of the limited were killed. The motorman and conductor on the freight car jumped and were not injured.

The injured were brought to Tipton. Those most seriously hurt are Vincent Zantogfie, Sharpsville, Ind., Joe E. Hawkins, Indianapolis, Mrs. Harriette Hutchins, Alexandria, Ind., J. E. Ballinger, Sharpsville Ind., Mrs. T. A. Moore, Elwood, Ind., and Charles Grave, Indianapolis.

MAYOR GAYNOR'S BARN BURNS

Blaze Was Stubborn One and Required Hard Work by Firemen.

St. James, L. I., Sept. 26. — Mayor Gaynor saw his biggest barn burn down. Standing on the front lawn, a hundred yards away, he watched the flames eat their way through one corner of the big structure and sweep it from end to end, licking up thirty-five tons of hay, stacked rafter high in the loft, as well as every stick of timber above the concrete foundations.

It was a fierce blaze, threatening for a time, not only the four smaller outbuildings, but also the homes of next door neighbors and only by the hardest kind of work by the local firemen and sympathetic town folk was it kept from doing more serious damage. As it was, the loss will figure up to perhaps $3,000.

SUNFLOWER PHILOSOPHY.

The only thing most people acquire is old age.

What has become of the old-fashioned boy who played a Jew's harp?

Men may begin the marrying talk, but it is the women who keep it up.

A man never shows much fondness for his kin until he gets an office, and needs deputies.

A girl who is truthful about everything else will fib about the number of her admirers.

BLOCKADED.

Every Household In Tecumseh Should Know How To Resist It

The back aches because the kidney's are blockaded. Help the kidneys with their work. The back will ache no more. Lots of proof that Doan's Kidney Pills do this. It's the best proof, for it comes from Tecumseh.

Eugene Hodges, Cumings Street Tecumseh, Mich., says: "Several years ago I used Doan's Kidney Pills and found them to be a good remedy for strengthening the kidneys and clearing the system of uric poison. Other members of my family have taken Doan's Kidney Pills with good result and consequently I have no hesitation in publicly recommending them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York. Sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's and take no other.

DISCOVERS BODY IN A FIELD

Neigrbor Stumbles Onto Corpse of Samuel Mohr Near His Home.

Shelbyville, Ind., Sept. 26. — While William Pike was passing a field near the home of Samuel Mohr, west of Marietta, he discovered the body of a man lying in the field.

He climbed over the fence and found it to be the body of Mohr. Mr. Mohr was subject to epileptic fits. He had been in the field cutting corn, when he was stricken and expired. The widow and one child survive.

WHALE TANGLED IN CABLE.

That Was Why Communication With Alaska Ceased.

A big whale recently played havoc with the cable connecting the Territory of Alaska with Seattle, and it cost Uncle Sam many dollars to repair the damage.

Sent north to discover the cause of a sudden interruption of cable service between Valdez and Sitka, Captain Laffin, of the United States cable ship Burnside has just returned here with an interesting story. The cable ship picked up the cable near Cooks Inlet of Sitka and found enough work to keep the crew busy for several days.

A whale feeding on the bottom of the ocean and swimming along with its mouth wide open in order that the meshes of whalebone might catch and hold food collided with the cable. The cable became entangled in the long bunches of whalebone hanging from the upper jaw of the whale and the great bulk, in its struggle to spit out the cable turned over and over, dived and leaped until the inch and five-eighths of wire rope was twisted and kinked in a tangle worse than the famous Gordian knot of old.

Unable to free itself the whale drowned, and the crew of the Burnside never had a worse job of lifting a cable than when they tried to haul on board the wire some miles off Cooks Inlet. When the twisted and knotted cable was finally brought on deck the partly decayed carcass of the whale was still attached to it.

The cable was severed and again connected and put into service while the ship's crew cleaned up the kinked section of cable. It is believed that more than 200 feet of cable was twisted into a knot. The cable did not part because of its tensile strength of 20,000 pounds.

Some years ago the cable was found twisted and knotted in a like manner and now Captain Laffin thinks he can explain the reason for it. The kinked cable then caused a great deal of discussion among sailors and gave rise to the theory that it had been twisted by jagged rocks turned over and over by a submarine earthquake.—New York Sun.

Four Pneumatic Cows.

The town of O'Brien has four pneumatic cows, thanks to Freddie Kupp, aged 17 years, who has seen fit to introduce this innovation to the barnyard world.

Some little time ago Freddie became displeased at Seth Morris an O'Brien rahchman, and decided that Seth should be made to feel the weight of Freddie's displeasurs. Some boys might have heaved rocks through Seth's windows, or "swiped" his fruit and vegetables, or put some of his live stock out of commission. This was not Freddie's way, however. He hid his displeasure and waited for a chance to "get back at Mr. Morris."

A couple of days ago it came to Frederick's attention that Mr. Morris wanted to buy five nice milch cows. Freddie, sitting on a fence and watching spring creep over the White River Valley, thought and thought. He knew of four cows for sale cheap, but they were not milch cows, and Seth Morris wanted milch cows. Then the great idea came.

Frederick went to the farmer owning the four nonmilch cows and arranged for their purchase at $20 per cow. Then he secured an ancient bicycle pump.

"I'll make them look like milch cows, for $40 apiece," Freddie confidentially informed Mr. Morris. "But I must deliver the cows and get my money at once. I need it."

The cows looked mighty good to Mr. Morris. They looked as if they could give gallons and gallons of milk. He bought the cows, paid for them. The first time he tried to milk them, however, the net result was several cubic feet of compressed air.

Expert testimony secured by Mr Morris is to the effect that he cannot prosecute Frederick Kupp, although at the very first milking even the air supply has been exhausted from O'Brien's first pneumatic cows.—Seattle Times.

Sunflower Philosophy.

People have to learn to loaf, the same as they have to learn to work.

Plenty of people can stand adversity, but only a few can stand prosperity.

There is not much falling in love lately; and those that are in are falling out.

Every man can prove that other people impose on him more than he imposes on others.

When you see a woman on the streets she is going to one of two places: to a dry goods store or to the dentist.

A man was to be executed at Coolidge, and he said to the hangman: "I am not fit to be hanged; keep me until I become converted."

In view of the fact that nearly every farm is occupied there seems to be too much worry because the boys won't stay on the farm. Enough of them do.

It is our idea that wives worry too much; very few husbands are stolen and those that are seem hardly worth worry.

The elderly women, instead of trying to coax young women to wear less false hair, seem to be adopting the puff fad themselves.

There isn't anything more encouraging than to see an old married couple walking along and really enjoying each other's society.—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

Detroit has expended $7,830,811.90 on its pavements in the last eight years. Of this sum, $2,553,[illegible] was spent on new pavement, that is, in paving streets which previously had been unpaved. The remainder of the sum, $5,347,729.77 was spent in repaving, resurfacing and paving repairs.

A year and a half ago the Lackawanna railroad installed the telephone system of operating trains over a part of the line near Scranton. It found the telephone service more satisfactory than the telegraph, and this has been extended until now all its trains except those on the branch in New Jersey are operated by telephone.

Chicago is to have a polyglot newspaper. It will be published by the united societies for local self-government, in the interest of the "home rule" and personal liberty principles. The paper will be printed in English, German, Polish, Bohemian and Italian, and it is expected that later there will be editions printed in the languages of each nationality represented in the societies.

MANY WITNESSES SUMMONED

Must Appear Before the Lorimer Subcommittee in Chicago.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—Thirty-five witnesses, among them three confessed bribe takers, have been summoned to appear before the senate subcommittee and testify in the investigation into William Lorimer's right to represent Illinois in the U. S. senate.

Fear that some of the witnesses might run away prompted the early issuance of subpoenas and the attempt to keep secret the names of those served.

CURIOUS CONDENSATIONS

There is one public house in London for each 730 inhabitants.

The prizes now being contested for by aviators number 38 and are valued at $300,000.

There are in Germany about 7,500 hospitals in which 1,200,000 patients are annually treated.

Texas has taken pattern from New York and now has in effect a law prohibiting gambling at race tracks.

For the instruction to tourists about to visit Egypt, Persia and India, a museum is to be established in Paris.

In the China inland mission, which was opened 44 years ago, there are 928 foreign missionaries residing at 210 stations.

It has been reported that the disease known as trachoma, or granular eyelids, has been spreading rapidly among the Indians.

NEW PLOW CHAMPION

Maurice Williams of Big Rock Wins the World's Title.

Unique Match Held on Bert Fountain Farm, Attracts Large Crowd—Fairweather Loses Title.

Aurora, Ill., Sept. 26.—William Fairweather, world's champion plowman, was deprived of his honors by Maurice Williams of Big Rock at the sixteenth annual Big Rock plowing match. Fairweather won the championship from Cyrus Stark last year.

The match was held on the Bert Fountain farm, three miles west of Big Rock. Three thousand persons watched the event despite the fact that rain fell all night. Politicians from all sections of northern Illinois were in attendance and farmers from thirty miles around drove cross country to the match.

In the sweepstakes plowing match Williams was first, Willado Thomas of Big Rock was second, and Fairweather, the champion, was third. The Wheatland champion was expected to win and a mighty cheer went up as he mounted his plow and drove through the field, cutting a straight furrow.

In the open field contest George Sanders won first honors and Lester Minard second. In the 18-year-old contest Justino Kayser, the only entrant, was awarded the honors. The 16-year-old boys' match was won by William Hippo of Wheatland, Ben Edwards of Big Rock, being second.

100 YEARS OLD; STILL WORKS

Eleazer Fisher Attributes Longevity to Nonuse of Whisky and Tobacco.

Sandwich, Ill., Sept. 26.—Eleazer Fisher, a resident of this place, will celebrate his 100th birthday today. Mr. Fisher has lived in Illinois fifty years and has cast a greater number of presidential votes than any man in De Kalb county. His first vote was in 1832.

He is in good health and works every day on his land. He says his longevity is due to total abstinence from tobacco and intoxicants.

MICHIGAN LOSES A GOOD END

Munson, Football Player, Dislocates His Shoulder Tackling Dummy.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 26. — Joy that filled the Wolverine football training camp as the result of the return of Half Back Joe Magidsohn was tempered at the close of the practice by the first accident of the season.

Munson, a husky end, who reported with Magidsohn, dislocated his shoulder when he threw himself at the tackling dummy.

GIVEN SOOTHING SIRUP; DIES

Baby is Victim of Morphine Poisoning, Decides Cleveland Coroner.

Toledo, O., Sept. 26.—A few minutes after Mrs. John Bullendorf had given her 17-day-old daughter a dose of soothing sirup the baby became unconscious and died two hours later while a physician was working over her.

After an investigation Coroner Charles J. Henzler said death was caused by morphine poisoning.

"TANK SCRAP" VERY BRUTAL

Sophomore Probably Fatally Injured at Purdue University.

LaFayette, Ind., Sept. 26.—One man is dying and twenty others are suffering from severe injuries as the result of a fight between forty sophomores and 600 freshmen at Purdue university. The fight was the students' annual "tank scrap," and the freshmen won the battle for the first time in seventeen years.

C. C. Gillian, a sophomore from Kendallville, Ind., was carried from the campus unconscious and internally injured, and at the hospital where he was taken little hope of his recovery is entertained.

Saratoga, Sept. 29.—The Republican state convention at its final session last night nominated the following ticket:

Governor—Henry L. Stimson, of New York.

Lieutenant Governor—Edward Schoeneck, of Syracuse.

Secretary of State — Samuel S. Koenig, of New York.

Comptroller—James Thompson, of Valley Falls, Rensselaer county.

State Treasurer—Thomas Fennell, of Elmira.

Attorney General—Edward R. O'Malley, of Buffalo.

State Engineer and Surveyor—Frank M. Williams, of Oneida.

Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals—Irving G. Vann, of Syracuse.

Messers Koenig, O'Malley and Williams are renominated.

A successor to the late Edward G. Bartlett, associate judge of the court of appeals, will be selected by a committee after the nominations for these two places in the court of appeals bench have been made by the Democratic state convention at Rochester.

Mr. Root called the final session of the convention to order shortly after 6 o'clock last night. There were no more skyrockets, no more fuss, but all hands got down to business, as a vast majority of the delegates wanted to start for home on night trains.

The roll call for the nomination for governor brought forth Kingsbury Foster, of the Nineteenth district of New York county, who nominated Representative William S. Bennett. Mr. Foster extolled Bennett, telling how he had been instrumental at Albany in pushing the employers' liability law, and Mr. Foster added that Representative Bennett's energy and industry in promoting the work of the Federation of Labor and his loyalty to organized labor and his great popularity among the people would redound to his credit.

When Nassau county was called on the roll, up stepped Col. Roosevelt to the platform. He said:

"I have a genuine regard and respect," said the new leader, "for Representative Bennett, but the situation calls for another man at this time. I rise to nominate Henry L. Stimson, of New York. He is a good man. As president, I appointed him United States district attorney of New York. It was necessary to have an honest man in that place, a man of true integrity. I believed that Mr. Stimson as United States district attorney would be called upon to meet the ablest lawyers capital could employ. Mr. Stimson make good. He was pitted against the best lawyers of the land. It was his business to bring to book the sugar trust, which had defrauded the government out of enormous sums, literally a vast fortune. Mr. Stimson convicted man after man in the sugar trust. He proved his case so true that the trust threw up its hands and restored an enormous sum to the government. Mr. Stimson is a man of great ability and I have the greatest pleasure in nominating him for governor."

John Lord O'Brien, of Buffalo, also a United States district attorney, appointed when Col. Roosevelt was president, seconded Mr. Stimson's nomination. Only two were nominated.

The total vote for those named for governor was as follows: Stimson, 646; Bennett, 242, Dunn, 38, McEwan, 35.

Immediately after Permanent Chairman Root announced the result of the ballot; Mr. Foster Representative Bennet's spokesman, rose to make Mr. Stimson's nomination unanimous. Speaker Wadsworth, head of the Livingston county delegation, did likewise and so did William Barnes Jr., head of the Albany county delegation. There was only one name submitted for lieutenant governor and the other offices.

The platform indorses the administrations of President Taft and Governor Hughes; declares that the Payne-Aldrich tariff law has been a success, and refers with approval to the work of the last congress. It pledges the continuance of the state graft inquiry "until all wrong-doing capable of exposure shall be brought to light." The plank relating to direct primaries is brief, but admits of no misconstruction.

"We promise legislation which will enact these principles into law," is the pledge.

The majority platform was adopted by the convention.

Washington, Sept. 29.—New York state volunteers in the Spanish-American war will receive about $40,000 additional pay which they contend the government owes them.

BOY THROWN THIRTY FEET

Swings High, Rope Parts, Internal Injuries May Result.

Anderson, Ind., Sept. 29. — Lester, the 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Delph, is in a critical condition the result of falling from a swing.

The boy was hanging high in a rope swing attached to the limb of a large tree when the rope parted, throwing him thirty feet. No bones were broken but physicians fear internal injuries.

FIREMEN RESCUES CHILDREN

Ten Youngsters Are Carried Unconscious from Burning Homes.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Risking their lives and fighting through fire and smoke until almost exhausted, firemen rescued four families, including ten children, from blazing dwellings at 1413 and 1415 Washburne avenue.

The children had been overcome by the smoke. It was with difficulty that they were revived after being carried to the street by firemen.

FERRY WRECK SURVIVOR MAD

Pere Marquette Deck Hand, Hit by Falling Funnel, Grows Violent.

Ludington, Mich., Sept. 29. — Mike Peptlokey, a deck hand and one of the survivors of the wreck of the Pere Marquette car ferry 18, went violently insane at the hospital where he has been since the accident.

Peptlokey was injured in the head by a falling smoke funnel at the time of the wreck.

SENATOR LORIMER WINS BIG VICTORY

White's Testimony Causes Sensation at Hearing.

HEARSAY TESTIMONY RULED OUT

Counsel for Lorimer Will Try to Show That the Charges Against Him Are the Result of a Political Conspiracy.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—A decided victory was won by Senator William Lorimer at the hearing by a committee of seven United States senators of charges that the Illinois senator won his seat by means of bribery.

The committee ruled in favor of the senator in one case of particularly broad significance and in several other cases, which, though not of great moment in the hearing, indicated the viewpoint of the committee toward the testimony of Charles A. White, legislator and Lorimer's chief accuser.

All evidence with regard to White's conversation with William Russell, by which Attorney Alfred S. Austrian, representing the Chicago Tribune and the Legislative Voters' league, hoped to get before the committee details of the alleged source of the so-called Lorimer fund, was ruled out flatly by the committee.

The final victory of Senator Lorimer came immediately prior to the noon recess. Attorney Austrian again offered the original manscript of White's story in evidence. The committee declined to take action, promising, however, to consider it later.

A dramatic incident of the session was a sharp clash between Attorneys Hanecy and Austrian, one of many of the day, over the charge—or intimated charge—of Mr. Hanecy that the case when sifted down would prove to be a conspiracy among Gov. Deneen, the Chicago Tribune, Roger Sullivan and other politicians against Lorimer and Lee O'Neil Browne. The two attorneys discussed this heatedly, the controversy becoming so bitter that the committee stopped it.

One victory of Lorimer—an incident that caused uneasiness to the "prosecution"—was the admission of White that he signed the contract with the Tribune for publication of his story with the knowledge that several clauses and statements in the contract were incorrect. This was the first time White ever testified this.

White caused another bombshell to drop in the camp of the opponents when he admitted that he would have accepted $75,000 from Senator Lorimer for the manuscript after he had written to the senator offering it for sale to him.

"Yes, I might have taken the $75,000," was the declaration of the witness that caused a stir in the room. The admission came after a sharp questioning of the witness by Senator Paynter of Kentucky, which followed a two-hour grilling by Attorney Hanecy.

White was on the stand all of the forenoon Wednesday. State Senator D. W. Holstlaw of Iuka, who charged that he was paid $2,500 by State Senator John Broderick for his vote for Lorimer, was in the witness room while White was testifying. According to the present program Holstlaw will be placed on the witness stand as soon as the examination of White is completed.

UNION TREASURY INCREASING

Miners' Strike Assessment of $1 a Week Is Needed No Longer.

Indianapolis, Sept. 29.—Miners will not be required to pay the $1 a week assessment which was levied at the special convention of United Mine Workers, held here last month, to carry on the various strikes, according to a circular being sent out from the office of Secretary Treasurer Edwin Perry.

The largest of the strikes then facing the organization have been settled and Mr. Perry said the union would have between $100,000 and $200,000 in the treasury by Dec. 1.

DEMOCRATS MEET IN EMPIRE STATE

State Convention Opens Today at Rochester, N. Y.

HAVENS MAY HEAD THE TICKET

Harmony Prevails in Ranks of Party and Session Will Most Probably Be Short One—Murphy Is in Complete Control.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 29.—These are the candidates in the field for the Democratic nomination for governor, and it is likely that the names of most of them will be submitted to the convention: James S. Havens, Rochester; Thomas S. Osborne, Cayuga; Edward M. Shepard, Brooklyn; William Sulzer, New York; Justice James Gerard, New York; Martin Littleton, Brooklyn, and John A. Bensel, New York.

The choice rests with Charles F. Murphy, the Tammany leader. He is the real state leader, and it is admitted by every one here that the candidate he decides to support will be nominated. He has at least 186 votes behind him from New York, Kings, Queens and Westchester counties and can also command the votes of the delegates from Chemung, Cattaraugas, Warren, Dutchess and Chenango counties, which will give him a majority.

Murphy, however, refuses to make the slightest intimation as to the candidate he is likely to support. He is taking the stand that this is not a year for individual preferences and that the candidate to be picked by the convention should be the choice of the majority of the leaders.

The declination of Mayor Gaynor to accept the nomination was unexpected by Murphy, Norman E. Mack, William J. Conners and other leaders who have reached here. They frankly admitted that despite the mayor's letter, in which he stated that he was not a candidate, they fully expected that he would take the nomination if it should come to him.

The issue seems to lie between Shepard, Havens and Osborne, and the indications are that Havens will have the greater number of votes on Friday. The managers of the Havens campaign said that even before Gaynor withdrew they were sure of 80 out of the 450 votes in the convention and that as a result of conferences with different county leaders they were now sure of not less than 175 votes. Two hundred and twenty-six votes are required to nominate.

In the case of the naming of Havens, the second place on the ticket would, of course, go to a man from down state. Talk was heard that Mr. Sulzer might be induced to take the nomination for lieutenant governor. When Sulzer was asked as to this possibility he declined to commit himself.

Tammany waltzed into town last light, careless-like and free. Band after band played for the braves from depot to hotels, while red fire sputtered everywhere.

It looks now as if the convention would wind up its business before very late Friday afternoon. According to the present program, everything should be ready for the nomination of candidates by Friday noon. There is no indication of a sharp clash on platform utterances, and there are no contest fights to take up time.

POPE'S ENVOY TO VISIT TAFT

Cardinal Vannutelli First Pope Representative to See President.

Washington, Sept. 29.—Cardinal Vannutelli, representative of the Pope at the Eucharistic congress which has just ended at Montreal, will reach Washington today. There are more than 40,000 Catholics in Washington.

This afternoon the cardinal will be received by the president. The arrangements for this reception were made through Archbishop Ireland. Cardinal Vannutelli, it is said, will be the first personal representative of the Pope to visit Washington and be received by the president of the United States.

The GOOSE GIRL

If a butcher or a baker or even a mountaineer pulls the bell cord and shows this ring admit him without fail. He will have vital news."

For half an hour the ambassador remained staring at the candlesticks. He wanted no dinner. He rang for his hat and coat, and twenty minutes later he was in the chancellor's cabinet.

"You seem out of health, baron," was the chancellor's greeting.

"I am indeed that, count. I received a letter today from the prince regent. It was sent to him by his majesty, who is hunting in Bavaria. Read it, count, but I pray to you to do nothing hastily."

The chancellor did not open the letter; he merely balanced it. His accustomed pallor assumed a grayish tinge.

"So his majesty declines?" he said evenly.

"You have already heard?" cried the amazed ambassador.

"Nothing. I surmise. The hour, your appearance, the letter—to what else could they point? I was afraid all along. Ah, if his majesty could but see her! Is she not worthy of a crown?"

"Herbeck, nothing would please me better than to see this marriage consummated."

"I believe you. We two peoples should be friendly. It has taken me months to bring this matter round. The duke rebelled; her highness scorned the hand of Frederick. Still, if you saw all the evidence in the case you would not blame the duke for his attitude."

"But those documents are rank forgeries!"

"So they may be, but that has not been proved. What remedy do you suggest?" asked the chancellor.

"I suggest that the duke must not know."

"Agreed. Go on."

"You will put the matter before her highness."

"That will be difficult."

"Let her repudiate the negotiations. Let her say that she has changed her mind. His majesty is quite willing that the humiliation be his."

"That is generous. But suppose she has set her heart on the crown of Jugendheit. What then?"

"In that event the affair is no longer in our hands, but in God's."

"Is there no way of changing the king's mind?"

"Read the letter, count," said the ambassador.

Herbeck read the letter. It was the work of a rather irresponsible boy.

"May I take this to her highness?" asked the chancellor. "I promise its contents will not go beyond her eye."

"I will take the risk."

Herbeck consulted his watch. It was half after 6. Her highness did not dine till 8.

"I shall go to her highness immediately, baron. I shall return the letter by messenger, and he will tell you the result of the interview."

"God be with you," said the ambassador, preparing to take his leave, "for all women are contrary."

After the baron was gone the chancellor paced the room with halting step. Then toward the wraith of his ambition he waved a hand as if to explain how futile are the schemes of men. He proceeded to the apartments of her highness. Would she toss aside this crown or would she fight for it? He found her alone.

He saluted her hand respectfully. "I have here a letter. I have given my word that its contents shall not be repeated to the duke, your father. If I let you read it will you agree to that?"

"SO HIS MAJESTY DECLINES?" HE SAID EVENLY.

"And who has written this letter?" noncommittally.

"His majesty the king of Jugendheit," slowly.

"A letter from the king!" she cried, curious. "Should it not be brought to me on a golden salver?"

"It is probable that I am bringing it to you at the end—of a bayonet," solemnly. "If the duke learns it contents the inevitable result will be war."

A silence fell upon them.

"He declines the honor of my hand—is that not it?" she finally said.

The chancellor assented.

"Ah!" with a note of pride in her voice and a flash in her eyes. "And I?"

"You will tell the duke that you have changed your mind," gravely.

"And if I refuse to change my mind?"

"I am resigned to any and all events."

"War!" Her face was serious. "And what has the king to suggest?"

"He proposes to accept the humiliation of being rejected by you."

"Why, this is a gallant king! Pouf! There goes a crown of thistledown." Then she laughed. There was nothing but youth in the laughter—youth and gladness. "Listen to me. I declare to you that I am happier at this moment than I have been in days. To marry a man I have never seen, whose looks, character and habits are unknown—why, I have lived in a kind of horror. I am free!" And she uttered the words as with the breath of spring.

The chancellor's shoulders drooped a trifle more, and his hand closed down over the letter.

"There will be no war," resumed her highness. "I know my father. One wills they clash, but in this instance mine shall be the stronger."

"But this is not the end."

"You mean that there will be other kings?"

"Yes, there will be other kings. I am sorry. What young girl has not her dream of romance? But princesses must not have romances. Yours, my child, must be a political marriage. It is a harsh decree."

"My highness will or will not marry, as she pleases. Am I a chattel that I am to be offered across this frontier or that?"

The chancellor moved uneasily.

"You will, then, tell the duke that you have changed your mind, that you have reconsidered?" he persisted.

"This evening. Now, godfather, you may kiss her serene highness on the forehead."

"This honor to me?" The chancellor trembled.

"Even so."

He did not touch her with his hands, but the kiss he put on her forehead was a benediction.

"You may go now," she said, "for I shall need the whole room to dance in. I am free, if only for a little while!"

"I SHALL NEED THE WHOLE ROOM TO DANCE IN."

CHAPTER VI.

GRETCHEN'S DAY.

GRETCHEN was always up when the morning was rosy, when the trees were still dark and motionless and the beads of dew white and frostlike, for what is better than to meet the day as it comes over the mountains and silence breaks here and there in the houses and streets, in the fields and the vineyards? Let old age, which has played its part and taken to the wings of the stage—let old age loiter in the morning, but not green years. Gretchen awoke as the birds awoke, with snatches and little trills of song. To her nearest neighbors there was about her that which reminded them of the regularity of a good clock; when they heard her voice they knew it was time to get up.

She was always busy in the morning. The tinkle of the bell outside brought her to the door, and her two goats came pattering in to be relieved of their creamy burden. Gretchen was fond of them. They needed no care at all. The moment she had milked them they went tinkling off to the steep pastures.

Even in midsummer the dawn was chill in Dreiberg. Gretchen blew on her fingers. The fire began its cheerful crackle, the kettle boiled briskly, and the frugal breakfast was under way.

There was daily one cup of coffee, but neither Gretchen nor her grandmother claimed this luxury; it was for the sick woman on the third floor.

What the character of the woman's illness was Gretchen hadn't an idea, but there could be no doubt that she was ill, desperately, had the goose girl but known it. Her face was thin and the bones were visible under the drumlike skin; her hands were merely claws. She mystified the girl, for she never complained, never asked questions, talked but little, and always smiled kindly when the pillow was freshened.

"Good morning, frau," said Gretchen.

"Good morning, liebchen."

"I have brought you a brick this morning, for it will be cold till the sun is high."

"Thank you."

Gretchen pulled the deal table to the side of the cot, poured out the coffee and buttered the bread.

"I ought not to drink coffee, but it is the only thing that warms me. You have been very patient with me."

"I am glad to help you."

"And that is why I love you. Now, I have some instructions to give you this morning. Presently I shall be leaving, and there will be something besides crowns."

"You are thinking of leaving?"

"Yes. When I go I shall not come back. Under my pillow there is an envelope. You will find it and keep it."

Gretchen, young and healthy, touched not this melancholy undercurrent.

"You will promise to take it?"

"Yes, frau."

"Thanks, little gosling. I have an errand for you this morning. It will take you to the palace."

"To the palace!" echoed Gretchen. "What shall I do?"

"You will seek her highness and give her this note."

"The princess! Will they not laugh and turn me out?"

"If they try that, demand to see his excellency Count von Herbeck and say that you came from No. 40 Krumerweg."

"And if I cannot get in?"

"You will have no trouble. Be sure, though, to give the note to no one but her highness."

Gretchen decked her beautiful head with a little white cap, which she wore only on Sundays and at the opera, and braided and beribboned her hair. Who was this old woman who thought nothing of writing a letter to her serene highness? And who were her nocturnal visitors? she pondered.

Being of a discerning mind, she idled about the Platz till after 9, for it had been told to her that the great sleep father late in the morning. What should she say to her serene highness? What kind of courtesy should she make? At least she would wear no humble, servile air, for Gretchen was a bit of a Socialist. Did not Herr Goldberg, whom the police detested—did he not say that all men were equal? And surely this sweeping statement included women. With a confidence born of right and innocence she proceeded toward the east or side gates of the palace. The sentry smiled at her.

"I have a letter for her serene highness," she said.

"Leave it."

"I am under orders to give it to her highness herself."

To be continued.

WISE AND FOOLISH VIRGINS

Matthew 25:1-13.—October 2

"Be ye therefore ready also; for the Son of man cometh at an hour when ye think not."—Luke 12:40.

THE Great Teacher in today's Study tells us further about his glorious Messianic Kingdom and concerning those who will be accounted worthy to share it with him—as his Bride. This parable has not been of general application all through this Gospel Age. It applies merely at the close of the Age—at the present time, we believe. It does not take into consideration the world, nor even the nominal Church, but solely, only, the true Church, the Virgin class. The word "virgin" signifies pure, and in using this term the Lord implies that he is referring only to those who have been justified, by faith and consecration, because by nature none are pure; none are holy; none are virgins.

Five Wise—Five Foolish

One of the special lessons of the parable is to show that amongst the pure, the wise, the consecrated people of God, there are two classes. For a time these will be all together—unseparated. But in the fulfilling of this parable certain circumstances and conditions and truths will develop and separate these two classes of saints, virgins.

The parable shows all the virgins as sleeping, waiting for the coming of the Bridegroom. Apparently, there is no difference; but really there is a difference—the wise had a larger supply of oil than had the foolish. Then came an announcement of the presence of the Bridegroom and a call to go forth to meet him. This implies that something from the prophetic Word at the appropriate time will call the attention of all the Virgin class to the presence of Messiah. But at the Second Advent it will be as it was at the First Advent, when John said to Jesus, "Behold there standeth one among you whom ye know not." We are not to expect the Second Coming of Christ in the flesh, but as a spirit being.

We are to remember that the Scriptures outline two distinct features connected with the Second Coming. First will come the parousia or "presence" of the Lord, recognizable only by the Wise and Foolish Virgins. In his parousia or "presence" he will test and prove his Church, dividing them into wise and foolish virgin classes—the wise virgins to become the Bride class and the foolish virgins to become the class who will experience a second grade of salvation—coming up out of great tribulation and becoming the Bridesmaids, so to speak, "the virgins, the Bride's Companions, who follow after her" (Psalm xlv, 14). These will attain great blessings in spiritual life, but fail to gain the prize of joint-heirship with the Lord in his Throne, in his Kingdom.

Later on will come the manifestation of Christ with his Church, in power and great glory, in the setting up of his Messianic Kingdom and in the overthrow of everything contrary to it. Concerning this manifestation we read, "When he shall appear, we, also, (the Bride class), will appear with him in glory."—Col. iii, 4.

It will be in the time of the presence, the parousia, of the Son of man, for the gathering of the "elect," that all the Virgins will be awakened by the message of the Truth. Some will be able to appreciate, others will not be able to appreciate his presence. The latter will need to "go and buy" the oil, the wisdom, the understanding, of the Divine Word. It will cost some of them considerable of self-sacrifice and humiliation to learn their lessons. Such as obtain the oil in time will join the party that will go in with the Bridegroom to the marriage feast. Then the door to that High Calling will close forever.

Thank God that it is not as we once supposed—that the door of mercy is to close, shutting out the foolish Virgins of the Church, together with the whole world of mankind; and, as we once supposed, shutting them into eternal torment. The parable merely shows that the closed door will exclude any others from coming into the Bride class, to be joint-heirs with Messiah in his Kingdom. The door will close because the full number elected and predestinated to this high honor will have attained the necessary character-likeness of Christ and will have stood the necessary testings.

As no one of the Jewish priests could ever serve as High Priest if he had a superfluous finger or toe, it is thus shown in the type that the antitypical High Priest, the Messiah, will have only a definite, fixed number of members in his Body—neither one too few nor one too many. Later on, the foolish Virgins came to the "door," but found it forever shut. They lost the great prize. They were foolish in that they did not give attention to getting the oil in time; foolish also in that they cared too much for the things of this present life; but they were Virgins, nevertheless. They finally got the oil, which represents the holy Spirit, but too late! The door was shut! They could not be of the Bride class. The Master answered, I know you not. I could not recognize you as my Bride.

In view of this the Lord exhorts that his consecrated followers of the Church or Virgin class be constantly on the alert, because they know neither the day nor the hour of the Master's coming and of the invitation to go in to the wedding. The parable shows, however, that although the time of the Master's coming could not be known in the past, nevertheless, it would be known to all of the Virgin class "in due time." It will be announced, as indicated in the cry. The cry will be so loud that all of the Virgins will hear it, even though the world will have no knowledge of it. The Master merely wished us to understand that the great event would not be foretold in advance.

The parable does not show how the foolish Virgins, excluded from the wedding and from membership in the Bride class, will be treated. Other Scriptures, however, show that this foolish virgin class will share with the world in a great time of trouble, which will then come to every nation. In that time of trouble these foolish virgins will suffer severely and "wash their robes and make them white in the blood of the Lamb," and thereafter be accounted worthy to "serve God in his Temple," though not worthy to be of the Temple. They will be accounted worthy to serve before the Throne, though not worthy to sit in the Throne. They will be accounted worthy to have palms of victory, but not be accounted worthy of crowns of glory. The lesson to God's people is to "Awake, to hearken, to have our lamps, the Word of God, trimmed and burning, and to have oil, the holy Spirit, in our vessels—to be living in an attitude of full consecration to God (Revelation vii, 9, 14, 15).

ALL MY PIMPLES GONE.

Girl Tells How a Blotchy Skin Was Cleansed by a Simple Wash

"I was ashamed of my face," writes Miss Minnie Pickard of Altamahaw, N. C. "It was all full of pimples and scars, but after using D. D. D. Prescription I can say that there is no sign of that Eczema, and that was three years ago."

D. D. D. has become so famous as a cure and instant relief in Eczema and all other serious skin diseases, that its value is sometimes overlooked in clearing up rash, pimples, blackheads, and all other minor forms of skin impurities.

The fact is, that while D. D. D. is so penetrating that it strikes to the very root of Eczema or any other serious trouble; the soothing Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol and other ingredients are so carefully compounded there is no wash for the skin made that can compare with this great household remedy for every kind of skin trouble.

D. D. D. is pleasant to use, perfectly harmless to the most delicate skin, and absolutely reliable. A 25 cent bottle will give you positive proof of the wonderful effectiveness of this great remedy.

GOOD WAY TO USE HYOMEI FOR CATARRH

Besides breathing through the inhaler a few times a day, many catarrh sufferers write that they find inhaling HYOMEI (pronounce it High o-me) from a bowl of steaming water each night before retiring a great aid in curing stubborn cases.

Try it; it's very simple; gives quick relief and you breathe eassier.

Fill a bowl half full of boiling water; pour into it a teaspoonful of HYOMEI, cover head and shoulders with a towel, and breathe through nose and mouth the pleasant, medicated, antiseptic and healing vapor that arises.

This method relieves that stuffiness at once and makes your head feel fine.

You can get a bottle of HYOMEI at druggists everywhere or at C. A Wright & Son's, Tecumseh, for only 50 cents. Ask for extra bottle HYOMEI Inhalent.

But bear in mind that a HYOMEI outfit which includes inhaler and bottle of HYOMEI costs $1.00.

But, as stated before, if you already own an inhaler, o bottle of HYOMEI costs but 50 cents.

HYOMEI is guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son Tecumseh, and druggists everywhere to cure catarrh, sore throat, coughs, colds, asthma and croup, or money back. Try it on that generous basis.

TWO BURN IN N. Y TENEMENT BLAZ

Fire Was Started by Aged Bo Seller in Early Morning.

TODAY IS JEWISH NEW YEA

Morris Pruckatz Held for Homicid Result of Fire—Building W Very Old and Flames Soon Gutted the House.

New York, Oct. 3.—An old five-st tenement at 80 Hester street gutted by a fire in which two peop their lives. Morris Pruckatz, 18, lived in the house, was arrested homicide in setting fire to the p Pruckatz, who has a book stand side, lived on the third floor with wife, Anna. They had lived there seventeen years. The ground was occupied by Isaac Fox as a room for peddlers' supplies. On top floor lived Mrs. Bertha Kee and her two sons, David, 22 and Isa 18. Sunday morning as Mrs. Kees went out, she called for Mrs. Pruckat The two often went out together. Th came back, he said, they should s the "Marzers" which he had laid for "Rosh Hashona, that is, the Bib for the Jewish New Year holi which will begin at sunset today last until sunset Wednesday night After the women had left him, old man drew on his dingy cut-a coat, tied about his neck the red dauna which served him for a c and necktie and went downstairs groped his way to the dark pocke der the stairs where he kept his of books and struck a match to out those he wanted. The m broke as he struck it and the bla end fell among the odds and end rubbish that littered the floor.

He ran into the street crying "F in his quavering voice. One man for the fire alarm box at the cor and another started to run up stairs of the burning home. The cient stairs were all ablaze, howe and in a short time the man had come out again.

He ran into the house next door going out on the fire escape lowe the ground ladder. Then he ca down and propped the ladder against the fire escape of No. 80. started up, but when he was at half way the ladder slipped a t and Levy fell to a picket fence in fr of the house. He was taken to G ernors hospital, both legs ba bruised and a cut on his head.

LENAWEE COUNTY FAIR

The crowds that have been attending the fair from this part of the lie country have been great and from ll reports this year has been a record breaker. Thursday was the record breaker and everybody was busy having a jolly time. The exhibits are giving great satisfaction in every department both in increase and quality The Stock department was especially fine and the womans tent proved a great attraction. Good programs were given, the woman's congress being a noticable feature, Literature was distributed and many subjects for the benefit of women were discussed.

Altogether the fair has been a great success this year and the weatherman has been most kind.

SOCIAL

BILLINGTON-POUCHER

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Simmons Sept. 22, 1910, their granddaughter, Miss Tennessee Billington and Leo A. Poucher being the contracting parties. The house was beautifully decorated with wild asters asparagus and other wild flowers. A lovely bower being arranged for the bridal party, who to the soft strains of a wedding march played by Miss Lottie Simmons took their places, Dr. Grey of Adrian college uniting them with the beautiful ring service.

The bride's gown was light blue silk with white lace while the groom wore the conventional black, they were unattended while the guests were enjoying the banquet a fearful din of guns mingled with the softer strains of the band, suddenly disturbed the quiet, but after the groom had passed the cigars quiet was restored.

About 90 guests were present. The grooms parents with his grandmother and a aged aunt and a number of others were present from Adrian, Mrs. Chas. Simmons of Batavia, and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gibbs and two children of Chicago and Mrs. John Echert of Oakley.

A center of interest was the room where the presents were shown and those were numerous and beautiful.

STILLARD-RICHMOND

At the residence of the brides sister Mrs. Wm. Alberts on Thursday Sept. 29 at high noon the marriage of Miss Willa Harter Stillard of Cinncinatti, O., and Chas. Harland Richmond was solemnized, Rev. Chas Buttars of Diroqua, Wis., pronouncing the Episcopal service that made them one. Miss Grace Alberts, neice of the bride was maid of honor. The guests were all from out of town.

FRUIT SHOWER

A very pretty party was given to the young girl friends of Miss Alice Combs Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. B. Earl Smith. Mrs. Smith and Miss Ruth Keeney entertained. Hearts was the game of the evening. A Chafing dish supper was served consisting of creamed Chicken on toast, Saratoga Chips, Sandwiches, Pickles Coffee and cake.

After refreshments were served a clothes basket loaded with canned fruit jellies and pickles was presented to the bride-elect, as a fitting beginning for her harder supplies.

MAKE BONFIRE OF 2000 FREIGHT CARS

D. T. & I. Cannot Afford to Repair Them or Let Them Stand Idle.

Two thousand freight cars belonging to the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton railroad will soon be burned at Jeffersonville, Ohio. It is said that many of these cars could be fixed up if the company had the money to defray the expenses but that it cannot keep them on the tracks unless they are of use.

The road has had wrecking crew out for the past ten days getting these cars together and dumping them into a ditch near Jeffersonville. The officials of the road say that they will be able to buy new cars before long and that for this reason they are not anxious to keep these cars. Already there have been more than 1500 dumped in the big ditch near Jeffersonville.

Don't think that piles can't be cured. Thousands of obstinate cases have been cured by Doan's Ointment. 50 cents at any drug store.

A GOOD POSITION

Can be had by ambitious young men and ladies in the field of "Wireless" or Railway telegraphy. Since the 8-hour law became effective, and since the wireless companies are establishing stations through-out the country there is a great shortage of telegraphers. Positions pay beginners from $70 to $90 per month, with good chance for advancement. The National Telegraph Institute operates six official institutes in America, under supervision of R. R. and wireless officials and places all graduates into positions. It will pay you to write them for full details at Davenport, Ia., Cincinnati, O., Portland, Ore., or Memphis, Tenn

PLAIN TALK ABOUT SUNDAY RECREATION.

The War and Navy Departments showed both common sense and a Christian spirit not long ago in meeting this very question of Sunday diversion. Some religionists at Kansas City organized a committee and proceeded on to Washington, where they presented to the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy a manifesto protesting against the Departments permitting "Sunday baseball playing on the part of the soldiers and sailors."

That Kansas City, which does not come into immediate contact with either sailors or soldiers, should take upon itself to regulate the habits of enlisted men is somewhat illustrative of these propagandists.

The authorities at Washington informed the committee from Kansas City that "enlisted men have little opportunity for relaxation, and that after the usual hours of Sunday worship it will be entirely proper to allow them to play baseball on the naval and military reservations where such contests do not interfere with other people's observance of the Sabbath."

The maddening feature of these clanging religionist commotions is their unwisdom from an economic politic or humane view-point. Take for example the Army canteen agitation which shook the country a few years ago. The howlers were too many for Washington and the canteen was abolished. If you will write now to the Secretary of War he will tell you that it was a harmful action, and that cases of drunkenness have doubled since the canteen was taken from the enlisted men.

The people that suffer most through the prejudices of he religionists are the poor at of the working classes whose six days of the week, from sunrise until dark, are spent in toil, and to whom Sunday brings relief from labor and a leisure that permits of dressing up and going out for recreation. To deny such people the opportunity of harmless diversion on Sunday is to darken even more their already none too lightsome existence. It is to deprive them of the physical relaxation they require; and still more important, in its effect upon the children of this class. For such reason the playground so invaluable a missionary for cleanliness (in mind and body) and wholesome living among the growing generation of these people and to the children of these Sundays recreation is vital.

Let any one of you under whose eye this paragraph happens to fall take your next Sunday walk in the park of your city and note the grateful enjoyment and the eagerness of the young sters who romp and roll upon the grass.—The Outing Magazine.

Sir Edward Malet's recently issued memoirs give the following as Bismarck's favorite story. "A traveler in the shires rested at noon at a wayside hostelry and took luncheon. When it was finished he asked for his bill. The landlord brought it to him After casting a glance at it he looked at Boniface and said, 'What is your name?' 'My name,' replied the landlord, 'is Partridge.' 'Ah, said the traveler, 'by the length of your bill I should have thought it wood have been Woodcock!'"

Sample Helps Frail Women

So many women are dragging out weary lives just because their digestive organs are weak. The result is poor circulation, nervousness and the verge of invalidism. It is often very unnecessary and the woman's own fault.

The first thing to do is to look to the welfare of your bowels. There the trouble usually lies. All physicians know that a large percentage of women are habitually constipated, and from this results indigestion, piles, weariness, etc., that women constantly complain of. But there is no use taking "female remedies" and things of that kind until you have started your bowels to moving. You will find that when the bowels move regularly once or twice a day all your petty ills will disappear. Take a good, mild laxative tonic like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for awhile and you will find yourself rapidly getting better and stronger, your bowels will regulate themselves and work at stated times, and then your headaches and dizziness will disappear. Don't take strong cathartic pills or salts, but just such a mild and pleasant-tasting remedy as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

You can obtain a bottle of your druggist for fifty cents or one dollar, and either size may be enough to permanently cure you. Thousands of women keep it regularly in the house and will no longer be without it, as it cured them and can be used with safety by every member of the family, down to the youngest child, but if you have never used it take the advice of Mrs. Earl S. Cox, 409 Twenty-fifth street, Moline, Ill., and Mrs. Ellen Duncan, Muncie, Ind., and send to Dr. Caldwell for a free trial bottle, as they did, and learn for yourself what it will do in your own case. That it will cure you, as it did them, there is no doubt.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

President Receives His Guest in East Room of White House.

Royal Visitor Asked for and Will Receive a Photo of Mr. Taft to Add to His Collection.

Washington, Sept. 29.—President Taft received his only crowned subject, the Sultan of Sulu, in the east room of the White House. The sultan, accompanied by the members of his party and by Col. Hugh L. Scott, former commandant at West Point, came over to the executive mansion shortly after 2 o'clock.

The president and Capt. Butt, his military aide, entered the east room shortly afterward. The sultan and Mr. Taft exchanged greetings and the president said he would be glad to give his imperial highness a photograph which will be added to the collection which the sultan is making on his trip around the world.

WISE AND FOOLISH VIRGINS

Matthew 25:1-13.—October 2

"Be ye therefore ready also; for the Son of man cometh at an hour when ye think not." Luke 12:40.

THE Great Teacher in today's Study tells us further about his glorious Messianic Kingdom and concerning those who will be counted worthy to share it with him—as his Bride. This parable has not been of general application through this Gospel Age. It applies merely at the close of the Age—the present time, we believe. It does not take into consideration the world nor even the nominal Church, but merely, only, the true Church, the elect class. The word "virgin" signifies purity, and in using this term the Lord implies that he is referring only to those who have been justified, by faith and consecration, because by nature none are pure; none are holy; all are virgins.

Five Wise—Five Foolish

One of the special lessons of the parable is to show that amongst the pure, wise, the consecrated people of God there are two classes. For a time they will be all together—unseparated. But in the fulfilling of this parable certain circumstances and conditions and truths will develop and separate these two classes of saints, virgins.

The parable shows all the virgins as waiting, waiting for the coming of the bridegroom. Apparently, there is no difference; but really there is a difference. The wise had a larger supply of oil than had the foolish. Then came the announcement of the presence of the bridegroom and a call to go forth to meet him. This implies that something from the prophetic Word at the appropriate time will call the attention of the Virgin class to the presence of Messiah. But at the Second Advent it will be as it was at the First Advent when John said to Jesus, "Behold, there standeth one among you whom ye know not." We are not to look for the Second Coming of Christ in the flesh, but as a spirit being.

We are to remember that the Scriptures outline two distinct features connected with the Second Coming. First comes the parousia or "presence" of the Lord, recognizable only by the wise and Foolish Virgins. In his "presence" he will test and try his Church, dividing them into wise and foolish virgin classes—the virgins to become the Bride class and the foolish virgins to become the Bride, who will experience a second period of salvation—coming up out of great tribulation and becoming the bridemaids, so to speak, "the virgins, the bride's Companions, who follow her" (Psalm xlv. 14). These will have great blessings in spiritual life, even to gain the prize of joint-heirship with the Lord in his Throne, in his kingdom.

Soon will come the manifestation of Christ with his Church, in power and great glory, in the setting up of the Messianic Kingdom and in the overthrow of everything contrary to it. During this manifestation we read, that we shall appear, we, also (the elect class), will appear with him in glory—Col. iii, 4.

We will be in the time of the presence, or Parousia, of the Son of man, for the gathering of the "elect," that all things will be awakened by the spirit of the Truth. Some will be able to appreciate, others will not be able to appreciate his presence. The latter will need to "go and buy" the oil—the wisdom, the understanding, of the Divine Word. It will cost some them considerable of self-sacrifice and humiliation to learn their lessons and to obtain the oil in time will join the party that will go in with the bridegroom to the marriage feast. The door to that High Calling will be forever.

God knows that it is not as we once thought—that the door of mercy is closed, shutting out the foolish Virgins of the Church, together with the world of mankind; and, as we supposed, shutting them into eternal torment. The parable merely shows that a closed door will exclude any from coming into the Bride class to be joint-heirs with Messiah in his Kingdom. The door will close when the full number elected and ordinated to this high honor will have attained the necessary characters of Christ and will have stood the necessary testings.

If one of the Jewish priests could serve as High Priest if he had a deformed finger or toe, it is thus that in the type that the antitypical Priest, the Messiah, will have a definite, fixed number of members of his Body—neither one too few nor too many. Later on, the foolish virgins came to the "door," but found it forever shut. They lost the prize. They were foolish in that they did not give attention to getting oil in time; foolish also in that they took too much for the things of this present life; but they were Virgins, pure.

The duel as understood by German army officers may be a pretty serious encounter. When Lieut. Granier and Lieut. Switzers fought, the conditions made it impossible that honor should be easily satisfied. These were the conditions: Alternative pistol shots, with 30 seconds aim at 10 paces, till one should be unable to continue the combat. Lieut. Granier had the first shot. He seemed to aim carefully at his opponent's head, but missed. Lieut. Switzers aimed, but when he pulled the trigger his pistol missed fire. This counted as a shot, however, and he again became the target. This time, apparently, Lieut. Granier meant business. Switzers fell, with a bullet hole through a lung. He died 36 hours later.

DISMISS CREWS IN WRECK

Traction Officials Demand Return of Property Without Explanations.

Newcastle, Ind. Sept. 29. — The crews of both the passenger and freight car of the T. H., I & E. traction line which collided head-on near Stop 16, three miles south of this city, several days ago, injuring eight persons, have been relieved from further service with the company, being ordered to turn in company property without any explanation.

They had been called before a court of inquiry.

EXPLOSION STARTS BIG FIRE

Business Section of Neshanic, N. J., Wiped Out by Blaze.

Somerville, N. J., Sept. 29.—A disastrous fire completely wiped out the business portion of the village of Neshanic, causing a loss of over $80,000.

The fire started in the plant of the Raritan Creamery company and was caused by the explosion of a gasoline engine.

The acting commissioner of internal revenue informs an inquirer that apothecaries are not required to pay special tax to the United States for keeping spirits of wine in stock for use in making up prescriptions, "provided the spirits of wine before being sold is compounded with drugs sufficient in quality and amount to alter its character and render it unsuitable for use as a beverage."

State Food and Dairy Commissioner Wright, of Iowa, proposes an exhibit and demonstration of impure foods in place of the pure food shows that have been popular for several years. He has instructed his deputies to collect samples of impure food and see that a display of them is made at the several county fairs throughout the state. Instruction will be given by the deputies how to detect adulterated and misbranded food-stuffs.

When Thomas HHill, now dead, painted "The Last Spike," which pictures the scene of the completion of the Central Pacific railroad and its junction with the Union Pacific, it was understood that he would receive $50,000 for the work. There was a misunderstanding, and the painting was left on his hands. Now that John Washburg, his son-in-law, is negotiating for its sale to an eastern man for $10,000, San Francisco people are trying to raise the money necessary to keep it in the city. Four hundred persons are shown in the painting, 70 of them by portraits.

Acording to the Boston Advertiser's John Lorance, newspaper men are well treated at the White House nowadays. Sometimes Mr. Taft sees them while senators wait in the anterooms. "On Sunday last," writes Lorance, "a large number of correspondents were with the president for two hours, having quite a visit with him and smoking Taft cigars. If any correspondent does not know wher the president stands on important questions, he is obtuse or unenterprising indeed. Yet be it said that the president is not using the press. No inspiring is being done. It is the correspondents that seek the president, and at all times he is frankly illuminating."

Marshall Bell, a wealthy resident of Newburg, caused something of a surprise recently by filing a voluntary application to be adjudged a bankrupt. His liabilities were stated to be $112,000, but on the day fixed for creditors to appear, claims to the amount of $2,000 only were presented. In his application Bell alleged that he got into a brace game of faro in New York city and played rashly until he lost all the cash he had with him and gave in addition his notes for $110,000. The faro dealers were too shrewd to attempt the collection of a gambling debt in the bankruptcy court. The referee will settle the claims presented and Bell will probably get his discharge.

FARWELL BANK ROBBED

Thieves First Gag and Gag Town's Telephone Operator.

Yeggs at Farwell, However, Scared Away by Town's Fire Whistle, Getting Only $40.

Farwell, Mich., Sept. 29.—First binding and gagging Allen Peppler, telephone operator in his office in the basement, four yeggmen pried open the front door of the local bank Wednesday and than started to blow open the bank vault with nitro-glycerine. Several charges were exploded by the robbers without success.

The noise awakened J. H. Stinchcomb, a restaurant keeper, and he notified Cashier F. E. Oliver by telephone. The latter promptly turned in a fire alarm and the yeggmen were frightened away before they had reached the vault's contents. Only $40, which was outside of the vault, was secured by them and about $1,000 worth of stamps was not taken.

The sheriff and a posse tracked the men along the Ann Arbor railroad and then lost all trace of them.

AERONAUT IS LOST IN LAKE

Michigan Man Disappears After a Parachute Drop Near Water.

Houghton, Mich., Sept. 29.—It is believed that Homer Hazard of Lansing, an aeronaut, was drowned at Portage Lake when he made a parachute drop after a balloon ascension at a county fair.

As Hazard went up the wind carried him over the lake. The balloon was found a quarter of a mile from here, but no tidings have been received of Hazard.

THIS WOMAN STAYS AT HOME.

In 14 Years She Has Not Spent a Night Away From Her Dock.

American women have the reputation of being restless gadabouts, not perhaps without having given grounds for the accusation; but there's one American woman who is a homestayer of the most chronic type.

Mrs. Kate Walker has lived in the lighthouse on Robbins Reef for twenty-three years, and the number doesn't have any mystic significance implying an impending departure either. For fourteen of those years ever since her husband's death, she herself has been keeper of the light.

Robbins Reef is a ledge a mile or so north of Staten Island on the port side as you sail up the bay. You reach Mrs. Walker's home by scrambling up an iron ladder after you have reached the spot—that is all it is, a spot—by boat. As that is the only means of reaching Mrs. Walker's establishment it is easy to understand that it isn't a rush of visitors that she keeps her at home.

She not only has the light to maintain—and she has never once failed in that—but there are also a siren run by an engine and a fog bell, both of which must be kept going in thick weather. According to Harper's Weekly Mrs. Walker takes a long nap in the afternoon, so as to keep on the alert at night. The machinery regulating the light, which is revolving, has to be wound up every five hours. She says that the light is never off her mind at night, and that even when she sleeps she wakes up every hour.

Before her husband died she went to the Catskills once, but since she became keeper of the light she has never been further than across the bay. Her front yard—and back and side yards too—is a narrow railed platform; beyond that only water on all sides.

BOMBS AND FIRE DESTROY A PAPER

Twenty Killed and Eighty Hurt --Los Angeles Times In Ruins.

DYNAMITE BOMBS ARE FOUND

Rumor Is That Further Attempt Has Been Made to Destroy the Residence of Gen. Harrison Gray Otis, the Publisher.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 3.—Following the explosion and fire that completely wrecked the building occupied by the Times-Mirror Publishing company, and resulting in the probable death of more than twenty employes of the newspaper, two dynamite bombs or infernal machines were discovered by the police, one at the home of the publisher of the newspaper, Gen. Harrison Gray Otis, and the other on the premises occupied by F. J. Zeehandelaar, secretary of the Los Angeles Merchants' and Manufacturing association.

The Los Angeles city council has voted $25,000 as a fund to be used in investigating the blowing up of the Times building, $1,500 of which amount is offered as a reward for information leading to the conviction of the guilty person of persons.

The Los Angeles Examiner has also offered a supplementary reward of $1,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons feloniously causing the destruction of the Times building and placing the bombs at the residences of Gen. Otis and Mr. Zeehandelaar.

Officers searching in an "L" at the corner of the home and directly under a bay window leading to the reception room, discovered a suitcase concealed among the bushes.

At this juncture they detected the whirring of clockwork and cut a semi-circular slash in the leather case and disclosed twelve sticks of dynamite bound together with wire and an ordinary alarm clock of cheap pattern. The detective hastily dropped the suitcase and made a race for a place of safety. They had retreated about fifty yards when, with a roar that shook the nearby residences, the infernal device exploded. Beyond tearing a great hole in the park and uprooting several trees no damage was done.

The fifteen sticks of dynamite were wrapped in cotton batting and a newspaper enclosed the bundle. One stick had been connected in two places with nine feet of two-time fuse. The fuse had been connected with a battery nailed on the side of the house. The battery was an ordinary dry-cell and it was connected to a small alarm clock with a three-inch dial.

A piece of brass was soldered to the alarm key, so that the movement of the handle, when the alarm went off, would move the brass plate on a pivot, thus making the electric connection.

Twenty persons were killed and eighty injured by a mysterious explosion which destroyed the plant of the Los Angeles Times.

The Times was going to press when the explosion occurred and more than a hundred employes were at work. Many were killed outright by the falling walls and beams. Approximately eighty, with limbs broken and covered with bruises and cuts, escaped to the street before the fire spread.

Every employe of the paper who was in the building at First street and Broadway was either killed or suffered injuries.

A rush of flames followed the explosion, preventing the rescue of the employes, who were trapped without the slightest chance of escape from the double horror.

The following employes of the linotype room are missing and are undoubtedly dead:

J. C. Galliher, W. G. Tunstall, Fred Llewellyn, John Howard, Grant Moore, Edward Wasson, Elmer Frink, Eugene Cares, Don E. Johnson, Ernest Jordan, Frank Underwood, Wesley J. Beaver, R. L. Sawyer, Harry L. Crane, Charles Gulliver, Carl Satalada.

Under the direction of L. J. Mather, inspector for the street department, a force of two hundred men has been at work since noon searching in the ruins of the Times building for the bodies of the score or so men who are reported by the officials of the company to be missing.

The ruins, however, were found too hot to permit of any extended search and a number of firemen were engaged in pouring thousands of gallons of water into the pile in order to cool them.

Frank Paaffinger, cashier of the newspaper, estimated the loss to the building at $450,000.

DROPS DEAD IN BURNING HOME

Arthur Davis Was In Act of Reaching for Purse When He Died.

Charlotte, Mich., Oct. 3.—While at work in a field, Arthur Davis, a Chester farmer, saw his house afire and ran to the burning dwelling. He rushed into the house and was in the act of reaching for his purse on a shelf when he fell dead.

Neighbors recovered the body before the house was completely destroyed. Davis was a heavy built man and the exertion, coupled with the excitement, caused his death.

CRY OF FIRE PROVES FATAL

Girl Dead, Woman Dying, as Result of Practical Joke.

Moline, Ill., Oct. 3.—As a result of an alleged practical joke, Miss Emma Bell, aged 21, cashier of a local department store is dead, and Mrs. John Guessford, wife of a railway fireman is dying in a Moline hospital. Both were riding on a Moline, East Moline and Watertown interurban car when a fuse burned out and in the darkness an unidentified man yelled, "Car's on fire—jump!"

The two women jumped from the car before it stopped. Mrs. [illegible] died on the way to the hospital.

200 MEN KILLED IN MINE DISASTER

Explosion In Mexico Colliery Causes Large Death Loss.

SIXTY BODIES ARE RECOVERED

Second Explosion Causes Death of Eight Members of Rescuing Party —Scenes at Ill-Fated Mine Is Heart-Rending.

Eagle Pass, Tex., Oct. 3.—The coal disaster near Esperanza, Mex., about 100 miles south of here, late Saturday, was worse than early reports indicated. Advices received here late last evening are to the effect that more than 200 men were in the chamber where the explosion occurred, and that they are still all believed to be dead. Immediately after the explosion a rescuing party entered the shaft, when a second explosion occurred. Eight members of the party were killed.

The debris which blocked the entrance to the chamber was cleared away after several hours' work and dead bodies are now being slowly removed. The foul gas is interfering with the work. At last reports more than sixty bodies had been recovered.

A force of government soldiers is on the ground to preserve order. Members of the bereaved families are gathered around the mine's opening and the scene is heart-rending. The government has ordered an investigation as to the cause of the explosion. The mine is owned by the Coahuila Coal company, a subsidiary concern of the Mexican Coal and Coke company, which is controlled by Erie railroad interests.

INJURED STILL IN DANGER

Some of Those Hurt Will Recover from Injuries.

Harold A. Stone, Theodore Gramucci, C. Cornell and Louis Chevrolet Are Among Those Who May Live.

New York, Oct. 3. — Of the more than twenty who were injured in Saturday's Vanderbilt cup race, three of those taken to the Nassau county hospital are said to be still in danger. Five were able to leave the hospital.

Mrs. Ferdinand D'Zubin, whose husband was killed when the car he was driving, containing his wife and four men, got beyond his control on the hill near Old Westbury and plunged in the darkness to the bottom, where it turned over, is one of those at the hospital who is still extremely in danger. Both her legs were broken. Thomas Summers and Edward Brown were in the car with them and were hurt. Their condition is not serious.

Harold A. Stone, the driver of car 12, is the second of those likely to die. His car jumped the Meadowbrook bridge, killing the mechanician, Matthew Bacon, and threw him clear. Both his legs were broken. It was at first thought that his right leg would have to be amputated, but it has not yet been done.

Theodore Gramucci, a chauffeur for Wildred Taupler, of 542 West One Hundred and Twelfth street, has a chance to live.

C. Cornell Reid, of 876 West End avenue, was badly hurt. His leg is broken, but his condition is not serious.

Louis Chevrolet, driver of the Marquette Buick No. 4 is still at the hospital suffering from nervousness and is badly bruised.

Melvin Walters Football Victim.

Carlisle, Ind., Oct. 3.—Melvin Walters, 17 years old, a junior in Carlisle High school, received injuries in a football game between the Carlisle and Rockville High school teams which caused his death an hour later. He was kicked in the back of the head.

TWO BURN IN N. Y. TENEMENT BLAZE

Fire Was Started by Aged Book Seller in Early Morning.

TODAY IS JEWISH NEW YEARS

Morris Pruckatz Held for Homicide as Result of Fire—Building Was Very Old and Flames Soon Gutted the House.

New York, Oct. 3.—An old five-story tenement at 80 Hester street was gutted by a fire in which two men lost their lives. Morris Pruckatz, 78, who lived in the house, was arrested for homicide in setting fire to the place. Pruckatz, who has a book stand outside, lived on the third floor with his wife, Anna. They had lived there for seventeen years. The ground floor was occupied by Isaac Fox as a store room for peddlers' supplies. On the top floor lived Mrs. Bertha Kessler and her two sons, David, 22 and Israel, 18. Sunday morning as Mrs. Kessler went out, she called for Mrs. Pruckatz. The two often went out together. The old book seller told them when they came back, he said, they should see the "Marzers" which he had laid in for "Rosh Hashona, that is, the Bibles for the Jewish New Year holiday, which will begin at sunset today and last until sunset Wednesday night.

After the women had left him, the old man drew on his dingy cut-away coat, tied about his neck the red bandanna which served him for a collar and necktie and went downstairs. He groped his way to the dark pocket under the stairs where he kept his stock of books and struck a match to pick out those he wanted. The match broke as he struck it and the blazing end fell among the odds and ends of rubbish that littered the floor.

He ran into the street crying "Fire" in his quavering voice. One man ran for the fire alarm box at the corner, and another started to run up the stairs of the burning home. The ancient stairs were all ablaze, however, and in a short time the man had to come out again.

He ran into the house next door and going out on the fire escape lowered the ground ladder. Then he came down and propped the ladder up against the fire escape of No. 80. He started up, but when he was about half way the ladder slipped a trifle and Levy fell to a picket fence in front of the house. He was taken to Governors hospital, both legs badly bruised and a cut on his head.

It was not until the fire was nearly out that the bodies of David and Israel Kessler was found. Lieut. Stevens and two firemen stumbled over them as they drove the fire to the wall on the top floor. David's body was in the hall near the top of the stairs and Israel's was under a rear window leading to the fire escape.

When Mrs. Pruckatz and Mrs. Pruckatz came home to see the "Marzers," one saw the bodies of her two sons being carried out, and the other saw her husband under arrest. The damage is estimated at $4,000.

CURIOSITY COSTS HIM DEAR

Port Huron Lad Nearly Killed In Exploding Railroad Torpedo.

Port Huron, Mich., Oct. 3.—Childish curiosity to know the mechanism of a large torpedo nearly caused the death of 8-year-old Adolph Yagle while he was playing with his little brother and a companion near Tappan Junction. One side of his face was almost torn away and he nearly bled to death before the arrival of a doctor.

While wandering along the Grand Trunk tracks the little fellow found one of the torpedoes used for stopping trains, and prompted by a desire to hear it go off, he placed it on a track and smashed it with an iron bar.

Former Mayor of Peru, Ind., Dead.

Lynchburg, Va., Oct. 3.—Orson Duran, aged seventy-two, former mayor and sheriff of Peru, Ind., is dead at the Elks' national hospital, near here.

CAMDEN, N. Y., IN RUINS

Twenty Buildings, Including 7 Business Blocks, Ruined.

Ten Residences Also in Ashes from Blaze Which Started from an Unknown Cause—Loss, $100,000.

Utica, N. Y., Oct. 3.—The village of Camden, a thriving farming community, ten miles north of Rome, was nearly wiped out by fire. The blaze started in the Whitney House from an unexplained cause, and before it was brought under control, twenty buildings, including seven business blocks, and ten residences were reduced to ashes with a loss of $100,000.

The Camden fire department, reinforced by a large detachment of firemen and several pieces of apparatus from Rome, fought the flames several hours, but were handicapped in their efforts by insufficient water pressure. The Whitney House, in which the flames started, was the scene of a fire a month ago and the structure was nearly destroyed at that time.

HARLAN MAY BE CHIEF JUSTICE

It Is Said President May Name Jurist for Remaining Days on Bench.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Associate Justice John M. Harlan will preside over the United States supreme court when it meets today. He is the senior associate justice, and as such will act as chief justice until a successor to the late Chief Justice Fuller is nominated and confirmed.

There has been much talk lately that President Taft may decide to nominate Justice Harlan as chief justice for the remainder of his service on the bench, which must necessarily be brief, with the understanding that ultimately Ex-Gov. Charles E. Hughes will be made chief justice. Justice Harlan will have served thirty-three years on the supreme bench Nov. 29.

ACCEPTS BANTER; IS KILLED

Boy Climbs Windmill Tower and Fall Causes His Death.

Princeton, Ind., Oct. 3.—Bantered by other boys at a Sunday school picnic, Edward Drake, 14 years old, of Mt. Carmel, Ill., climbed to the top of a windmill tower.

While attempting to touch the blades he lost his balance and fell fifty feet to the ground, alighting on his head. His skull was fractured and he died in an hour.

SEATS FALL; TWO INJURED

Collapse During Performance Brings Sullivan Play to End.

Sullivan, Ind., Oct. 3.—When a tier of seats collapsed at a show in Fairbanks Maude Fogue and Walted Lebaun sustained broken legs.

The performance was stopped in the middle of an act and the show men assisted in carrying the injured out on stretchers.

TAFT PARDONS SUGAR MEN

Four Former Weighers Made Happy Through His Intercession.

Washington, Oct. 3.—President Taft has pardoned Edward A. Boyle, John R. Coyle, Patrick J. Hennessey and Thomas Kehoe.

The men were sugar weighers and were serving sentences in connection with customs frauds in New York.

HOTEL BLAZE PROVES FATAL

Laborer Killed and Traveling Man and House Clerk Injured.

Watertown, S. D., Oct. 3.—Matthew Elwood, a laborer, is dead and L. Miller, a traveling man, and Grover Huston, a hotel clerk, were seriously injured in a fire at Willow Lakes, S. D., which destroyed the Nicollet hotel and two business houses.

Several others were slightly injured. The financial loss is about $35,000.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

IT'S THE WORLD'S BEST

No one has ever made a salve, ointment, or balm to compare with Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It's the one perfect healer of Cuts, Corns, Burns, Bruises, Sores, Scalds, Boils, Ulcers, Eczema, Salt Rheum. For Sore Eyes, Cold Sores, Chapped Hands or Sprains, it's supreme. Infallible for Piles. Only 25c at C. A. Wright & Son's.

Be noble! And the nobleness that lies
In other men sleeping but never dead,
Will rise in majesty to meet thine own.

I OWE MY CURE TO FOLEY KIDNEY PILLS

This is quoted from a letter written by Mrs. H. Armistead, 17 Greenely St., Adrian, Mich. "I suffered for many years with uraemia, or uric acid poisoning. Doctoring had no effect and my system was full of the poison due to poor kidney action. I felt miserable, tired readily, could not retain my food, my ankles were swollen. I commenced taking them. I began to improve and three bottles removed all my trouble, cleared my system of uric acid, and made my kidneys act properly. I now enjoy excellent health and I owe my cure entirely to Foley Kidney Pills and shall always recommend them." Sold by all druggists.

"Will the boy who threw that pepper on the stove please come up here and get a present of a nice book," said a Sunday-school superintendent in Iowa, but the boy never moved. He was a far-seeing boy.

A RELIABLE MEDICINE—NOT A NARCOTIC

A lady was lamenting the ill-luck which attended her affairs when a friend wishing to console her, bade her "look upon the bright side." "Oh" she sighed, "there seems to be no bright side." "Then polish up the dark one," was the reply. This was sound advice.

KILLS A MURDERER

A merciless murderer is Appendicitis with many victims. But Dr. King's New Life Pills kill it by prevention. They gently stimulate stomach, liver and bowels, preventing that clogging that invites appendicitis curing Constipation, Headache, Biliousness, Chills. 25c at C. A. Wright & Son.

Many spoil much good work for the lack of a little more.

IT BEATS ALL

This is quoted from a letter of M. Stockwell, Hannibal, Mo. "I recently used Foley's Honey and Tar for the first time. To say I am pleased does not half express my feelings. It beats all the remedies I ever used. I contracted a bad cold and was threatened with pneumonia. The first doses gave great relief and one bottle completely cured me." Contains no opiates. The GOOSE GIRL

By HAROLD MacGRATH

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

"You cannot enter the gardens without a permit."

Gretchen remembered. "Will you send some one to his excellency the chancellor and tell him I have come from No. 40 Krumerweg?"

"Krumerweg! The very name ought to close any gate. But, girl, are you speaking truthfully?"

Gretchen exhibited the note. He scratched his chin, perplexed.

"Run along. If they ask me I'll say that I didn't see you." The sentry resumed his beat.

Gretchen stepped inside the gates, and the real beauty of the gardens

"IN YOUR PRESENCE, HIGHNESS?"

was revealed to her for the first time—strange flowers she had never seen before. It was all a fairyland. There were marble urns with hanging vines and marble statues.

A hand grasped her rudely by the arm.

"What are you doing here?" thundered the head gardener. "Be off with you!"

"How dare you touch me like that?" she cried angrily.

Something in her glance cooled even the warm blooded Hermann.

"But you live in Dreiberg and ought to know."

"You could have told me without bruising my arm," defiantly.

"Hermann!"

Gretchen and the head gardener whirled. Through a hedge which divided the formal gardens from the tennis and archery grounds came a young woman in riding habit.

"What is the trouble, Hermann?" she inquired.

"Your highness, this young woman here had the impudence to walk into the gardens."

"Has she stolen any flowers?"

"Why, no, your highness, but it is not customary."

"We, you and I, Hermann," said her highness, with a smile that won Gretchen on the spot, "will overlook this first offense. Perhaps this young lady had some errand and lost her way."

"Yes, your highness," replied Gretchen eagerly.

"Ah! You may go, Hermann."

Hermann bowed, gathered up his pruning knives and scissors, which he had let fall, and stalked down the path.

"Whom were you seeking?" her highness asked, rather startled by the undeniable beauty of this peasant.

"I was seeking your serene highness. I live at No. 40 the Krumerweg.

"Krumerweg?" Her highness reached for the note and read it, and as she read tears gathered in her eyes. "Follow me," she said. She led Gretchen to a marble bench and sat down.

"What is your name?"

"Gretchen, highness."

"Well, Gretchen, sit down."

"In your presence, highness?" aghast.

"Don't bother about my presence on a morning like this. Sit down."

This was a command, and Gretchen obeyed with alacrity. The two sat mutely. They were strangely alike. Their eyes nearly matched, their hair, even the shape of their faces. They were similarly molded, too, only one was slender and graceful after the manner of fashion, while the other was slender and graceful directly from the hands of nature. The marked difference lay, of course, in their hands. The princess had never toiled with her fingers except on the piano. Gretchen had plucked geese and dug vegetables with hers. They were rough, but toil had not robbed them of their natural grace.

"How was she?" her highness asked.

"About the same, highness."

"Have you wondered why she should write to me?"

"Highness, it was natural that I should," was Gretchen's frank admission.

"She took me in when nobody knew who I was, clothed and fed me and taught me music so that some day I should not be helpless when the battle of life began. Ah," impulsively, "had I my way she would be housed in the palace, not in the lonely Krumerweg. But my father does not know that she is in Dreiberg, and we dare not tell him, for he still believes that she had something to do with my abduction." Then she stopped. She was strangely making this peasant her confidant. What a whim!

Gretchen did not move. She saw that her highness was dreaming, and she herself had dreams.

"Do you like music?"

"Highness, I am always singing."

"La, la, la!" sang the princess capriciously.

"La, la, la!" sang Gretchen, smiling. Her voice was not purer or sweeter; it was merely stronger, having been accustomed to the open air.

"Brava!" cried the princess. "Who taught you to sing?"

"Nobody, highness."

"What do you do?"

"I am a goose girl. In the fall and winter I work at odd times in the Black Eagle."

"Tell me all about yourself."

This was easy for Gretchen; there was so little.

"Neither mother nor father. Our lives are something alike. A handsome girl like you must have a sweetheart."

Gretchen blushed. "Yes, highness. I am to be married soon. He is a vintner. I would not trade him for your king, highness," with a spice of boldness.

Her highness did not take offense. Rather she liked this frankness. It was a taste of the old days when she herself could have chosen a vintner and married him with none to say her nay. She surrendered to impulse.

"Gretchen, I do not think I shall marry the king of Jugendheit."

Gretchen grew red with pride.

"You love some one else, highness?"

Her highness did not blush.

"You must not ask questions like that, Gretchen."

This was not understandable to Gretchen, but a locket the princess wore pleased her eye. Her highness, observing her interest, slipped the trinket from her neck and laid it in Gretchen's hand.

"Open it," she said. "It is a picture of my mother, whom I do not recollect having ever seen. I will open it for you." Click!

Gretchen sighed deeply. To have had a mother so fair and pretty! She hadn't an idea how her own mother had looked. Indeed, being sensible and not given much to conjuring, she had rarely bothered her head about it. Still, as she gazed at this portrait the sense of her isolation and loneliness drew down upon her, and she in her turn sought the flowers and saw them not. After awhile she closed the locket and returned it.

"So you love music?" picking up the safer thread.

"Ah, yes, highness."

"I will give you an opera ticket for the season. How can I reward you for bringing this message? Don't have any false pride. Ask for something."

"Well, then, highness, give me an order on the grand duke's head vintner for a place."

"For the man who is to become your husband?"

"Yes, highness."

"You shall have it tomorrow. Now, come with me. I am going to take you to Herr Ernst. He is the direktor of the opera. He rehearses in the court theater this morning."

Gretchen followed the princess. As her highness entered the Bijou theater the herr direktor stopped the music. In the little gallery which served as the royal box sat several ladies and gentlemen of the court, the grand duke being among them.

"I have brought you a prima donna, Herr Direktor," pointing to Gretchen.

Herr Direktor showed his teeth.

"What shall she sing in, your highness? We are rehearsing 'The Bohemian Girl,'" he jested.

The chorus and singers on the little stage exchanged smiles.

"I want your first violin," said her highness.

"Anton!"

A youth stood up in the orchestral pit.

"Now, your highness," said the herr direktor.

"Try her voice."

And the herr direktor saw that she was not smiling. He bade the violinist to draw his bow over a single note.

"Imitate it, Gretchen," commanded her highness, "and don't be afraid."

Gretchen lifted her voice. It was sweeter and mellower than the violin.

"Again!" the herr direktor cried.

Without apparent effort Gretchen passed from one note to another, now high, now low, or strong or soft; a trill, a run. The violinist of his own accord began the jewel song from "Faust." Gretchen did not know the words, but she carried the melody without mishap. And then "I Dreamt I Dwelt in Marble Halls." This song she knew word for word, and, ah, she sang it with strange and haunting tenderness. One by one the musicians dropped their instruments to their knees. All realized that a great voice was being tried before them. The herr direktor struck his music stand sharply.

"Your highness has played a fine jest this day. Where does madame your guest sing—in Berlin or Vienna?"

"In neither," answered her highness. "She lives in Dreiberg, and till this morning I never saw her before."

The herr direktor stared blankly from her highness to Gretchen and back to her highness again. Then he grasped it. Here was one of those moments when the gods make gifts to mortals.

"You have a great voice, fraulein. I shall teach you. I shall make you a great singer."

But Gretchen never became a prima donna. There was something different on the knees of the gods.

CHAPTER VII.

AFFAIRS OF STATE.

THE grand duke stamped back and forth with a rumble as of distant thunder. They would play with him, eh? Well, they had loosed the lion this time. He had sent his valet to summon her highness and Herbeck.

"And tell them to put everything else aside."

He kneaded the note in his hand powerfully. It was anonymous, but it spoke clearly, like truth. The sender remained undiscoverable.

Had he not opposed it for months? And now, having surrendered against his better judgment, this gratuitous affront was offered him. It was damnable. He smote the offending note. War! Nothing less. He was prepared for it. Twenty thousand troops were now in the valley, and there were 20,000 reserves.

Herbeck came calmly in.

"Why the devil couldn't you have left well enough alone? Read this!" The duke flung the note down on his desk.

Herbeck picked it up and worked out the creases.

"Well?" The query tingled with rage.

The answer on the chancellor's lips was not uttered. Hildegarde came in. He embraced her and kissed her brow.

"Read," said the duke to her.

She slipped from her father's arms and looked with pity at the chancellor.

"What do you think of this, Hildegarde?"

"Why, father, I think it is the very best thing in the world," dryly.

"An insult like this!" The duke grew rigid. "You accept it calmly in this fashion?"

"Shall I weep and tear my hair over a boy I have never seen? No, thank you. I was about to make known to you this very evening that I had reconsidered the offer. I shall never marry his majesty."

Herbeck explained the situation.

"Your highness, the regent is really not to blame, for his majesty had given him free rein in the matter, and his royal highness, working as I have been for the best interests of the two countries, never dreamed that the king would rebel. The king has been generous enough to leave the publicity in our hands—that is to say, he agrees to accept the humiliation of being rejected by her serene highness."

"That is very generous of him!" said the duke sarcastically. "Send for Ducwitz."

"Ducwitz, your highness?" cried the chancellor, chilled.

"Immediately!"

"Your highness, if you call Ducwitz I shall surrender my portfolio." The chancellor was firm.

"Do so. There are others to take up your work."

Hildegarde flew to the duke's side and snatched at his sleeve.

"Father, you are mad!"

"At least I am master in Ehrenstein. Herbeck, you will have the kindness to summon General Ducwitz."

"Your highness," replied Herbeck, "I have worked long and faithfully in your service. I can not recollect that I ever asked one personal favor. But I do so now. Do not send for Ducwitz tonight. See him in the morning. This is no time for haste. You will throw the army into Jugendheit, and there will follow a bloody war."

"I will have my revenge!" stubbornly.

"Father, listen to me. I am the affronted person. I—I alone—have the right to say what shall be done in the matter. And I say to you if you do these cruel things, dismiss his excellency and bring war and death to Ehrenstein, I will never forgive you—never, never! You are wrong, wrong, and I, your daughter, tell you so frankly. Leave it to me. There will be neither war nor humiliation."

"My dear child," he said, "I have suffered too much at the hands of Jugendheit. It was my daughter the first time; it is my honor now," proudly.

"WILL IT BALANCE WAR AND DEVASTATION?"

"Will it balance war and devastation?" the girl asked quietly. "Is it not pride rather than honor? The prince regent made a pardonable blunder. Do not you, my father, make an unpardonable one?"

"A Portia to the judgment!" said the chancellor, his eye kindling. "Let it all rest upon my shoulders. I alone am to blame. It was I who first suggested the alliance."

Notwithstanding that he was generally hasty, the duke was a just man. He offered his hand, with half a smile.

"You are bidding me farewell, your highness?" said Herbeck.

"No, count. I would not let you go for half my duchy. Even a duke may be a fool sometimes."

Herbeck laid his cold hand upon the duke's. Then he went over to her highness and kissed her hand gratefully, for it was truly at her feet the wreath of victory lay.

"Highness," he said softly, "you shall marry when you will."

"And where?"

"I would that I could make it so. But there is a penalty for being placed so high. We cannot change this unwritten law."

"Heaven did not write it," she replied.

"No, my daughter," said the duke. "Man is at the bottom of all the kinks and twists in this short life, not heaven. But Herbeck is right. You shall marry when you will."

The knock of the valet was again heard.

"Your highness, there is a young woman outside, a peasant, who desires to speak to her serene highness."

"What! She enters the palace without any more trouble than this?"

"By my orders, father," said Hildegarde, who gathered that this privileged visitor must be Gretchen of the Krumerweg. "Admit her."

Gretchen was ushered in. Her throat was a little full as she recognized the three most important persons in the grand duchy.

"The little goose girl!" the duke said half audibly.

"Yes, highness." Gretchen's face was serious, and her eyes were mournful. She carried an envelope in her hand tightly.

"Come to me, Gretchen," said the princess. "What is it?"

"She is dead, highness, and I found this letter under her pillow."

Herbeck took the envelope.

"Dead?" Hildegarde's eyes filled.

"Who is dead?" demanded the duke.

"Emma Schultz, father. Oh, I know you will forgive me for this deception. She has been in Dreiberg for a month dying, and I have often stolen out to see her." She let her tears fall unrestrained.

The duke stared at the rug. Presently he said: "Let her be buried in consecrated ground. Wrong or right, that chapter is closed, my child. What is in the letter, Herbeck?"

Herbeck was a strong man. He was always far removed from tears, but there was a mist over the usual clarity of his vision. He ripped down the flap. It was only a simple note to her serene highness begging her to give the inclosed banknotes to one Gretchen, who lived in the Krumerweg. The notes represented a thousand crowns.

"Take them, little goose girl," said the duke. "Your ship has come in. This will be your dowry."

An icy shiver ran up and down Gretchen's spine, a shiver of wonder, delight, terror. A thousand crowns! A fortune!

"And I shall add to it another thousand," said Hildegarde. "Give them to me, father."

In all this fortune amounted to little more than $400, but to Gretchen, frugal and thrifty, to whom a single crown was a large sum, to her it represented wealth. She was now the richest girl in the lower town. Dreams of kaleidoscopic variety flew through her head. Tears sprang into her eyes. She had the power to do no more than

On Thursday afternoon Sept. 29, occured the death of Mrs. L. D. Dewey at her home in Tecumseh. After seven months of lingering illness she came to her long rest. Mrs. Dewey was born in Antrim county, Ireland May 1, 1839. She came to this country with her parents when but a small child, the family settling in Macon of this county. In the year 1866 she was united in marriage to L. D. Dewey of Tecumseh, for thirty-five years they made their home in Raisin Valley and afterwards they moved to Tecumseh where they have resided for several years, to this union three children were born, Nelson Dewey of Raisin Valley, Mrs. Miranda Neeley who died several years ago and Mrs. Nellie May Marvin of Bay City, she is survived by her husband, son, daughter, three grand children and two brothers.

Mrs. Dewey united with the Methodist Episcopal church many years ago in which faith she consistently lived, she bore her sickness with patience and cheerfulness and as she had lived so did her life go out quietly and peacefully, as a companion and mother a friend and neighbor she lived a loving and devoted life, she was ever thoughtful of those in need and ready to assist others when health permitted. She lived a quiet unostentatious life, leaving the reward with her God. She was loved by her many friends and her memory will long be cherished, of her it may be said "She hath done what she could.

The funeral services were held at the family residence Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, the Rev. B. R. Weld of the First Presbyterian church having charge of them. The interment took place at Brookside cemetary.

On Wednesday morning September 28, 1910, just as the sun was beginning to bring warmth and beauty to the earth the spirit of Mrs. Sarah Osterhout-Britton took its flight. She becoming weary of her burden took it for a pillow and entered into that long and dreamless sleep. Mrs. Britton was born in Macon township on October 6, 1838 and grew to womanhood in this community. On March 20, 1855 she became the wife of John Britton and together they settled on the farm a part of which is now the incorporate village of Britton, and for whom the town was named.

These young people beginning life in a little cabin only eleven by sixteen feet square and which stood not far from the present homestead, and which at that time was little more than an unbroken forest but in common they shared lifes joys and sorrows.

To this union were born four children, as follows, William now of Adrian, Alzora who died in infancy, Morris D. of this village and Carrie S. now the wife of E. A. Bachman and those together with six grand children, a devoted husband and one brother Lyman Osterhout and a large circle of distant relatives and friends to mourn her demise.

The subject of our sketch during her active life was always interested in the social functions of the community that fostered the higher ideals of life, she was a member of the Christian church and maintained her integrity always to its teachings.

Mrs. Britton had been in poor health for some time, but was a gentle patient sufferer in fact so cheerful was she to those around her that the end was not thought to be so near at hand, but the messenger came and, "No one saw the door that opened,
When the spirit took its flight,
Soft as falls the leaves of roses,
So she passed beyond our sight."

At the age of 73 years, 11 months and 22 days.

The funeral was conducted from her late home on Saturday at ten o'clock by her pastor the Rev. S. S. Main after which the interment took place at Ridgeway cemetery.

The relatives from away were Lyman Ousterhout, wife and daughter of Hillsdale, Wm Britton, wife and Ima of Adrian, Web Calhoun, wife and Gilford of Toledo, Wm. Rainey and family of Holloway, Mrs. Nellie Ousterhout, Wm. Ousterhout and wife, Lyman Ousterhout, Chas. Dickson and wife, Geo. Hawks and wife of Tecumseh, Mrs. Jack Stewart of Adrian, Mrs. Ousterhout and daughter of Petersburg, Mrs. Chas. Britton Walter Britton and wife of St. Johns, Peter Swick and wife of Milan, and Mrs Heath and children of Detroit.

MUSKRATS FOR FUR AND FOOD.

Trapping Them a Large Industry on Maryland's Eastern Shore.

Trapping the little muskrat and selling its fur and meat form a thriving industry down on the Eastern shore of Maryland. According to the Fur News, the trappers will receive about $500,000 this year for their catch of the furry denizens of the swamps. In Dorcester county alone the muskrat dealers have been paid $100,000 for this season's pelts, to say nothing of what they received from the sale of meat, this alone more than paying the rental of the marshes, the cost of the traps and the expense of looking after them. The prices offered by buyers this season ranged from 30 to 75 cents a hide, the hide from the kitten, or young rat, which had been considered almost worthless, bringing the former price. Says the Fur News:—

The big black rat commanded the top of the market always, the black fur being considered the finest as well as the most durable. The fur of the brown rat is less valuable because of the color and coarseness of the hair. It generally brings from 15 to 25 cents less than the fur of the black rat.

There are few sections of the United States where the meat of the muskrat is used for food, as it is on the eastern shore of Maryland. In many sections of the country the little rodent is looked upon with disdain by those who claim to know a good thing when they see it, but when they talk of it as being an unclean animal and unfit for the table, it shows how little they know of this, the cleanest of all animals that live.

The great majority of people are prejudiced against the muskrat because it bears the name of rat. By any other name it would eagerly be sought after by epicures. The roots and herbs of the marshes, on which alone it subsists, are thoroughly scrubbed by the little animal before it will allow them to come on its "table."

Defending the muskrat from the charge of being an unclean little beast, Fur News, authority declares that the house in which it lives, made of the marsh grasses, and towering above the highwater mark, is always as dry as a powder magazine and spotlessly clean, so there is nothing about the much-despised rat of the great marshes to make it other than what it really is, "the cleanest and most toothsome little animal that can be cooked up and served." The writer adds that at all the leading restaurants on the eastern shore the muskrat in season takes the leading part at midnight suppers. He believes that the muskrat industry of Maryland peninsula bids fair to over step the oyster industry.

Our Friends the Spiders.

I think it can be said, remarks S. F. Aaron in Collier's, that there never has been one authentic case of spider bite. The so-called spider bites received occasionally, and generally in early summer, often in bed, are inflicted by certain blood-sucking insects of several species, large and small. The mandibles of the average sized spiders are hardly powerful enough to pierce the human skin, and all of the poison contained in an archnid's glands, injected into the flesh of a human being, will not bring as much fuss as a respectable bee sting. Moreover, spiders are not mammal bloodsuckers, and wouldn't bite if they could. So much for the negative qualities of spiders. If it were not for the spiders we should all promptly starve to death. Perhaps this is a little startling; it is none the less true. To enlarge upon it, certain spiders prey upon certain caterpillars, regularly inhabit their abodes, and kill so many of them that often colonies of the insects are wiped out of existence. These caterpillars normally feed upon the leaves of trees, bushes and shrubs, frequently entirely denuding a plant. If they were plentiful enough to exhaust their common food they would turn to the weeds and grasses. Without check of any kind they would overrun the earth and destroy veery overrun the earth and destroy every green and growing thing. The spiders beautifully preserve the balance of Nature.

Vitralin is the name given to a new pigment made in Germany and tested by the government. It possesses the power, in the form of paint on walls and utensils, of killing the germs of tuberculosis and other diseases in a short time, and is therefore specially recommended to hospitals.

"You may believe that is natural, but I think it very suspicious that the Rush on her check is sometimes higher on one side and sometimes higher on the other!"

"Well, I care very little for either praise or blame. The knowledge that the Lord put me into the work and it must be what he wants me to do is enough for me."

Coal & Wood

Everybody who bought Pocahontas Coal of us last fall claims it was the best they ever used.

We have two more cars of the same kind in transit and would suggest you place your orders at once.

In Hard and Soft Coal we have all kinds at different prices; the same in regard to wood. Your orders will have prompt attention and be appreciated.

Newlow Spreaders

This is the very latest the I. H. C. have put on the market. This is the first car to arrive in the state. Wherever it has been introduced it has taken the lead. It is about 18 in lower with wheels the same height as others. The frame is solid steel, has one wheel in front (very wide), will draw easier.

You will have to see it to fully understand what an improvment it is.

AN OLD TIME MEAL

Substantials on Bill of Fare, Pay in Advance in Gold.

Mark Twain would have delighted in a bill of fare which recently turned up in Kansas City, that put out by the Eldorado Hotel of Placerville, Cal., in the days when it entertained the men who immediately followed the 49ers. "Payable in advance." it proclaims; "gold scales at the end of bar." A "square meal with dessert," is priced at $3, and other items that probably interested the patrons of the Eldorado are set forth as follows: Beef, Mexican prima cut, $1.50; beef up long, $1.50. beef plain, $1, beef from the States, $1.50, also two potatoes, medium size 50 cents. two potatoes peeled 75 cents, hash, low grade 75 cents, hash 18-carat, $1, rice pudding and brandy peaches, $2. The gilded youth of modern times can eat his way through a rathskellei and still save money on this schedule. Yet the California miner who came down to camp to "spread nimself" had one advantage which is not open to the man of ts-day, in that he was not expected to tip the waiter.—Boston Transcript.

HOSPITAL SITE IN ADRIAN

So much dissatisfaction has been manifested as to the site chosen by the Bixby Hospital that a council meeting was held last week in Adrian and it was decided to reconsider the matter, taking into consideration the Cocker property. It is thought that a change will be made and a more desirable site chosen.

Our Dependence on Vegetables.

The distinction generally drawn between animal and vegetable food is apt to blind us to the fact that plants are at bottom, the source of all nutriment; and that if they were to cease to grow mankind would starve. Says a writer in The Lancet (London):

"The modern chemist points proudly to his synthetic triumphs, but with all his skill and knowledge he has not yet succeeded in preparing in practicable quantities for his fellow men a foodstuff from its elements. The synthetic processes of the plant are so far inimitable, and the plant is after all both the direct and indirect food of the animal. The relations between plants and animals form a beautiful dispensation, and for the vegetable kingdom man should hold a deep reverence and do his best to extend and promote its faithful offices. Whether his views are in favor of the exclusive diet of vegetable or of a diet containing both animal and vegetable products he owes the vegetable world more than one debt. He is as the mercy of the vegetable for his food, whether it be animal or vegetable, and he may be at the mercy of the vegetable for a supply of oxygen, without which the vital processes of his organism could not be sustained. It is thus conceivable that as the animal kingdom exists only by virtue of a continual combustion process, in which air is taken up which carbon dioxid is liberated, the loss of an agent by which not only removes this product of respiration but sends back oxygen in its place would be disastrous. This agency is of course the plant, and, in short, the animal and the plant are interdependent on each other. On this line of reasoning animal life would be extinguished if vegetable life ceased and vegetable life would fail if animal products were not available for its sustenance. This is an interesting cycle of events, but the performance of a cycle implies a force and the motive power of these alternate and great synthetical and analytical processes is light. It may happen, therefore, that a horrible struggle for existence between plants and animals might ensue if for any considerable period the sun was shut out from the world, for then the agreeable interchange of mutually advantageous exhalation would cease and with it all life. Were those who worshipped the sun ignorant of these things? or did they realize that it was the source of both food and air?"

Taxicabs have become so popular in London that the demand for them exceeds the supply. A capital of $10,000,000 is already invested in them.

New York City has an average of one and one-half million visitors each week.

The King of Siam does not confine his relationship to mother earth. He claims to be "Brother of the Moon, Half Brother of the Sun," as well as "Sovereign Arbitrator of the Flux and Reflux."

Boston University has an attendance of 1,514 in all its departments. Of these 962 are men and 552 are women. The chief increases are in the college of liberal arts, the courses for teachers and the school of theology.

Sample Helps Frail Women

So many women are dragging out weary lives just because their digestive organs are weak. The result is poor circulation, nervousness and the verge of invalidism. It is often very unnecessary and the woman's own fault.

The first thing to do is to look to the welfare of your bowels. There the trouble usually lies. All physicians know that a large percentage of women are habitually constipated, and from this results indigestion, piles, weariness, etc, that women constantly complain of. But there is no use taking "female remedies" and things of that kind until you have started your bowels to moving. You will find that when the bowels move regularly once or twice a day all your petty ills will disappear. Take a good, mild laxative tonic like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for awhile and you will find yourself rapidly getting better and stronger, your bowels will regulate themselves and work at stated times, and then your headaches and dizziness will disappear. Don't take strong cathartic pills or salts, but just such a mild and pleasant-tasting remedy as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

You can obtain a bottle of your druggist for fifty cents or one dollar, and either size may be enough to permanently cure you. Thousands of women keep it regularly in the house and will no longer be without it, as it cured them and can be used with safety by every member of the family, down to the youngest child, but if you have never used it take the advice of Mrs. Earl S. Cox, 409 Twenty-fifth street, Moline, Ill., and Mrs. Ellen Dungan, Muncie, Ind., and send to Dr. Caldwell for a free trial bottle, as they did, and learn for yourself what it will do in your own case. That it will cure you, as it did them, there is no doubt.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

PLACE FOR THE SIMPLE LIFE.

Traveller Says It's the French Penal Colony of New Caledonia.

"I spent several years in New Caledonia I would go to New Caledonia, the French penal colony," says Major W. J. Collins, of London, a celebrated mining engineer, formerly a resident of this country. "That is a country where one can be content to sit and dream. There is only one other place I know of that can equal it and that is Ceylon in India.

"I spent several years in New Caledonia, where the French government has some 4,000 life prisoners. Many of these convicts have no hope of ever leaving their prison island, although there have been hundreds of attempts to escape to Australia. One cannot blame these prisoners for risking their lives in an effort to get away, for they have little to do but wait for death, and it is a sad commentary that the French government officials have little regard for the prisoners. These convicts are of different classes of course.

"The seven year men in reality have to remain fourteen years on the island. Seven years are passed as convicts in the strict sense of the word, and the other seven as ticket of leave men. That is, they have to report every month or two to the prison officials. Men who are sentenced for eight years never have any hope of leaving New Caledonia; they are there for life.

"Most of the attempts to escape have resulted in loss of life, because it is almost an impossibility to get away in safety. The man who tried to escape used small canoes or boats, but in nearly all cases these craft were wrecked before the occupants reached land."—Washington Post.

Are Britons Slaves?

There was a real old English sincerity in the vulgar chorus that "Britons never shall be slaves." We had no equality and hardly any justice, but freedom we were really fond of. And I think just now it is worth while to draw attention to the old optimistic prophecy that "Britons never shall be slaves."

The mere love of liberty has never been at a lower ebb in England than Never before has it been so easy to it has been for the last 20 years Never has it been so easy to slip small bills through the parliament for the purpose of locking people up Never was it so easy to silence awkward questions or to protect high placed officials. Two hundred years ago we turned out the Stuarts rather than endanger the habeas corpus act Two years ago we abolished the habeas corpus act rather than turn out the home secretary. We passed a law (which is now in force) that an Englishman's punishment shall not depend upon judg eand jury, but upon the governors and jailers who have got hold of him.

Political liberty, let us repeat, consists in the power of criticising those flexible parts of the state which constantly require reconsideration, not the basis but the machinery. In plainer words, it means the power of saying the sort of things that a decent but discontented citizen wants to say He does not want to spit on the Bible or to run about without clothes or to read the worst page of Zola from the pulpit of St. Paul's. Therefore the forbidding of these things (whether just or not) is only tyranny in a secondary and special sense. It restrains the abnormal man. But the normal man, the decent discontented citizen does want to protest against unfair law courts. He does want to expose brutalities of the police. He does want to make game of a vulgar pawnbroker who has been made a peer. He does want publicity to warn people against unscrupulous capitalists and suspicious finance. If he is run in for doing this (as he will be) he does want to have a clear and civilized sentence telling him when he will come out. And these are literally the things he cannot now get. That is the almost cloying humor of the present situation. I can say abnormal things in modern magazines. It is the normal things that I am not allowed to say. I can write in some solemn quarterly an elaborate article explaining that God is the devil; I can write in some cultured weekly an aesthetic fancy describing how I should like to eat a boiled baby. The things I am not allowed to write is rational criticism of the men and institutions of my country.

The present condition of England is briefly this. That no Englishman can say in public a twentieth part of what he says in private.—G. K. Chesterton. in London News.

In three years San Diego, Cal., has erected three large school buildings at a cost of $182,000, one of them, a building of 20 rooms, being the finest grammar school building in California. There is also a high school costing $230,000, besides additions to two other buildings, doubling their capacity.

THE TEST OF MERIT

Tecumseh People Are Given Convincing Proof

No better test of any article can be made than the test of time and this is particularly true of a kidney medicine. Doan's Kidney Pills have stood this test and stood it well What better proof of the merits of this remedy could you demand than the statement of a Tecumseh resident who has been cured and has stayed cured?

Read the following:

Mrs. Charles Stevenson, Wyandotte and Pottawatamie Sts.; Tecumseh, Mich. says: "Sharp shooting pains across the small of my back were the first symptoms of my kidney trouble. Other difficulties set in later and I was made miserable. Being advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I did so and the pains soon disappeared. For years I had also been bothered by gravel but Doan's Kidney Pills removed this trouble."

The above statement was given on Dec. 10, 1906, and Dec. 9, 1908, Mrs Stevenson confirmed it in detail, adding that her cure had been permanent.

UNCLE'S WEDDING PRESENT

When we had unwound the sacking and brown paper, cut several hundred knots and removed a mile or two of cord, Phyllis and I stood back and looked at our belated wedding present.

"What is it?" Phyllis wanted to know.

I hesitated. "Wouldn't you call it a sofa?" I hazarded.

"I shouldn't," Phyllis assured me. "It's more like a dromedary."

"Counting the legs," she said. "There are six, Claude. Whoever heard of a sofa with six legs?"

I felt underneath the seat. "And two of them," I observed, "are just underneath this hinge in arrangement."

"Take care—" Phyllis gasped suddenly, and dragged at my arm. I had touched some hidden mechanism evidently. Before our astonished eyes the left-hand end of the sofa was determinedly rising. It touched the end of the hump, give a click, and, behold, the doubtful sofa was a very passable arm chair. Two of the six legs, however, were now superfluous and stuck out forlornly at right angles to the arm. I touched them, not without hesitation, and Phyllis gave a physical gasp as they subsided noiselessly and neatly into two prepared grooves.

We looked at each other in speechless amazement. Suddenly the explanation flashed across my mind, and I groaned.

"What is it?" Phyllis asked quickly. "Oh, Claude, have you thought? Who sent it, and what does it mean?"

I stared at it with growing hopefulness. "Yes," I said: "I'm afraid it's from Uncle Gregory."

Phyllis' eyes widened apprehensively. "Your Uncle Gregory? But you said—ah, Claude, you said he was sure to give us a check for a wedding present!"

"Well, he didn't, did he?" I reminded her gloomily.

"No-o. But you told me he was rather eccentric, and if it didn't come before we were married, it was sure to come after."

"Well, I am afraid this is it," I said, and went to look more closely at a curious lump on one side of the chair. There was a button near it and I pressed it. A brass bracket holding an electric reading lamp shot into position above the chair, and I laughed bitterly. "O! yes, this is it," I said.

Phyllis gazed at the reading lamp and put out a hand to steady herself. It fell on the arm of the chair. Instantly there appeared below the reading lamp a small shelf, with a glass fixed into a groove on it. Phyllis recoiled. "This is grewsome," she said faintly. "Is it alive?"

"No, I returned with concentrated venom, as I kicked one of its legs and produced a miniature tantalus, "it's only Uncle Gregory's idea of comfort, and of a wedding present." I went on pressing knobs and buttons savagely. When I could see no more we sat down opposite it and gazed. Besides the lamp, the tantalus and the glass, there was a sloping projection for the feet that ran out from underneath and ended in an adjustable fur foot-warmer, there was an ash tray, a pipe rack, a syphon, a book rest, a paper knife, opera glasses, a writing pad, a newspaper rack and a "Bradshaw."

"It rivals the Stores," I snapped, doesn't it."

Phyllis got up and began to circle round the chair with a sort of dazed fascination.

"Here's another button," she observed from somewhere at the back.

"Press it," I urged, hilariously recklessly.

She pressed it and a scarlet umbrella shot into a vertical position, furled itself and completed the picture.

Phyllis turned round with sparkling eyes. "We'll sell it," she announced. "Oh, Claude don't look so blank. You don't want the thing, do you?"

I shook my head. "The point is that nobody else will, either."

* * *

"Well?" I inquired with interest, when I got home a day after the appearance of the advertisement.

Phyllis' lips suddenly quivered. "Dear," she said piteously. "I've had such an awful day."

"You poor darling! Tell me."

"The first one," Phyllis explained faintly, "wanted a thoroughly comfortable couch for an invalid lady."

I gasped. "Heavens Phyl! Why did n't you ring me up? I'd have shown him where he was."

"There wasn't time. The second man arrived."

"Well?" I asked, anxiously.

"He was worse. He got curious about the hinge, and, of course, in the end, the thing turned into a chair, and he found all the knobs on the under side."

"Didn't he discover anything?"

"O, yes. He leaned back with a jerk, and it pressed a knob into the wall behind. The umbrella opened."

I pondered. "You see, we shall have to keep it," I said.

Phyllis' chin rose obstinately. "We won't! If I can get only half-a-crown for it I'm going to sell it."

"But, you see, you can't."

"I'm going to. I shall put some varnish on the legs or something when I advertise again, so that people can be told it's wet and they mustn't sit down. Then it will be all right."

This being settled, I was considerably surprised when one afternoon Phyllis rang me up.

"Come home at once," she said. "Oh, do be quick! It's the dromedary again."

She met me in the hall with a scared face, and pointed to the room that held Uncle Gregory's wedding present.

"He's in there," she whispered, "and he's putting it through its paces. Oh, isn't it a mercy I haven't sold it? He'd have altered his will and left you out of it! Oh, Claude, he loves it."

"Uncle Gregory?" I gasped.

"Yes; he's in there waiting. We must go in."

"Haven't you seen him then, Phyl?"

She shook her head. "I didn't dare. He'd have guessed from my face. But I peeped through the window. He was pushing all the buttons one after another and revelling in it."

"We went in together.

"Why, uncle, this is a pleasure!" I cried.

Uncle Gregory rose from his sofa regretfully. "Very glad to see you both," he said mechanically, and his eyes returned to his green leather atrocity.

"You're looking a bit run down," I observed. "Extra busy in the city?"

Uncle Gregory's tone became guarded. "I've been extra busy," he admitted. Then he laughed suddenly and became expansive. "I was forgetting," he explained, "that there was no need for caution here. I was thinking for the minute that I was at home with your aunt Emmeline."

No appropriat remark occurred to me.

"My wife," Uncle Gregory explained courteously to Phyllis. Phyllis nodded and smiled. "I haven't met her," she said graciously.

"You haven't met her—no." Uncle Gregory was obviously consumed with envy of anyone thus felicitously situated, but he tore his mind away from the subject. "As I was saying, I've been pretty busy the last week or two and I'm feeling the effects."

"But I can take a rest now."

"You're going abroad?" I asked.

"No, no; you misunderstand. I was referring to having found your advertisement."

Phyllis leaned against me suddenly. I stared at Uncle Gregory in helpless silence.

"What's the matter with you both?" he asked rather irritably. "Aren't you glad I've found it?"

"I—I—" Phyllis began.

Uncle Gregory looked anxious. "You don't mean to say that you don't want to sell it, after all?"

"Why, haven't I been tearing all over the country for a fortnight after all sorts of sofas that sounded as if they might be mine? I'm nearly worn out with reading and answering advertisements; you must sell it now I've found it. If you didn't want to sell it you shouldn't have advertised." He glared at us indignantly.

There was a horrid pause.

"Do you mean to say," Phyllis asked at last, "that you've come here to buy back your own wedding present?"

"Of course."

Phyllis grew pink with anger, and threw discretion to the winds.

"Well, of all the mean things! If you knew it was so useless that we should be certain to try to sell it, why did you give it to us?"

Uncle Gregory's eyes rested wistfully on the dromedary. "I didn't want to," he said. "It was Emmeline." He sighed.

"You see, it was like this. I'd spent about $150 on it, and—and that annoyed your aunt Emmeline. When you got married she insisted on my giving it to you for a wedding present."

Curiosity.

Jack—Yes, every time a chap goes to kiss a girl the man in the moon graciously moves behind a cloud.

Eva—But how do you know it isn't a woman in the moon instead of a man?

Jack—Oh, because it if happened to be a woman in the moon you would never see her getting behind a cloud during a kissing scene.

BOAT SINKS, 29 MISSING

Sailors on Return to Ship from Shore Leave Drowned.

List of Those Missing Is Placed at 29 —Were Members of Battleship New Hampshire.

New York, Oct. 3. — In an official statement authorized by Rear Admiral C. N. Vreeland and given out by Capt. Thomas S. Rodgers of the battleship New Hampshire, the number of the New Hampshire's sailors who are believed to have been on the battleship's sailing launch when it filled with water and sank in the Hudson and who are still missing is set down at twenty-nine.

Twelve members of the liberty party of the New Hampshire who were not known to have been in the sailing launch, but who are still missing, were noted in Capt. Rodgers' list.

3 DEAD, 26 HURT IN VANDERBILT RACE

Contest for Trophy and Cash Has Fatal Ending.

HARRY GRANT WINS VICTORY

Joseph Dawson, Second, and Joseph Aitken, Third, in Auto Classic—Many Injured—Thirty-One Cars Were Entered.

Long Island Motor Parkway, Oct. 3.—With dead and wounded marking nearly every mile of the course, the sixth Vanderbilt cup race closed with Harry Grant, driving a 120-horse-power Alco car, a winner by the narrow margin of 25 seconds. Joseph Dawson, driving a Marmon, was second, one minute and six seconds ahead of Joseph Aitken, at the wheel of a National car.

By his victory Grant repeats his exploit of last year, when he captured the cup in a car of the same make.

The thirty-one cars entered were started at fifteen-second intervals. A quarter of a million of motoring enthusiasts crowded the edge of the course along every foot of the twelve-mile circuit, eagerly expectant.

On his first lap Harold Stone, driving car No. 12, a Columbia, was fatally injured, and his mechanician, Bacon, was killed when the car turned turtle near Micksville.

Car No. 29, driven by Louis Chevrolet, left the course two miles west of Hicksville, and smashed into a touring car parked along the roadway. Chevrolet's mechanician, Charles Miller, was instantly killed. Chevrolet and the occupants of the touring car escaped with minor injuries.

William Knipper's car, No. 54, the Lancia, turned over at Massapequa Lodge and Knipper had his left leg broken.

Car No. 47, a Mercer, ran into a telegraph pole at Meadow Brook bridge, injuring the mechanician, probably fatally.

Car No. 17, rounding a turn at Westbury, struck a spectator, Thomas Miller, of College Point, L. I., Miller was rushed to a hospital for amputation of his leg.

The Abbott-Detroit, No 56, struck a telegraph pole near Westbury, throwing out Driver Padula and Mechanician Barber, and seriously injuring both. Padula may die

Ferdinand D'Ziaba, New York manager for the Pope-Hartford company, was killed when his car struck a telegraph pole at Westbury on his way to the race.

CHICAGO PRIEST WHIPS FOES

Rev. George Kolesinski Breaks Skull and Arm at South Bend.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 3. — Seized with a fainting spell while walking on the second floor of the residence of the Rev. Valentine Czyzewski, pastor of St. Pedwidge church, the Rev. George Kolesinki, assistant pastor of St. George's church, Chicago, fell to the bottom of a stairway and fractured his skull.

His left arm was broken at the wrist and his left elbow and shoulder were dislocated. He was taken to St. Joseph' hospital. The Rev. Mr. Kolesinski came here to assist in conducting a forty hours' devotion service. His injuries are serious, but it is not believed they will prove fatal.

WULGAST TO FIGHT NELSON

Lightweight Champ Says He Will Meet Battler St. Patrick's Day.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 3.—Lightweight Champion Ad Wolgast arrived here en route to his Cadillac home from Fond du Lac, where he defeated Tommy McFarland of San Francisco Thursday night, and announced that he has agreed to meet Battling Nelson in a bout of forty-five rounds or to a finish on St. Patrick's day, before the club offering the largest purse.

Wolgast's injury from his recent battle is a splintered bone in his left wrist, which will necessitate a cast for at least six weeks. The champion says he is through with the so-called easy money bouts, in which he has been injured twice during the last six months. He says he will not fight again until he meets Nelson.

BLAME FIXED IN WRECK

Traction Disaster Caused by Disobeying Orders.

Conductor Leonard and Motorman Held Responsible for Wreck in Which 31 Were Killed.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 6.—The responsibility for the wreck on the Illinois traction system at Staunton, in which thirty-six lives were lost and thirty-one persons were injured, has been so definitely fixed on the crew of the crew of the north-bound car that extensive official investigation is unnecessary.

The railroad and warehouse commission has made an investigation and has found that disobedience of orders by the crew of the north-bound car was the only cause for the wreck.

The investigation was made by James A. Willoughby of the commission, its consulting engineer, F. G. Ewald, and its safety appliance inspector, A. R Layman.

The orders which the crew received to wait at Wall siding were found on the person of Conductor M. A. Leonard, who had placed them in his hat. They were in regular form and definite, and had they been obeyed this story of death would never had been written.

Motorman Lierman, the other member of the crew, jumped from the car and escaped injury. He and Leonard have been arrested.

CHOLERA VICTIM DEAD

Greek Emigrant Dies of Disease at Swineborne Island.

Frightful Conditions Ensue in Russia, Where There Are 150,000 Cases and 85,000 Victims Dead.

Washington, Oct. 6.—Announcement is made that an examination of the body of Maozain Scobain, the Greek, who was taken from the steamship Germania to Swineborne Island, the latter part of September, has disclosed that the man died of cholera. Dr. Anderson of the marine hospital service made the examination. He pronounced the disease cholera, stating that the test was conclusive.

Figures received by the state department show that there have been 150,000 cases of cholera in the infected district in Russia and 85,000 deaths.

The ravages of cholera aboard already have interfered with the plans for the European trip of the Atlantic battleship fleet and the department will modify the cruise very materially. The foreign trip will not be abandoned, but the ports where cholera is epidemic will be eliminated from the itinerary unless there is a quick subsidence of the disease.

MAN'S BODY BLOWN TO ATOMS

Expert in Explosives Uses 100 Pounds of Dynamite to Kill Himself.

Casper, Wyo., Oct. 6.—Daniel McMillan, an expert in the use of powder and dynamite, employed at the North American asbestos mines, committed suicide by exploding 100 pounds of dynamite under himself. He was blown to atoms and the 400-foot level of the mine, where he ended his life, was badly wrecked.

Owners of the mine can give no reason for the suicide.

BOMB HURLS MEN FROM BEDS

Unknown Persons Take Revenge on a Kansas City Contractor.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 6.—For a second time within a week, dynamiters at night exploded bombs under a building upon which Fogle & Son, contractors, were doing work.

The structure attacked was an unoccupied annex to the West End hotel. No one was injured. Men sleeping in hotels adjoining the building were rolled from their beds. Work on the hotel was being done on the open shop plan.

FRENCH WOMAN GOES INSANE

BRODERICK'S PLEA REFUSED IN PROBE

Committee Decides He Must Testify Without Reserve.

BROWNE MUST ALSO TESTIFY

Mrs. Charles H. Luke, Widow of the Late Representative Luke, Requires Medical Attention While on Stand.

Chicago, Oct. 6.—State Senator John Broderick and Representative Lee O'Neil Browne must testify without reserve in the Lorimer senate investigation.

The senate committee, after considering the plea of Broderick that he be allowed to testify generally without being compelled to give specific answers to questions involving dates and circumstances, decidedly unanimously to reject it.

The senators held that Broderick must testify without reserve, as he had not pleaded that his constitutional rights were jeopardized.

Broderick's plea that specific testimony would be unfair to him in view of the fact that he was to be tried in Sangamon county on a bribery charge was held to be an inadequate reason for his request.

After the Broderick case was disposed of Lee O'Neil Browne was brought into the room and sworn. When Attorney Austrian asked the first question—relating to his name and age—Attorney Dawson made the same plea in Browne's behalf as in Broderick's case. He was told to have the witness on hand when wanted.

Representative Robert E. Wilson was then called for. He had not been served with a subpoena. He is in a Milwaukee sanatorium, where physicians are attempting to save his eyesight.

Aside from the Browne and Broderick decisions chief interest in the hearing centered in the testimony of Mrs. Charles H. Luke, widow of the legislator who is said to have informed her of bribery attempts in the legislature shortly before his death. Mrs. Luke was so ill that the services of a doctor were required while she was at the hearing.

Representative Henry Terrill of the Twenty-ninth district, who was said by Jacob Groves to have told the latter that "he could have got $1,000 for voting for Lorimer," followed Mrs. Luke on the stand.

MRS. YOUNG IN WALSH PLEA

School Superintendent Goes to Washington to Urge Pardon Petition.

Chicago, Oct. 6. — Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of Chicago's public schools and president of the National Educational association, quietly left the city a few days ago and is now in Washington striving her utmost to secure the pardon of John R. Walsh, the convicted banker.

This information was contained in a dispatch from the capital telling of Mrs. Young's visit to the department of justice to indorse the petition for Mr. Walsh's release from the Leavenworth penitentiary.

NEW OFFICERS CHOSEN

King Manuel Is Said to Have Left His Kingdom For England.

Stories of Revolution Are Conflicting; Uprising Succeeds

Lisbon, Oct. 6.—A provisional Republican government has been formed as follows:

Theophile Braga, president

Senhor Machano, minister of foreign affairs.

Senhor Costa, minister of justice.

Senhor Telles, minister of finance.

Senhor Barrelo, minister of war.

Senhor Antonio Comes, minister of public works.

Senhor Alonida, minister of the interior.

Senhor Amaro Gomes, minister of marine.

Senhor Leno, civil governor of Lisbon.

London, Oct. 6. — Although details are meager and conflicting, dispatches received from a variety of sources in Lisbon make it clear that the revolution has been successful and that a Republican form of government under the presidency of Theophile Braga has been proclaimed.

King Manuel, according to the most circumstantial account, took refuge first, with the tacit consent of the revolutionary leaders, on board the Brazilian warship Sao Paulo, which was lying in the harbor. He remained there but a short time and feeling unsafe, he took a motor boat to Cascaes, about twelve miles distant. Upon the arrival of the British warship Newcastle, he went aboard of her. He went ashore from her later and sailed for a destination, variously stated to be Gibraltar, San Sebastian and England.

One dispatch places the number killed at only 100.

The palace was bombarded by the warships with deadly effect, but only for 10 minutes, when the red and green Republican flag is said to have been hoisted.

The leaders of the revolutionary party strongly repressed all attacks on property and unnecessary excesses, and the latest dispatches say that good order now prevails. Altogether it appears to have been one of the quickest, cleanest and most business like revolutions of modern times.

It is necessary to point out that it is by no means certain that the revolt is a permanent success. The provinces are more loyal than Lisbon and they have not yet been heard from. The same doubt exists as to the attitude of the regiments in the provinces. It is stated from Madrid that some, at least, of the provincial garrisons, including that of Oporto, are marching to Lisbon to support the monarchy. The only provincial center where the insurgent movement is reported to be active is Oporto, and the accounts of the situation there are contradictory. One declares that fighting occurred there similar to that in the capital, while another says that order was not broken.

It seems that the struggle in Lisbon was finally decided by the wholesale desertion of royalist soldiery to the revolutionists. If this is correct it may foreshadow the ultimate course of any provincial troops still adhering to the monarchy.

CHURCH SERVICE MOST IMPRESSIVE

Consecration of Cathedral Occurs in New York.

ARCHBISHOP FARLEY IN CHARGE

Edifice Dedicated to Work of Lord by Jewish Rites Instituted by King Solomon—The Services Are Unique in Character.

New York, Oct. 6. — The consecration of St. Patrick's cathedral, a service which has drawn together the most notable assemblage of Catholic dignitaries every seen in this country, took place a little after dawn, when Archbishop Farley, accompanied by his assistant priests and acolyte, marched thrice about the church in the performance of the ancient rites which date from apostolic times and had their origin in the Jewish rites instituted by Solomon. The consecration was not witnessed by the princes of the church, who a few hours later celebrated its completion by going in solemn and magnificent procession to the pontifical high mass, at which Cardinal Gibbons was the celebrant.

The service began about 5:30, when the archbishop, accompanied by his deacons, left the archiepiscopal residence and went to the Cathedral college on the Fifty-First street corner, where the relics of the saints which were later to be placed within the church had been watched over all night. Here the archbishop was vested while the seven penitential psalms were recited, and then the consecration procesion made its way to the cathedral.

At the church the archbishop removed his mitre and knelt in prayer before the closed door. Then came the ceremony of blessing the water, after which the cross bearer leading the procession proceeded around the church, making the circuit to the right, while the archbishop sprinkled the upper part of the walls. When the circuit was completed and Archbishop Farley was again before the closed door he knocked on it with the base of his croizer, saying:

"Lift up your gates princess and be ye lifted up, ye everlasting doors and the king of glory shall come in."

And from within the church, where the deacon of the door, the Rev. William B. Martin, was stationed alone, came the response: "Who is this king of glory?"

When the archbishop replied: "The Lord, strong and mighty; the Lord, mighty in battle."

At this response the great doors swung outward and the procession passed within. Within the church, which was closed to all but the archbishop and his followers, there took place the ceremony of tracing the Greek and Latin alphabets in ashes spread on the floor so as to form a cross with its arms resting on either side of the church door and the altar.

After tracing the alphabet with the point of his croizer Archbishop Farley mixed and blessed the Gregorian water and then going to the door traced crosses on its upper and lower half inside in symbol of the guard set against magline influences from without that might thrwart the work of redemption in the church.

The parade following the ceremonies was a most brilliant pageant, and it included in its formation probably the greatest number of Catholic prelates ever gathered together in the United States. The different societies and orders in full regalia of many colors added much to the gorgeous costumes of the cardinals and priests, and formed a color scheme that was most pleasing and beautiful. The entire proceedings throughout were conducted with pomp and splendor.

Chicago, Oct. 6.—The supreme court of Illinois granted a supersedeas in the case of Dr. Haldane Cleminson, recently sentenced to penitentiary for life for the murder of his wife.

Application for the supersedeas was made to the court by Attorney Joseph R. Burres

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflomed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

THE SAVIOR'S TEACHINGS
BROOKLYN TABERNACLE
BIBLE STUDIES

THE RECKONING HOUR

Matthew 25:14-30—October 9

"His Lord said unto him, Well done, thou good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

THIS study follows the one of last week. It also illustrates the fact that Messiah at his Second Advent, before appearing to the world in power and great glory and in the time of trouble, will be present amongst his consecrated people and many of them will know of his parousia, or "presence," in this time. He will do amongst them a judging work—deciding their rewards in proportion to their faithfulness. It is well that we keep in memory the difference between the parable of the pounds and the parable of the talents. Both represented money. But a talent is sixty times as valuable as a pound. In the parable of the pound each servant got one pound, but in the parable of the talents the numbers given varied. In some respects all of God's people have one common footing and common privilege of service, as represented by the pound. In another respect their opportunities, privileges and advantages vary, as represented in the present study, the parable of the talents.

This is another parable of the Kingdom. The Great Teacher himself went into the far country, even heaven; but before departing he delivered unto his servants certain blessings, privileges, opportunities—"to each according to his several abilities." The beginning of this parable was in the days of the Apostles when Jesus ascended up on high and at Pentecost shed forth in the Father's name the holy spirit, communicating a blessing upon each one of his followers, as represented in the talents and opportunities of each follower. All through this Gospel Age these servants have been making more or less use of their privileges and more or less wisely exercising themselves to serve the Master. Some traded with their talents, or used them in preaching, teaching, etc. And others hid them in the earth, perhaps under cares and responsibilities. After a long time the Lord of these servants cometh and reckoneth with them. This long time is this Gospel Age, and the presence of the King in the end of the Age to hear the report of his servants and to reward them represents the parousia (or presence) of Messiah and his testing, sifting work in his Church. We should distinctly note that this testing and proving is not of the world, for Christ never recognized any as his servants, except the consecrated. Many Christian people believe that we are now in the time when the servants of the Lord are rendering up their accounts, and when he is saying to some, "Well done, good and faithful servant; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord," and when he is saying to others, "Thou wicked and slothful servant * * * take ye away, therefore, the talent from him, and give it unto him that hath the ten talents." All of this testing and rewarding of the servants of Christ is manifestly prior to any outward manifestation of the King in his glory, because the worthy ones are to share with the Master in his glorious manifestation and this testing must demonstrate the worthy ones, in advance of the revelation in glory.

The one who had received five talents and used them wisely, energetically, faithfully, loyally, doubled them and was invited to share in the Master's joy and glory. His reward would be to sit as a ruler of many. In other words, the service of the present life is but an insignificant one in comparison to the glorious service which awaits the Lord's faithful people in the future—when they shall sit with Messiah in his Throne and, as kings and priests, bless and instruct and uplift and control Israel and all the nations of the world. The approval of the one who was given two talents and who was equally faithful, was in equally kind and benevolent terms. He also was a good and faithful servant over a few things; he also would be set as a ruler over many things; he also might enter into the joy of his Lord. The servant who failed to use his talent was branded as wicked and slothful. He knew in advance that the talent was given him for use and because he had professed to be a faithful servant. His failure to use the talent proved him disloyal, unfaithful. He lost the talent. It is not for us to say that the Lord will have no blessing for that unfaithful servant. He was a servant all the time. He respected the talent. He did not lose it. But he did not use it properly. He seems to represent a very similar class to the one described in our study of a week ago as the foolish virgins. This class will fail to get into the glories of the Kingdom, but will surely get into the time of trouble and its outer darkness, disappointment and chagrin, with which this Age will end and the New Age be ushered in. The Lord grant that this lesson may help some of the Lord's consecrated servants to be more helpful, more careful, in the use of their consecrated talents, that they may glorify the Lord and hear his "Well done" in the end!

One difficulty with many of us in the past has been fear of the Master. We should have gotten better acquainted with him. We should have learned more respecting his real, true character and his purposes. If now the eyes of our understanding are opening, if now we are seeing the beauty of our talents and privileges of service as never before, let us quickly dig the soil of the earth and use it earnestly, zealously, vigorously, for the praise of our King, redeeming the time, knowing that the days are unfavorable. Even now we may show our Lord that we are getting awake to the great privilege and enjoyment of being his servants and mouthpieces and that we will delight, at any cost, to show forth the praises of "him who has called us out of darkness into his marvelous light."

THE OCTOBER LIPPINCOTT'S

MAGAZINE editors would probably deny that they concentrate more though and energy on one number than another, yet the fact remains that the autumn issues often seem stronger than those which have immediately preceded them. Perhaps the editors do this unconsciously—just as folk in other walks of life take up their burdens with renewed zest after the relaxation of the summer season. LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE is one of those which open the fall campaign with especially meritorious, October numbers. The complete novel—long a feature of this publication—is "The Riders of Petersham," a stirring tale of the South and its "nightriders," by Rupert Sargent Holland, author of "The Man in the Tower." Though full of action and dramatic scens, there is a delightful love interest running through the story. We predict that it will prove one of the most popular novelets LIPPINCOTT'S has ever brought out.

A very striking feature is "Thirty Years of Pencraft: What It Came to and What It Cost." This paper, to be published in two parts, in October and November, embodies the literary reminiscences of the distinguisheh soldier-auditor, General Charles King. The Ceneral talks frankly of his successors and of his failures, and the is not only interesting reading, but may prove a valuable object lesson to literary aspirants. Other articles, brief pithy, are "The Fetich of the Girl," by Ralph W. Bergengren; and "The Hifalutin' Hyphen;" by John E. Rosses. Minna Thomas Antrim contributes a charming as well as seasonable sketch on "Getting Back to Work."

ALL MY PIMPLES GONE.

Girl Tells How a Blotchy Skin Was Cleansed by a Simple Wash

"I was ashamed of my face," writes Miss Minnie Pickard of Altamahaw, N. C. "It was all full of pimples and scars, but after using D. D. D. Prescription I can say that there is no sign of that Eczema, and that was three years ago."

D. D. D. has become so famous as a cure and instant relief in Eczema and all other serious skin diseases, that its value is sometimes overlooked in clearing up rash, pimples, blackheads, and all other minor forms of skin impurities.

The fact is, that while D. D. D. is so penetrating that it strikes to the very root of Eczema or any other serious trouble; the soothing Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol and other ingredients are so carefully compounded there is no wash for the skin made that can compare with this great household remedy for every kind of skin trouble.

D. D. D. is pleasant to use, perfectly harmless to the most delicate skin, and absolutely reliable. A 25 cent bottle will give you positive proof of the wonderful effectiveness of this great remedy.

BANISH CATARRH.

Breathe Hyomei for Two Minutes, and Stuffed-Up Head will Vanish

If you want to get relief from catarrh, cold in the head or from an irritating cough in the shortest time, breathe it HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-me).

It will clean out your head in two minutes and allow you breathe freely, awake or asleep.

HYOMEI will cure a cold in one day, it will relieve you of disgusting snuffles, hawking, spitting, and offensive breath in a week.

HYOMEI is made chiefly from eucalyptus, a soothing, healing, germ-killing antiseptic, that comes from eucalyptus forests of inland Australia where catarrh, asthma and consumption were never known to exist.

HYOMEI is pleasant and easy to breathe. Just pour a few drops into the hard rubber inhaler, breathe it, and cure is almost certain.

A complete Hyomei outfit, including inhaler and one bottle of HYOMEI costs only $1.00 at druggists everywhere and at C. A. Wright & Son's, Tecumseh. If you already own an inhaler, remeber that you can get an extra bottle of HYOMEI for only 50 cents. For free trial sample write Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

EASTERN STAR

Grand Chapter Held at Lansing October 13

About 2,000 people are expected in Lansing next week to attend the state convention of the Order of Eastern Star. Plans are being made in that city to entertain one of the largest delegations which has ever been seen at a meeting of the Grand Chapter.

The last two meetings of the Grand Chapter were held in Saginaw and Jackson and were attended by 1,600 and 1,800 people, but as Lansing is more centrally located, and as special rates will be run on the railroads, an even larger number of guests will doubtless come to that city. The hotels of Lansing cannot care for them all so plans are being made to distribute the visitors among the homes of the city so that all may be made comfortable during their visit at Lansing.

On Tuesday evening, Octocer 11, a reception will be given at the Masonic Temple and the first meeting of the Grand Chapter will be held the following morning at which time the regular business of the year will be taken up. That evening the officers of the Grand Chapter will exemplify the first part of the work of initiation, Arbutus Chapter No. 45 assisting with the new floral work which was recently written by Mrs, Helen E. C. Balmer of this city. The election and installation of the grand officers will follow on Thursday, October 13.

The delegates from Tecumseh are Mrs. F. D. Teachout, Mrs. Alfred James and Miss Anna Cutting.

DEMOCRATIC PROSPECTS

It looks as if the political pendulum was swinging from the Republican to the Democratic side. But if the Democrats are destined to win many victories this year, it is not wholly by reason of the unfaithfulness of Republican stewardship. The people of the United States are no longer hidebound partisans. Many things have conspired to make it seem salutary to thousands of independent-minded citizens to discipline the Republican party by administering to it some wholesome defeats. It is probably fair to say that more than half of the intelligent Republicans of the United States—apart from those who are interested in questions of office-holding—were more glad than sorry for the news that came from the Stat of Maine on the evening of September 12. There was a general feeling that it was a good thing for the Democrats to carry that State.—From "The Progress of the World," in the American Review of Reviews for October.

DE-KOVEN MALE QUARTETTE

The first of the course of entertainments given under the auspices of the Tecumseh High School Tuesday evening, proved a great success in every particular and we congratulate them most heartily. The singing of every number was loudly encored, and the willingness shown in responding reflected pleasantly on the young men.

The impersonating was fine, the hobble skirt doing good execution, and the off hand sketch was very good indeed They showed great versatility of talent and were certainly a very fine troop.

If the succeeding numbers in the course come up to the mark as has this one, those attending will feel well repaid for the small sum expended. We hope every one interested in our schools will sustain this undertaking and help along in the good work contemplated by the High School.

Uuder the Dickinson Act the poor druggist is having a hard time of it. He may sell liquor only on the prescription of a registered physician, and if it is used improperly the physician is not blamed and the druggist has to shoulder the responsibility. So it behooves she druggist to watch out to whom he sells even on prescription.

The following taken from the Detroit Free Press of October 6, will be of interest to his many Tecumseh friends: "The work of Lenardson, the freshman guard and all-around player from Britton, is the talk of the gridiron. Very few men have come to the M. A. C., in her entire history, and made such an instantaneous hit as has Lenardson. He made good almost on his first night out and great success is predicted for him in this season and those to follow."

AMUSEMENTS.

"THE BOWERY DECTIVE" tells a touching story of human interest, a story with a moral forcibly told and beautiful in its pathos. It is a story which makes one better for the knowing, yet a tale of such dramatic force and virility that interest is heightened by every word and situation.

The quiet home is a fitting atmosphere, one feels at home by the fireside with the devoted young husband and wife; shudders at the entrance of the villans whose only purpose is to destroy the reputation of the husband in order to get the possession of another's wife. One cannot but help admire the fidelity of the little waif to the sorrowing wife and glory in the unfailing energy of "THE BOWERY DETECTIVE," who finally runs the evil doors to the end of their rope and right triumphs over night. "THE BOWERY DETECTIVE" will be the attraction at the BRADLEY OPERA HOUSE on Thursday eve., October, 13.

FALL WEDDING

POPULAR YOUNG TECUMSEH COUPLE WEDDED

Last Evening at the Home of the Bride's Parents Mr. and Mrs. John H. Combs

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized Thursday evening when Miss Alice Combs was united in marriage to Mr. John Scarlett in the presence of about 80 guests. Rev. Scarlett father of the groom performed the ceremony using the Episcopal ring service. Miss Alice Sudborough of Ludington was maid of honor and Lester Heesen acted as best man.

The bride was beautiful in white chiffon lawn trimmed with valienclenes lace and a filmy embroidery wrought by her grand-mother many years ago She carried white roses and maiden hair fern and a white prayer book and wore a veil. The maid of honor wore pink messaline and carried pink roses. Miss Edyth Shull played the wedding march.

The house was prettily decorated in autumn leaves and wild flowers.

The tables had large boquets of Dahlias. The bride's table had large ropes of smilax and pink and white dahlias at which were seated the bride and groom, Lester Heesen, Alice Sudborough, Edyth Shull, David O'Reilley, Bessie Scarlett, Edna Schureman, Geddes Van Brunt and Florence Ritter.

The refreshments were served by eight young girl friends from this city—Ruth Keeney, Bess Babcock, Lulu Aylesworth, Beth Widney, Nettie Kaiser, Florence Rosacrans, Hazel Zimmerman and Edna Smith.

The presents were many and beautiful, consisting largely of silver and cut glass, also several checks aggregating about $200 from relatives unable to be present.

The couple left on the 8:57 train for Toledo, going at once to their new home in readiness for them at 367 Parker Ave. Red lights, confetti, rice and old shoes marked their way to the depot.

The out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Williams, Mr. Frank Williams, Miss Mildred Williams and Mr. Donald Williams of Detroit, Mr. Geddes VanBrunt, Frankfort, Ind., Alice Sudborough of Ludington, Guernsey Collins and Miss Grace Alberts of Ann Arbor, Rev. George Scarlett and family, Walter Morden, and David O'Reily of Macon, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Chase, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Chase, Mrs. Lena Dowling and the Misses May Patch, Bess Sudborough, Bertha Savage, Gertrude Bowen, Florence Ritter, Edna Schureman and Orpha Chase. Messss. Ray Heabler, Will Graham and Harold Birdsall all of Adrian. Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Camburn and Miss Leoni Beebe of Tipton.

A reception will be held at the Parish House immediately following the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Stebbins will be at home after the first of December at Citronelle, Ala.

INVITATIONS OUT

Invitations have been received this week by their friends in town for the wedding of Leon Williamson and Miss Lena Foster which will take place Wednesday, Oct, 12, at 6 o'clock at their new home on Killbuck St., which is in readiness for their occupancy.

FALL DISPLAY

The Webester Anderson Co Oct 6 7-8

The many friends of the Webster Anderson Co will enjoy the fine display of Fall and Winter goods on exhibition. The Store never presented a more attractive appearence with its beautiful silks fine wool goods and every thing in the new dainty fabrics.

The trimmings are exquisite and must be seen to be appreciated.

Their fall exhibit of table linens is especially good and appeals to the heart of every housekeeper. For this occasion they have put on a fine line of silk petticoats, a bargain for any woman. The decorations are in red and gold, beautiful bunches of Salvia lending the needed touch of color. It certainly will pay anyone in town or the surrounding country to visit this store even if not a purchaser.

ANNUAL MEETING

First Presbyterian Church Held Tuesday, October 4.

The annual meeting of the Presbyterian church held on the evening of October 4, brought out a large number of members. The report of the officers for the past year showed the church in a fine condition, both financially and spiritually. The Treasurer reported the church as entirely out of debt with a surplus in the treasury of about $160 also a large increase in membership. The prospects for the ensuing year seem favorable for a like success.

The following officers were elected: Church Treasurer—R. M. Molles, to succeed S. W. Boyce, resigned.

Church Trustees—H. S. Waring, reelected for a term of three years. R. A. Heesen, term of three years, to succeed T. A. Lowry, term expired. F. B. Wood, term of one year, to succeed F. E. Bradley, resigned from unexpired term

D. STANLEY SHAW

It is with regret that we chronicle the departure of Rev. D. Stanley Shaw for his new field of labor in Hudson.

While here he and his family have endeared themselves in the hearts of their many friends both in the church and outside, he has been a busy worker in everything that was for the good of others. In his pulpit he was an orator of unusual merit, an eloquent preacher, his sermons showing deep thought and study, and earnest desire for the betterment of humanity. In social life his was a charming personality always cordial, gracious and with a keen sense of the humorous side of life. He will be missed among his many friends in every walk of life.

MUST BE PROSPERING!

Our business has increased so rapidly that we must have assistance. Therefore we will teach our wondrous non-medical treatment method—Pranayama, to three ladies or gentlemen of good character and of ordinary education, in a short time. Upon graduation we will employ them at a good, steady salary as we cannot possibly, alone, treat the many sufferers who call upon us for relief and cure of their ailments. Competent practitioners earn from $10 to $25 a day the rest of their life. Call Monday at the Coller House.

After Baggage Smashers.

The "baggage smasher" has been in the limelight for many years. He has served the jokemaker faithfully. He has aroused the anger of travelers many times. But the peculiar privileges of his position have made him careless of criticism and impervious to attack in the guise of humor. With a train waiting to start, the traveler has little time to express his feelings when his belongings are roughly handled by the baggageman.

A Topeka item tells of action on the part of the Kansas board of railroad commissioners, which may be the destructive tendencies of these employes. An order has been issued forbidding baggagemen to drop a trunk from the car door to the brick or stone depot platform. The word "platform" has received a different meaning from that of former years as new styles of depot construction have gained favor. In many places there is no platform. The passenger is aided in reaching the car steps by a movable box step placed by the brakeman or porter. The baggage is brought to the car door level on a truck made for that purpose. There is less complaint of damage to trunks when the truck is used. But when the trunk is dropped to the pavement something is likely to give way, unless the straps are strong and the bands tight.

A commercial traveler commends the Kansas action and urges similar rulings by railroad commissioners of Missouri, Illinois and Iowa. The complaints against the baggagemen cannot be localized. They are heard in every state. Even the best built trunks show the effects of rough handling. If the energy of the men who handle the trunks can be restrained by rules capable of ready enforcement there will be many grateful travelers.—Chicago Tribune.

Ask any child how its mother is and it will reply, "She is well." When a child begins to notice if its mother is sick it is one sign it is no longer a child, but is grown up.

Free Dyspepsia Sample

Sufferers from indigestion are waking up to the fact that peppermint lozenges, charcoal and "dyspepsia cures" are only makeshifts in the cure of so troublesome a complaint as chronic indigestion. What is required is something that will not only relieve but which will tone and train the digestive apparatus to again do its work normally, and this these simple remedies cannot do.

There is something more to the cure of indigestion than sweetening the breath, and yet a remedy that only contains digestive ingredients will not cure permanently, as the basis of indigestion is poor bowel circulation, and that requires a scientific laxative. We know of no remedy that combines these requirements better than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which has been sold for a quarter of a century.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a laxative tonic, a scientific blending of natural ingredients for the cure of constipation, indigestion, liver trouble, sour stomach, sick headache and similar complaints. Its ingredients will so strengthen and tone the stomach and bowel muscles that they will again do their work naturally, and when that has been accomplished your trouble is over. Fannie Stuart, Staunton, Va., was a long-time sufferer, as was O. Tuck, Blackburn, Mo., and they both found their cure with this remedy. They became convinced that pills and tablets, salts, "dyspepsia cures," etc., were at best only temporary relieffs. They first accepted Dr. Caldwell's offer of a free sample bottle, which he willingly sends to anyone who forwards name and address. Later, having convinced themselves through the free sample, they bought Syrup Pepsin of their druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

COERCION IN COLORADO

Senators Invade the House and Usurp Speaker's Chair.

Lieutenant Governor Forces Disagreement of Assembly Committee on Direct Primaries.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 6.—Headed by Lieutenant Governor Fitzgerald, and backed by numbers of their colleagues, the senate hall of a conference committee invaded the lower house, usurped the speaker's chair and stayed there until the house members of a joint committee presented a report of inability to agree. The action was unprecedented in Colorado and created wild uproar.

The trouble started when two senators assigned as members of a joint conference committee on a direct primary bill reported that they could not agree between themselves on any report on which the house conferees would agree.

"Then let's go over and make them say they won't agree," cried Fitzgerald, and followed by a throng of senators he brushed past the doorkeepers and sergeants-at-arms and strode to the middle of the house floor, later assuming Speaker Lamb's chair when the speaker arose in protest.

Remains of Former Cuban Leader Received With Honors.

Remains Will Be Taken to Bayamo, Gen. Aguilera's Old Home and Interred in Final Resting Place.

Havana, Oct. 6.—The remains of Gen. Francisco Aguilera, the hero of the ten years' war in Cuba, who died in 1877 and was buried in New York, has arrived here from Tampa on the Cuban revenue cutter Yara. They were received with the greatest honors. They will lie in state in the city hall until today, when President Gomez and other high officials will accompany them to the train on which they will be conveyed to Bayamo, Gen Aguilera's old home.

THE TEST OF MERIT

Tecumseh People Are Given Convincing Proof

No better test of any article can be made than the test of time and this is particularly true of a kidney medicine. Doan's Kidney Pills have stood this test and stood it well What better proof of the merits of this remedy could you demand than the statement of a Tecumseh resident who has been cured and has stayed cured?

Read the following:

Mrs Charles Stevenson, Wyandotte and Pottawatamie Sts.; Tecumseh, Mich.- says: "Sharp shooting pains across the small of my back were the first symptoms of my kiney trouble. Other difficulties set in later and I was made miserable. Being advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I did so and the pains soon disappeared. For years I had also been bothered by gravel but Doan's Kidney Pills removed this trouble."

The above statement was given on Dec. 10, 1906, and Dec. 9, 1908, Mrs Stevenson confirmed it in detail, adding that her cure had been permanent.

EXTRA MONEY.

Many Ways for the Private in Uncle Sam's Army to Earn.

There are many ways for enlisted men in the army to earn side money, according to Col. J. H. Thomson, of New York, formerly of the United States army. There are any number of opportunities for our Philippine soldiers to make a little money "on the side."

"A good tailor or barber may reasonably expect to be kept busy continually," continued Col. Thomson, "and an industrious man may gain from these trades from $75 to $100 a month extra money. A good musician who can play any band instrument will receive $24 a month as a private, and if he can qualify as a soloist will be ranked as a non-commissioned officer with increased pay.

"Many and varied are the ways the ambitious soldier invents to earn extra money. One soldier runs a laundry, charging his 150 patrons $1.50 a month for all the laundry they wish to send in. He pays three soldiers $30 a month each to help him, and clears over $100 a month himself.

"Another soldier tutors dozens of his comrades in reading, spelling and arithmetic for $3 a month each. Buying canteen checks at 75 per cent is the business of another soldier. These checks are cashed out at their face value, to be paid for in cash on pay day.

"Twenty per cent is the increase in pay for service in Alaska, the Philippines, or any foreign country, and such service counts double time on the soldier's retirement record. At the end of 30 years' service in the states, or 15 years in foreign countries, the soldier may retire on three-quarter pay."—Washington Herald.

If you want to see something real classy in the sagacious animal line, visit the stables of the third purveyors' district at the bureau, near Beach street wharf, at feeding time.

Jersey, a big horse attached to the district, does a little stunt with rats that makes Aesop's fables and mouse tales look prehistoric.

The stable is overrun with large wharf rats, which naturally like to live on the horses' feed. The rats jump right into the mangers of the horses to get the feed—that is, the mangers of all except Jersey.

That wise old animal learned long since that he cannot prevent the rats from jumping into the manger to steal his oats, so he reasoned that the easiest way to have peace was to give them a portion of it.

When the other horses are worried by the rats jumping and eating about their noses, Jersey calmly drops some of his oats on the floor. When that has been eaten he drops another mouthful, knowing that if the "courses" are not served on time the rats will jump into the manger. The rats, too, have learned Jersey's custom, and instead of jumping into his manger, gather on the floor at his feet and wait their share.—Philadelphia Times.

The Wise Shoe Clerk.

The tall girl smiled in some embarrassment.

"Haven't you any second-hand shoes?" she said to the shoe clerk.

"But, Miss—" he remonstrated.

"No, no, you understand," she said. "I don't mean to wear. I just mean old shoes, too worn for use, that customers have left with you. You see, there's a wedding up at our house tomorrow, and we want something to throw at the bride and bridegroom."

"I see," said the clerk.

He rummaged in a black hole and drew forth an armful of dilapidated footwear. The girl selected some 2's, 3's and 1's.

"These will do. Thank you, ever so much," she said, and so departed.

"Big-footed people are always working that on us," said the clerk afterward. "That girl wears 8's. She could not very well throw such mudscows at the bride, so she chose some little and dainty shoes here—1's and 2's. Oh, yes, it's an old trick with the big-footed."—Los Angeles Times.

2,000 PERSONS ARE MISSING

Flames are Still Spreading and Outlook is Discouraging.

UNITED STATES TO FURNISH RELIEF TO STRICKEN REFUGEES —TENTS ARE NEEDED.

More Than 100 Are Believed to Have Perished in Woods Where No Record is Possible—Loss Runs into Millions.

Pine Wood, Ont., Oct. 10.—The town of Pitt was burned out.

Abroad, Minn., Oct. 10.—Fires surround this town, and it is feared it will be destroyed. The inhabitants have packed their valuables and are ready to board a train in waiting.

Rainy River, Oct. 10.—The situation here is critical, as the flames are making great headway despite the efforts of the entire population, aided by the refugees from Spooner and Beaudette.

Rainy River, Oct. 10. — Northern Minnesota is passing through the worst disaster in the history of the state, even outshadowing the Hinkley horror of fifteen years ago. The wind is blowing a hurricane and seems to be coming from all directions at once. Burning embers are being carried before this wind and settle and start other fires, which, as they gain headway, are fanned by the parent body. It is feared that but few of the homesteaders have escaped, and it is believed the dead will be over 200. Forty bodies have been recovered in this immediate vicinity.

The dead: Six, unknown, of Pitt, Minn.; unknown woman and baby, of Homesteader, near Pitt; seven unknown settlers on tract west of Pitt; two entire families, one of eight members and one of seven, residing ten miles east of Pitt, recently arrived from Fullerton, Neb., burned to death west of Spooner; one servant of Albert Bee, of Spooner; four land speculators from Davenport, Ia., recently arrived at Burdette, caught by flames near Homestead; John Simmons, of Red Oak, Ia., timber ranger, caught by flames on railway track while trying to escape to Rainey River; Matson Bay and five members of his family, burned to death on the outskirts of Spooner when house was destroyed, they attempted to weather the sea of flame in a big stone cellar and were suffocated. John Rolfn and family of eight from Pitt; Severt Hagen, George Ewart, Charles Baker and Patrick O'Mera, all of Arlington, Minn.

The missing includes some 2,000 residents of Beaudette, Spooner and Pitt, some of whom are dead, but the most of whom are safe in Rainey River and the adjacent towns on the Canadian side of the line. The most serious aspect of the missing includes the homesteaders and farmers in the bush for a distance of 100 miles east and twenty miles south of whom absolutely nothing can be known for some time, as searching parties do not dare penetrate the still smoking forests through which the cyclone of fire has swept.

While a wind is sweeping a sea of fire eastward on the south side of the Rainy River at a velocity of fifty miles an hour, the great body of flames moves this direction, revealing a great calamity. Sixty blackened corpses have been found in the path of the flames and a vast area is yet to be searched for dead, while the towns of Spooner, Beaudette and Pitt have been totally destroyed with a property loss that cannot be estimated.

Railroad and wire connections with the scene of the great disaster from the west is cut off by a burned district from Warroad, Minn., on the Canadian Northern railroad a distance of forty miles through which the fast trains passed last night at imminent peril of the lives of the crew.

These fires have been smouldering in that district for months and were fanned anew by the terrific wind which began to blow two days ago. The wind increased in velocity with the sun, until a wave of flame over a hundred feet high and as long leaped barriers half a mile wide in many directions. It was this situation that caused so many to perish on the railway track. They sought this opening in the bush, but were burned to cinders by the heat wave leaping this barrier of some 300 yards along the clearing of the railway tracks.

The most intelligent description of the holocaust is recited by Jame Ramsey, a citizen of Spooner, said:

"I was several miles south of Beaudette when I first heard the roar of the flames. I started to run for the town, but the fire was coming fast and was very close. I caught up with a man who was accompanied by a woman with a baby. They were exhausted and I grabbed the child and fled. There was a wall of flame ahead of us, but the wind shifted and we passed through. I can't understand how any of the homesteaders of that section can have escaped. I believe this fire will go through hundreds of miles of bush and timber and hundreds of people will perish."

The flames struck Pitt early Sunday afternoon and everything was destroyed. Previously Beaudette and Spooner had burned and the people fled across to Rainey River. Many were overtaken as they fled from Pitt and perished. The identification of the dead is most difficult because the people have been scattered so widely.

The prompt work of relief, engineered by the Canadian Northern officials saved many lives. The railway has been running relief train in every direction, stopping at any point where frantic people were to be found along the tracks. The heroism of these train crews is a part of the heroism of the season displayed by so many.

Many trains have been running through suffocating smoke and burning bridges and timbers, but regardless of danger to the crews. The most dramatic incidents were those incident to the escape of 2,000 fugitives in a long train of box cars. The mob of men, women and children waited for the train while their homes were in flames and the roar of falling timbers were harrowing in the extreme. The first train load steamed across to Rainey River with men hanging to the sides of the cars and to the trucks. Women were given first places. Many of those left, started running down the tracks and perished. Others with great courage stood to their ground and were rescued by the second train. On this side of the line there seemed no danger until late Sunday afternoon, when a small fire which had been smouldering for several days was fanned to a flame. It was near the big Rat Portage Lumber company mill and the plant and great piles of lumber were roaring in an instant. Again the terror-stricken fugitives prepared to depart, as it looked as if Rainey River must go the way of Beaudette. Trainmaster Nelson, whose unflinching courage and resourcefulness is responsible for saving hundreds, prepared a long line of box cars and the fugitives scrambled aboard.

At Spooner the heavfest property loss is that of the Shevlin Matthieu Lumber company. Beside the mill they lost 50,000,000 feet of mill stock valued at $29 per thousand. This was insured at $16 per thousand in Lloyds. The chief stockholders are St. Paul, Minneapolis and Toronto people. The Rat Portage company is also insured in Lloyds. In Spooner the only houses left standing are those around the station and half a dozen on the river. The problem of caring for the refugees is a serious one.

Eight hundred were taken to International Falls. It is expected relief will be supplied by the United States in a few hours. In the meantime the Canadian people are feeding them. The women have found shelter with the Canadians, but most of them are living in box cars. Most of these unfortunates have lost everything they possess. Many of them being almost naked. Tents are badly needed. The most conservative estimates are that at least 100 have perished in the woods where there is no record and possible never will be. Two thousand people are homeless.

1 DEAD, 4 INJURED IN NEW YORK FIRE

Exciting Scenes at Blaze in Tenement Building.

STREET REPAIRS STOP FIREMEN

Members of Thirteen Italian Families Are Rescued by Heroic Work of Policemen and Fire Laddies—Damage Placed at $10,000.

New York, Oct. 10. — One person was burned to death and four others injured in a fire which destroyed a five-story tenement at 186 First avenue. Firemen say that the fire would nver have got the start it had of them, if they had not had to go out of their way on account of the torn up condition of Fifth avenue which is being paved.

The fire started in the rear of the cellar. When Policeman Daniel Neylor smelt the smoke and pushed the door open, the hallway was already afire. He pulled the box at First avenue and Tenth street and then ran back to the burning building. Engine No. 5 was the first due and arrived on time. Had Engine No. 25 been able to follow their usual course they would have had pulled up soon after and would have guarded the rear while the men of engine No. 5 fought the fire from above. Engine No. 25, however, had to come up Second street. The hook and ladder companies were hampered the same way. They could not bring their apparatus to the front of the building. The men finally carried 40-foot ladders around and raised them by hand.

Meantime the tenants, thirteen Italian families, finding that escape by the stairs was cut off, crowded out on the fire escapes. Then it was found that there was no ground ladder on the front of the fire escape.

Policeman Neylon saw that the fire escapes were becoming dangerously jammed and running into the next house he made his way to the front fire escape. By standing on the coping he could reach the fire escapes of both houses and he passed men, women and children across to Policeman O'Brien, who assisted them to the ground. Once the iron ladder above him got jammed and Neylon clambered up to the third floor. Just as he reached the railed platform Mrs. Rose Rodi tried to jump down through the well. The policeman and the woman fell in a heap. Both were attended by ambulance surgeons from Bellevue.

William Hussey, a fireman of engine 15 on Henry street was off duty, but happened to be passing the blaze. He saw that the policemen needed help and assisted in taking down several children.

At last the 40-foot ladders came, and an avalanche of frightened Italians poured down them. Then the flames burst through the roof. The smoke and heat overcame several. George Stewart, a fireman of Engine Company 25, staggered out of the hallway to get a breath of air. Just as he reached the door the heat shivered a window overhead and a shower of glass clattered about his shoulders. He was taken to Bellevue, cut about the neck and back. A few minutes later Walter Masterson of fire patrol No. 7, was carried out, overcome by smoke. He was revived and remained on duty.

When the firemen were able to go through the top floor, they found the body of Pasquale Calabro, 72 years old, who had been buried to death. The damage to the building and its contents was estimated at $10,000.

STATE FAIR SETS RECORD

Springfield Show Has 250,000 Visitors and Receipts Are $90,000.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 10.—The Illinois State Fair ended with the largest closing day attendance on record. The State Board announced that the gate receipts exceeded by $17,000 those of the last fair, which broke all records for attendance.

The gate receipts for the week were approximately $90,000 and about 250,000 people saw the fair.

Writer from Italy Gives Clew to New York Police.

Declares He Was Present at the Murder of an American and Names Two of the Leaders.

New York, Oct. 10.—The arrest of several men who are alleged to be associated in a Black Hand gang which operates extensively in the United States, is expected by the New York police.

The writer of a letter says he was present when leaders of the band, assisted by the "executive committee," murdered an American citizen in cold blood, robbing him of $2,000.

The writer says also now that he is safe in Italy he wishes to denounce an organization which under the guise of a mutual benefit society for Italians in America, compels his countrymen to become members under threat, swears them to secrecy, and then forces them to take part in criminal expeditions planned by the leaders.

The letter gives the names of two leaders, one of whom lives in Jersey City and the other in New York.

CHICAGO-NEW YORK AIR RACE

Aviator Ely Starts, but Is Compelled to Soon Land by Accident.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—The start of Eugene Ely, the California aviator, in his attempt to fly to New York and incidentally to capture a $30,000 prize, ended in somewhat of a fizzle. Ely started from the Hawthorne race tracks, about nine miles southwest of Chicago, at 4:10 Sunday afternoon.

He landed a few minutes later on the grounds of the Beverly club, eleven miles south. The reason for his descent so soon after starting was a broken propeller. It is expected that Ely will attempt to resume his journey eastward this morning as soon as his machine has been repaired.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

I OWE MY CURE TO FOLEY KIDNEY PILLS

This is quoted from a letter written by Mrs. H. Armistead, 47 Greenely St., Adrian, Mich. "I suffered for many years with uraemia, or uric acid poisoning. Doctoring had no effect and my system was full of the poison due to poor kidney action. I felt miserable, tired readily, could not retain my food, my ankles were swollen and three bottles removed all my trouble, cleared my system of uric acid, and made my kidneys act properly. I now enjoy excellent health and I owe my cure entirely to Foley Kidney Pills and shall always recommend them." Sold by all druggists.

The GOOSE GIRL

By HAROLD MacGRATH

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

The duke was the first to relieve the awkwardness of the moment.

"Count, has it not occurred to you that we stand in the presence of two very beautiful young women?"

Herbeck scrutinized Gretchen with care. Then he compared her with the princess. The duke was right. And the thing which struck him with most force was that, while each possessed a beauty individual to herself, it was not opposite, but strangely alike.

When the duke was alone he slowly passed on to his secretary and opened a drawer. He laid a small bundle on the desk and untied the string. One by one he ranged the articles—two little yellow shoes, a little cloak trimmed with ermine. There had been a locket, but that was now worn by her highness.

* * * * * * *

Hermann Breunner lived in the granite lodge just within the eastern gates of the royal gardens. He was a widower and shared the ample lodge with the undergardeners and their families. He was a man of brooding moods, and there was no laughter in his withered heart. He adjusted his heavy spectacles and held the note slantingly toward the candle. A note or a letter was a singular event in Hermann's life. This note, left by the porter of the Grand hotel, moved him with surprise. It requested that he present himself at 8 o'clock at the office of the hotel and ask to be directed to the room of Hans Grumbach, whoever he might be.

He decided to go. Certainly this man Grumbach did not urge him without some definite purpose. The concierge at the hotel, who knew Hermann, conducted him to room 10 on the entresole. Hermann knocked. A voice bade him enter.

"You wished to see me?"

"Yes," offering a chair.

"You are Hermann Breunner," began Grumbach, "and you once had a brother named Hans."

Hermann grew rigid in his chair. "I have no brother."

"You did have."

Hermann's head dropped. "My God, yes, I did have a brother, but he was a scoundrel."

"Perhaps he was a scoundrel. He is—dead!" softly.

"God's will be done!" But Hermann's face turned lighter.

"As a boy he loved you."

"And did I not love him?" said Hermann fiercely. "Did I not worship that boy, who was more like a son to me than a brother?"

"I knew your brother. I knew him well. He was not a scoundrel, only weak. He went to America and became successful in business. He fought with the north in the war. He was not a coward. He did his fighting bravely and honorably. He died facing the enemy, and his last words were of you. He begged your forgiveness. He implored that you forget that black moment. He was young, he said, and they offered him a thousand crowns. In a moment of despair he fell."

"Despair! Did he confess?"

"Yes."

"Did he tell you to whom he sold his honor?"

"That he never knew. A gypsy from the hills came to him, so he said."

"From Jugendheit?"

"I say that he knew nothing. He believed that the gypsy wanted her highness to hold for ransom. Hans spoke of a girl called Tekla."

"Tekla? Ah, yes; Hans was in love with that doll face."

"Hans followed the band of gypsies into the mountains. The real horror of his act did not come home to him till then. Ah, the remorse! But it was too late. They dressed the little one in rags. But when I ran away from them I took her little shoes and cloak and locket."

Hermann was on his feet. Grumbach's eyes were as bright and glowing as coals.

Hermann leaned forward.

"Is it you, Hans, and I did not know you?"

"It is I, brother."

"My God!" Hermann sank down weakly.

CHAPTER VIII.

THE SOCIALISTS.

THE ceiling spun and the gaslight separated itself into a hundred flames before the gaze of the amazed Hermann. "You said he was dead!" he gasped to Grumbach.

"So I am to the world, to you and to all who knew me," quietly.

"Why have you returned? The duke will hang you."

"Perhaps I am a fool, perhaps I am willing to pay the penalty of my crime. At least that was uppermost. I have learned that her highness has been found, and the rope is not made that will fit my neck. Will you denounce me, brother?"

"I?"

"Why not? Five thousand crowns still hang over me."

"Blood money for me? No, Hans!"

"Besides, I have made a will. At my death you will be rich."

"Rich?"

"Yes, Hermann. I am worth 200,000 crowns."

Hermann breathed with effort.

"But riches are not everything."

"Sometimes they are little enough," Hans agreed.

"Oh, why did you do it?"

"Have I not told you, Hermann? There is nothing more to be added." Then, with rising passion: "Nothing more now that my heart is blistered and scarred with regret and remorse. God knows that I have repented and repented. I went to war because I wanted to be killed. They shot me here and here and here, and this saber cut would have split the skull of any other man. But it was willed that I should come back here."

"My poor brother! You must fly. The chancellor is suspicious."

"I know that. But since you, my brother, failed to identify me certainly his excellency will not. And you will not betray me when I tell you that I have returned principally to find out whence came those thousand crowns."

"Ah! Find that out, Hans; yes, yes!" Hermann began to look more like himself. "But what was your part?"

"Mine? I was to tell where her highness and her nurse were to be at a certain hour of the day, nothing more. My running away was the expression of my guilt; otherwise they would never have connected me with the abduction."

Hans rose.

"Hans, have you no other greeting?" Hermann asked, spreading out his arms.

The wanderer's face beamed, and the brothers embraced.

"You forgive me, then, Hermann?"

"Must I not, little Hans? You are all that is left me of the blood. True, I swore that if ever I saw you again I should curse you."

"And what has become of the principal cause—Tekla?"

"Bah! She is fat and homely and the mother of seven squalling children."

"What a world! To think that Tekla should be at the bottom of all this tangle!"

A rap on the door startled them. Hans slowly opened the door. Carmichael stood outside.

"Ah, captain!" Hans shook Carmichael by the hand and drew him into the room.

Hermann passed into the hall and softly closed the door after him. It was better that the American should not see the emotion which still illumined his face.

"What's the good word, captain?" inquired Hans.

Carmichael put in a counter query. "What was your brother doing here?"

"I have told him who I am."

"Was it wise?"

"Hermann sleeps soundly. He will talk neither in his sleep nor in his waking hours. He has forgiven me."

"For what?" thoughtlessly.

"The time for explanations has not yet come, captain."

"Pardon me, Grumbach. But I came to bring you the invitation to the military ball."

The broad white envelope emblazoned with the royal arms fascinated Hans, not by its resplendency, but by the possibilities which it afforded.

"Thank you. It was very good of you."

"It was a pleasure, comrade. What do you say to an hour or two at the Black Eagle? We'll drown our sorrows together."

The Black Eagle was lively, as usual, and there were some familiar faces. The vintner was there, and so was Gretchen. Carmichael hailed her.

"This is my last night here, Herr Carmichael," she said.

"Somebody has left you a fortune?" There was a jest in Carmichael's eyes.

"Yes," replied Gretchen, her lips unsmiling. "The poor lady who lived on the top floor of my grandmother's house was rich. She left me a thousand crowns."

"And what will you do with all that money?" asked Hans.

"I am going to study music."

"I thought you were going to be married soon," said Carmichael.

"Surely. But that will not hinder. I shall have enough for two."

The vintner scowled over the top of his paper. Carmichael eyed him mischievously. Gretchen picked up her coppers and went away.

"A beautiful girl," said Hans abstractedly. "She might be Hebe with no trouble at all."

At that day there was only one newspaper in Dreiberg. The vintner presently smoothed down the journal, opened his knife and cut out a paragraph. Carmichael followed his movements slyly. The vintner crushed the remains of the sheet into a ball and dropped it to the floor. Then he finished his beer, rose and proceeded down the stairs leading to the rathskeller below. Carmichael called a waitress and asked her to bring a copy of that day's paper. Meantime he recovered the vintner's paper, and when he finally put the two together it was a simple matter to replace the missing cutting. Grumbach showed a mild interest over the procedure.

"Why do you do that, captain?"

"A little idea I have. It may not amount to anything." But the American was puzzled over the cutting. There were two sides to it. Which had interested the vintner? "Do you care for another beer?"

"No; I am tired and sleepy, captain."

"All right. We'll go back to the hotel."

A little time later Herr Goldberg harangued his fellow Socialists bitterly. Gretchen's business in this society was to serve. They had selected her because they knew that she inclined toward the propaganda. The rathskeller had several windows and doors. These led to the biergarten, to the wine cellar and to an alley which had no opening on the street. The police has as yet never arrested anybody, but several times the police had dispersed Herr Goldberg and his disciples on account of the noise. The window which led to the blind alley was six feet from the floor, twice as broad as it was high and unbarred. Under this window sat the vintner. He was a probationer, a novitiate. This was his second attendance.

"Brothers, shall this thing take place?" cried Herr Goldberg. "Shall the daughter of Ehrenstein become Jugendheit's vassal? Oh, how we have fallen! Where is the grand duke's pride we have heard so much about? Are we, then, afraid of Jugendheit?"

"ARE WE, THEN, AFRAID OF JUGENDHEIT?"

"No!" roared his auditors.

"I have a plan, brothers. It will show the duke to what desperation he has driven us at last. We will mob the Jugendheit embassy on the day of the wedding. We will tear it apart, brick by brick, stone by stone."

"Hurrah!" cried the noisy ones.

The noise subsided. Gretchen spoke.

"Her serene highness will not marry the king of Jugendheit."

"Oh, indeed!" said Goldberg, bowing with ridicule. "Since when did her serene highness make you her confidant?"

LONG BEACH, CAL.

The Atlantic City of the Pacific A City Built Without a Saloon The City That Does Things The Queen of the Beaches

This is the city about which I wish to write at this time, and let my "reminiscences of Tecumseh" rest for a time, not that I love Tecumseh any less nor that I love Long Beach any more, for Tecumseh is very dear to me as the home of my boyhood and young manhood, and the resting place of so many of my loved ones. Long Beach is very dear to my good wife and me as our adopted home where we can spend our declining days between and near grand Old Ocean and the Majestic Mountains, surrounded by perpetually blooming flowers, in a climate free from rigors of a long, cold winter and destructive electrical storms, a city though not perfect is so clean and orderly, free from saloons and the roughness and sorrow, distress and crime that always emanates from them, that most refined and cultured may be proud to call it home.

Where we are at—Twenty-two miles south of Los Angeles and connected with that city by the Pacific Electric R. R. with an ordinary service of 20 minutes but on special occasions a 10 and even 5 minute service and by the Southern Pacific and Salt Lake roads with two or more trains daily. We are on a very level mesa from 25 to 50 feet or more above high water line. Along the city front the mesa terminates in an abrupt bluff. The most of this bluff is unimproved and presents a rough and unattractive appearance. Our population has increased from 2,260 in 1900 to 23,000 in 1910.

We came here in 1901 so we have seen the city grow from a very small village to its present size and know that has not been an unhealthy growth only in so far as an element that cries out against and wars against our rigid prohibion ordinances has gradually crept into our midst and, I am sorry to say, has, in some measure weakened our prohibition stronghold but, are in hopes to be able to keep them from taking possession of the city.

In the few years that I was able to work I helped to build 25 to 30 good residences working most of the time for one contractor Multiply this number of homes by the number built by almost a score of other contractors and you can form some idea of the rapidity with which our city has been built up. We have at least of the finest churches on the coast, Presbyterian, Methodist and Baptists. We have nine public schools nearly all of them occupying fine new, modern buildings. We have an Auditorium, down on the water front, with a seating capacity of 6000. A $100,000 pier and one hotel, the Virginia, costing $1,250,000 in the construction of which 12 lives were lost by a portion of it collapsing.. The Craig Shipbuilding plant and the Long Beach Salt Works just west of the city

Right here I am going a little into detail of this salt industry. Salt is made from ocean water by evaporation. The works comprise 450 acres of what was once was "tideland," land overflowed at high tide. It now consists of a series of artificial reservoirs, or tanks. A channel leads from the ocean to first and larger ones; the flow of water is controlled by gates. The water is allowed to remain for a certain time or until a certain strength of brine is obtained then it is turned into the next in size and the first one filled again. In the last set of vats the brine remains until evaporation is completed and only the salt in its rough coarse, condition. It is then scraped from the edges into great rows resembling great snow banks.

The day we visited the works, we counted 60, I think of these heaps 10 feet wide at base, 4 feet high and 165 feet long. From these heaps the salt is taken into the mill where it is made into 16 grades. Capital employed—$100,000. Annual output—27,400,000 pounds. Earnings—$5000 to $9000 per month. Employ regularly 25 hands, but at gathering time 50 to 60 hands are needed. Works run day and night.

I see that I am at the limit of my space in the Herald so will close for this time. If I have put salt enough in this to make it palatable to the Editor and readers I will be pleased to continue my story of "The City That Does Things."

PYTHIAN SISTERS

Annual Convention at Saginaw.

The 20th annual meeting of the Pythian Sisters of Michigan was held in Saginaw last week. The convention was opened Thursday night in the fine hall of Saginaw Lodge, No. 10. About 150 delegates were present.

The officers and members of Morenci lodge, 40 in number, were the first to arrive and were tendered a luncheon at the Elk's Temple at 6 o'clock. Toasts and short speeches were indulged in and a pleasant time enjoyed by all. Later they adjourned to the lodge hall where they were met by about 100 Pythian Sisters.

The convention was opened at 8 o'clock by an address of welcome by Sarah J. Still. Grand Chief Mary Vamberg of the grand lodge made a neat response. The members of Morenci lodge exemplified the work in a grand manner. Sixteen ladies were in the team with nine officers. A delightful time was the verdict of all.

The delegates from Tecumseh were Mrs. Geo. Church and Mrs. James Elliott

Tecumseh, Mich., October 3rd, 1910.

To the Honorable Common Council
Village of Tecumseh, J. H. Smith, President:

The American Steel & Wire Company desire to tap the 6-inch water main on Patterson street for fire protection, and would ask you to grant permission to do so.

It is proposed to take a 6-inch line off of Patterson street main at the west property line of the American Steel & Wire Co., and running the same south some 500 feet, to supply two standard fire plugs. Also, to take a 6-inch line off of same main about 130 feet east of said property line, and extend the same south some 300 feet, installing two (2) standard fire plugs east of main building. All pipe to be laid on the company's property, except where it crosses Patterson street.

The same to be provided with gate valves, as indicated on sketch. All the work to be done in compliance with the established rules of the Water Board, the Village to make the proper connection, charging the American Steel & Wire Co. for the same; the American Steel & Wire Co. to furnish the material.

This will necessitate cutting the 6 inch main on Patterson street at the two places indicated, and inserting a T for each extension. All materials used will be of suitable weight and standard quality. The American Steel & Wire Co. will install and maintain these extensions at their own expense, the same to be under the supervision of the Engineer of the Water Works of the village of Tecumseh, and said village not to be held responsible for any damages whatever.

WILLIAM ALBERT,
Superintendent Anthony Works.

Moved and seconded that the request of the American Steel & Wire Co. be granted. Motion carried.

Moved and seconded that we do now adjourn. Motion carried.

ROY W. CODLING, Clerk.

REXALL CONVENTION

IMMENSE CROWD OF 1,800 PRESENT

Banner Meeting

A three days convention of Rexall men was held in Boston Sept. 28-29-30 It was pronounced one of the most important conventions ever held in the east, their being over 1200 stockholders present, also about 600 ladies and when they joined in singing Auld Lang Syne it was a very impressive scene, In order to house the large audience the Boston Arena was secured, President Louis K. Leggett called the convention to order and introduced the Hon. John Fitzgerald mayor of Boston. He was given a most hearty reception.

The Mayor welcomed the visitors to Boston, he paid a tribute to the Co. for locating here, not only for adding to the wealth of the city in taxes but for giving employment to hundreds of men and women, he ended by praising Pres. Liggett for his brilliant conception of the Rexall idea and his efforts in making it such a success. Tuesday afternoon the ladies were given a motor trip over a hundred autos being in line. They visited the many places of interest in Boston, the return trip bringing them through Bostons many famous parks. Wednesday they were taken to Riverside for recreation, the gentlemen joining them at the close of their business session in time for lunch. On Thursday they enjoyed a buffet luncheon at the United Drug Co., laboratories. The banquet Thursday evening was a fitting climax to the three days convention, singing and speeches made the evening a delightful one

Our townsman B. J. Pulver was one of the many who enjoyed this meeting and it will long be a pleasant memory to all who participated.

During the business sessions a vast amount of business was transacted. The president gave a report of what had been accomplished during the past year nearly 4,000 druggists are affiliated with the company. Discussions followed resulting in an enterchange of ideas of great benefit to all.

OBITUARY

A Pointer on good Coal.

Unlike many free pointers, this will be a good one. This summer we built a string of new coal bins in fact, have the largest string in town, in order to carry in stock a well assorted stock of different kinds of fuels, and we have been receiving carload after carload.

Quality, Prompt Delivery, Satisfaction

will be the three features every buyer will receive with every order, large or small. We will have the largest assortment of fuels this winter we have ever carried. We have bought only the very best of grades and know if you will give us a share of your business you will be "ahead of the game".

Please give our Pocahontas or Coke a trial. They are a little extra in quality but no higher in prices.

FATAL ACCIDENT

JAMES B. HOUGH OF AURORA INSTANTLY KILLED

A sad accident occured Sat., Oct. 8, at about 1:30 p. m. at Bureau Junction, Ill., Mr. Hough had been out since early morning on business and was returning home, as he crossed the canal bridge at the junction he waited nearly half an hour for the passing of several trains and when he thought the way clear drove on. The interuban track was hidden by box cars on the rail road track and he did not see the car, it was down grade and evidently was not under control. The buggy was struck and utterly demolished, and the horse was instantly killed, Mr. Hough was thrown quite a distance and it is thought his death was instantaneous, there were no bruises or bones broken and as he lay in his casket he looked as if asleep. It is only seven weeks ago since he and his wife were here in his old home town for a visit and he enjoyed every moment while here. His family think he had a premomition of death as so many of his remarks pointed that way. He was young to go only 54 years old, but it is not ours to measure the span of a mans life. He leaves a wife, five sons and one daughter to mourn his loss. He was a member of the Modern Woodmen and the Ill., Commercial Men's Ass'n. The funeral will be held this afternoon at the Baptist church and his burial at Brookside beside his loved one's gone before.

SOCIAL

SHOWER

The Misses Edyth Shull, Ruth Keeney, Hazel Zimmerman and Mrs. LaVern Pratt entertained at the home of Miss Shull Monday evening in honor of Miss Lena Foster. Cards furnished the entertainment of the evening, Miss Myrtle Foster winning first prize, and Hazel Zimmerman the booby. After light refreshments Miss Lena was invited to follow the intricacies of a cobweb which led her all over the house, her efforts were well rewarded as she found many beautiful gifts at the terminus of each stand. A very delightful evening was spent by all, and at parting they wished the bride-to be all good wishes for her future.

SHOWER

Weather Forecast—Showers for Friday evening Oct., 7, 1910.

Don your rain coat and venture forth and if it storms very hard stop with Miss Jessie Clement for she has everything in readiness for a heavy shower Miss Myrtle Bachman will be the honored guest.

Thus read the unique invitation that called about 16 girls to the home of Miss Jessie Clement Friday evening. The affair was a genuine surprise and was given in honor of Miss Myrtle Bachman who's marriage is announced for Oct. 18. The house was prettily decorated the color schemes being red through-out. In the progressive game that was very much enjoyed were the blind-folded drawing of the bride to be, a telegram from the word "honeymoon, making a man from spools and writing a receipt for happiness. Following the games she was presented with a key and instructed to search the room for hidden packages which belonged to her. Among the packages were found to be useful articles for each room in the house. A shower of fortunes were thrown among the crowd which caused much merriment in the reading. A dainty luncheon was served and a note of thanks was given Miss Clement for her royal entertaining.

AMUSEMENTS.

"THE BOWERY DETECTIVE" which will be the attraction at the BRADLEY OPERA HOUSE on THURSDAY, OCTOBER 13, is a powerful comedy drama telling a beautiful story combining humor, pathos, heart interest, and thrilling realism. There is a strong vein of comedy of a laughable nature that more than pleases.

The story is written around incipents of a celebrated case of New York life, well written and not unreal or stagey. It is one of the best comedy dramas of today written by a playwright who has given the public some of the very best drama of recent years. "THE BOWERY DETECTIVE" will be presented by a competent company with the eminent actress, Miss Freda Bookman Whittier in the leading feminine role and supported by such people as W. H. Hartigan of "Jekyll and Hyde" fame, Earl O. Parrish, Frank Carman and and others in the cast. The same company that have been playing Battle Creek, Owosso, Pontiac, Port Huron and towns of that size.

ADRIAN BASEBALL

Adrian Club is now a Class "C" organization, and it is expected that 1911 will see better games and larger crowds than ever before. The stockholders and directors see that Adrian wants the national game. The team for 1911 will be of a higher class and players salaries will be more. We wish them all success.

AUTUMN DISPLAY

The store of Fred Rosacrans and Sons presents a very pretty appearance in its display of fall goods. The line of dress gooks is very fine and the fancy silks and satins are very charming. Trimmings were never prettier than at this season and combined with the goods are very striking. The display of linen in table cloths, napkins, doylies, towels etc. is quite effective and the autumn leaves and great bowls of Salvia give an added touch to the general effect. At this season of the year the blending of rich colors make a beautiful showing

The Chinaman In Business.

The Chinese are invariably courteous and considerate if you take them in the right way. Superstition, of course, is deeply engrafted in their natures, and a kind of Kismet policy, after the policy of the Turks, takes possession of them, so that whatever is going to happen will happen, and there the matter ends, says the Shanghai Mercury.

Battling against fate for a Chinaman is sheer waste of time, and he simply bows his head to the inevitable. Take, for example, the strict attention or rather the devotion that is paid to "feng-shui" on the Yangtze. Feng-shui is the superstition that determines good site or locality, and if a town on the Yangtze has not a good feng-shui, trade will not come to it and it will be ruined.

A town named Pel-Shih had its pagoda in the wrong place, not far enough down the river, in fact, the result being that Pel-Shih was left out in the cold. All the talk in the world would not convince the Pel-Shih folk that the depression could arise from any other cause than that of bad feng-shui, so they pulled the pagoda down and built another one in supposed right spot. So far prosperity has not returned to Pel-Shih, though the inhabitants live in hope.

The city of Wanshein, on the other hand, has perfect feng-shui, two fine pagodas, one a thousand feet high, below the town, while Wanshien itself is very prosperous. The fact that Wanshien is situated in a most fertile valley, where wheat, barley and the poppy flourish abundantly, does not concern the inhabitants of these places so much as the feng-shui site. This absurd idea in the Chinese mind is only one of thousands like it.

Every person would be better off if he would use the little sense he has. But most people abuse the little sense they have as much as they abuse their stomachs.

The most cruel woman is she who forgets after her husband has hooked her dress all the way up the back that she cannot put her hat on unless the dress is unhooked.

"Oh, what a charming place!" exclaimed a visitor, and his hostess replied, "Yes, it belongs to the begoni family." "Why no," said the youngest daughter, "it belongs to the Brown family, and they lent it to us for the evening."

Free Dyspepsia Sample

Sufferers from indigestion are waking up to the fact that peppermint lozenges, charcoal and "dyspepsia cures" are only makeshifts in the cure of so troublesome a complaint as chronic indigestion. What is required is something that will not only relieve but which will tone and train the digestive apparatus to again do its work normally, and this these simple remedies cannot do.

There is something more to the cure of indigestion than sweetening the breath, and yet a remedy that only contains digestive ingredients will not cure permanently, as the basis of indigestion is poor bowel circulation, and that requires a scientific laxative. We know of no remedy that combines these requirements better than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which has been sold for a quarter of a century.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a laxative tonic, a scientific blending of natural ingredients for the cure of constipation, indigestion, liver trouble, sour stomach, sick headache and similar complaints. Its ingredients will so strengthen and tone the stomach and bowel muscles that they will again do their work naturally, and when that has been accomplished your trouble is over. Fannie Stuart, Staunton, Va., was a long-time sufferer, as was O. Tuck, Blackburn, Mo., and they both found their cure with this remedy. They became convinced that pills and tablets, salts, "dyspepsia cures," etc., were at best only temporary relieffs. They first accepted Dr. Caldwell's offer of a free sample bottle, which he willingly sends to anyone who forwards name and address. Later, having convinced themselves through the free sample, they bought Syrup Pepsin of their druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

PREFERS DEATH TO PEN

Mrs. Laura Stewart Takes Poison and She Succumbs.

Deed Follows Sentence to the Detroit House of Correction for From One to Ten Years.

Adrian, Mich., Oct. 10.—Not twenty minutes after being sentenced to the Detroit house of correction for one to ten years, Mrs. Laura A. Stewart, whose trial for the burning of her own buildings in Palmyra has been a sensation during the two years in which it has been in the courts, ended her life by swallowing strychnine.

Mrs. Stewart was led into the court room about 10 o'clock and throughout the proceedings displayed but little emotion. When asked if she had anything to say in her own behalf before the sentence she dramatically declared that she was innocent of the charge against her.

After being sentenced she requested the officers to take her to her home in order that she might change her clothes before going to the county jail. The request was granted and while the officers were waiting outside her room she swallowed the fatal drug. A doctor was summoned, but in spite of all efforts she succumbed.

GEMS DISAPPEAR AT CLUB

Mrs. Levering Loses $500 Rings at Skokie; Police Hunt Robbers.

Chicago, Oct. 10. — Three diamond rings belonging to Mrs. W. A. Levering, a society woman of Glencoe, disappeared mysteriously from the clubhouse of the Stokie Country club.

The manner in which the rings, valued at $500, disappeared leads Mrs. Levering to believe there may be a society "Raffles" operating in the club. Employes of the club were questioned and later Mrs. Levering asked the Chicago police to assist her in the search for the missing jewels.

TWO ARE FOOTBALL VICTIMS

Kalamazoo, Mich., Oct. 10.—Edward Dickie, son of President Samuel Dickie of Albion college, was seriously injured in a football game between Kalamazoo college and Albion college.

Dickie was attempting to block an end run when he was kicked in the stomach. During a game between Kalamazoo High school and Plainwell, Fred Longhead, a Kalamazoo player, was struck in the head and suffered a slight concussion of the brain.

THE TEST OF MERIT

Tecumseh People Are Given Convincing Proof

No better test of any article can be made than the test of time and this is particularly true of a kidney medicine. Doan's Kidney Pills have stood this test and stood it well. What better proof of the merits of this remedy could you demand than the statement of a Tecumseh resident who has been cured and has stayed cured?

Read the following:

Mrs. Charles Stevenson, Wyandotte and Pottawatamie Sts., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "Sharp shooting pains across the small of my back were the first symptoms of my kidney trouble. Other difficulties set in later and I was made miserable. Being advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I did so and the pains soon disappeared. For years I had also been bothered by gravel but Doan's Kidney Pills removed this trouble."

The above statement was given on Dec. 10, 1906, and Dec. 9, 1908, Mrs. Stevenson confirmed it in detail, adding that her cure had been permanent.

WAR ON WOLVES AND COYOTES.

Colorado Will Endeavor to Exterminate Pests to Save Game.

State Game Commissioner T. J. Holland will have a dreaded name among the coyotes and wolves when he goes out of office, for he is determined to waage a war of extinction against the 'varmints."

Commissioner Holland believes that coyotes are responsible for destruction of more game in Colorado than an army of pot hunters thirty times as large as those which annually flood the deer sections. All during the summer and winter they are chasing the deer, pulling down young fawns in the late summer and capturing helpless animals in the deep snow when winter comes.

Therefore he will issue instructions to all game wardens to poison coyotes and wolves. The government has perfected a new wolf poisoning system that is said to work very effectively. And the old strychnine carcass will be revived to the limit to deplete the ranks of killers which range all over the mountains and plains of Colorado.

In the early days, according to Commissioner Holland, coyotes rarely frequented the mountains. Hardly an old trapper or pioneer remembers ever having seen coyotes in the mountains. Sustenance was far easier on the plains for two reasons, the game was more easily caught and the coyotes did not have man to depend upon. When men went into the mountains the refuse they threw away from their living would keep a coyote alive for a long time.

The mountain coyotes now hang around ranch houses and towns more than anything else, and in the night they steal in to pilfer and gorge. They always find plenty to eat either by killing game or stealing from men. Commissioner Holland thinks that he can do much toward preserving game and killing coyotes by using poison, especially as the new game law provides bounty money.—Denver Republican.

As Seen From Mexico.

As a rule, the political meeting here is fairly orderly, and the police have little to do in the way of keeping down a not unnatural exuberance of spirits. But we cannot help asking what would be said by outside commentators on Mexican affairs should there taken place at public meetings here disorders similar to those that have recently occurred in England and Scotland, where the turbulent suffragets have been much in evidence.

On the 20th of last month Secretary for War Haldane, while addressing a meeting at Liverpool, was greatly disturbed by a number of suffragets who took a position on the rof of an adjacent building, and "showered bricks through the windows of the hall in which the meeting was being held."

On the same date the police of Glasgow dislodged a number of rain-soaked and benumbed but still valiant suffragets from the roof of St. Andrew's hall, where the Earl of Crewe, secretary of state for the colonies, was to speak. It was the purpose of these women to break in through the trap-door on the roof. The police removed the women from their perilous position with much difficulty. Several other women were arrested for throwing stones through the window of the hall and committing other breaches of the peace, and sundry riotous scenes resulted.

The professed object of these women is to attract attention to the cause of suffrage for their sex! Recently some of them, when in jail, bit, kicked and scratched the wardresses, and caused much trouble to the prison authorities.

Progressive Mexico has not advanced so far in the way of strenuous politics.—Mexican Herald.

The Land Getting Better.

From a thorough investigation of conditions throughout the country, the results whereof will be detailed in a forthcoming bulletin of the agricultural department, Prof. Whitney, chief of the bureau of soils, concludes that the productivity of our farm lands, taken as a whole, is increasing rather than diminishing. In the sections long settled there are many instances of deterioration. The soil has been robbed until it has been worn out; and there are similar instances in the more newly-settled states. Generally speaking, however and thanks to more intelligent cultivation to the observation of correct principles in the rotation of crops and to a more careful use of fertilizers, we are now producing larger crops per acre than formerly—and this without any observable signs of soil exhaustion. In the middle Atlantic states, for instance, the yield of wheat per acre has increased from an average of under 13 bushels in the decade ended in 1870 to over 18 bushels in the 10 years ended 1906. This should reassure those of us who have been influenced by pessimists to anticipate a time when our farms will not supply bread enough for the nation, and we shall have to go abroad for food.—Philadelphia Record.

Curious Condensations

Buttons, piano keys and similar objects are now made of milk.

In Chile there are regions where there are so many Germans that the native servants learn their language.

In 1876 the average life of a Berliner was only 29 years. Today it is 38 years, thanks to sanitary improvements.

It is said that the Chicago Woman's club is forced to spend $1,500 for a new cloakroom on account of the present extravagant size of hats.

The native community of Canton has proposed to organize a volunteer fire brigade, and has submitted a set of regulations to the Viceroy for his approval.

POINTING THE BONE

Queer Superstition of the Native Blacks of Australia.

The native blacks of Australia are steped in superstition. A black fellow will on no account go near the spot where another black has been buried. He has a deep rooted aversion to one particular bird—the wagtail—because, he says, "him all day talk, talk along a white feller, telium all about black feller," and no opportunity is lost of killing these little birds.

Many tribes "bury" their dead by sticking them up into the forks of trees and there leaving them till the flesh has either dropped or been taken, leaving the bones clean. These bones are then taken down, the larger ones buried and the smallest handed round as keepsakes to those senarily related to the deceased. Should one black fellow wish the death of a rival or enemy he points the bone at him. This means that he takes one of his late relation's bones from his dilly bag and points it, in the presence of witnesses, at the man he wishes to get rid of, all the time uttering forth threats and curses.

Strange as it may seem, the one pointed at will often languish and eventually die, perhaps in a month, perhaps in a year, for no sooner is the bone pointed than he makes up his mind to die, and there is no saving him.

How Hair Grows.

A single hair, which can support a weight of two ounces, is so elastic that it may be stretched to one-third of its entire length and then regain its former size and condition. Dr. Pincus has measured the growth of hair by cutting of circles about one inch in diameter from the heads of healthy men, and so comparing the growth of the patches with that of the rest of the hair. He found that the growth rate generally became slower after cutting; that in some cases the hair on the patches grew at the same rate as the rest, but that it never grew any faster.

The ordinary length of the hair on the head range between twenty-two inches and about forty-five inches, the latter being considered unusually long. It has been calculated that the hair of the beard grows at the rate of one line and a half a week; this will give a length of six and a half inches in the course of a year. For a man eighty years of age, who has been a clean shaver from early maturity, no less than twenty-seven feet of beard must have fallen befor the edge of the razor.

His Uncle.

The Prince of Wales is fond of telling a good story to his friends in connection with his visit to Ottawa some few years ago. The Prince—then Duke of York—stole away for a quiet bicycle spin early one morning, and in his ramblings met a farmer, heading marketward, his wagon temporarily stalled by the loss of a nut belonging to the whiffletree bolt. His Royal Highness, with his usual democratic kindness, assisted him in putting things right. On parting, the farmer expressed his rough thanks and asked if he might know the name of the person to whom he was indebted. The royal cyclist replied modestly: "I am the Duke of York. And may I ask whom I have the pleasure of addressing?" A broad, amused smile beamed from the farmer's face as he said: "Me! Me! Why, I'm your uncle, the Czar of Russia!"

A Most Useful Event.

The way in which the first automatic steam engine was produced was undoubtedly this—and it shows how comparatively easily a really great invention may sometimes be made. It was the duty of Humphrey Potter, a boy, to turn a stop-cock to let the steam into the cylinder and one to let in water to condense it at certain periods of each stroke of the engine, and if this were not done at the right time, the engine would stop. He noticed that these movements of the stopcock handles took place in unison with the movements of certain portions of the beam of the engine. He simply connected valve handles with the proper portions of the beam by strings, and the engine became automatic—a most eventful result.

No Hope.

Miss Irene Gillicuddy of Millville, Miss., writes: "I have a gentleman friend who has been keeping company with me all this year, but who has never inoicated or intimated that he wishes to be considered other than a friend of mine. I am 19 years old, with ruby lips, rose-pink cheeks, golden hair, azure eyes and a gentle disposition. Do you think I should hang up some mistletoe and accidentally stand beneath it while he is around, just to encourage him?" Irene, if a young man needs the encouragement of mistletoe under the circumstances, there is no hope for him.

Insanitary Buildings.

The city of Washington is setting an example to other large cities in the country in destroying buildings which the health authorities believe to be insanitary. Thirty-two such buildings were razed during the month of March, and about the same number were destroyed during each of the months of January and February. In less than two years about 1,000 buildings have been either destroyed or have been brought up to the sanitary standard required by the district ordinances.

A Requisite.

Staylight—Oh, Miss Wobbins, may I come to see you again?

Miss Wobbins—Well, I cannot see how can you very well unless you go this time.—Life.

Peter and John (seeing a large plateglass pane put in)—We may as well go home. They are not going to let it fall.

Vacation Constancy.

Tacoma has trebled in size during the past nine years.

No town will ever be so good the gossips will not find something to talk about. The gossips would move from such a town.

You have probably remarked that most of your compliments are worded in this way: "I like you; I don't see why other people hate you so."

An error in judgment is what a woman makes when she intrs chance with bluff and feeds it to her husband in the hope that he will stand for a $40 hat.

DEITZ IS CAPTURED AFTER LONG FIGHT

Cameron Dam Outlaw Surrenders to Sheriff; Wounded.

TWO WOUNDED; FIVE MISSING

More Than 1,000 Shots Were Fired Into the Home by 100 Sharpshooters in Sheriff Madden's Posse—Held Out Six Hours.

Winter, Wis., Oct. 10.—John H. Deitz, wounded and weakened from the loss of blood, but securely handcuffed to a special deputy sheriff nearly twice his size, was brought into Winter under armed guard.

It was a funeral procession as well as a march of triumph that wended its way slowly through the eight miles of dense woods between this village and the bullet riddled homestead from which the outlaw of Cameron dam and his family were dragged after six hours of fierce fighting.

Last in the line of march four stalwart deputies, bore aloft the sheeted form of Oscar Harp, their former comrade, who was found shot dead on the hill back of the Dietz cabin when the battle was over. Stumbling along beside the body was Chet Colfetch, whose right ear was shot off in the fight. William Rankin, a deputy, also was shot in the ear.

A posse of fifty men are searching the woods near Dietz's cabin for five deputies who have not been seen since the fight. It is feared they may have been slain.

It was his wife's delicate condition and partial collapse during the battle that forced Dietz to send his younger daughter into the clearing in front of the cabin with a flag of surrender. Mrs. Dietz is soon to become a mother.

Dietz did not surrender until his cabin and every other building in his clearing had been riddled with bullets. For six hours and five minutes every volley fired by the attracking forces was replied to vigorously from the loopholed wall of the cabin and Mrs. Dietz says her husband fired every shot directed at the deputies.

When the officers had been convinced that the appearance of Helen Dietz in the clearing with a white flag was not a ruse, they went to the cabin and beheld a remarkable sight.

Almost every inch of the floor was covered with flattened, twisted bits of lead that had been bullets until they tore through the cabin walls, knocking off splinters from the inside and falling harmlessly to the floor.

Dietz himself was so weak he could not stand. He had been shot in the hand but had kept on shooting his repeating rifle and automatic pistols until the threatened collapse of his wife brought him to a realization of the fact that his was at best a losing fight.

More than 1,000 shots had been fired into the house by the 100 picket sharpshooters who made up Sheriff Madden's posse. There is no telling how many times Dietz had replied, but the floor of the cabin was littered with empty rifle and revolver shells, and the powder smoke within the house was so dense as to make breathing almost impossible.

Our Great Undeveloped Resources.

There are in the United States 30,000,000 acres of swamp land which can be drained and which will be as arable as a garden when they are drained. This swamp land would provide homes for and support 10,000,000 people. There are in the United States millions upon millions of arid and semi-arid lands, which irrigation could make and is making very fertile. These lands will support 15,000,000 households, or twice the population of New York state. There are what may be called the Lost Lands, lands lost to the public through fraud; lands lost to the public through lack of knowledge of how to handle their peculiar formation. Only 20 per cent of Uncle Sam's lands are yielding living averages. What of the rest? Conservation says every acre, every foot of every acre, must be made productive of something. If you can't grow crops, grow trees! If you can't drain swamps, grow cranberries and cutting reeds! If you can't irrigate, then practice dry farming! If you can't farm rocks, then harness their cataracts into water power! As to the lands lost to the public through fraud, Conservation says: "Take them back for the public or charge them full price for the public."

And you are still only at the beginning of Conservation's big program. For every ton of coal mined, a ton and a half is wasted, or, to put it differently, for every four tons mined, six tons are wasted. In the petroleum fields, enough natural gas goes to waste to light every city in the United States free of cost. The fire waste of the United States is the highest in the world, so is the bill of fire insurance. And greater than all these is the waste of human life in mine and factory.—From "Our National Heritage," by Agnes C. Laut, in The Outing Magazine.

After the Show.

A well-dressed man, said to be an Englishman, has been arrested in Montmartre, Paris, on a charge of tendering bad half-sovereigns for dinners and entertainments. Which reminds us of the story about the touring company which has been doing very bad business in "the smalls." While the proprietor and sole responsible manager was standing outside the temporary theater (the Corn Exchange) a very small boy with a very large melon arrived and proposed to barter the fruit for a seat in the gallery. The bargain was duly concluded, and the scene now changes to the interior of the theater after the performance: "Boy," says the manager severely, "that melon was rotten." "That's all right," returns the youthful critic, "so was yer show."—London Globe.

"Yes, she's a very clever girl, but people would like her better if she didn't make sarcastic remarks at the expense of her friends.

"I'm simply crazy about black and white. I've had this check skirt for two years and I'm going to keep right on wearing it till it's worn out."

AUTOISTS ROB FARMERS

Chicago Women in Custody for Stealing at Crown Point.

Mrs. Hayden Admits Goods Were Taken, but Says Thefts Were Committed for "Devilment."

Chicago, Oct. 13.—A remarkable study from a psychological point of view of a woman's idea of amusement developed when Mrs. Ralph R. Hayden, of 4933 Prairie avenue, wife of Dr. Ralph E. Hayden, a dentist, with an office at 2901 Wallace street; her mother, Mrs. Mattie Jennings, a sister, Miss Laura Jennings, and Mrs. A. Cresner were taken into custody by detectives in connection with an alleged series of burglaries at the homes of farmers in Crown Point, Ind.

Mrs. Hayden, who was arrested on a fugitive warrant charging larceny, made a verbal confession, admitting that she and the other women committed the thefts for "devilment" while on an automobile trip in Crown Point. Between $50 and $75 worth of butter, eggs, apple butter, linen, table ware and vegetables, said to have composed the property taken from the farm houses, were found in Mrs. Hayden's private automobile garage, according to the police.

Gets on Box to See Rabbits in Toolhouse When Sash Falls—Dead When Found by Mother.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—Climbing up on a box to look at some young rabbits resulted in the death of Charles Coleman, 5 years old, when the heavy window through which he was peering fell and strangled him. He was unconscious when seen by his mother from the kitchen window and died before a doctor reached the house, Commercial avenue and Thirtieth street, Chicago Heights.

The little boy had been locked out of the toolhouse for fear he would kill the young rabbits by fondling them. When found by his mother his neck was caught between the frame and the window sash, and his feet were dangling three feet from the ground. An overturned box was on the ground near him. The window was pressed so tightly on his throat that an outcry was impossible.

SHOOT FIRE LOOTERS

Ghouls Robbing the Dead in Devastated Region.

Baudette, Minn., Crowded with Refugees, is Placed Under Martial Law by Authorities.

Rainy River, Ont., Oct. 13.—"Shoot to kill and shoot on sight," was the order issued all through the country devastated by the forest fires, where ghouls are robbing the dead and carrying off valuables wherever found unguarded.

At Baudette, Minn., a guard caught a man trying to open the Frst National bank safe. He wounded the robber but was unable to capture him. In this city deputy sheriffs have shot several human fiends caught red-handed robbing stores of the small supply of food that must be carefully husbanded and which money cannot buy.

Baudette, one of the chief sufferers from the fire, but with enough houses standing to afford shelter to many refugees, is under martial law, Captain Ott of Bemidji being in charge with his company of national guardsmen. The town is in a panic. Several hundred of the 3,000 refugees are being cared for in tents.

SNAKE BITE MAY BE FATAL

Former Indiana Man, Struck by Rattler, Was Without Remedy.

Anderson, Ind., Oct. 13.—Word has been received here that Albert Morris, who left here two years ago for Ricardo, N. M., is at the point of death at that place, as the result of having been bitten by a rattlesnake.

He was walking across the plains when bitten and was unable to secure medical aid until the poison had spread through his body.

FRENCH RAILROAD STRIKE GROWING

Provincial Troops Arriving in Paris to Maintain Order.

300,000 MEN ARE AFFECTED

Prime Minister Briand Admits That the Government Considers Strikers Have Some Claims They Are Willing to Consider.

Paris, Oct. 13.—French workingmen threaten a gigantic move to paralyze the activities of the whole country in sympathy with railroad strikers. The electricians and employes of the omnibus, metropolitan and subway lines are considering a walkout.

Paris, Oct. 13. — Important detachments of provincial troops are arriving in Paris. The government is not billeting them on private individuals, as they could legally do, but is barracking them in public and municipal buildings. Eight hundred infantrymen, for instance, occupy the Seminary of Saint Sulpice.

The food situation in Paris is causing some alarm. Prices of provisions at the central markets have advanced in some cases as much as 20 per cent. Parisians are laying in stocks of food to the same extent as they did before May 1, 1906, when a great labor strike was feared. The authorities are now organizing a boat service for the purpose of bringing provisions to the city.

The St. Lazare station was closed up at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. A few trains which started in the morning reached Poissy, some sixteen miles away, where they found eleven other trains stalled with the brakes fully applied. Six of the stalled trains were bound up the line and five down. A crowd of strikers met the new trains and compelled them to return to Paris.

The employes of the Western railway held a meeting and decided to strike at midnight. The Paris, Lyons and Mediterraneanean line employes are also expected to join the Northern and Western strikers.

Prime Minister Briand had a conference with Gen. Brun, minister of war; M. Millerand, minister of public works, posts and telegraphs, and M. Barthou, minister of justice and the legal authorities. It is said that as a result of this conference some twenty-five arrests may be expected.

The statement of the premier admits that the government considers that the strikers have some just claims which it is ready to consider. It is said that the government is willing to allow railway rates to be raised to cover an increase in wages and this is what is keeping railway shares firm on the Bourse, where there has as yet been no panic. In years gone by even the threat of a railway strike always affected rentes severely.

One regiment from Tours and another from Chateaudun arrived last evening. Detachments from two regiments are on the way from Chalons and 300 men are coming from Cosna.

GERMANY ROUTE IS CLOSED

French Rail Strike Ties Up Serivce Between France and Germany.

Berlin, Oct. 13. — The most direct route between Germany and France has been closed on account of the French strike. Many Germans and a quantity of freight bound for France are held up at the frontier. Communication between Paris and Berlin is yet open by way of Lyons, but the delay by this route is five hours.

It is probable that the line will be soon stopped. The only railway communication between Germany and France then would be by way of Bale and Dijon. Germans reaching the frontier by automobile report that they had been attacked by strikers.

BOY ROBBER ADMITS CRIMES

Thief Who Was Shot in Attempted Hold Up Dies of Injuries.

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 13. — J. C. McLaughlin, the young robber, who was shot while attempting to hold up Max Hermann in his store at Houston last Saturday night, died in a hospital.

McLaughlin confessed to robbing a Houston restaurant, a Galveston street car conductor, and operations in Beaumont. He said he recently played the role of a bandit in a wild west show, quitting it to become one in reality.

ROOT MAY BE CHIEF JUSTICE

President Said to Favor New York Senator for Position.

Washington, Oct. 13. — President Taft is considering United States Senator Root for appointment as chief justice of the supreme court. No decision has been reached by Mr. Taft regarding the chief justiceship, but Mr. Root is regarded by him at this time with much favor.

There is good reason to believe that Root would accept the place if it were off red him.

MURDERER KILLS HIS OWN BROTHER

Louis Scherr, Tailor, Commits Crime in Baltimore.

VICTIM'S HEAD NEARLY SEVERED

Crime Is Outgrowth of a Family Feud Which Had Lasted Nearly Five Years—Killing Was a Premeditated Affair.

Baltimore, Oct. 13.—Louis Scherr, a tailor, living in New York, at 227 East Second street, came here for the express purpose of killing his elder brother, Harry, against whom he bore a grudge, and carried out his intention. Without warning and while Harry was working in his tailor shop, at East street, Louis slipped up the stairs to his brother's room. Then, without a word of warning, the murderer plunged a long dirk knife into the neck of his helpless brother. Back and forth he pulled the knife until the head of his victim was nearly severed from his body.

Then he fled down the stairs to the first floor. Just behind the murderer, the victim half crawled and half stumbled into a second-story room, where a number of other tailors were working. Several of these ran for a doctor, whereupon the murderer, determined, insisted he should not be relieved, returned and standing over his brother's body, muttered defiance. A detail of police was hurried to the scene and, forcing a passage through the dense crowd, disarmed Scherr and carried him to jail.

At the hearing the murderer was remanded for trial, as the only explanation that he would offer was that he had come to kill his brother who had wronged him. A family feud, which has lasted for nearly five years, the police say, was Louis' motive for slaying his brother. Harry was 25 and Louis 22. The former also lived in New York until recently. The murderer is said to be married.

NEWSPAPER MEN ASSAULTED

German Government Refuses Satisfaction For Injuries Sustaine.

Berlin, Oct. 13.—The German government has refused satisfaction to the one American and three English newspaper correspondents who were attacked and injured by the police during the strike riots in the Moabit quarter on the night of Sept. 28.

The diplomatic action taken by Mr. Hill, the American ambassador, and the representatives of the British embassy in bringing the affair to the attention of the German government, is thus far without satisfactory results. The German reply will now be sent by Dr. Hill and Sir Edward Goschen, the American and British ambassadors, to the foreign offices of their respective governments.

COLUMBUS' LANDING ENACTED

418th Anniversary Celebrated in Grand Style at Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—Chicago honored Columbus with pageants and festivals unequaled since the World's Columbian exposition in 1893. It was the 418th anniversary of the discovery of America. Public buildings and many business establishments were closed for the day.

Much interest centered in Jackson park. One hundred and sixty men, women, boys and girls enacted, in costumes of the fifteenth century, the scenes connected with the landing of Columbus, using replicas of the caravels which have been in the park since the world's fair. Vice President Sherman took part in the day's ceremonies.

Taft Sees 60,000 March.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 13.—Columbus day was observed for the first time in Massachusetts. The celebration centered in Boston, where a parade of 60,000 men was reviewed by President Taft, Governor Draper and Archbishop O'Connell.

EXPLOSION WRECKS PLANT

Boiler at Union City Lets Go, but No Employes Are Hurt.

Union City, Ind., Oct. 13.—An explosion of a steam boiler wrecked the lumber and manufacturing plant of Witham and Bowen. Twenty men were working in the plant at the time, but none was injured.

Engineer Crist had left the boiler room for a moment and the engine had just been shut down to allow the adjustment of a belt. The cause of the explosion is not known, but its force blew half the boiler across the street. The loss is about $10,000.

ALABAMA MOB LYNCHES MAN

Whites Take Negro Prisoner From Deputy Sheriff and Riddle Him.

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 13.—Grant Richardson, colored, of Bibb county, was lynched near Centerville by a mob of white residents of the county.

He was being brought to the Bibb county jail on a charge of attacking a white woman, when the deputy in charge was overpowered and the prisoner's body riddled with bullets.

ADOLPH BERG UNDER ARREST

Charged With Death of Boy Whom He Held Before Him as Shield.

New York, Oct. 13.—Adolph Berg, an undersized young man, who says he is 21 years old, has been arrested charged with the killing of little Charley Fisher by holding the boy between himself and a revolver in the hands of "Biff" Clark, a prize fighter.

The youth is known around the east side of Harlem as "Pickles" and has a reputation as an all around bad man. He has served six months in the penitentiary and two years in Sing Sing for burglary his brother admitted.

ROOSEVELT RAPS ILLINOIS BRIBERS

Grafters Denounced by T. R. in Springfield Speech.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS GUEST

Delivers Principal Address at Celebration of Columbus Day at Peoria—Will Talk to Indians People at Capital Today.

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 13.—Mr. Roosevelt dwelt on the fact of the broad religious toleration existing in this country, and swatted the grafting politicians of Illinois in Peoria, where he spoke late, rushing off just in time to catch his train. The colonel faced a gathering of 1,700 members of the Knights of Columbus. He enthused over his pleasant relations with the Catholics and declared that there is no other country where Catholics and Protestants get on as they do in America.

After the grand hurrah in St. Louis the reception and festivals of Peoria were tame. The big dinner in the Coliseum, where the colonel made his main speech, was full. In Chicago the Knights of Columbus gave another banquet. The leading speakers scheduled were Vice President Sherman and Senator Lorimer. Archbishop Glenn of St. Louis sent his regrets to the Peoria Knights and did not come here. This speech contained Mr. Roosevelt's first utterance regarding the Catholic church since the Vatican incident last spring. Archbishop Lancaster Spalding was the only representative of the Catholic hierarchy present.

The colonel received a welcome when he arose. Bourke Cochran and Richard Henry Little, of Chicago, had preceded him. The jests and merry quips of Mr. Little, who is a newspaper man, got the crowd in good humor and the colonel opened his speech with a few pleasantries.

The colonel and his party arrived in Peoria at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. A delegation of four policemen did not do much good in the way of keeping order, and the venerable Archbishop Spalding was unable to get to the car to meet Mr. Roosevelt when he alighted. The colonel asked for the archbishop at once, and when he saw him, put his arm around him and assisted him to the automobile that carried them around town.

W. Bourke Cochran had come in a half hour before. He had Commissioner of Labor Neill. They followed along and went to the Country club.

The party had lunch there. The colonel sat between Mr. Cochran and the archbishop. Gov. Deneen of Illinois was present. There were no speeches. When they had eaten, the colonel went to the home of Archbishop Spalding and spent some time with him. A public reception was held.

Mr. Roosevelt's appearance for a few minutes at Springfield marked his return into Illinois after an absence of several weks. He began by mentioning the insistence that we ought to make of instilling honesty into public and business life. "The most important thing before us as a people is to drive from public life the corruptionist, the bribe-taker, the bribe-giver. The men whom you speak of as jackpotters are traitors to the American people, traitors of the basest kind and it is infamous in any one to condone their iniquity or to support them and stand behind them, directly or indirectly. The presence in public life of such men is a shame and a scandal and I don't care a rap whether they belong to my party or to some other party," said Col. Roosevelt.

4 HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Machine Runs Into a Pole Near Muskegon, Mich.

Party of Business Men Was Returning from a Fish Fry When Accident Occurred.

Muskegon, Mich., Oct. 13.—Four prominent business men were hurt, one probably fatally, when an automobile driven by Milton Riordan, manager of a local department store, and running forty miles an hour, crashed into a telegraph pole.

The injured are Milton Riordan, jaw broken in four places and internal injuries, may die; Henry A. Baukneckt, nose broken, face badly gashed, and internal injuries; Jack Wynn, kneecap broken and eyes injured; John Adams, collar bone broken.

The party was returning from a fish fry at Lake Michigan park when the accident occurred.

DUEL OVER A SMALL LOAN

Men Battle on Field of Honor and One is Wounded After Six Shots.

Bristol, Ind., Oct. 13.—Charles Nicey and Samuel Harris fought a pistol duel here over a small loan, which Harris made Nicey and which the latter declined to pay.

Each fired six times at close range. Harris was seriously wounded while Nicey escaped unhurt.

FARMER AND WIFE KILLED

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Winton Meet Death on Pennsylvania Crossing.

Meadville, Pa., Oct. 13.—While returning home from Titusville, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel B. Winton, prosperous farmers of near Centerville, were killed on the Pennsylvania railroad crossing at Tryonville.

Somebody signalled Winton that he had time to cross ahead of the fast special bearing officials of the road, and he made the attempt. The wagon was squarely on the track when it was struck and smashed to kindling and the bodies of both occupants decapitated. Both horses escaped.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

I OWE MY CURE TO FOLEY KIDNEY PILLS

This is quoted from a letter written by Mrs. H. Armistead, 47 Greenely St., Adrian, Mich. "I suffered for many years with uraemia, or uric acid poisoning. Doctoring had no effect and my system was full of the poison due to poor kidney action. I felt miserable, tired readily, could not retain my food, my ankles were swollen and I had to be rejected, and Detroit dealers can only be partly supplied under existing conditions.

This situation has induced the management to interest additional capital and more than half the sum required has already been subscribed by outside parties. AMUSEMENTS.

"In Arizona"

Will be the attraction at the Bradley Opera House on Thursday night. This play is of the better sort of western drama telling the story of a girl brough up among the vast desert waste of Arizona and her love for a young eastern civil engineer who the hand of fate had stationed at the trading post near the ranch of her brother. All special scenery is carried and one of the best attractions ever offered will be presented on Thursday night.

DEMOCRATIC BANQUET

The Democrats will hold a banquet in Adrian on Tuesday, October 18. Lawton T. Hemans, candidate for governor, Congressman Shephard of Texas, Editor Winship, candidate for the Senate, John Sheehan, candidate for congress, and many other notables will be present. The committee in charge charge anticipate a fine attendance and everything will be done to make the event an enjoyable one. Every one come and make it a great success.

THE NEXT LEGISLATURE

The next state legislature will have some important legislation to enact, a number of present laws to modify and should take stees to see that an addition is built to the capitol building. At the present time the state is paying out large sums for rent and hardly a department but that is badly crowded.

A few changes in the primary law are necessary. One change very imperative is ghe date upon which the filing of petitions close. It has got to be made early to help in the working of the law and some steps should be taken to have different or at least new enrollment books with the names alphabetically arranged. As many of these books are now, it is a difficult task to pick out and check the names.

Some phases of the liquor law will probably be modified, as its working is not entirely satisfactory, although considered the best law of its kind the state has ever had. Indications are that the state legislature will have a strenous time ahead during the first few months of 1911.

THE NOVEMBER ELECTION

With the November election less than six weeks distant, the repulicans of Michigan are preparing to present a strong front on election day and indications are that the entire ticket will be elected with large majorities from the head of the ticket down.

After the primaries the various leaders of the several gubernatorial candidates have united which will give the nominee, Chase Osborn, a solid vote throughout the length and breath of the state. Its up to all republicans to turn out on election day and see that their choice is give a big majority for this year he vote will not be swelled by a presidential election.

The big majority with which Mr. Osborn was chosen as gubernatorial nominee should be given to him on election day by four or five times as great and its up to the republicans of of this state to unite in the cause of republicanism and republican principles.

ALL MY PIMPLES GONE.

Girl Tells How a Blotchy Skin Was Cleansed by a Simple Wash

"I was ashamed of my face," writes Miss Minnie Pickard of Altamahaw, N. C. "It was all full of pimples and scars, but after using D. D. D. Prescription I can say that there is no sign of that Eczema, and that was three years ago."

D. D. D. has become so famous as a cure and instant relief in Eczema and all other serious skin diseases, that its value is sometimes overlooked in clearing up rash, pimples, blackheads, and all other minor forms of skin impurities.

The fact is, that while D. D. D. is so penetrating that it strikes to the very root of Eczema or any other serious trouble; the soothing Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol and other ingredients are so carefully compounded there is no wash for the skin made that can compare with this great household remedy for every kind of skin trouble.

D. D. D. is pleasant to use, perfectly harmless to the most delicate skin, and absolutely reliable. A 25 cent bottle will give you positive proof of the wonderful effectiveness of this great remedy.

Healing by Prayer.

At the Episcopal convention being held in Cincinnati, great enthusiam has been aroused over the prayer cure. The emanuel movement eminating from the Protestant Episcopal church in emanuel parish Boston, has had a deep influence. The idea of a special ritual for the healing of the sick is being discussed quite freely.

TO THE PUBLIC

A proposed amendment to Article VIII, Section 12, of the Constitution, will be submitted to the electors at the election to be held on Tuesday, November 8, 1910, as follows:

"No county shall incur any indebtedness which shall increase its total debt beyond three per cent of its assessed valuation, except counties having an assessed valuation of five million dollars or less, which counties may increase their total debt to five per cent. of their assessed valuation."

The effect of the proposed amendment is to give counties, having an assessed valuation of five million dollars or less, the right to increase their total debt to five per cent of the total assessed valuation.

WHY JOHN FISHER OF PRATTVILLE, MICH. SMILES.

You, Too, Would Smile Under Like Circumstances

The cause for the broad smile on the smile on the face of John Fisher of Prattville, Mich., is this: Mrs. Fisher is the lady sufferer who had not been able to walk across her room unaided, in two years. A few weeks ago she was practically carried into the Hudson House to receive treatment from Prof. Johann von Oberstolz, the Adrian Pranayama, whose wonderful work for so-called incurables, without medicine, trouble or lies, has made scores of Lenawee county families happy and is creating so much excitement in this part of the state. Mrs. Fisher, four days later, walked into the hotel and without assistance, up and down a 24-flight winding stairway. She has repeated this a number of times since and has improved every day without a single exception; all this in spite of the fact that a number of physicians pronounced her case hopeless in the extreme. Now do you still wonder that John Fisher smiles?—Hudson Gazette.

Prof. von Oberstolz visits Tecumseh once every week at Coller House on Mondays. This is quite a boon to sufferers here and oftentimes so many call that they cannot all be waited upon and are turned away. However competent assistants have been engaged, therefore it is unnecessary for you to be a burden to yourself and family any longer. Remember, pranayama takes 10 years off the age of any body. Prof. vod Oberstolz will look you in the eye, tell your disease and where located, in five minutes, without touching or asking a single question or forfeit $100. Married ladies must be accompanied by husband upon first visit.

At Coller House, Tecumreh, every Monday. Call early to insure being waited upon as rush is usually great.

A BIG ENTERPRISE

Most of the people of Tecumseh do not realize that right here in this Village a little factory is producing a food product that is largely and favorably known from Kansas City to Detroit. The Uncle Sam's Macaroni Company isnt yet as celebrated as the Post Cereal Company of Battle Creek, but if the plans of the Tecumseh Business Men's Association do not miscarry, it is not too much to expect that without five years Uncle Sam's Macaroni may rival "Grape Nuts" in celebrity and profit.

The Uncle Sam's Company is fairly deluged with orders. Business far in excess of their capacity has been voluntarily offered them to such an extent that it has become imperative to immediately enlarge their capacity and facilities so as to care for it. The other day Montgomery Ward & Company placed an order for three carloads which the factory couldn't fill. Kansas City is fairly begging for carloads of it. An order for fifteen thousand cases from Chicago concerns had to be rejected, and Detroit dealers can only be partly supplied under existing conditions.

This situation has induced the management to interest additional capital and more than half the sum required has already been subscribed by outside parties. The Business Men's Association has placed their "O. K." upon the enterprise and their committees are now canvassing for subscriptions to the stock with every prospect of success, for a seven per-cent guaranteed stock, non taxable and with a bonus attached should not go begging in a Village which has recently received such a big commercial benefaction as Tecumseh has enjoyed in the distribution of funds from the distribution of funds from the Anthony Co. Here's hoping the walls of the new factory will rise before snow falls.

Try This RICHMOND Suds-Maker Free

You simply turn the faucet and the RICHMOND Suds-Maker delivers thick, hot suds. It does not in any way interfere with the hot water faucet and can be easily attached to it. It gives you instead, two faucets—one for clean, hot water—the other for thick, hot suds.

Think of the dozens of ways this ingenious device will cut down the work in the kitchen! Learn what it means to save hundreds of steps every day—to always have thick, creamy soap suds on tap. The "Richmond" Suds Maker gives you any quantity of soap and water thoroughly mixed in scientific proportion—it is always ready to meet your instant needs. It puts an end to the drudgery of dish washing—simply place dishes, silver, glassware under its creamy suds for an instant, then just rinse and wipe. It puts an instant, automatic end to waste, to unsightly soap dishes, to the nuisance of using up the odds and ends of soap. Use any kind of soap.

Just call on the plumber whose name appears below and ask to see the RICHMOND Suds-Maker. He will let you take one home to try. Use it ten days—then if you think you can spare it, return it, for the trial places you under no obligation to buy. This is your chance to learn about the greatest convenience, most time saver you can install in your kitchen. Call today.

A Pointer on good Coal.

Unlike many free pointers, this will be a good one. This summer we built a string of new coal bins in fact, have the largest string in town, in order to carry in stock a well assorted stock of different kinds of fuels, and we have been receiving carload after carload.

Quality, Prompt Delivery, Satisfaction

will be the three features every buyer will receive with every order, large or small. We will have the largest assortment of fuels this winter we have ever carried. We have bought only the very best of grades and know if you will give us a share of your business you will be "ahead of the game".

Please give our Pocahontas or Coke a trial. They are a little extra in quality but no higher in prices.

Immediately taking in the situation he climed down the shaft and found her still alive, Help was called and she was rescued in a very serious condition. White was a frequent caller and the result is that the announcement of their engagement has been received and the wedding will take place during the holiday season. Miss Leismer is known to a number of Tecumseh people who will be pleased to hear of her recovery and the final outcome of the accident.

CHARMING SOCIETY EVENT

LEON WILLIAMSON, A PROMINENT YOUNG BUSINESS MAN, UNITED IN MARRIAGE TO MISS LENA FOSTER OF QUINCY, MICH.

One of the prettiest fall weddings was that of Wednesday evening Oct. 12. when Leon Williamson of Tecumseh was united in marriage to Miss Lena Foster of Quincy. Their new home being in readiness for their occupancy it was decided to have the wedding there and a score of their young friends soon transformed it into a bower of beauty. Autumn leaves Canna and Salvia were the decorations and blended most beautifully. The front yard was hung with Japanese lanterns and the effect was very fine.

A large tent was erected where a large table was spread for the younger ones of the company for refreshments. Mr. and Mrs. Foster parents of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. Williamson received the guests. Mrs. Foster was gowned in a rich taupe silk with dainty trimmings and Mrs. Williamson wore a black lace gown

Preceding the entrance of the bridal couple, Edith Shull and Duaine Service played Cavaleri Rusticana, and as the bridal party entered the parlor Mrs. R. S. Moore very softly and sweetly sang the Bridal Song from Lohengrin. The ribbon bearers Miss Bess Babcock and Ruth Keeney entered first with Lucie Parker, neice of the bride as ring bearer and Marion Williamson as flower girl. The groom and his best man, and the bride with her maid of honor then took their places when the Rev. Kennedy in a few brief words pronounced them husband and wife. During the service and congratulations Miss Edyth Shull and Duaine Service played Mendelssohns wedding march followed by Mrs. R. S. Moore in Mendelssohns bridal song from the flower girl.

The bride looked charming in a gown of white messaline with lace yoke and sleeves and a bertha of seed pearls She carried white roses and wore a veil. Miss Myrtle Foster as maid of honor wore pink messaline with silver trimmings, chiffon and lace and carried pink roses. Lester Heesen acted as best man. The flower girl and ring bearer were Lucile Parker a neice of the bride and Marion Williamson a neice of the groom. The little ones being of the same age were very charming in their dainty white dresses.

The brides table was in the tent. It was arranged in a hollow square and was lighted by numerous candles in glass candle sticks. Five large baskets of Salvia and Autumn leaves added to its extreme beauty. Place cards for 86 were spread upon it. With the boughs of autumn leaves hiding the top of the tent, one could almost think they were in fairy-land.

The refreshments were served by the young girl friends and a merry time was enjoyed by all. The couple left on the 8:52 train amidst a cloud of rice, and confetti. Red lights marked their way from their home. After a wedding trip in the east they will be at home on Kilbuck St.

The out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Foster and their daughter Mrs. Parker and children of Quincy, John Scarlett and wife of Toledo and Harry Temple and wife of Britton.

DEBTS ARE DEBTS

And They Must Be Paid, So Decides The Supreme Court of Michigan.

The Supreme Court of Michigan in an opinion delivered September 28th, held that International Harvester Company of America is not debarred from collecting its outstanding debts by any plea that it is a "trust". The circuit judge decided the other way, but his decision was reversed and the defendants will be compelled to settle their accounts with the company.

This decision is not only of the utmost importance to all large trading companies, but to the general public Incidentally, it once more brings to view the streak in human nature which deems it defensible to steal rides on railway trains, to smuggle personal purchases through the customs house, and to break contracts with large corporations.

The facts in the case are that the International Harvester Company of America, several months ago began action against some dealers to collect a balance long overdue. There was no equitable defense against the debt but the defendants hit upon the novel plan of setting up the claim that the company was a "trust", and that this was a bar to the collection of the amount due. Strange to say—a lower court sustained this claim, but on appeal the Supreme Court reversed the decision and ruled that the plea that a plaintiff is a "trust" is not a good defense.

A company selling an article or commodity bears precisely the same relation to the purchaser at the time the obligation falls due that it did at the time the purchase was made. If the decision of the lower court had been sustained it would be impossible for any large company to continue in business except upon a strictly cash-in-advance basis.

THE DICTOGRAPH, SO CALLED

An Invention Going Beyond the Telephone.

Many of the imperfections of the telephone seem to have been overcome by another invention which is quite as remarkable as the telephone was in its early days. In many respects it is more wonderful, says the Bookkeeper. The inventor calls it the Dictograph, part of the name indicating exactly what it will do, for it will talk when spoken to; there is nothing in its operation to suggest writing, as the latter part of the name would indicate. The Dictograph is an inconspicuous little box, some six by eleven inches in size, which may be placed anywhere on the desk and which catches the slightest whisper as well as the ordinary tone of voice within a radius of fifteen feet or more, and it transmits the exact words and tone to any other office and to any other person with perfect distinctness. The box has two circular openings in its face, one of which might be called the ear and the other the tongue, as it is the province of one to receive what is spoken and the other to speak. With the box on his desk the man who directs a business, the lawyer, or the banker, can talk in ordinary tones to any one in his employment in any part of a building, and even to distant buildings, as though the two were in the same room. It is not necessary to speak into the mouthpiece, nor hold a receiver to the ear, as with the telephone; still the enunciation is perfect. The master of the business may sit at his desk to carry on a conversation or talk about the room, and even stand with his back to the instrument; it will serve him faithfully. It is said to be more sensitive than the tympanum of the ear, since it will receive and transmit a whisper which the ordinary ear will not understand.

The Ohio medical society has decided to expel members who charge less than full fees for their services. Even for operations they must not give cut rates.

There are now four permanent ice rinks in Europe—in London, Paris, Munich and Berlin. In the Berlin rink over one thousand persons can skate at one time without crowding.

In the interior of Asia Minor nearly all the Turkish men wear fezes; yet 90 per cent of these head covers are made in Vienna and the remaining 10 per cent in other Austrian towns and in Germany.

Free Sample For Baby's Ills

Something can and must be done for the puny, crying baby, for the child that refuses to eat and is restless in its sleep. And since the basis of all health is the proper working of the digestive organs, look first to the condition of the stomach and bowels.

A child should have two full and free movements of the bowels a day. This emptying of the bowels is very important, as with it comes a clear head, a lightness of step, good appetite and sound sleep. But it is equally important to know what to give the child in the emergency of constipation and indigestion. Cathartics are too strong and salts and other purgatives are not only too strong, but the child refuses them because of their bad taste. Have you ever tried Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin? It is a liquid tonic that families have been using for a quarter of a century. It is mild, pleasant-tasting and promptly effective. It is good for you as well as the child, but there is nothing better to be found for children. They like its taste—you will not have to force them to take it.

First of all, if you have not yet used it, Dr. Caldwell would like to send you a sample bottle free of charge. In the way you can try it before buying. Later, when convinced of its merits, you can get it of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as thousands of other families are doing. The family of Mr. D. W. Spangler of Strattonville, Pa., as well as that of Mr. A. F. Johnson of Walnut Grove, Tenn., started with it in that way and now write that it is their one family necessity next to food itself. If you are unfortunate enough to have a sickly child, one given to constipation and indigestion, you should send for a free sample of this remedy.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 356 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

FRANZ C. KUHN FOR ATTY. GEN.

Mt. Clemens Man Wins Out In Only Contest of Republican State Convention.

GOVERNOR WARNER IGNORED

No Mention Made of Name or Administration of State's Chief Executive. Convention Short and Harmonious. Expected Fight on Platform Failed to Materialize.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 11.—Enthusiasm and oratory were the two marked features of the Republican state convention at the Wayne Gardens, in this city. Only one serious contest developed, that for attorney general, in which five candidates lined up for the honor. Franz Kuhn of Mt. Clemens, who now holds the position by appointment, and Grant Fellows of Hudson were the chief contenders, the former winning a slashing victory after a hard fight.

Wayne, Kent, the Thumb and the upper peninsula were Kuhn's chief assets and they turned the trick for him. On the first ballot Kuhn received 598 votes and Fellows 482. This left Kuhn 54 votes short of the required majority, but before the ballot was announced Cass county swung from O'Keefe to Kuhn, and this ended the battle, a dozen others clamoring to change their votes. Kuhn was tickled over the result. A movement was started to delay the nomination of Supreme Justice Bird until after the attorney generalship on the theory that this might affect the result, but the committee on permanent organization and order of business refused to permit the judiciary to be made a political lever, and Justice Bird was placed first on the list. With the other state officers who were renominated, his selection was made unanimous.

With all the talk of insurgency the speeches delivered by Congressman Diekema, in calling the convention to order, and by Senator William Alden Smith, who presided as chairman, as well as the platform which was adopted, were tempered with sense and good judgment. Instead of the tariff being attacked, as was expected in some quarters, it was commended with the recommendation for perfecting the various schedules by the aid of a tariff commission.

A sharp fight was expected over some of the planks in the platform, but when read it was greeted with applause, and there was nothing in it to create any friction.

Some ingenuity was exercised in avoiding any mention of Governor Warner's name or administration, but it was accomplished by commending the legislature for the good laws that were passed at the last session and indorsing the candidates nominated by the convention.

The usual committees were appointed. The committee on credentials reported that there were no contests; that all the counties were represented, and that all the delegates whose names were presented were entitled to seats in the convention

There was practically not a vacant seat in the space reserved for delegates, and the rest of the room in the big auditorium was packed with an ever increasing crowd as the convention progressed.

When Chairman Diekema in his opening address sounded the keynote for a progressive campaign in Michigan the delegates rose in their seats, waved arms, hats and handkerchiefs and cheered again and again.

Charles E. Townsend, nominee for the United States senate, was called for and he paid a glowing compliment to the speeches of Congressman Diekema and Senator Smith, saying that they were the things that impressed him most in connection with the convention and that they had practically made the platform for the party in this campaign.

Lieutenant Governor Kelley was called on for a speech, and he pledged Mr. Osborn his loyal support.

Franz C. Kuhn was called before the convention, and he pledged himself, if elected, to give Osborn the best help there is in him to make his administration a clean and creditable one. John Q. Ross, nominee for lieutenant governor, made a similar brief address. The election of W. F. Knox of Sault Ste. Marie as chairman of the new state central committee and the reading of the resolutions wound up the convention.

Altogether, the convention was in actual session about four hours, and about half of that time was consumed by speech making.

THE TEST OF MERIT

Tecumseh People Are Given Convincing Proof

No better test of any article can be made than the test of time and this is particularly true of a kidney medicine. Doan's Kidney Pills have stood this test and stood it well. What better proof of the merits of this remedy could you demand than the statement of a Tecumseh resident who has been cured and has stayed cured?

Read the following:

Mrs. Charles Stevenson, Wyandotte and Pottawatamie Sts., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "Sharp shooting pains across the small of my back were the first symptoms of my kidney trouble. Other difficulties set in later and I was made miserable. Being advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I did so and the pains soon disappeared. For years I had also been bothered by gravel but Doan's Kidney Pills removed this trouble."

The above statement was given on Dec. 10, 1908, and Dec. 9, 1908, Mrs Stevenson confirmed it in detail, adding that her cure had been permanent.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Fishes Do Walk, If They Don't Reason

It may seem absurd to speak of fishes as walking, says London Tit-Bits. The flying fish is well known, but its flight looks much like swimming in the air. We naturally think of fishes as living always in water, as being incapable, in fact, of living anywhere else. But nature maintains no hard and fast lines of distinction between animal life which belongs to the land and that which belongs to the water. If we can believe the accounts of naturalists, there are fishes that traverse dry land. Dr. Francis Day, of India, has collected several instances of the migration of fishes by land from one piece of water to another. A party of English officers were upon one occasion encamped in a certain part of India, when their attention was attracted by a rustling sound in the grass and leaves. Investigation showed it to be caused by myriads of little fishes that were making for one direction and were passing slowly on. There were hundreds of them moving by using their side and small fins as feet; now upright, now falling down, squirming, bending, rolling over, regaining their finny feet and again passing on. These fishes were the famous climbing perch, and they were passing over the country to avoid a drouth. When the stream in which they have been spending the season dries up, they scale the banks, and directed by some marvelous instinct, crawl to another.

STATE G. O. P. PROGRESSIVE

Platform Pledges Party to Promote Political and Industrial Welfare of Michigan.

TAFT RECEIVES ENDORSEMENT

Republicans Congratulated Upon the Nominations of Townsend and Osborn—Publicity of Sources of Campaign Funds Recommended—Extension of Good Roads System Favored.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 10.—The platform of the Republican party of Michigan, as adopted by the convention, is, in part, as follows:

"We, the Republicans of Michigan in state convention assembled, reaffirm our fidelity to the principles of the political party which our state gave to the nation more than a half century ago.

"We renew our faith in, and express our admiration for the president of the United States, whose leadership and personality strengthen the confidence of the American people in their institutions. William Howard Taft, jurist, diplomat, governor general and cabinet officer in the administrations of William McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt, has, as president, increased our prestige with foreign nations, and vigorously dealt with international problems of vital interest to the country. His presidential career has been conspicuous and consistent in its labors for the people.

"We commend congress for the beneficient legislation which it has enacted.

"In state affairs the Republican party declares for that probity and efficiency in the affairs of the commonwealth which are typified in the character of the eminent scholar, traveler, author and statesman, Chase S. Osborn, whom we offer to the people of our state as a candidate for governor worthy of the suffrage of every voter who loves ability, courage and honesty in high places. The personnel of the ticket which he heads is ample assurance to the people of Michigan that under Republican rule the state will be given an administration which will be honest, economical and businesslike.

"We stand for efficiency in public office and pledge our nominee to an administration in which every public dollar shall buy as much as a private dollar, whether in services or supplies. We regard dishonesty in the public service as a form of treason worthy of the severest punishment. We stand pledged to the exposure and punishment of all wrongdoing in public station, of whatever name or degree. We likewise stand pledged to a businesslike administration with the fewest possible employes, boards and other governmental agencies consistent with good service.

"The people of Michigan are to be congratulated on the recent enactment of wise and well considered laws in their interest.

"We believe that the operation of the primary law has increased the interest of the electorate in the choice of the political candidates. We recommend the passage of a primary election statute which shall require the publication before election of statements showing in detail the expenditures by candidates for nomination to public office, and the source of contributions to their campaign funds, and such amendments to the primary law as will best serve to commend it to the active interest of the voter.

"We believe in the conservation of all natural resources.

"We urge upon the next legislature the designation of a commission of experts which shall review the entire system of taxation in the state, with the purpose of securing for the people the full measure from every species of property (except exempt property) which the commonwealth is entitled to draw, and the correction of inequalities in taxation wherever found.

"We favor the creation of a non-salaried, non-partisan commission which shall be empowered to control the conservation, propogation and protection of the state's wild game and fish.

"We favor the extension, where possible, of the good roads system.

"We congratulate our party upon the nomination for United States senator of Hon. Charles E. Townsend, one of Michigan's most distinguished sons.

"In conclusion, the Republican party is the party of progress. It has stepped forward to meet the great responsibilities of the past. It must solve the problems of the future. Under its control of state and national affairs a marvelous material prosperity has been attained. That prosperity is attended by evils which must be controlled. Material prosperity and business decency are not incompatible.

"The Republican party wages no war on corporations honestly conducted, or wealth honestly acquired, but it wages relentless warfare against lawlessness and abuse whether practiced by the big or by the little.

"We pledge our party to promote the moral, political and industrial welfare of our state, so far as legislation and administration can accomplish it."

ROOSEVELT UNSELFISH

Osborn Says Ex-President Is Not Aiming at Personal Political Gain.

PROGRESS G. O. P. WATCHWORD

Republican Candidate For Governor, In Speech Before State Convention, Says Pingree Was One of First Progressive Leaders—People Are Now In Power, He Says.

Chase S. Osborn, in his speech before the Republican state convention, said, in part:

"Michigan Republicans are concerned first for the state and secondly for the party, but always for both, which is as it should be. They are determined that their state shall be the best governed in the nation, and they are equally resolute that the Republican party shall be the instrument of that accomplishment.

G. O. P. Reflects People's Character.

"It is profoundly satisfying to see the internal activity of the grand old party in its successful effort to prune and purge itself, accomplish a poised development in harmony with the times and take a position of new usefulness to nation, state and all the people. There can be no organic or fundamental weakness in the Republican party that does not exist in or of the people, because it has been for ages the party of majority and must have taken on the character of the majority of the people. The Democratic party has lost its business to the Republican party because they could find within the Republican party opportunity to serve their state. They found that in failure the Democratic party led only to a dismal nowhere, and it waned to a point where it even lost the powers of adequate criticism, all so necessary to a government by a free people. To compensate for this loss the Republican party instinctively took itself over to careful introspection, asked itself a number of most pertinent questions and out of it all has come a new band of progressive Republicans led by the most fearless and able public man in the world today, Theodore Roosevelt.

"Thus, out of the old party chrysalis will come a newer and better Republican party, more alert than ever to guard the interests of all the people and guide the nation to the highest achievement of human destiny.

M. C. Dominated State Politics.

"Under the old regime the Chicago Northwestern and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad companies owned Wisconsin politically; the Michigan Central dominated Michigan politics; the New York Central, United States Express company and allied interests ruled in New York. There came a LaFollette in Wisconsin, a Pingree in Michigan, a Roosevelt in New York. Similar conditions existed in almost all the states, and nearly all have developed progressive leaders to wrest them from the powers of privilege. Philetus Sawyer and John C. Spooner tried to run over LaFollette with the car of political juggernaut. This embittered the young fighting man and made of him an extremist. The Michigan Central machine fought Pingree, but the people saw in him a sturdy champion of their rights and supported him. Platt and Depew fought Roosevelt to their discomfiture and defeat.

"So the people find themselves in power. But in power they must be right and just. Individual injustice is bad enough, but in its destructiveness it cannot be compared with the power for evil of public injustice. The future will show the public viewpoint to be fair.

Roosevelt Marvelous Leader.
